INDEX TO ADVERTISEMENTS AND TABLE OF CONTENTS—PAGES TWO AND THREE

The 3 Breitenstrater Semi-Iron Houses at Dayton, Ohio. Each one is 28 feet 4 inches by 75 feet 9 inches.

Here's a Practical Man If There Ever Was One

TWENTY years or so ago, our friend Mr. Breitenstrater, of Dayton, Ohio, came to town as a carpenter. While carpentering, he kept his eyes open for chances to buy and sell a lot or a house now and again.

What he made he tucked away in his sock.

Pretty soon the sock began to bulge so it looked like a regular Xmas one.

Then he began looking around for a moderate sized piece of land out in the country, where he could do a bit of farming.

On finding it, he promptly bought it, and as promptly paid for it.

After a while he grew tired of having his land yield him a paying crop six months of the year, and lie idle the other six.

So he built one greenhouse 28 ft. 4 ins. by 75 ft. 9 ins.

Made it pay.

When he had enough to pay for another, he bought it and paid for it.

With the two he made more money in proportion than he did with the one. Soon he built a third, and now he says the three pay decidedly better in proportion than the two did.

All those wrinkles about Mr. Breitenstrater's eyes are not humorous ones. There are several that point to business shrewdness.

He says he has proved to his entire satisfaction that large houses cost less to work and heat. He says his next house will be a separate Iron Frame one, 72 ft. wide or so.

Step by step this man has made his way, and paid his way as he made it. Step by step he has proven to himself that our modernly constructed houses of a demonstrated, economical width, are the paying houses to buy.

If such a careful, practical man finds Lord & Burnham houses and Lord & Burnham's way of doing things so satisfactory that he keeps on year after year giving us business, doesn't it look to you as if we were the kind of a greenhouse concern you have been waiting to hitch up with?

Let's talk it over together.

NO TOLL FROM CHICAGO

MAGNOLIA FACTS

¶Yes, Mr. Florist, be particular as to what kind of Magnolia Leaves you buy now, under the present conditions.

¶Dye colors have advanced from 1000% to 2000%; preparing chemicals have exactly doubled in prices since the war began, as have also the paper cartons. In spite of this, we are in position to furnish you with first-class Magnolia Leaves through your wholesaler at a small advance in comparison with the above.

¶We guarantee that the quality of our leaves is as good now as they were before the war, and that they are prepared fully, regardless of the above-stated high prices of the materials.

¶You fool yourself if you buy the cheaper grade of leaves, as they will become mildewed and they will dry out shortly after the boxes are opened. Our goods are sold by every leading wholesale florist in the United States and Canada, and they have stood the test for the past six years.

¶A magnolia leaf is only worth using if it has been fully preserved, but NOT by a cheap process, which enables others to sell the leaves cheaper by a few cents. You pay these few cents about ten or fifteen times over, when you consider the poor value of these goods.

Gentlemen:--

Enclosed find copy for increased space---our fall campaign.

The "Review" certainly is profitable to us. We get as many orders from small space with you as we did from big space in other papers. Orders received in the last two weeks through the "Review" pay for increased space for some weeks to come.

And large space is especially gratifying at this time, when every florist is prepairing to safeguard his greenhouses by buying a few clamps for emergency.

Any time we can say a good word for you let us know.

Very truly yours,

THE MUM SOCIETY HOLDS 28TH MEETING

The national organization of chrysanthemum growers, which has done much valuable work for the trade, seems to depend on private gardeners and novelty raisers for its existence, the great body of commercial cut flower growers failing to participate in its activities. This week's meeting and exhibition is at Philadelphia.

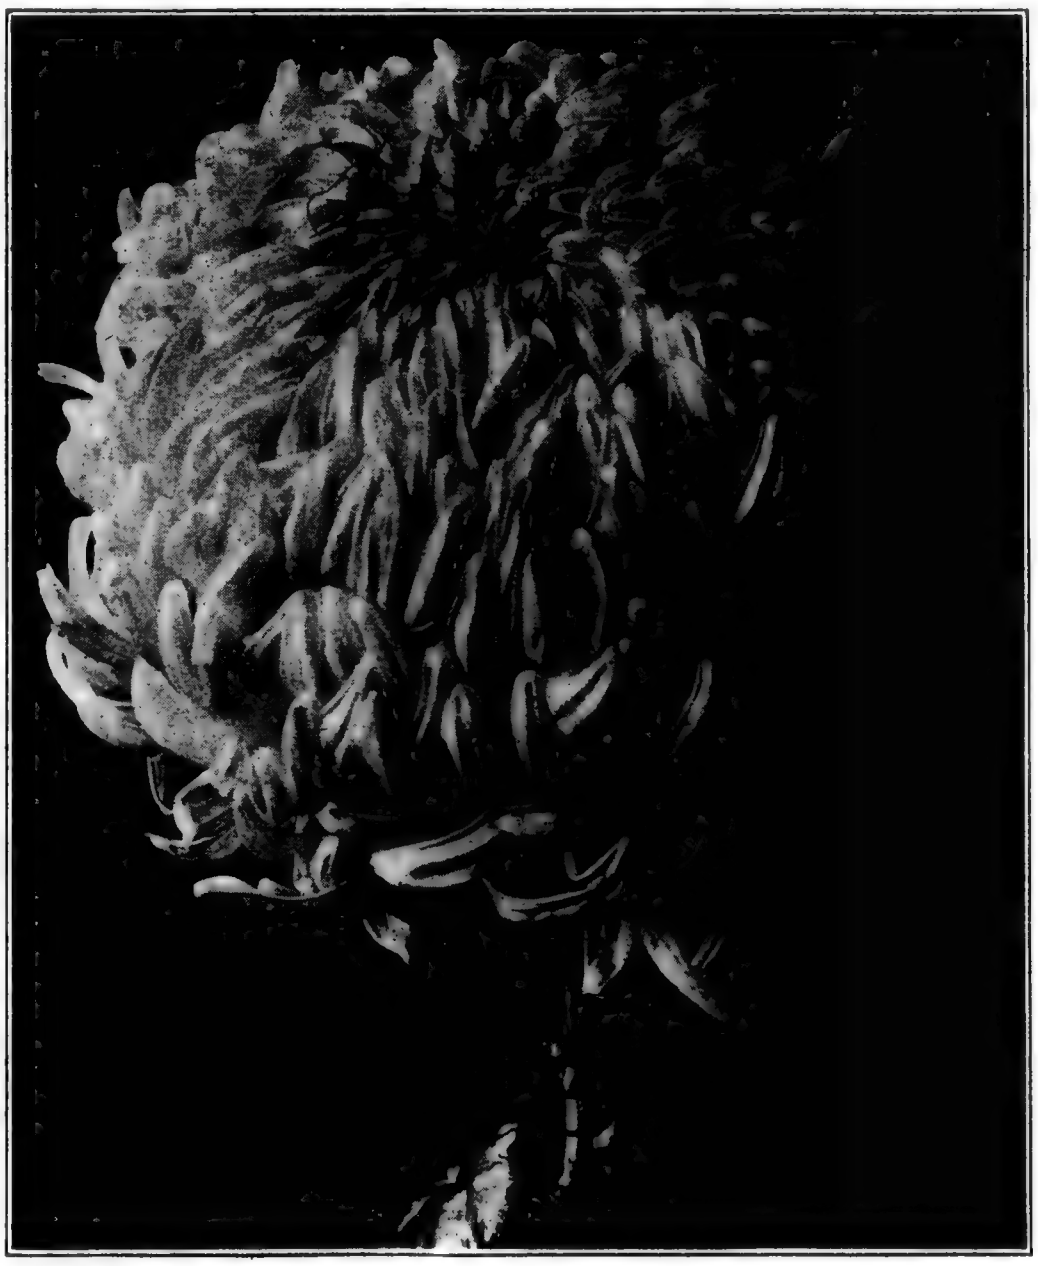
UNFLAGGING zeal for the society and the flower for which it stands characterizes the band of enthusiasts who constitute the Chrysanthemum Society of America, organized in Buffalo, August 22, 1889. From 1889 to 1901 inclusive, the meetings of the society were held in connection with the annual convention of the S. A. F., but from 1902 the meetings have been held in November, with an exhibition of chrysanthemums under the management of the society.

It thus was the twenty-eighth annual meeting and the fifteenth annual exhibition of the society which was held November 8 at Horticultural hall, Philadelphia, the exhibition being staged in the morning for judging in the afternoon, with the business meeting in the evening.

OFFICERS

President
Wm. Kleinheinz, - Ogontz, Pa.

Vice-president
Wm. Vert, - Port Washington, N.Y.



Secretary
Chas. W. Johnson, - Morgan Park, Ill.

Treasurer
John N. May, - Summit, N. J.

Attendance Small.

The attendance of members was small; the wheel-horses were there, the men who have carried on the work for years, but not the rank and file of the chrysanthemum growers of the vicinity, as one might with reason expect. President Kleinheinz referred to this in his annual address, saying: "Again I must make some remarks about the membership of this society. I have referred to this at the last two meetings, and have pointed out what good the Chrysanthemum Society of America does to the mum growers, but the number of new members is mighty small. I again call on everyone interested in chrysanthemums to give us their support and join our society. The dues per year are only $2, and the members get well rewarded by the work this society does. I hope my successor as president of this society will have the pleasure to see the membership passing the 500 mark."

Continuing he said: "The exhibits at this meeting speak for themselves. The large-flowering varieties seem to be at their highest and the raisers of new varieties have to be wideawake to keep in line with the present sorts. It seems almost impossible to improve on the existing varieties, but our hybridizers are never idle and keep on improving, with astonishing results. Not only the large-flowering types have the attention of our scientific breeders, but the pompons, singles and decoratives have also been taken care of. Great improvements have been made during the last ten years."

Chrysanthemum Niphetos.

Lauds Workers.

In greeting the members President Kleinheinz said:

"Once more we are assembled to honor the queen of the autumn and to consider means and ways to increase the general interest in its cultivation and to further improve the already high standard of the chrysanthemum.

"As your president it gives me pleasure to welcome you at this convention in the city of Philadelphia and I hope that you will not regret that you have selected Philadelphia for this meeting.

"Since our last meeting one of our most successful hybridizers and introducers of new mums has passed away, William Wells, of Merstham, Surrey, England. His products are known over the whole world and for many of our best varieties we have to thank Mr. Wells.

"To the trade press I wish to express my thanks for the many courtesies extended to the officers of the society during the last year. I also feel it my duty to thank all the donors of the handsome prizes, enabling us to work out such a fine schedule for competition.

"To the various committees who examine seedlings and sports I must express the thanks of the society for their prompt and correct work.

"To the officers and members, I extend my thanks and appreciation for their support during my three terms as your president. Our society must prosper while our members continue to support and back up our officers. I regret very much that I am not in a position today to announce a great financial prosperity during my terms, but I assure you that if it would be within my power this society would be the strongest of all in membership and financial standing.

"I close with best wishes to my successor. May he be able to accomplish and finish the work started and carried on by the officers in the past for the good of this society."

The Exhibition.

The exhibition, which was staged as a second-day feature of the annual autumn exhibition of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, brought out some extremely fine blooms, but the competition was confined to two classes of exhibitors, the private gardeners of the neighborhood and the raisers and introducers of novelties, the commercial growers of cut flowers, of whom there are scores in the neighborhood, were not represented at all. Also, some of the private gardeners who usually are heavy entrants did not participate this year, Wm. Vert, of Castle Gould, being one of those whose flowers were greatly missed. The result was that the show was not so large as it has been in some recent years, notably at Indianapolis in 1914, which appears to have marked the high record of the society's achievement. Quality, however, never was better. The awards were:

C. S. A. silver cup for the best seedling chrysanthemum not disseminated, six blooms, one variety, on long stems—E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first.

C. S. A. silver cup for the best display of pompon chrysanthemums, ten vases, ten varieties, six sprays not less than eighteen inches long to a vase, and ten vases of twelve single stems, disbudded, not less than 18-inch stems—A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., first.

The President Kleinheinz silver cup for the best ten blooms, any one variety of chrysanthemums on long stems—E. T. Scott, Lansdowne, Pa., first.

Henry A. Dreer prize for the best ten blooms, one variety of chrysanthemums on long stems, white—E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first.

Hosea Waterer prize for the best ten blooms, one variety of chrysanthemums on long stems, yellow—Mrs. H. A. Potts, Wayne, Pa., first.

Philip J. Foley prize for the best ten blooms, one variety of chrysanthemums on long stems, pink—John W. Pepper, Jenkintown, Pa., first.

Robert Craig prize for the best vase, fifty sprays, pompon chrysanthemums on long stems—E. T. Scott, Lansdowne, Pa., first; P. A. B. Widener Estate, Ogontz, Pa., second.

Henry F. Michell silver cup for the best vase of twenty-five chrysanthemums on long stems, five or more varieties—P. A. B. Widener Estate, Ogontz, Pa., first.

Henry F. Michell prizes for the best twelve blooms, twelve varieties of chrysanthemums, short stems—P. A. B. Widener Estate, Ogontz, Pa., gold medal; Mrs. H. A. Potts, Wayne, Pa., silver medal; no third.

Charles H. Totty prize for six flowers William Rigby chrysanthemums—P. A. B. Widener Estate, Ogontz, Pa., first; E. T. Scott, Lansdowne, Pa., second.

E. G. Hill prize for ten blooms chrysanthemums, introductions of 1916, not less than five varieties, on long stems—P. A. B. Widener Estate, Agontz, Pa., first; no second.

Elmer D. Smith prize for the best twelve blooms of Chrysanthemum Artista, open to private gardeners only—No entry.

Harry E. Converse prize for the best six blooms of Chrysanthemum Harry E. Converse on long stems—Wm. Duckham, Madison, N. J., first.

Lord & Burnham prize for three varieties of chrysanthemums, six blooms of each on long stems, open to private gardeners only—Wm. Duckham, Madison, N. J., first.

Wells-Totty medals for three blooms Chrysanthemum Yellow Turner—E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., gold medal; Countess Santa Eulalia, Elkins Park, Pa., silver medal; bronze medal not awarded.

Hitchings cup for ten blooms red or crimson chrysanthemum, one variety, on long stems—C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., first.

National Association of Gardeners' prize for six blooms, six varieties of chrysanthemums, long stems, in one vase, open to members of the association only—P. A. B. Widener Estate, Ogontz, Pa., silver medal.

Best collection of American undisseminated seedling chrysanthemums, not less than twenty varieties, one bloom each—Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Ill., first; Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., second.

The judges were three widely known Philadelphians, Mark Mills, Wm. K. Harris and John Westcott.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

[This is the report of Secretary Chas. W. Johnson, as presented at the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, Philadelphia, November 8, 1916.]

Our society continues to make progress and, though we do not get the increased membership we should, the work of the society along the lines of improving the standard and popularizing the chrysanthemum is being recognized more each year. Your secretary notes this particularly by the increased correspondence that comes to him throughout the year in comparison with the first years of his work. The interest in the new varieties continues and the work of the examining committees is being greatly appreciated, and a seedling that has the endorsement of the committees is recognized by the commercial growers as being worthy of a thorough trial. The reports of the examining committees were sent to the trade papers each week as they were received and a final summary of the season's work was published. The trade press generously printed these and other notices sent to them from time to time, for which we owe to them our vote of thanks.

A ticket of admission to the National Flower Show, held in Philadelphia in April, 1916, was mailed to all members in good standing on the secretary's books.

You will notice a change in the class for the C. S. A. silver cup. Our president kindly offers a silver cup for a class similar to the C. S. A. class of other years, thus making the change necessary. Class B is arranged according to the suggestions of the committee appointed at the last annual meeting.

Donors of Special Prizes.

Your secretary appreciates the kindness of the following firms and individuals in offering the special prizes at this exhibition:

Wm. K. Harris, Philadelphia.
Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia.
Hosea Waterer, Philadelphia.
Robert Craig, Philadelphia.
Henry F. Michell, Philadelphia.
Hitchings & Co., New York.
Lord & Burnham Co., New York.
Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.
The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.
Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.
President Wm. Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa.
Philip J. Foley, Chicago.
Wells & Co., Merstham, England.
H. E. Converse, Marion, Mass.
National Association of Gardeners.

Owing to the intense heat during the summer, the growing season this year was a hard one on the plants and Mr. Totty reports that the growers in the eastern states are having a great deal of trouble with a disease which seriously affects the growth of the plants. It would be a good thing if any member having this or any other trouble with his plants would give us the benefit of his experience, so that it may be included in the annual report.

The routine work of the secretary's office, consisting of sending out the statements to the members, recording the varieties disseminated, getting out the report of the fourteenth annual meeting and soliciting the special premiums, was attended to in due season.

The secretary wishes to acknowledge the kindness of Elmer D. Smith in furnishing him with a complete list of varieties disseminated in 1915, which was a great help in getting up the annual report.

SCOPE OF THE TERM "PLANT."

In Missouri there is in force a statute which provides that where plants are wrongfully cut, destroyed or carried away, the owner shall be entitled to recover treble damages against the wrongdoer. This law lately was considered by the St. Louis Court of Appeals, which decided that the term "plant" must be given a broad interpretation, broad enough to include hedges. S.

CARE OF BOXWOOD.

Please let us know how to take care of boxwood trees and state what light and temperature they need.

G. H. H. & S.—Mich.

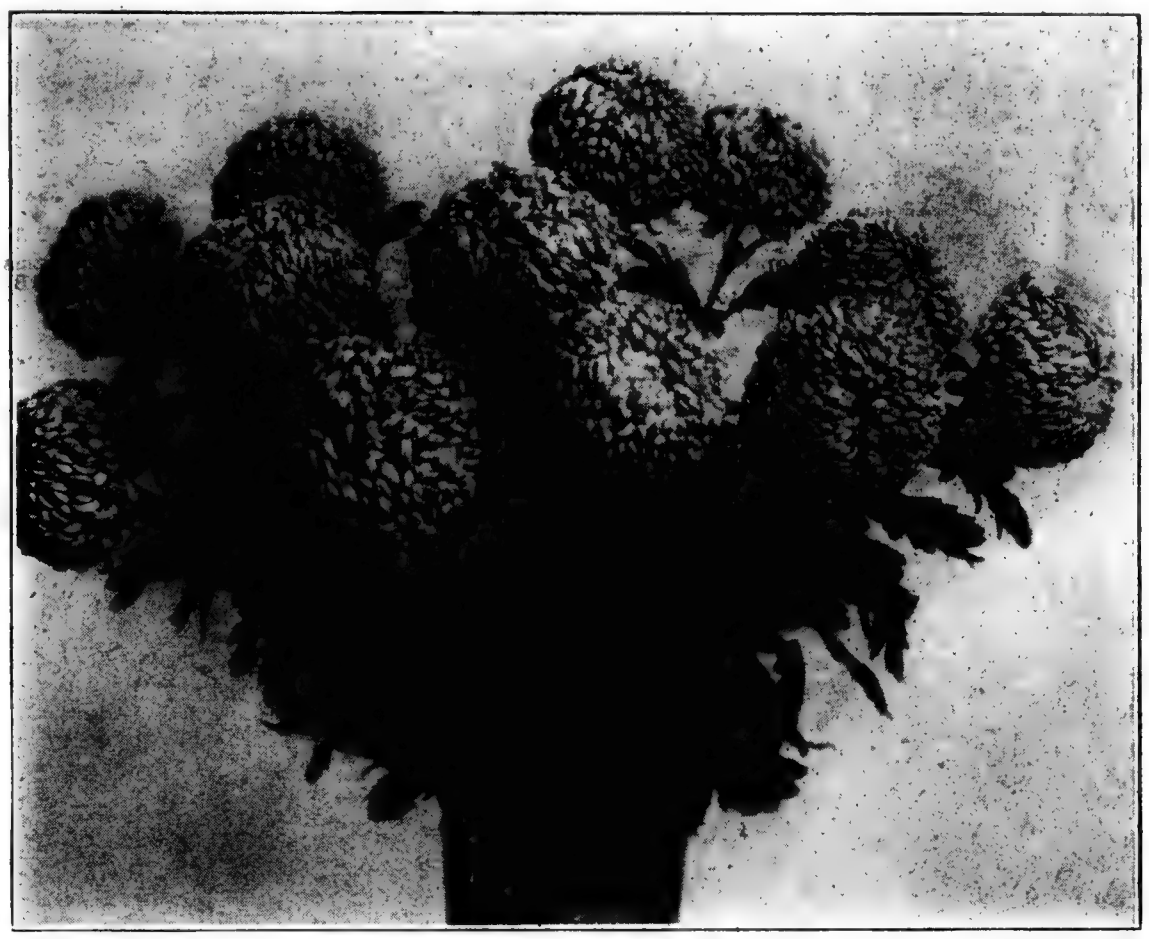
If in pots or tubs, store the plants in a pit or cellar with only a moderate amount of light. A temperature a few degrees below freezing at times will not hurt them. No fire heat should be needed if the storage place is well protected during severe weather. The plants should be occasionally watered and freely ventilated. They should be stored away by the middle of November and moved outside about May 1.

For boxwoods planted outside a main essential is to see that the roots, if at all dry, are well soaked before the ground freezes. Sunshine is more harmful than cold in late winter, and for that reason a covering of evergreen boughs or burlap is desirable. Let the covering be elevated over the plants and sufficiently well fastened to hold up snows. When burlap is used, do not let it hang clear to the ground; leave an ample space for ventilation. This will prevent the plants from getting overheated on sunny days. C. W.

DELPHINIUMS AND ASTERS.

Please give me directions on how to propagate delphiniums and asters in this climate, Tennessee.

O. M. H.—Tenn.



Asters and delphiniums are rather difficult to grow in Tennessee. They both delight in a cool, moist climate, such as the Big Bend state seldom affords. They do better in your vicinity, Chattanooga, than in the western part of the state, however.

Most of the growers plant only the early asters, growing the plants to a good size in the houses and then setting them out in a good, rich soil as soon as the danger of frost is past. The plants require plenty of irrigation most seasons from the time the buds are set, as the normal rainfall begins to decrease by that time. This season they did well without irrigation.

Where plenty of water is handy the late asters may be grown. They should be well tilled until hot, dry weather sets in and then mulched two inches deep with straw or something similar. They should never be allowed to dry out. Most growers prefer the greenhouse for all but the earliest varieties, as this is the only way results are sure. They are grown in the benches much as carnations are grown.

Delphiniums can be made to succeed if given good, deep, well enriched soil and if properly tilled. This means that the soil must never be allowed to form a crust. Water the plants freely, and if a partially shaded location is chosen the results will be better. The Belladonna hybrids do rather better here than those which have none of its blood.

Both asters and delphiniums will grow better on the mountains around Chattanooga than in the valley, though they can be grown successfully in the valley. F. B.

Chrysanthemum Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, an Early Bonnaffon.

Marseilles, France.—In 1914 there were shipped to the United States, from this port, inmortelles to the value of $21,448, according to the U. S. consular invoices. In 1915 the value was $20,671.

Hamilton, Bermuda.—In 1914 the value of the Harrisii lily bulbs exported to all the world is stated to have been $9,086, while in 1915 the value was only $5,373, of which $4,163 went to the United States and $1,210 to other countries.

Petrograd, Russia.—The official Russian statistics show that the imports over the European and Caucasus-Black Sea frontiers, and from Finland, were, in 1914: Seeds, plants and bulbs, 4,698,000 rubles, which declined in 1915 to 1,134,000 rubles.

Cape Town, South Africa.—In 1914 British South Africa imported garden, vegetable and field seeds to the value of $121,307, of which $8,239 came from the United States, but in 1915 the imports shrunk to $79,923, of which the United States supplied $5,830.

Amsterdam, Holland.—Notwithstanding the lateness of the bulb shipments this year, in the quarter ending September 30 U. S. consuls certified bulb invoices aggregating in value $118,341.

London, Eng.—A government investigation has revealed that the cost of living has advanced forty-five per cent since war was declared. With reference to the plan of the Horticultural Trades Association to advance prices a trade paper says: "It seems to us that there are only two alternatives. One is to let things slide and go on in the old style until increased expenses and decreased income drive a large proportion of the trade into bankruptcy. Then there will be a great shortage of stock and prices will rise automatically to a profitable level, and the few that survive will gain the advantage. The other is to combine together at once to raise prices to a profitable level, and put down auction dumping and other evils connected with the trade. If we stand for the greatest good of the greatest number, there is not much doubt as to which is the course to pursue."

THE AUTUMN EXHIBITIONS

PRIVATE GARDENERS ARE THE LEADING EXHIBITORS

PHILADELPHIA.

A Strong Show.

The annual chrysanthemum show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society opened in Horticultural hall on the evening of our great national election day, November 7. A view taken a few hours before the curtain went up showed the strength of the show in several important features. The greatest of these was the group of orchids arranged at the top of the main stairway by William Kleinheinz, president of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, as a greeting to the fellow members. There were at least 300 orchids in this group, oncidiums, cattleyas and dendrobiums. There was a fountain in the center, with mirrors above and below. Ferns were freely used in the arrangement. This was one of the most beautiful groups ever staged here.

The ferns, I assume they were Thomas Long's, were wonderfully fine. There were six of them, great big fellows, both in size and in name. I have given all their names before and can do it again if you wish. Meanwhile, let me call especial attention to the new member of the group, Adiantum Farleyense, the finest specimen in this city today. It stands over three feet high, is well proportioned and perfect.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., occupied the stage as of yore with a fine group of foliage plants. It was noticeably brighter in coloring than in the past, due to the lavish use of well colored crotons. Fine kentias formed the background of an effective arrangement.

The specimen chrysanthemum blooms were well represented and of high quality.

W. Atlee Burpee & Co. staged a large collection of gladioli, comprising half a dozen of their best varieties. The surprise was that they were outdoor grown.

Henry F. Michell Co. made two good exhibits. One, in charge of Chas. F. Goudy, comprised fifty-five vases of pompons, including Crawford's Yellow, Western Beauty and somebody's Caprice—all new sorts. Philip Freud had a hyacinth garden arranged with pompons, certain to convince the beholder that Michell's bulbs are the best. F. Hay made a second display for Henry A. Dreer, Inc., of seeds, bulbs and accessories nicely staged.

Louis Burk put up two lovely orchid displays.

The Lord & Burnham Co. made an up-to-date display of hotbed frames and sashes.

The King Construction Co. showed the King Jr. garden frame with plant adornment. Fred Cowperthwaite was in charge.

The Strafford Flower Farm sent its fine pompons and singles.

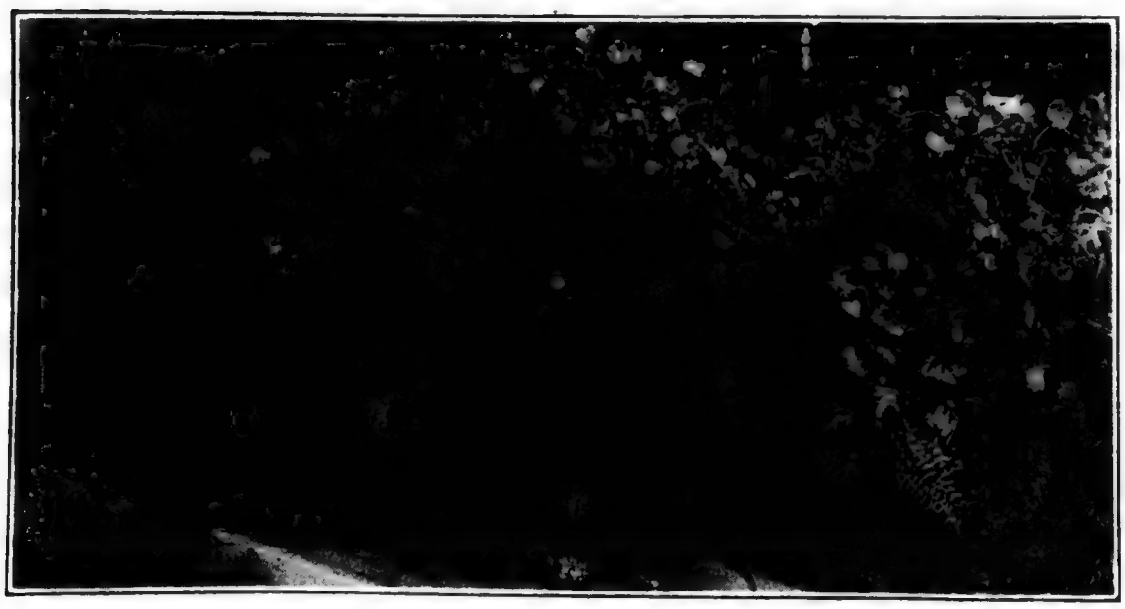
John Kuhn, of Olney, had good chrysanthemum plants, pompons and boxwood, the latter strangely trimmed like fowls and other living creatures.

Thomas Meehan & Sons sent a large collection of hardy chrysanthemums arranged for display.

Hosea Waterer displayed all sorts of seedsmen's requisites.

The Philadelphia Goldfish Co. displayed twelve cases of choice goldfish.

Franklin Barrett put up a splendid exhibit of gold and other fancy fish.



The Chrysanthemum Society of America exhibits were added on the second day. Phil.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.

"I have never seen a better or a larger show at Tarrytown," "They have never before had one to equal it," "Bigger and better than ever"—these are samples of the various ways in which critical, well informed onlookers expressed the unanimous opinion of the eighteenth annual exhibition of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society, held at Music hall, November 1 to 3. Still another plain expression of approval was the largeness of the attendance, which broke all records on the opening night. The exhibits were not only good in themselves, but were artistically staged.

Members of the trade, such of them as had any connection with the show, distinguished themselves as prize-givers rather than as prize-winners, for the exhibits, as usual, were nearly all from private estates. The F. R. Pierson Co., however, had a splendid display of Beauty, Francis Scott Key and Ophelia roses.

The judges were John Middleton, of Tarrytown; John Ruthven, of Mount Kisco, and John F. Johnston, of Glen Cove.

Begonia Mrs. Heal, Exhibited at Boston by Wm. C. Rust, Brookline.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

Twelfth Annual Mum Show.

The twelfth annual chrysanthemum show of the Nassau County Horticultural Society, which was held at Glen Cove, November 2 and 3, was one of the finest exhibitions the society ever held. The cut-blooms exhibited were of the largest size and were finely finished, while the specimen plants and plant groups showed an acme of perfection that reflected great credit on the skill of the growers. The roses, carnations and vegetables were of an equally high quality, and competition in all classes was keen. The various exhibits were most artistically arranged under the able direction of the show manager, James Gladstone, who was ably assisted by James Holloway and Harry Goodband.

There were two groups of plants exhibited—one a group of chrysanthemum plants, staged by Robert Jones, gardener for Percy Chubb; the other a group of foliage and flowering plants, staged by Robert Marshall, gardener for J. R. Delamar.

The classes for the double chrysanthemum standard and bush plants were each won by Robert Marshall, with James McCarthy, gardener for W. E. Kimball, second. The single standard and bush plant classes were won by James McCarthy, with Henry Gaut, gardener for Herbert S. Pratt, second.

Those Who Won.

The principal exhibitors and winners in the other mum classes and in the vegetable classes were: Robert Jones, gardener for Percy Chubb; Robert Marshall, gardener for J. R. Delamar; George Ferguson, gardener for Payne Whitney; James McCarthy, gardener for W. E. Kimball; Joseph Robinson, gardener for W. R. Coe; Thomas Flynn, gardener for J. H. Ottley; Henry Gaut, gardener for Herbert Pratt; Harry Goodband, gardener for S. D. Brewster; John Everitt, gardener for John J. Pratt; William Noonan, gardener for C. F. Cartiledge.

The prize for the largest bloom in the show was captured by Robert Jones, with a massive bloom of William Turner. The classes for single and hardy chrysanthemums were well contested and many exceptionally fine varieties of each were exhibited. There were eleven entries in the class for the best table decoration and the ladies who judged this class had a difficult task to select the winner, as all were well executed. They finally decided on that of George Ford, who is assistant gardener for John T. Pratt, with George Ferguson second and William Noonan third. The judges of the exhibition were Walter Angus, Ewen McKenzie and Howard Nicholls. J. M.

BOSTON.

The Fall Exhibition.

Boston no longer boasts of a chrysanthemum show. The decline locally in the popularity of both specimen plants and big blooms was emphasized more strongly than ever this season and the title of fall exhibition given the show was much more fitting. For many years Boston's specimen mums, both cut and in pots, were the finest in the country. Many may wonder why they are not still produced and exhibited, and to those who may be unaware of our local conditions I would say that the taste for big blooms commercially has passed and owners of our many private estates have grown tired of specimen plants as well as big blooms, preferring plants of more moderate size and strongly favoring undisbudded plants and especially the single, pompon and anemone sections. A reaction to the big blooms may come, but there are as yet no indications of it.

The Groups.

The groups of chrysanthemums and miscellaneous flowering plants were good, although somewhat flat and overcrowded. A. M. Davenport won on 300 square feet of foliage and flowering plants. He used a large variety of plants, including some well-flowered Mrs. Heal begonias; the W. W. Edgar Co. was second. In the private gardeners' class William Thatcher, gardener to Mrs. J. L. Gardner, won. He used Lilium speciosum quite freely. A. M. Davenport also won in the class for a 200-foot group of chrysanthemums; William Thatcher, second. Kameyama & Serada had a nice group in this class. William H. Elliott won out for a group of commercial chrysanthemums arranged with foliage plants, having a lot of nice, stocky plants; Kameyama & Serada, second.

Specimen plants were fewer than usual and needed a few more days to expand their flowers. William Watson, gardener to J. S. Bailey, had the best six specimens. For white specimen plants, A. E. Griffin, gardener to G. L. Stone, led with Garza, a grand specimen, much the best in the exhibition. W. C. Rust, gardener to Mrs. C. G. Weld, was second with the same variety. A. E. Davies, gardener to W. H. Wellington, took first and second for specimen bronze.

Begonias a Feature.

For the specimen orchid John L. Smith, gardener to A. W. Preston, took first with Cattleya Moira; William Martin, gardener to N. T. Kidder, second with Cypripedium Spicerianum.

Begonias were largely shown and of grand quality, far surpassing the chrysanthemums in attractiveness. For six specimens of Gloire de Lorraine, E. H. Wetterlow, gardener to Mrs. Lester Leland, took first with immense specimens finely flowered; A. E. Griffin, second. For six plants any other winter-blooming begonia, William Downs, gardener to E. S. Webster, won with magnificent plants of Optima, one of the features of the show.

For a pair of kentias first prize went to William Thatcher. For twenty-five blooms of chrysanthemums, A. E. Griffin won with large, well finished blooms of Miss C. Banghart, Wm. Rigby, Pockett's Surprise, Miss J. Gibson, William Turner, M. L. Rousseau, H. E. Converse, Mrs. W. Duckham, Earl Kitchener, C. H. Totty, Mrs. R. H. Boggs, Reginald Vallis, Mount Kisco, Meudon, Master Rex, Lady Hopetoun, J. W. Molyneux, Mrs. J. P. Mitchel, James Fraser, Lenox, Mrs. A. L. Watt, Pockett's Crimson, Calumet and Mrs. E. Wild. W. H. Wellington was second. Other awards were:

Twelve blooms Japanese—A. E. Griffin, first, with Mary Farnsworth, Mrs. G. Drabble, J. W. Molyneux, Master Rex, Lady Hopetoun, Earl Kitchener, Miss C. Banghart, Meudon, James Fraser, Bob Pulling, Mrs. J. P. Mitchel and Mrs. Peter Duff; W. H. Wellington, second.

Twelve blooms Japanese incurved—A. E. Griffin, first, with M. L. Rousseau, Lenox, Pockett's Surprise, Mrs. G. Drabble, Mrs. G. Hunt, Elberon, Yellow Turner, William Turner, Earl Kitchener, Calumet, H. E. Converse and William Rigby.

Twelve blooms Japanese reflexed—A. E. Griffin, first, with Bob Pulling, Lelia Filkins, Reginald Vallis, Rose Pockett, Mrs. R. D. Foote, Mrs. W. Duckham, Mrs. G. G. Mason, C. H. Totty, Mrs. H. Stevens, Pockett's Crimson, Mrs. R. Pulling and William West.

Vase of Mrs. Jerome Jones—The veteran James Nicol once more won with splendid flowers of this grand variety.

Elmer D. Smith & Co. won out for the best new seedling, with Miss Anola Wright, a pleasing pink.

Twelve vases of pompons—C. H. Totty, first, with Pearl Cluster, Lillian Doty, Lelia, Golden West, Maco, Rose Trevenna, Lucy, Donald, Excelsior, Viola, Golden Climax, White Doty and Julia Lagravere; A. K. Butler was second. Mr. Totty also won for twenty-five vases of singles. Some of his best varieties were Irene, Dorothy Dann, Elsa, Rose Walker, Vivian Cook, R. Delafield, Mrs. E. H. Wells, Mrs. A. Middleton, Ivor Grant, Mrs. C. C. Mickle, Gladys Duckham, Mrs. Alfred Phillips, Mensa, Excelsior and Manor House; Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., were second.

A. R. Cosh, gardener to Mrs. A. E. Sias, had the best vase of twenty-five specimen blooms mixed.

Caplan was the only retailer competing in the class for the best display showing the various ways flowers may be used for home decoration.

The W. W. Edgar Co. took both first and second prize for the most artistic large china vase of specimen blooms arranged for effect, oak leaves being used to good effect.

Ten specimen blooms, white, on long stems—James Nicol, first, with grand William Turner; A. M. McGuffey, gardener to W. E. Traiser, second, with the same variety.

Ten pink—Eric H. Wetterlow, first; A. McGuffey, second. Each showed Dr. Enguehard.

Ten yellow—Eric H. Wetterlow, first, with Mrs. William Duckham; A. M. McGuffey, second, with Bonnaffon.

Ten red—Eric H. Wetterlow, first, with splendid Pockett's Crimson.

Carnations and Roses.

Carnations were staged on the third day of the show and made a nice addition. For six vases of fifty blooms each Strout's, Biddeford, Me., won for a grand lot of flowers, large and with wonderfully good stems. The varieties were Champion, Pink Delight, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Matchless, Rosette and Pocahontas. A. A. Pembroke, who was an excellent second, had fine vases of Pink Sensation, Good Cheer, Benora, Pink Delight, Matchless and Champion. For 100 flowers, mixed, J. W. Minot, Portland, Me., led with a grand vase of big blooms carried on lusty stems; A. A. Pembroke was second.

No classes were provided for roses, but the Waban Rose Conservatories staged splendid vases of Hadley and Mrs. Charles Russell. Charles Holbrow had vases of his new light pink seedling rose which showed up well.

Among Elmer D. Smith & Co.'s new seedling chrysanthemums, Tiger, yellow; October Herald, deep orange; Smith's Imperial, white, and Little Gem, pompon, were conspicuous.

Thomas Roland had a nice table of crotons and camellias. H. Stewart, gardener to Miss Cornelia Warren, had foliage and flowering plants. A. E. Griffin had a large basket-trained specimen of Chrysanthemum Cheltoni, and W. C. Rust one of Garza.

Prize Plant of Chrysanthemum Garza Exhibited by A. E. Griffin, Marion, Mass.

A. N. Pierson showed cut chrysanthemums in variety.

S. J. Goddard showed his new crimson carnation, Doris. C. S. Strout had a nice white seedling of W. N. Rudd's introduction, awarded honorable mention. He also showed one of S. J. Goddard's crimson seedlings. A. A. Pembroke showed his double sport of Benora, which had large flowers.

Thomas T. Watts exhibited Pancratium fragrans and Salvia leucantha and S. involucrata Bethelli.

Special Awards.

Silver medals were awarded to John L. Smith for Cattleya Lady Rothschild alba, to E. H. Wetterlow for Begonia Mrs. Peterson, to William Downs for his grand specimens of Begonia Optima and to W. C. Rust for a splendid table of the English winter-flowering begonias, including Mrs. Heal, Winter Cheer, Optima, Apricot and Elatior. John S. Dorg, gardener to Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, received honorable mention for Begonia Sylvia. He also showed other English begonias.

Janiten & Wollrath Co. showed Begonia Mrs. Heal. John L. Smith was awarded a first-class certificate for Cattleya Fabia alba. The W. W. Edgar Co. had the best six orange trees in fruit.

The display of fruits and vegetables was the finest and most extensive ever seen at a Boston fall show and this department seemed to appeal to visitors fully as much as the flowers. The T. J. Grey Co. easily outdid its former groupings in competition for the seedsmen's class for the best collection of vegetables, staging over 200 varieties of splendid quality. This collection well merited the gratuity of $100 awarded. For fifteen varieties of vegetables, distinct, Edwin Jenkins, Lenox, Mass., won first prize of $75. The second prize, $50, went to Edward Parker, gardener to Oliver Ames. For eight varieties, E. L. Lewis was first and J. O. Christensen, gardener to W. J. Clemson, second.

That fall shows will not enthuse the public like spring exhibitions was plainly shown by a decidedly diminished attendance. The absence of retailers' displays on this occasion had, no doubt, something to do with this falling off, and pre-election excitement also did its part. W. N. Craig.

SEWICKLEY, PA.

An Initial Attempt.

The first chrysanthemum show of the Sewickley Horticultural Society, held in the Public School Pavilion, November 2 to 4, was of so excellent a character as to reflect great credit on the society. The blooms shown would have compared favorably with the best exhibits at any of the larger, more pretentious shows. The affair aroused great interest and was the subject of much favorable comment, both in the trade and among the general public.

The contests in most of the classes were open to private gardeners only. There was one section, however, for commercial growers of chrysanthemums, roses and carnations. In this section the McCallum Co., of Pittsburgh, won first for fifty blooms of any yellow chrysanthemum and first for fifty blooms of any white carnation.

Among the other prize-winners were the following:

M. Curran, gardener for Mrs. E. M. Horne; J. Murphy, gardener for H. L. Mason; A. A. Leech, gardener for H. J. Heinz; Carl Beckerer, gardener for Dixmont Hospital; Wm. Thompson, Jr., gardener for Mrs. W. P. Snyder; E. Guter, gardener for R. B. Mellon; Thomas Sturgiss, gardener for Mrs. A. Laughlin, Jr.; R. Taylor, gardener for R. H. Boggs; John Jones, gardener for Mrs. William Thaw, Jr.; Herman Rapp, gardener for the Watson estate; gardener for H. C. Frick; T. E. Tyler, gardener for Charles H. Armstrong; William Thompson, Sr., gardener for the Craig estate; gardener for Mrs. J. B. Oliver; J. Barnes, gardener for Mrs. J. D. Lyons; A. E. Bousey, gardener for J. G. Byers; the gardeners for Mrs. J. F. Byers, the Pittsburgh Country Club and Mrs. E. A. Woods.

Prize Group of A. M. Davenport, Watertown, Mass., Staged at Boston.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., of Pittsburgh, had a display of chrysanthemums, pompons and roses, which were not in competition.

Chas. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., also sent a fine exhibit of pompon chrysanthemums.

Pittsburgh has not had a show for some years, but the gardeners who grew these flowers are all members of the Pittsburgh Florists' Club. Their unassisted efforts at this time are an indication of what the club should have been doing and a demonstration of the fact that growers are still interested in displaying their skill in producing fine flowers and vegetables.

M. Curran grew the largest chrysanthemum bloom in the show, and also the tallest plant, ten feet six inches. David Fraser grew the largest mushroom. Thomas Sturgiss grew fine medium-sized mushrooms.

The judges were J. Wiseman, A. Davidson and Fred Burki.

GREENWICH, CONN.

A Notable Success.

The sixth annual autumn exhibition of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held in Drinkwater's hall, Greenwich, Conn., October 31 and November 1. The quality throughout the exhibition was of marked superiority. The schedule consisted of 121 classes and the competition was keen. The attendance was good. A financial and social success was scored. Noteworthy features were the numerous trade displays, the scarcity of big blooms and the increasing popularity of the more decorative types of single and pompon mums. The unusual display of outdoor flowers also was noticeable. Over fifty varieties were noted in the five groups in this class. The increasing interest of the amateurs who do not employ paid assistance is gratifying to note. There is a marked tendency toward better decorative effects, as was evidenced by the numerous groups of plants and cut flowers. Decorated dinner tables, baskets of flowers and centerpieces also were noteworthy features.

J. B. McArdle, manager of the exhibition, was ably assisted by Thomas Ryan, to whom the society is indebted for the staging of an effective and pleasing exhibition. The judges were George Middleton, Tarrytown, N. Y.; James Blair, Staatsburg, N. Y.; William Turner, Oceanic, N. J., and Ernest Wild, Morristown, N. J. Their fair and impartial decisions were received with universal satisfaction.

Among the novelties noted was a display of seedling mums of the anemone-flowered type, exhibited by Scott Bros., of Elmsford. A vase of the new yellow rose, Mme. Collette Martinet, attracted a great deal of attention. The exhibitor of this rose, A. N. Pierson, Inc., was highly commended and the committee requested a further display at some future meeting. The rose is of elegant form and of rare fragrance and is said to be a good, clean grower and producer. J. B. McArdle exhibited a vase of the new double-flowering cosmos. The neat flowers should prove valuable to the florist as well as a good subject for the garden.

Certificates of merit were awarded to the George E. Baldwin Co., Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., for displays of orchid plants in bloom; to Mills & Co., Mamaroneck, N. Y., for a display of dahlias; to Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., and A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., for displays of roses and mums; to Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., for a display of mums.

J. B. McArdle was highly commended for a display of roses, palms and cosmos. The Stamford Seed & Nursery Co., Stamford, Conn., was highly commended for a display of sundries.

The special awards to the private growers were: Certificate of merit to Alex. Geddes for seedling mums, single type, and to William Morrow for a vase of Eucharis Amazonica and for a specimen palm, Cycas Rumphii; special prize to P. W. Popp for a basket of pompon mums.

Among the other prize-winners were: Robert Gunnert; William Graham, gardener for Mrs. E. C. Converse; Robert Allen, gardener for E. C. Benedict; W. J. Sealey, gardener for Charles Mallory; William Whitton, gardener for Mrs. J. H. Flagler; William Smith, gardener for Robert Mallory; Thomas Ryan, gardener for J. J. Downey; John Orr; G. D. Sullivan, gardener for Mrs. W. G. Nichols; C. Hankenson, gardener for A. G. Smith; J. B. Andrew, gardener for Mrs. L. C. Bruce; Fred Metzler, gardener for Mrs. A. M. Zabriskie; Fred Lagerstam, gardener for F. A. Topping; Duncan McIntyre, gardener for Mrs. Converse; James Linane, gardener for Mrs. C. D. Barron; Emil Johnson, gardener for George Lowther; Joseph Tiernan, gardener for Adrian Iselin; James Stuart, gardener for Mrs. F. A. Constable; Thomas Aitcheson, gardener for Mrs. Nathan Strauss; J. B. Cobb; Anton Pederson, gardener for Charles Smith; James Foster, gardener for Mrs. Oliver Hoyt; Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer; John Andrew, gardener for John Downey; Miss Valentine; Mrs. A. A. Anderson; D. Millbank; Paul Divenger, gardener for A. Higgins; J. Merritt Smith, Oscar Addor, Jr., Mrs. W. M. Bennett and Mrs. W. N. Ladd.

DUTCH BULBS

Planting Outdoor Bulbs.

Now is the time to plant out all kinds of hardy Dutch bulbs. The earlier these are in the ground now, the better. Prepare the soil well and be sure not to use any manure which has not been well rotted. Fresh manure is pretty sure to cause trouble, so leave it severely alone. This applies to all bulbs, including not only tulips, narcissi, hyacinths, crocuses, scillas, etc., but also lilies to be planted later, and various bulbs planted in spring, such as gladioli, montbretias and galtonias. Cover hyacinths and large-bulbed narcissi to a depth of five to six inches, tulips and smaller-bulbed narcissi four to five inches, and crocuses, snowdrops, scillas, chionodoxas and fritillarias three inches. Spanish and English irises may be covered three to four inches and these do best if planted quite late, just before the ground freezes.

Be sure not to mulch or protect your beds in any way until the ground is well frozen. The mulch should keep the soil frozen rather than open; then the growth is checked and rodents cannot tunnel through the soil and destroy the bulbs, as they frequently do while the soil is open.

Tulips for Bedding.

There is a wide variety of tulips available for bedding. A few of the best in their respective colors are Joost van Vondel, White Pottebakker and White Swan, pure white; Chrysolora, Ophir d'Or and Mon Tresor, golden yellow; Prince of Austria and Thomas Moore, orange; Keizerskroon, red and yellow; Cottage Maid, Rose Luisante, Pink Beauty and Queen of the Netherlands, pink or rose; Proserpine and Le Reve, carmine rose; Scarlet Pottebakker, Vermilion Brilliant and Sir Thomas Lipton, scarlet; Couleur Cardinal, crimson; striped Joost van Vondel, rose and white.

Beds of only one variety look better than when the same beds are divided into blocks or quarters of several varieties. The following are the finest of the bedding tulips: White Joost van Vondel, Pink Beauty, Chrysolora, Keizerskroon, Proserpine, Sir Thomas Lipton, Prince of Austria and Couleur Cardinal. In planting several colors in a bed, care should be taken to select those of as near the same height as possible. Catalogues usually give the heights of tulips and are in this way a considerable help to those not well informed on bulbs.

Cottage and Darwin Tulips.

Do not overlook the late-flowering cottage and Darwin tulips. These are glorious in beds and clumps and far superior to the early tulips for cutting, their stems being much longer and stronger. Some specially good and inexpensive cottage varieties to plant are: Picotee, Bouton d'Or, Gesneriana lutea, Gesneriana spathulata, Golden Crown, Inglescombe Pink, retroflexa, elegans and May Blossom.

Of the magnificent Darwins, all are grand for cutting. The following are especially good: Clara Butt and Mme. Krelage, rose or salmon; Gretchen, pale pink; White Queen, nearly pure white; Dream, Rev. H. Ewbank and Mrs. Potter Palmer, lavender or purple; Glow, Pride of Haarlem and Minister Tak, red or scarlet; King Harold, deep blood red; The Sultan, maroon. In some of the more northerly states the Darwin tulips bloom just right for Memorial day, when they always bring fancy prices. One good thing about them is that if the stems are not cut down too close to the ground the bulbs will flower fully as well or better the second and third seasons, if left undisturbed.

Narcissi.

Narcissi are not much used for bedding, but are specially good in clumps or bands along borders, also for naturalizing in grass land. It is in grass that they are seen at their best. Not all varieties, however, succeed well when naturalized. Some of the most satisfactory are: Emperor, princeps, Barrii conspicuus, Leedsii Mrs. Langtry, Leedsii Duchess of Brabant, Sir Watkin, Stella, poeticus, poeticus ornatus, Burbidgei and Campernellii rugulosus. It is well to state that the short-trumpet varieties are generally hardier and more satisfactory than the large-trumpet sorts, better in borders and when naturalized in grass. Such varieties as Golden Spur, Horsfieldii, Glory of Leiden, Trumpet major, Victoria and Silver Spur soon run out.

Hyacinths.

Hyacinths are splendid for bedding. They never should be planted in mixtures. It is also much better to buy named varieties than to purchase mixtures of pink, white or blue, which will give considerable variations in color, to say nothing of the differences in types of spikes. Bulbs should be covered to a depth of five to six inches. A few inexpensive bedding varieties are: La Grandesse, Grandeur a Merveille and L'Innocence, white; Gertrude and Pink Perfection, pink; gigantea and Cardinal Wiseman, rose; Queen of the Blues and Czar Peter, light blue; King of the Blues and Marie, dark blue; Yellow Hammer, golden yellow.

Spanish Iris.

For cutting, plant out a liberal lot of the Spanish iris. They are perfectly hardy in any well drained land and are so inexpensive that no one should be debarred on this account from planting them. Few bulbous flowers are better for cutting and where they are not cut down too near the ground they will come up, if left undisturbed, for at least six or eight years. A few good sorts to plant are Louis, Cajanus, Cornflower, Midley and British Queen. If you want something to immediately follow the Spanish iris, plant some of the English iris. The flowers are larger than those of the Spanish iris and possess greater substance. Mont Blanc white, and Grand Vainqueur, pale blue, are excellent varieties to plant.

FUEL FAMINE FEARED

COAL HIGH AND HARD TO GET.

Many Florists Are Hit.

The most tremendous rise in the price of steam coal the trade ever faced has caught many florists unprepared for winter—prices not only have skyrocketed, but fuel is difficult to get, for of free coal the principal markets are practically bare.

Florists who did not heed the warnings given in The Review, which since midsummer has been putting emphasis on the necessity for preparedness, now find themselves in a predicament—coal that could be had at $1.35 to $1.50 per ton at the mine in August actually has brought in exceptional cases as much as $6 per ton during the first week in November. To a florist such quotations are unthinkable; he can not believe them to be true, but the trouble lies in the fact that the mines are producing little more coal than is needed to fill contracts and the man, be he florist or manufacturer, whose regular source of supply does not take care of them must go among strangers and bid high.

Growers Partly Covered.

Most of the large growers are at least partly protected by contracts made in the spring and in most cases have taken delivery of considerable quantities during the summer. These now encounter considerable difficulty in obtaining scheduled deliveries on their contracts, but are protected as to price to the extent of the contracts if they can get delivery. The seriousness of the situation for them, however, lies in the fact that during the last two or three years of weak coal markets the custom has grown up among large growers of contracting only a part, say half, their season's needs, relying on the open market for the other half. In recent years there have been frequent opportunities to pick up at less than contract price cars on which the consignee wished to avoid demurrage. But this season the grower who must buy on the open market even a small part of his requirements will hand back to the coal trade all the savings he ever has been able to make picking up bargains.

It is of record that the cheapest greenhouse heating under normal conditions costs 8 cents per thousand square feet of glass per day, and from that up to 30 cents per thousand feet per day. Also, the largest grower has been quoted as saying his place uses 135,000 tons of steam coal per year. There are many growers who under normal conditions use $10,000 worth of coal a season and quite a few who use from $25,000 to $50,000 worth.

Small Florists Are Caught.

But it is the small man, who buys by the wagon-load rather than by the carload, who is pinched by the present situation. He, as a rule, has no contract on which he can demand delivery at a stated price; he must pay the market rate. There are thousands of florists who find their coal bills jumping day by day, 50, 100, 200 per cent or more, depending on the strength of the source of supply and previous business relations. There is nothing to do but pay the price. Dealers will not quote prices on soft coal because there is no supply. The price is changing over night.

It is reported that the railroads are confiscating commercial coal for their own use all over the country, paying the market price to the owners for whom it is being transported.

The Reasons for It.

"This sudden shortage in the supply of steam coal," said George H. Cushing, editor of the Black Diamond, "is a matter I have been investigating and I find several causes. The railroads have required more coal on account of increased traffic; the cotton mills of the south, which were using water power, have had a dry spell since the severe flood of last summer and are now using coal; the munitions plants have required millions of tons; extra coal has been called for by the steel plants supplying steel for shipbuilding, which has been extremely active recently; there has been a large increase on account of the double shifts at mills now running day and night owing to the business boom, and it is estimated that Canada has taken three million tons extra this fall owing to better conditions there in part and because of the demands of munition plants in the Dominion.

"All this demand has come in the eastern district, east of Harrisburg and Buffalo practically. I estimate the amounts as follows:

	Tons.
Cotton mills	4,000,000
Exports	4,500,000
Eastern railroads	20,000,000
Munitions plants	15,000,000
Increase in Canada	3,000,000
Increase owing to ship-building demands	1,500,000
Increase owing to increased business of factories (double shifts)	20,000,000
Total	68,000,000

"When people reflect that there was no shortage of coal apparent up to September 15 it is easy to understand why there is congestion now, when a demand for 68,000,000 tons comes on the coal companies and the railroads in addition to normal supplies.

Car and Labor Shortage.

"The car shortage is due to several causes. There are complaints from railroad men and shippers that speculators in coal, in grain, in food supplies and in war munitions are tying up cars almost indefinitely while they use the cars to sell and resell the contents, always at an increase in price. This speculation in the necessities is advancing the price of coal while slowing down its delivery. The railroads make particular complaint that in some instances the reconsignment of a car takes from six to seven days and involves numerous transfers of ownership during the delay.

"The bituminous coal production in 1915 was, in round numbers, 442,000,000 tons. The miners worked only 203 days. If the same rate of production had been continued for 300 days the mines would have turned out 654,000,000 tons. This indifference of labor, the scarcity of miners since the European war began and the present car shortage, together with the enormous increase in the demand for coal coming within a short period of time, explains the situation, in my opinion."

TO GET THE MONEY BACK

UNCLE SAM OFFERS HELP.

Investigation of British Censorship.

In view of the number of letters that came to The Review in August, with regard to the non-arrival of seeds from Germany, particularly cyclamen seeds ordered of Ferd Fischer, of Wiesbaden, it was apparent that considerable sums of money had been dispatched to Germany by readers of The Review and never heard of afterward. The appearances were, either that the men to whom the remittances had been sent were prevented by the British blockade from filling the orders, or that the British censor had intercepted the orders and remittances. All doubt in the matter was removed by arrival of a post-card from Fischer, of Wiesbaden. It read:

Please do not publish again my advertisement of cyclamen seeds because orders, checks and The Review also do not arrive more since months now.

The card was dated at Wiesbaden June 30 and did not reach Chicago until September 12. The fact that it carried the O. K. of the British censor showed where it had been in the meantime and where the "orders, checks and The Review" had gone—the censor had held them up.

An Important Sum Involved.

It was apparent that, while none of the sums was large, the lost remittances were sufficiently numerous so that in the aggregate the loss is important. In the case of the cyclamen seeds, Ferd Fischer, a German specialist of wide repute, has advertised in The Review for several years and has built up a large mail-order business in this country—a surprisingly large business as revealed by the inquiries as to the probabilities of receiving the seeds. It is evident that hundreds of orders were sent to Fischer which he, according to the evidence of his postal, never received. A few were for small sums, $3 or $5, but many were $30, $50 or even more. Nearly all had sent cash with order, as had been satisfactorily done in other years. In the aggregate it meant many hundreds of dollars.

And Fischer's customers were only a few of the total number interested, as the conditions must be the same with other German houses having customers here.

Most of the remittances were in the form of bank paper or postoffice money orders.

The Review Starts Investigation.

No doubt in the course of time it will be possible for those who purchased funds payable in Germany to secure the repayment of sums the paper representing which has been destroyed, but to expedite the matter The Review made inquiry of the U. S. Department of State to ascertain what disposition the British government is making of American mails for Germany taken off the Dutch and Danish steamers, more particularly as to what the British do with enclosures representing money. It was explained that this trade is interested in a large number of comparatively small sums which have been detained and perhaps destroyed. Few, if any, are of sufficient size to justify legal expense for their recovery.

State Department Will Help.

The government of the United States stands ready to assist any who will supply sufficiently complete and accurate data to make it possible to trace individual remittances. In a letter to The Review Alvey A. Adee, Second Assistant Secretary of State, makes its offer as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE
WASHINGTON
October 30, 1916.

Florists' Publishing Company,
Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen: The Department has received your letter of the 12th instant in which you ask to be advised as to what disposition the British Government is making of the German mail it takes off neutral steamers, more particularly, what becomes of the remittances contained in this mail.

In reply you are informed that if you have in mind a particular case in which you are interested and will furnish the Department with a complete statement of all the facts in connection therewith, the Department will be glad to consider the matter and to advise you as to whether, in its opinion, it can be of any assistance to you.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
For the Secretary of State:
Alvey A. Adee,
841.711/1119 Second Assistant Secretary.

The representatives of the United States in England will ask to be informed regarding remittances that can be shown to have been forwarded by steamers from which the mails were taken by the British.

How to Proceed.

Each reader who would like to have his loss investigated by the government should write the Department of State enclosing a copy of the order sent to Germany, with full information as to the character of the remittance, including date and number of the draft or money order as well as the amount. Also, it will be well to ask the postmaster how a letter posted on a given date was forwarded; the postoffice records will in most cases make it possible to determine on what steamer the letter traveled.

PACKING HOUSE TANKAGE.

Please advise me as to the fertilizing value of packing house tankage. How much of it should be used for plants in a greenhouse? Do you advise its use for privet, conifers, lawns and southern field crops? T. T. G.—Ga.

Packing house tankage varies widely in composition, the nitrogen varying from four to six per cent and the phosphoric acid from nine to seventeen per cent, a high percentage of one usually being associated with a low percentage of the other.

The availability of the fertilizing elements varies with the materials from which the fertilizer has been prepared. The nitrogen is usually considerably slower in becoming available than that of dried blood, while the phosphoric acid is about as available as that in bone of the same degree of fineness.

The quantity to be applied depends upon the condition and character of the soil, but two pounds per hundred square feet of bench space, five inches deep—four pounds per hundred cubic feet of soil—should make a satisfactory application. Top-dressings of the fertilizer during vigorous plant growth may be added, if the plants show need of nitrogenous fertilizer.

One-half to three tons per acre, or one pound per four square yards, is considered satisfactory as an application to lawns and for shrubs and trees, with one-half pound per square yard worked into the soil about shrubs and trees. I am unable to advise quantities for field crops. F. W. M.

SHOULD DISBUD CANDYTUFT.

Will you please tell me whether or not giant pyramid candytuft should be pinched back after the first buds appear? Our plants are about six inches high and are starting to bud. Also, should they be disbudded in order to have large spikes? R. B.—Wis.

It is not advisable to pinch back candytuft, but where fancy spikes are desired it is a good policy to do some disbudding. C. W.

Frankfort, Ky.—Lloyd H. Wilkinson, manager of the Park Floral Co., recently broke his arm in a fall over the high threshold of a greenhouse entrance.

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE—AND WHY

E. J. KYLE.

IF there is anything in physiognomy the florists of the great southwest will not be disappointed in their reliance upon E. J. Kyle for the solution of the cultural problems peculiar to their section; he of the rugged features is dean of the School of Agriculture and professor of horticulture at the Texas A. & M. College, and it is at College Station the Texas State Florists' Association hopes soon to have in full operation a range of greenhouses for floricultural experimentation similar to the one at Urbana, Ill. Professor Kyle is an active friend of the florists of his state, is thoroughly conversant with their troubles and in sympathy with their aims. He has been and will continue to be of much assistance to the growers of the largest state in the Union.

WINTERING MUMS IN FRAMES.

In The Review last fall I read something about carrying chrysanthemum stock plants over winter in a coldframe. I am short of room and thought it would be well to find out a little more about this. Let us suppose that mum stock plants are put out in a frame after Thanksgiving; about two weeks later they are covered with plenty of leaves and straw to keep them from freezing. They would have to be covered till March 1; then some of the leaves could be taken from them, but all this time they would not get any light. Would they produce good cuttings in April?

I have been led to believe that mum stock plants might, perhaps, be carried over winter in frames in just the same way as bulbs for Easter. Would it be advisable to cover them as I have described, and keep light from them until early spring? E. H. M.—Ia.

I would not like to guarantee that E. H. M.'s plants will be in good shape in the spring if they do not have any light at all. They will carry along a little while without light, but if kept dark without getting actually frozen, they will send out little white shoots like celery or rhubarb, which would be useless.

I would suggest that E. H. M. use sashes, if possible, and put straw around the sides and top sash. Then, when the weather is mild, the straw can be taken from the top and a little air admitted, particularly when the days are getting longer and there is increasing sunlight and warmer weather. Chrysanthemums can be handled during the winter in coldframes without much trouble, but some little degree of light must be allowed them. Chas. H. Totty.

CHRYSANTHEMUM LEAF-MINERS.

I am enclosing three leaves from pompon mums. The plants are infested with small white insects, which bore between the tissues of the leaves. The insects are from one-sixteenth to one-eighth of an inch long and are pure white. Kindly tell me their name and origin and the best way to destroy them. H. V. T.—Pa.

These evidently are small leaf-miners similar to those which attack marguerites. They can be successfully controlled by spraying with Black Leaf 40 or any good nicotine solution. Spray in the late afternoon and try to avoid wetting the flowers, if possible.

SOME NEW MUMS.

Richmond is one of the varieties exhibited before the Chicago committee of the C. S. A. October 28, when it scored 91 points. It is a yellow incurved of much commercial interest, raised by the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.

Mrs. C. C. Pollworth is a yellow that will be offered to the trade in the course of time as an early Bonnaffon. It was raised by the C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, and has been scored by three C. S. A. committees this season: Chicago, 89; Philadelphia, 89; Cincinnati, 86.

Niphetos is another of the novelties of the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind. It is a large, early incurved white and was scored 90 points by the C. S. A. committee at Chicago October 28.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY.

Work of the Committees.

The examining committees of the C. S. A. have submitted reports on new varieties as follows:

At Philadelphia, October 28, Gorgeous, Daphne red, small-flowered single, submitted by Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, Pa., scored as follows: Color, 30; form, 16; stem and foliage, 15; substance, 18; total, 79.

At Philadelphia, October 28, Delicata, cameo pink, large-flowered single, submitted by Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, Pa., scored as follows: Color, 34; form, 17; stem and foliage, 17; substance, 18; total, 86.

At Philadelphia, October 28, Rosamundi, Persian lilac shading to pink, large-flowered single, submitted by Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, Pa., scored as follows: Color, 36; form, 18; stem and foliage, 16; substance, 18; total, 88.

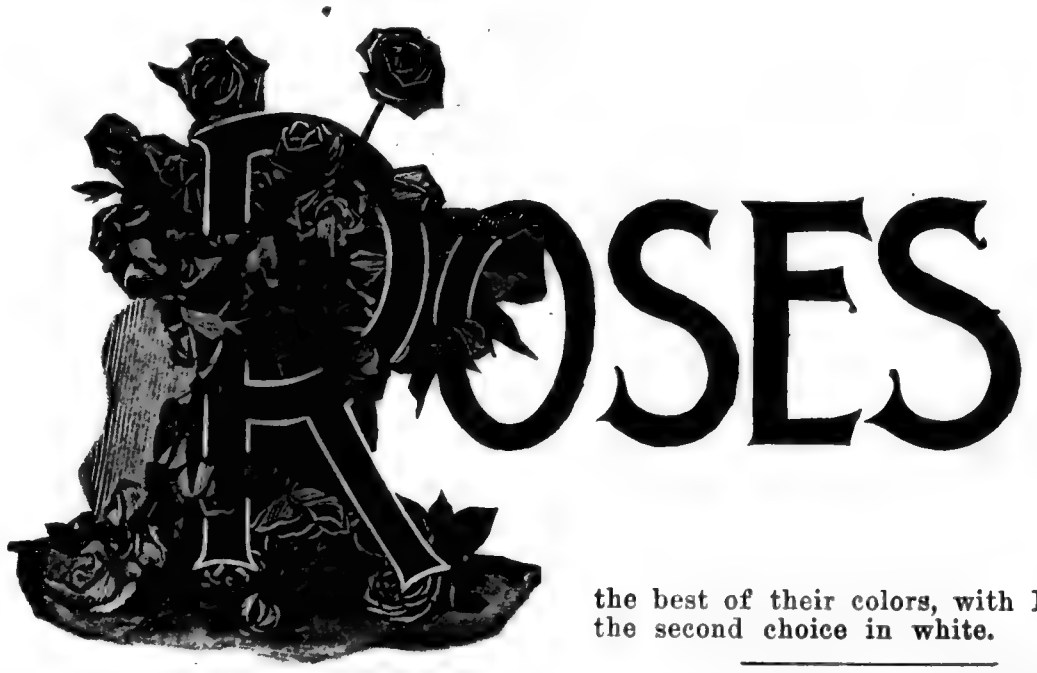
At Philadelphia, October 28, Miss Anola Wright, pink, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 12; foliage, 12; substance, 11; size, 9; total, 85.

At Philadelphia, October 28, Smith's Imperial, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 17; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 14; foliage, 13; substance, 13; size, 9; total, 89.

At Philadelphia, October 28, Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, yellow, Japanese incurved; submitted by C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, Wis., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 8; stem, 14; foliage, 13; substance, 14; size, 8; total, 89.

At Chicago, October 28, Smith's Imperial, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 19; form, 14; fullness, 10; stem, 14; foliage, 14; substance, 14; size, 9; total, 94.

At Chicago, October 28, Yondota, pink, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 7; stem, 14; foliage, 14; substance, 12; size, 9; total, 88.



At Chicago, October 28, October Herald, bronze yellow, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 19; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 14; foliage, 14; substance, 14; size, 9; total, 93.

At Chicago, October 28, Mrs. C. C. Pollworth, yellow, incurved, submitted by C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, Wis., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 17; form, 13; fullness, 9; stem, 14; foliage, 14; substance, 13; size, 9; total, 89.

At Chicago, October 28, Niphetos, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 13; fullness 9; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance, 14; size, 10; total, 90.

At Chicago, October 28, Richmond, yellow, incurved, submitted by the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 15; fullness, 10; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance, 14; size, 8; total, 91.

OUTDOOR ROSES IN SOUTH.

I intend to plant outdoors about 1,000 rose plants, for next season's blooming. Please advise me if it would be better to use dormant field-grown plants this fall than plants from pots in the spring. I want a good cut during the entire season. Also please name the best pink and white varieties for this climate.

J. W. B.—Miss.

I would advise J. W. B. to plant dormant field-grown rose plants. These will give immediate returns in the spring and more than pay for the difference in price from young stock. If you intend to use young stock, I would advise you to plant it at once. In your prairie soil roses will grow luxuriantly. It would be well, however, to set the plants in beds, so that you can reach them with the hose in dry weather. The Cochets, pink and white, are easily the best of their colors, with Kaiserin the second choice in white. L.

HARDWOOD ROSE CUTTINGS.

Can hybrid teas and perpetual roses be successfully grown from hardwood cuttings taken from outdoor plants during October and November, which are kept in a cellar until calloused, and then put on a greenhouse bench with bottom heat? If so, how should they be handled in order to have them well rooted by March 10? Of what size should a house be for rooting about 40,000 or 50,000 cuttings at one time, and how much piping would it require? Any information you can give me will be appreciated. C. F. B.—Wash.

A good proportion of the hardwood cuttings will root if treated as you suggest. Tie the cuttings in small bundles and pack them in moist sand or sandy soil in the cellar. A narrow propagating house with two side benches would be the most economical and practical. Such a house need not be over ten feet wide. The sides should be boxed in tightly and sufficient piping should be made to hold an even temperature of 65 degrees in the sand. The top heat can be 15 degrees lower.

I would use four rows of 2-inch steam pipes on either side, or a flow and two returns of 4-inch hot water pipes. This would give you ample heat. Do not try to run a high temperature overhead; 45 degrees will be much better than 55 degrees.

Put the cuttings in the benches on or about January 15. They will not root so quickly as those of half-ripened wood, and any attempt to rush them will result disastrously. I presume you would want to pot them singly as soon as they are rooted, or perhaps, if your climate is sufficiently mild, you could run them out in nursery rows. The safest plan, however, would be to pot them off singly. A house seventy-five feet long, with propagating benches three feet wide on each side, should give you ample space for the number mentioned. C. W.

ROSE CUTTINGS OUTDOORS.

If hardwood rose cuttings are taken, put in sand and covered with soil, do you think they will root by spring? I have no coldframe or greenhouse and I want hardwood cuttings for spring.

A. K. K.—Mont.

Can't you put your hardwood rose cuttings in sandy soil on the floor of a cold cellar? Be sure the earth is moist. A little freezing will do no harm. If you will do this a good many will be well calloused by spring, when they can go out in nursery rows, be watered and well tamped, and a good proportion will grow. This would be much better than keeping them outdoors. C. W.

WHERE DIPLOMACY WON'T DO.

We would be pleased to have you give us some advice on roses, how to exterminate red spider. Is there any insecticide we can use in the form of a spray or fume? So far we have used only clear water, but we do not seem to be able to clean the house.

T. W. C.—Minn.

The only way to get the upper hand of the red spider is to syringe with cold water. The less water and the more force is used the better it will be.

CANNAS

TESTING CANNAS IN TENNESSEE.

[This is the first of four articles that describe the results of canna tests on trial grounds near Nashville, Tenn. The other three articles will appear in early issues of The Review.]

Again this year we carried on our experiments with cannas, adding about fifty of the newer candidates for popular favor, as well as several unnamed seedlings kindly furnished by some of the best growers in the country. The purpose of our tests was to determine what were the best cannas for use in this latitude, so that when we offered our customers the best there was to be had in any color we could know that we were really doing what we claimed. We were especially anxious to know whether our own seedlings were better than something already produced, and so worthy of introduction.

We carried on our experiments in two separate blocks, each of which contained all of the varieties we had. In one block of about one and one-fourth acres the plants were grown in ordinary good field soil, without fertilizer of any kind and without water other than the normal rainfall. The other lot was placed in excellent soil, well fertilized with stable manure, and either heavily mulched or given plenty of water. We took notes of all varieties at intervals all summer, and have made up our conclusions as a result of comparing the two plantings. In a number of instances we also noted carefully the results in public parks and private grounds where the same varieties were grown. We submit the report feeling sure that it should be of value to members of the trade in determining what varieties to try in their own locality.

Some of the Best White Sorts.

Last season we were not satisfied with our test of white cannas, as there were several candidates for favor that we did not grow, or we grew them in too small quantities to arrive at true conclusions. After this season's tests we are convinced that while we do not yet have a white canna that is really satisfactory, it is coming in the near future. In fact, we are about as near there as we are to a really good, true yellow.

Blanche Wintzer is the only truly white canna to date, so far as we have seen. It is as white as a calla; at least, it is so in our hot summer sun, by the time it has been in bloom two or three hours. The flowers are almost as large as those of an orchid-flowered variety, and the heads are large. But this is as far as we can go in our praise. It is too dwarf, and too weak a grower to be of great merit as a bedder. Its greatest value is as a mother of something better.

Eureka is well named. It is as strong a grower as any canna needs to be, and is as free a bloomer as any of the reds. Of course it is not white. However, it is white before the flower falls and is no more than a deep cream at any time. It does not do its best without plenty of water and good soil. It is bound to be one of the cannas of the future.

A Specially Vigorous White.

Flag of Truce is the only other good white canna. Like Eureka, it is not perfectly white, but comes as near being so as does that variety. It is faintly dotted with crimson-pink. As compared with Eureka, it grows slightly taller, and the individual flower is larger in that it has decidedly broader petals. Its heads are larger and each shoot normally produces four heads, while Eureka produces but three. It produces more plants in a season also, and in soil that lacks manure and water is decidedly the better variety. Under park conditions, where there is plenty of water and the soil is good, Eureka has prettier foliage and makes just as good a show. Both are tiptop varieties, as strong growers as can be found, and as free bloomers.

We do not hesitate to say that thus far there are no other white varieties on the market that are as worthy of growing as the three we have mentioned. Of course, Mt. Blanc will be sold next season in greater quantities than either of the foregoing, but only because it is cheap, while neither of the others is cheap at present or will be for at least two more years.

The Variegated Cannas.

Under the head of variegated cannas we group those that are distinct enough in coloring to show two distinct colors at a distance, say 100 or more feet.

Queen Charlotte, though an old variety, is still hard to beat. It is so generally known that it needs no description. As a border plant or for massing in front of shrubbery it has not been excelled to date.

A second season with Gaiety has convinced us that it is properly named. The plant is fully five feet tall and a rapid multiplier, every shoot producing three large heads of flowers. The color is a mingling of orange, scarlet and

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

KUNDERD DEFENDS THE IRIS.

I always read The Review with both interest and profit, but the comment on C. S. Harrison's article on the iris as the national flower, by John J. Hitz and my good friend B. C. Auten, in a recent issue, were of special interest to me. While I am a great admirer of the goldenrod, I must differ with Mr. Auten on his severe criticism of the iris. Last spring I had the pleasure of seeing Bertrand H. Farr's wonderful collection of iris in bloom at Wyomissing, Pa., and I believe if Mr. Auten had been with me he would have been as enthusiastic over the marvelous beauty of the newer iris as I am. Both Mr. Auten and myself are great lovers of the gladiolus, but if there is any other one flower I should select it would probably be the iris. Last season I had a choice collection of Mr. Fryer's new iris seedlings in bloom. I certainly believe in the newer iris, as well as in the better standard kinds, and believe if the general public could see them in bloom their variety and beauty would take the country by storm and there would not be stock enough in existence to half supply the enormous demand.

While writing my "opinion" it might be helpful to some of your readers to relate my method of handling the cut blooms of the iris. As is well known, this flower when in bloom is fragile and is therefore susceptible to damage from breakage in transportation and handling. I have found a good way to get the best results from the iris as a cut flower, especially where it is to be packed for shipment. It is to cut the spikes with the best unopened buds and not the spikes which show the finest blooms at the time of cutting. When wanted for the day following the cutting of spikes, I aim to cut with as many large buds as possible. I certainly believe the iris will become popular as soon as the wonderful newer varieties become better known and better methods of packing and transportation are devised. I have no flower to suggest to be adopted as our national flower, but cannot see how a more beautiful flower than the iris can be found, nor one which is so adapted to universal culture and at so little expense. BAILEY'S CYCLOPEDIA, VOL. V.

["The Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture," by L. H. Bailey. Published by the Macmillan Co., New York. Volume V, containing pages 2423 to 3041, fully illustrated with engravings in the text and with full-page plates, several of them colored. To be completed in six volumes. Price per volume, strongly and neatly bound in cloth, $6.]

Five volumes of the total six—so near to accomplishment is this great task of book-making. And the completion of the work will be a notable event in the horticultural world. The achievement will be a landmark in horticultural progress. These assertions are not extravagant or fanciful, but are intended only as a moderate, matter-of-fact statement of the high rank and great value of the Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture. It is in reality, as well as in name, the standard, supreme horticultural authority in America.

As intimated previously by this reviewer, the value of the books to the florist depends chiefly on the use that the florist makes of them. The inherent helpfulness of the books themselves is almost unbounded. The limitations are principally in the user of the cyclopedia, rather than in the cyclopedia itself. Some craftsmen have more facility than others in deriving knowledge from the printed page. Some continually absorb practical information from all possible sources, including books and trade papers. They collect facts wherever obtainable, and afterward coin or transmute the facts into solid money. Others, however, learn almost entirely from personal experience, and perhaps pay enough for the experience to purchase many copies of Bailey's cyclopedia.

With five of the six volumes now available, the cyclopedia already is more nearly complete than are many other books that make great pretensions of covering their subject thoroughly. In how many works of reference, aside from an ordinary unabridged dictionary, can you find more than five-sixths of the items for which you look?

For sale by The Review on the same terms as are offered by the publishers.

MORE AZALEAS.

A steamer from Rotterdam last week discharged the following consignments of plants, shrubs and trees, most of which undoubtedly are of Belgian origin, including the much-discussed azaleas. This shipment, together with a larger one two weeks previously, confirms last week's statement of the foreign trade adviser that the German authorities have no objection to the exportation to the United States of Belgian horticultural products, and that a belief to the contrary on the part of some is due to a misunderstanding.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

J. F. Wilcox & Sons, of Council Bluffs, Ia., are in line with their specials. Roses and chrysanthemums are clean, thrifty stock. "The shipping trade is good and prospects are bright," said Roy Wilcox.

Lon Foster, of Furrow & Co., of Oklahoma City, Okla., was showing a prospective bride one of the company's most expensive bride's bouquets, as illustrated in an album. Following her selection and departure, I commented on her liberal taste. "It is the rule rather than the exception nowadays," observed Mr. Foster. "The best is none too good, and it is so with all our patrons—a most encouraging thing."

Stiles & Co., of Oklahoma City, are cramped for room, but said that they are unable to obtain an equally desirable location nearby. "It is one of the best locations and must suffice for the present," commented Mr. Stiles, adding: "Business was never better than now."

A plank in the platform of S. S. Butterfield, of Oklahoma City, who is a likely winning candidate for the legislature, is the promise of a bill to beautify the spacious grounds surrounding the beautiful capitol building nearing completion.

Otto Lang, of Dallas, Tex., says that he has received compliments from "all over," following the illustration of his unique landscape advertisement in The Review. The mural advertisement certainly shows up strikingly and illustrates what can be done on what would otherwise be a bare wall.

"Business is humming in Texas," says R. C. Kerr, of Houston. "I am engaging a night storeman for the better care of out-of-town orders. This will avoid confusion in the morning and will be, I believe, a plan adopted by all who cater to the country trade." Mr. Kerr predicts that a delegation of fifty or more will accompany him when he sails from New Orleans for Manhattan next August to preside at the convention of the S. A. F. W. M.

OBITUARY

William Malloy.

William Malloy, one of the most widely known salesmen in the Boston market, died November 7 in the Natick hospital. The funeral will be held November 10. Mr. Malloy formerly was with the Waban Rose Conservatories and for some years was manager in Boston for the Budlong Co., of Auburn, R. I. He was highly esteemed.

W. N. C.

Michael Donovan.

Michael Donovan, a veteran gardener of Newport, R. I., died November 1 at the home of his brother, John Donovan, with whom he made his home. Mr. Donovan, who was more than 70 years of age, was for many years gardener and caretaker at the Winans estate, first for the late Thomas Winans and later for the son, the late Ross Winans. The deceased is survived by a large number of nieces and nephews, besides his brother.

W. H. M.

George Cartwright.

We regret to report the death of George Cartwright, treasurer of the Boston Flower Exchange, Boston, which occurred at his home, 33 Dale street, Roxbury, Mass., November 2, after a brief illness. The deceased was a native of the north of England and at the age of 10 came to America with his father, who was a trained gardener. After settling in Wellesley, the deceased followed the nursery business for some years, but later entered the florists' business at Dedham, where he remained for more than twenty-five years. He was, in his day, the most successful local grower of Niphetos roses. For a number of years Mr. Cartwright had devoted his spare energies to selling flowers on commission for a number of growers at the Boston Flower Exchange. On the formation of a wholesale flower market in Boston, Mr. Cartwright was elected a director and treasurer, both of which positions he held until his death. Had he lived but two or three days longer he would have been reëlected treasurer by the board of directors for his twenty-fifth term. October 28 he attended the annual meeting and banquet of the Flower Exchange, at Young's hotel, and read his annual report. At the same meeting he was reelected a director. He attended his stand in the market only two days before the end.

The deceased was a quiet, genial, conscientious, conservative, careful and much respected man in florists' circles, and his loss is keenly felt in the market, with which he was closely connected for so long. He was married in 1880 to Miss Anna Seitz, of Roxbury, who survives him, as well as a daughter, Mrs. Emma Taggert, of Roxbury; two sons, Edward S. Cartwright, of California, and Fred J. Cartwright, now with the Henshaw Floral Co., of New York; a sister, Mrs. A. S. Morgan, of New York; four brothers, one of whom, Jarvis, now is a retired florist, and another, Elijah, is in business at Wellesley.

Funeral services were held at the home of the deceased November 5. There was a large gathering, including the directors and numerous other members of the Flower Exchange. The latter organization sent a superb floral tribute, as did many business concerns and friends. Burial was at Wellesley, Mass.

W. N. C.

Frank Sobicek.

Frank Sobicek, of Sayville, N. Y., an employee of a Blue Point, N. Y., florist, was found dead November 7 in the cellar of his home. Wrapped about the deceased's head were towels and other articles taken from a clothes line in the yard, and near the body was a bottle containing chloroform. The circumstances, said the coroner, indicated feud murder.

Mrs. Sobicek told the authorities she had been awakened early in the morning by a noise in the yard, as if dogs had got in. Her husband went out to investigate and she fell asleep. At breakfast time he was missing. Then she found his body.

She knew of no enemies of her husband, she said, though her home in Blue Point was once set on fire and at another time her home in Sayville was robbed.

The deceased, who was 27 years of age, is survived by three children as well as his wife.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Rose for Registration.

The following rose has been offered for registration by Fred Breitmeyer, Mount Clemens, Mich.:

Name, Pink Ophelia. Color, a beautiful shade of rose-pink; a sport from Ophelia, but a stronger and more vigorous grower than the parent; originated with us two years ago.

...NEWS NOTES...

Fostoria, O.—A. J. Vander Horst, a member of the firm of H. J. Vander Horst & Son, of St. Marys, has started a sort of agency here by opening salesrooms and a greenhouse at 701 West Van Buren street.

Des Moines, Ia.—A. J. Zwart and James S. Wilson, Jr., trading as Zwart & Wilson, announce that October 26 they "took over by purchase from Gus Pappas the entire business formerly conducted under the style of the Alpha Floral Co., including lease on the present location to run ten years from completion of the new building soon to be erected."

Lincoln, Ill.—Gullett & Sons will keep open house, Friday, November 10, for visitors to the flower show held by the Illinois State Florists' Association, at Bloomington, Ill., November 9 and 10. The train will leave Bloomington at 1:30, arriving at Lincoln one hour later. Guests will then be shown through the firm's houses. Dinner will be served in the evening.

Amherst, Mass.—November 11 to 13 will be staged the biggest flower show ever seen at Massachusetts Agricultural College. Besides the sixty or more classes exhibited by the college, there will be twenty classes open to florists and keen competition is looked for. Several of the Boston florists, among whom are H. M. Robinson, William Penn and Thomas Galvin, have volunteered to send exhibits. A joint meeting of the M. A. C. Club and the Northampton and Holyoke Florists' Club will be held Monday evening and will be followed by a snappy social.

New Orleans, La.—A number of lots near the Metairie cemetery have been acquired by Frank Reith, who has plans for a nursery on the property.

Norfolk, Va.—After a year out of the business, Mrs. A. E. Fricke has "come back," proving that, despite its uncertainties and more or less fluctuating fortunes, the florists' business has its attractions.

Montgomery, Ala.—Frank Browne, of the Morningview Greenhouses, has a new coleus of which he thinks highly. It is a seedling of Golden Bedder crossed by Beckwith's Gem. The center of the leaves is rich red, bordered with a deep yellow band. He is thinking of naming the variety and putting it on the market.

New Orleans, La.—The sale of chrysanthemums in New Orleans for All Saints' day this year produced some curious conditions. The supply of flowers was greatly in excess of the demand. This is attributed to a great overproduction by local florists and amateur gardeners. The weather in New Orleans this year has been favorable to the production of chrysanthemums. Flowers as large and fine as any grown elsewhere in the United States were produced in all parts of the city in the open air. The amateurs disposed of their wares at prices greatly below the cost of production. Unfortunately, this class of producers did not figure their labor and put their product on the market recklessly. The result was a collapse in prices. The finest varieties sold at 25 cents per dozen and in a few localities the price is reported to have gone even lower. The supply was so large that dealers anxious to dispose of their goods are said to have driven their wagons to the cemeteries at 4 o'clock in the morning. An immense number of flowers were sold, but the market was not profitable.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

FLOWER store window displays in most cases merely are decorations, not advertisements.

EVEN a grouch can make himself agreeable to a prospective buyer of anything that he has to sell.

WHY is it the trade in general makes such small use of the iris? There are few flowers possessed of richer coloring and there is scarcely anything easier to grow, but there are not many florists who ever recommend the iris to a customer.

"JUST a little token of appreciation" was the card in a box of excellent chrysanthemums that came to The Review from a reader, Leonard Lawson, at Rockford, Ill. A certificate of merit for culture would be due Mr. Lawson in any flower show.

IN the shortage of coal, and the accompanying high price, the growers are getting a taste of what publishers have for some months experienced with the paper market. If sympathy is of any use, the grower has ours, for the return to normal conditions may be long delayed.

BEYOND any question there are certain sections, north and south, between the mountains and the Great Lakes that afford special opportunities for growers for rapidly developing wholesale markets. The demand for flowers in that part of the United States now is increasing at a splendid rate.

"CERTAINLY DID THE WORK."

The classified ads in The Review, the little liners one advertiser calls the "Little Wonder Ads," while nearly all speak of them in terms of high praise, like this:

Please take out our ad of cyclamens, as we are sold out of them. The little ad certainly did its work in jig time.—Charles Sherwood, Waterloo, Ia., November 4, 1916.

When you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty sure he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

FAILURES ARE FEW.

The failures in general lines of business in October were less in number than in any recent year, according to R. G. Dun & Co., and failures among florists have been negligible in number and importance since early in the present year, when the boom in business began. But many florists now are on thin ice—the increase in the cost of doing business has not been offset by corresponding increases in selling prices. Conditions are shaping themselves so that a closer consideration of credits is imperative; many florists, especially those retailing the product of their own greenhouses, now are selling at no more than the cost of production and, with costs constantly rising, an increase in the number of business embarrassments in this trade seems only to be avoided by a change in business methods which many thus far have shown no indication of making.

BUSINESS SUFFERS CHECK?

Business never was so active as now, but the florists' trade has not benefited as it should for the reason that retail prices in this trade have not advanced in anything like the same proportion as have the things used in the business, coal for instance. But that high commodity prices are not an unmixed blessing is beginning to be apparent. In many lines of business a check is being experienced through the scarcity of raw material and the consequent famine prices.

The Federal Reserve Board has just made public reports on business conditions from the twelve Federal Reserve Agents which are optimistic in the extreme. When they are submitted to careful study, however, there are found various elements of uncertainty and in some instances positive pessimism. It is not to be denied that the greater part of the prosperity of the United States is due to the demand created by the European war. It has been reported that high and increasing cost of everything used in manufacturing is the most pronounced feature of the present business condition. Raw materials of practically every kind are scarce. Manufacturers therefore find it impossible to take full advantage of the great demand for goods and to extend their business as they might were the present growth in business brought about by healthy conditions.

In the coal market anthracite continues strong and steady, with demands greater than offerings. Bituminous is in active request, with supplies light because the scarcity of labor is limiting production. The railroads, steel plants and large manufacturing concerns are buying freely at steadily advancing prices. The chief factors in the coal situation seem to be the great scarcity of labor and the shortage of cars, which conditions are tending to seriously curtail production. The production of coke is still far under the demand, and record prices are being offered for the limited output.

It is feared here that the growing scarcity of coal will force many factories to close down. This is just as serious an outlook for the business man as is the constant increase in cost and growing scarcity of raw materials. The situation might be described as a period of high prices and not of healthy prosperity, because starvation is what is foreseen, not only by the cheap laborer, but also by the small manufacturer who finds his supply of raw materials cut off.

But there is every assurance that florists in general will have the largest season in their experience. While the high cost of food, fuel and clothing may restrain some who would buy flowers, most of the regular patrons of florists have a margin above the cost of sustenance and will not be greatly affected by the cost of other articles. There has been no advance in the retail prices of flowers, except in rare instances. It does not promise to be an especially profitable season for florists for that very reason—costs are greater but selling prices are not higher. The trade should raise its retail prices moderately all along the line, not enough to check the buying of flowers, but enough to put more money in circulation in the trade.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

To what several causes the present condition of the market principally is to be attributed it is difficult to conjecture. Certain it is, however, that conditions are below par and far from normal. With the extraordinarily warm weather which prevailed last week, crops of all kinds have quite naturally been hastened, bringing to the market great quantities of all varieties of mums, pompons, roses and carnations, mostly of exceptionally fine quality. This great quantity of stock has glutted the market and the result is that much good stock has had to be sold at sharp concessions. There is a good deal of poor material on the market and, although some of this was taken up by smaller florists and flower stands, a large part of it has been hard to sell at any price. High grade stock fared better, as a rule, and was for the best part cleared at fairly satisfactory prices. Although shipping is not what could be wished for, it still is holding up fairly well. It is the city trade that has suffered most by the unusually heavy supply and the unseasonably warm weather.

American Beauties in all lengths are in sufficient supply, but on the whole are clearing fairly well. Other varieties of roses are on the market in large quantities, and of good quality, but are moving slowly, much good accumulated stock being disposed of at sharp concessions. Carnations are now on the market in ample supply; in fact, it might be stated that there are too many, for the demand is not keeping pace with the supply and consequently some excellent stock has been moved only after a considerable cut in price.

It Will Pay You to Handle Our Big Mums and Pompons

THE Mum season is at its height with us—and with our customers. The best sorts are ready in quantity and prices for first-class stock are distinctly moderate—it is worth the Retailer's best effort to push our stock for the profit he will make and the satisfaction his customers will get. We have all sizes and colors in the big Mums and all types and colors in bunch Mums.

(We do not handle the surplus stock of those who grow Mums for their own retail trade, nor do we handle catch crops grown to fill a vacant corner—and no week-old California cloth-house Mums. The Mums we offer all are fine, fresh flowers, grown by Mum specialists.)

FINE CARNATIONS

You can get of us all the Carnations you need—fine stock, all the best varieties, at prices that will look very reasonable in comparison to what Carnations have been bringing.

SHORT—BEAUTIES—MEDIUM

We are ready for an increase in orders for short and medium Beauties. The quality of the stock is excellent and we have a large supply—the largest in the west.

PLENTY OF ROSES

There may be other Roses as fine as ours, somewhere, but we do not know of any large supply that averages such good quality—and you can see for yourself by reading our list that we have all the most popular varieties, the Roses your trade calls for. The cut is large and prices are depressed by the competition of Mums, so we are able to give extra good value.

DOUBLE—VIOLETS—SINGLE

If you are not satisfied with the quality of the Violets you are using, try ours. They are worth what we ask for them.

ORCHIDS

We offer fine Cattleyas in quantity.

VALLEY

You always can get fine Valley here.

EASTER LILIES

While we never are without good Giganteum Lilies, our supply this week is larger than usual. The stock is fine, cut tight for shipping.

The averages of recent weeks are said to have been cut in two.

Mums and pompons of all varieties are in extremely heavy supply and the demand is not great enough to keep them moving. Lower prices therefore have obtained. There are those who believe that the depression of the market principally has been due to the action of certain wholesale houses which obtained large quantities of chrysanthemums from California. The first shipments of these came when the supply was less than the demand, but heavy shipments last week came in at a time when the local supply was all that the legitimate trade could consume. The result was to depress prices to the point where the California stock is barred by the high cost of transportation, packing and waste, for of course the buyers prefer home stock at the same price.

Valley is the one thing which may be said to have been satisfactory in the last week, clearing easily. The principal sources of supply have advanced their price to $6 per hundred. Lilies are easy, as the demand is small. Orchids are in good supply, with a fair demand, but are selling at slightly lower prices than hitherto have obtained. Violets are not in much demand, but are clearing pretty well at widely varying prices. Sweet peas are coming in a little late this season and still are scarce. The demand, however, is fair, and what stock comes in is clearing easily. In fact, November 4 it was impossible to buy any on the market. Snapdragons are in moderate supply. The demand is enough to clear stock at a fair figure.

Greens are in good supply and are moving fairly well.

Club Doings.

There is every prospect of a first-class show at Hotel La Salle next Sunday, November 12, when the Florists' Club will hold its Floral Art and Novelty display. A large number of invitations have been sent out, by the club, by exhibitors and by the hotel management. The right people will be there. A large number of retailers will be represented by baskets, bouquets or table decorations and all the principal growers will send cut flowers, which the committee will arrange in vases for effect. Everyone is invited to help the show along.

The club will hold a postponed meeting at Hotel Morrison November 16, when officers will be nominated for 1917. The postponement is because many of the active club members went to Bloomington on the 10:15 train this morning, November 9, to attend the meeting and show of the Illinois State Florists' Association.

October Weather.

October was an unusually favorable month for the growers, although there were wide extremes of temperature, the range being as much as 31 degrees within twenty-four hours and 52 degrees for the month. The percentage of possible sunshine was ten per cent above normal, although the precipitation was fifty per cent above normal.

Various Notes.

The society editor of the largest daily newspaper has counted 360 debutantes

THENANTHOS

A Commercial Red Carnation

THENANTHOS is a new carnation evolved by John Then, of Chicago, as a result of many years' study and work. All cuttings will be cold grown and packed under his immediate supervision. The following are some of its attributes:

Color—Brilliant scarlet of uniform shade.
Size—Flowers average over 3½ inches in diameter.
Fragrance—Strong and pleasing.
Stem—Strong but graceful, average length 2½ to 3 feet.
Keeping Qualities—Unusually good, as it has never shown any tendency to sleep in plant or when cut. An excellent keeper and shipper.
Sales—Demand always in excess of supply on Chicago market, and prices secured for Thenanthos have been the highest.

THENANTHOS cuttings will prove an unusually good investment for the up-to-date grower. So nearly perfect is it that it took sweepstakes cup for best seedling as well as medal certificate and first prize at the last Chicago Flower Show less than a year ago. Here are some of its features:

Growth—Habit of Scott, but stronger stem.
Prolific Bloomer—Averaging 30 flowers per plant.
Production—Strong producer of cuttings, easy to root average 90%.
Health—Free from rust or disease.
Seasonable—Blooms heavily in December, best time for red carnations, but also flowers splendidly throughout entire year, including the summer.
Foliage—Grows a bushy, large plant.

PARENTAGE

Thenanthos has an ancestry to be proud of. Its parentage is:

ENCHANTRESS X RED SEEDLING

This red seedling was a cross of

NELSON X LAWSON

Every one of these carnations is of such well known excellence that no comment is necessary. The characteristics of Scott are very marked in Thenanthos.

PRICES AND DELIVERY

THENANTHOS cold grown cuttings will be ready for delivery January 1st, 1917. The demand will prove a heavy strain on the supply. All shipments made in the order received, so let us book your requirements early.

who will have their coming-out parties before January 1. Only the better class of stores get the orders for debutantes' bouquets and baskets, but with some of the principal retailers it is a big item at this time of year, larger this season than ever before.

Local growers are on the anxious seat over the question of fuel supply. Not many of them have as much coal on their places as they usually have at this date and deliveries on contracts are slow, the coal dealers stating they can not get cars. Free coal on track, what little there is of it, is to be had at not less than two or three times the prices at which contracts were made last spring.

Peter Reinberg has named his new pompon mum for his friend, J. Hamilton Lewis.

The first pussy willows of the season arrived on the market November 1. They come from a local forcer and are of good quality. A feature is that this crop is the second which the same plants have yielded in one year. A difference of fifty-seven days in growth obtains within twenty-six miles of Chicago. This is the earliest that pussy willows ever have arrived on this market.

the service will be extended as far as the trade wants.

Among other varieties of carnations which N. J. Kruchten grows in his houses at 5308 North Western avenue, is the Aviator, with which he is having good success and of which he thinks highly.

Robert Newcomb, of the American Bulb Co., has returned from a trip south. He says he found florists doing an excellent business all along the route, nearly all commenting on the need for higher prices, but each afraid to be the first to ask them. Mr. Newcomb believes those who retail should start the upward movement now and not wait for a further rise in costs.

At the houses of Wietor Bros., mums and pompons are at the height of their season. Quite a number of pompons were disbudded one to a stem this year, including Golden Climax, Buckingham, Emile, Mary Richardson, etc. This is the first year that Wietor Bros. have grown pompons this way and they are expectant as to how they will be received by the trade. A new pompon has also been originated. It is a cross with Emile and is of a wine color. It has not yet been registered.

J. F. Kidwell Co., 3530 Michigan avenue, has put a new light delivery car on the street.

Pyfer & Olsem, Wilmette, have received a large shipment of azaleas, kentias and araucarias from Belgium. The stock arrived in good condition.

In the lobby of the Willoughby building, corner of Michigan avenue and Madison street, Joseph A. and Mary J. Wittmer are building up a nice trade. They have had years of experience in greenhouse work in Indiana and opened in Chicago about two months ago.

Emil Reichling is confident Peter Reinberg will have an exceptionally large crop of roses for Christmas. He has many houses pinched and coming on in fine shape for the holiday crop. At the carnation range everything is in full swing and a large crop is being cut.

W. J. Keimel believes in plenty of water, be it for man, beast, automobile or rose plant. They are indefatigable users of the hose at Elmhurst and wash men George Steil is one of the most active. He was born in the town of Maine, July 17, 1874. Besides owning one of the best truck gardens in the state he has found time during the last eight years to be secretary of the Cook County Truck Gardeners' and Farmers' Association, as well as an active member of the Illinois State Farmers' Institute and the Public Safety Commission, and to be an associate member of the Cook County Highway Commissioners' Association.

SOUTH BEND, IND.

The Market.

Politics has been red-hot in this town and has not benefited the flower business; nor has the fact that Michigan street has been blockaded for weeks, while car tracks were relaid, been to the advantage of the three retail stores of the city, all located on that thoroughfare. But trade has gathered volume steadily in spite of these handicaps and now is expected to go ahead at a pace stronger than ever.

South Bend is a busy manufacturing city and just now industry is greater than ever, factories having many war orders, so that buying power is higher than usual. That there are only seven florists in this city of nearly 60,000 people is explained by the fact that there are more private greenhouses than florists and that the area of private glass nearly equals the area of commercial glass. None of the branches of the three leading families of the city patronizes the florists except on rare occasions. Consequently the calls for flowers, while numerous, are at moderate prices.

Various Notes.

The Beyer Floral Co., occupying the entire building at 131 North Michigan street, has about 9,000 feet of glass in the outskirts of town. A few carnations, mums and bulbous flowers are grown, but most of the space is used for pot plants. Most of the large quantity of cut flowers needed in the store are obtained from Chicago, distant only eighty-five miles. The second floor of the store building is used for a large stock of birds and goldfish.

At 319 North Lafayette street, only a few blocks removed from the business center, is the establishment of W. D. Rettic, one of the oldest in northern Indiana and typical of the old style place growing and retailing in a residence district. Before the days of downtown stores such places constituted the greater part of the industry. Mr. Rettic never has been able to grow as much as he sells.

The South Bend Floral Co., the largest range of glass in town, was started with a flourish several years ago by Irving Gingrich, now a teacher of the voice. The establishment is the property of A. Kinyon, who grows a general line for the retail store at 216 South Michigan street.

Adam J. Beehler has doubled his facilities this year; he has built a second house. He retails from the greenhouses and is doing a prosperous business.

Williams & Co., at 138 South Michigan street, took over the retail store of Willis Kinyon when the latter decided to confine his attention to the greenhouses at 1702 Portage avenue, where he grows a general line for the neighborhood trade. Williams & Co. have no glass; they get a part of their stock from local growers when they have a surplus but draw most of their cut flowers from the Chicago market.

H. M. Kinzie is a more recent addition to the ranks of the trade. He is located on the Lincoln highway east of town and is selling without difficulty all that he can produce.

The latest to enter the field is H. H. Swain, on the edge of the city. He grew vegetables, flowers only as a hobby; but recently he has been branching out and bids fair to do well in a neighborhood way.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

A week of extremely warm and bright weather advanced chrysanthemums so quickly that there was some talk of a glut, but as yet the prices have not suffered. The public is beginning to take more interest in pompons, singles and crested forms, which are especially attractive this year and among which are many promising seedlings.

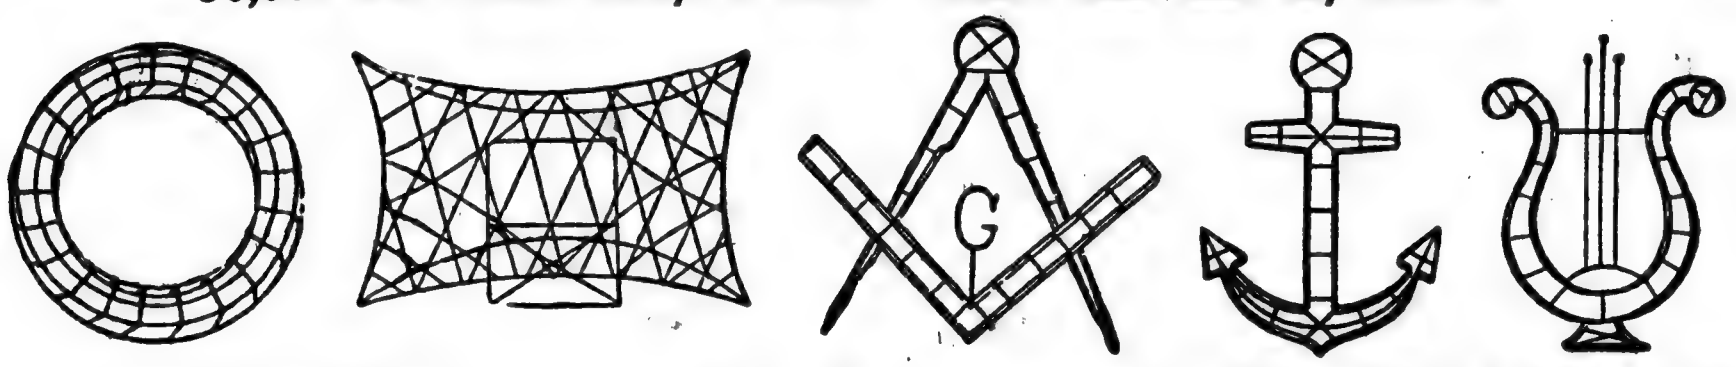
Because of the predominance of the mums, roses and carnations may be had in large lots at ridiculously low prices, extra select roses bringing only $6 and $7 per hundred. In order to move this stock, which is of first-class quality, some of the stores have resorted to the $1 box sales, which also include sweet peas, violets and snapdragons.

Weddings have been less numerous, but counter trade has been brisk, partly on account of much sickness in the city. Funeral work has been unimportant and has caused the price of lilies to drop to $1 per dozen. Greens have greatly improved in quality and increased in quantity.

Various Notes.

Mrs. A. P. Reynolds left November 2 for New York to purchase stock for the Circle Flower Store. Mr. Reynolds has returned from Chicago, where he went on a similar errand.

Raymond Jones, of the Advance Co., of Richmond, Ind., spent Sunday, November 5, with friends at the Country Club's golf links.



Albert Kempe is entirely sold out of potted chrysanthemum plants and now is cutting some fine sweet peas and snapdragons.

C. O. Wilcox, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, was a visitor in the city this week.

G. M. McDougall, landscape architect, whose office is in the Fletcher Savings & Trust building, will move to the second floor of the Circle Flower Store building, which will be given over entirely to garden furniture and novelties.

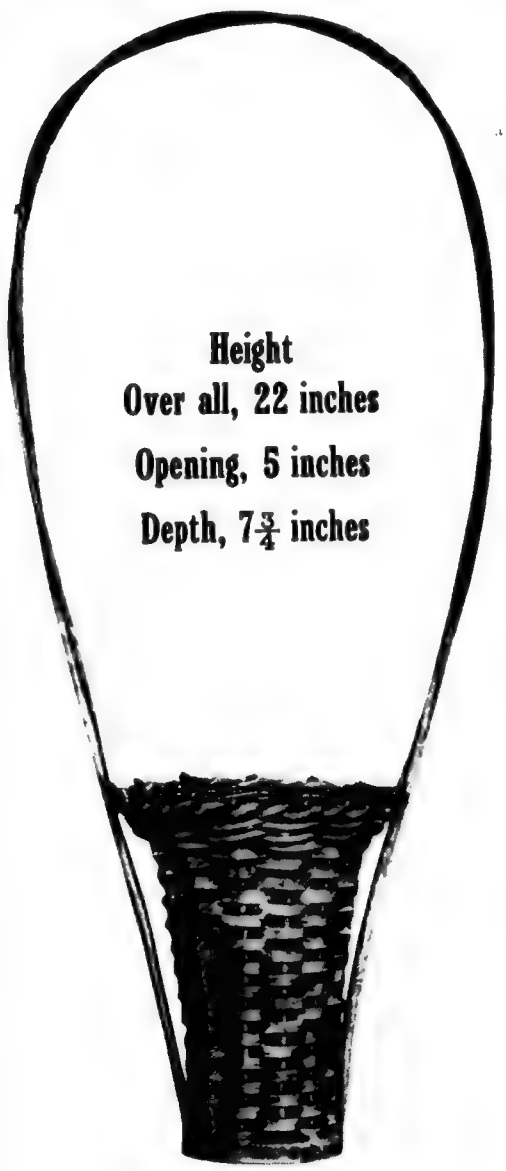
E. E. T.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

The month of November has started well, with a good demand for cut flowers, and the volume of business last week was equal to that of any week in October, if not surpassing it. The supply of cut flowers is large, chrysanthemums in numerous varieties reigning supreme. During the week Golden Wedding, Major Bonnaffon, in yellow and white, and pompons, in great variety, appeared in the market. Roses are of excellent quality, the bright sunshine of the last two weeks having done much to improve their quality as well as to increase the quantity, the only scarce varieties being Russell and Beauty. Shawyer and Killarney are plentiful in the pinks, while Ophelia, Sunburst and Ward are in good supply in the yellows.



Carnations are rapidly gaining a place in the market and prices are good. Violets are increasing in supply. This also is true of Easter lilies. The demand for these is excellent. The supply of lily of the valley is not sufficient to meet the demand, which is heavy owing to the great number of fall weddings. Cattleyas continue to arrive in large numbers and the demand is good.

The number of large weddings this year has been greater than that of any other year and decorative work has been heavy. October was an excellent month both for wholesalers and retailers. The stock generally was in good condition and the demand larger than that of the same month of any previous year.

The Doswell Floral Co. has the landscape work on Harrison Hill boulevard. The planting will be done on an elaborate scale.

A communication has been received in this city to the effect that no Christmas greens from New England must be used in Indiana this year. The order is by F. N. Wallace, the state entomologist, who has notified the railroad companies of the quarantine in Indiana, an action taken on account of the gypsy and brown-tail moths carried in New England Christmas trees, laurel and all kinds of greens, with the exception of mistletoe. Michigan, Wisconsin and other western states are free from the moths. The quarantine should not make prices higher, Mr. Wallace states.

November 4, but even they could not begin to clean up the stock.

Centennial week was one grand 7-day gala. The weather was as if made to order, such as we sometimes have at this season of the year. There was so much doing outdoors, however, that there was not much demand for flowers, either for homes or social functions. The wholesalers experienced the worst glut of flowers of a year and, to make matters worse, November 4 was a cold, rainy day that put a damper on all hopes as to a clean-up.

Various Notes.

George Burke, superintendent of parks, opened his shows November 5 at Schenley park and the north side conservatory. The plants and flowers are in fine condition and are a credit to the foremen, John Jones and James Moore.

The E. C. Ludwig Floral Co. and the other Ludwig concern were the only tradesmen represented in the centennial parade November 3, and they did their part creditably. Both had handsome displays and deserve credit for holding up the city's florists' business.

The Market.

The market is glutted with stock of all kinds and as a result low prices are the rule. The demand is steady and fair, but it is not strong enough to give a firm tone to the market in face of the heavy receipts.

Roses are too plentiful and many times it is difficult to move the best in anything like a satisfactory manner. Carnation receipts are much heavier and it now is impossible to clean up all that come in. The market is flooded with chrysanthemums of all varieties. Easter lilies and callas are plentiful. Other good items are orchids, valley and sweet peas. The first Paper Whites came in last week.

The Market.

Stock seems to have become more plentiful and prices are somewhat lower, although the drop is hardly noticeable on account of the daily clean-up. Roses are plentiful and are in fine shape. The cut is sufficiently large to take care of the demand and there does not seem to be a shortage of any one variety. Carnations are becoming more plentiful and the quality of the stock is good at this time. Owing to the dark, cloudy weather, this stock was somewhat soft and of a sleepy appearance for a few days, but the cut was disposed of at fair prices.

Chrysanthemums are arriving too heavily at this time and this hinders their sale to some extent. Early and late varieties are both in the market and the supply will not last so long as usual. The stock is in fine shape and is selling well despite the abundant supply. Bonnaffons are already in the market and, as these should be about too weeks later, they increase the supply at present to the detriment of the future supply.

Orchids are in good supply and are selling at $6 per dozen upward. Valley, of course, is scarce, and lilies are only in fair supply. Watertown violets are in good supply and the quality is good; in fact, much better than last year's at this time. Plants are moving well and the volume of sales should be a good forerunner of what the holiday business will be.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The market has broken so badly that all the wholesalers feel that their best efforts have been in vain. They have tried every method that ingenuity could suggest to dispose of the immense quantities of flowers that have been placed in their hands, with only moderate success. The change in the weather has reduced production. This leads to the hope that before long supply and demand will become more evenly balanced; then a better market will come.

An accurate report of the present conditions is disheartening. Fine weather and skillful culture have brought in a vast quantity of well grown chrysanthemums and pompons. The demand has been so light that low prices have been realized on most of the stock—prices about one-third less than value. Nothing is scarce, save possibly Vanda cærulea and Asparagus plumosus strings; neither of these items amounts to much in the sum total of business. Carnations have fallen in price. Roses have recovered a trifle under lighter receipts. Violets sell as the Sabbath approaches and lag during the middle of the week; quantity sales to clear up are made at extremely low figures.

The leading chrysanthemums today are Charles Rager, white; Major Bonnaffon, yellow; Chieftain, pink. There also is White Chieftain. Maud Dean, pink, is just commencing. There are other good varieties, but these will suffice to show that the midseason varieties are in their glory. Pompons, in a profusion of good sorts, are seen everywhere. Their price has declined in sympathy with the general market.

The Bulb Situation.

George D. Clark, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., is recognized as an authority on bulbs and their market in this country. So to him the question is put concerning present conditions in this field of enterprise. Mr. Clark said: "The importations of bulbs, particularly Dutch bulbs, have been extremely heavy this season. Even so the demand has outstripped the supply, making it impossible to fill many orders in full. There should be a general bulb clearing house, which would enable the larger importers to secure one from the other what each could spare that another required early in the season. There is an arrangement by which this is done before the season closes, but it becomes effective too late to be of much benefit. When it became apparent, about the middle of September, that certain varieties of bulbs would be in short supply, an effort was made to secure them by cable. This effort was frustrated by the British censor, who, fearing that the names of the bulbs might be a cable code for munitions of war, with a reverse meaning for send, blocked the shipment.

"This was especially aggravating because some of the ladies' garden clubs decided that purple and lavender shades of Darwin tulips would harmonize beautifully with Delphinium Belladonna, and so ordered these May tulips with a liberality that upset all calculations. It is too bad that the sources of supply in "Great quantities of bulbs were sold at low prices in the auction houses. The difficulty about these bulbs for the best buyers is that they frequently come from a number of sources, so that they cannot be depended upon for uniformity. There still are plenty of bulbs unsold in this country of certain varieties, but not more than enough to fill the probable demand during the closing weeks of the season."

sold in other years at $4 to $6 per dozen. Shipments of mums were never so large as at this date. They also are two weeks ahead of schedule time. Growers are astonished at the low prices, but wait for the later varieties and Thanksgiving to see the prices soar. The big pro-Hughes parade November 4 called for thousands of yellow mums and every retail window in New York and Brooklyn is a "thing of beauty." The big mum shows to be given in New York this week should emphasize the loveliness of the autumn queen.

Roses are unlimited in quantity, and their quality leaves nothing to be desired, but there are too many of them for retail requirements. The "sidewalk merchants" and department stores reap the benefit of these conditions. American Beauties hold their own and are again running an even race with Hadley. Prima Donna is fast improving and Francis Scott Key, Russell, Mock and Lady Stanley are superb. These deserve more appreciation than they receive.

Carnations do not sell above $2 per hundred, and their quality improves but slowly. The flowers have to be exceptionally good to merit this figure. Most of the arrivals sell at $10 per thousand and under.

Violets are larger, better colored and advancing more slowly. Valley continues strong and the supply is light. The top price now is $5 per hundred, and the same figure is quoted for longiflorum lilies. Orchids continue to hold steady at $35 per hundred, a few choice flowers realizing 40 cents.

The Plantsmen's Tour.

The New York and New Jersey Association of Plant Growers made its annual tour of the Long Island growers November 1, in five autos, and the perfect Indian-summer weather equaled that of a week before, when the annual visit was made to New Jersey growers. Those participating were A. L. Miller, Anton Schultheis, J. B. Fiesser, Alfred Zeller, L. Schmutz, Jr., Harry Schmutz, Julius Roehrs, Charles Koch, Christian Madsen, Herman Steinhoff, Louis Dupuy, Edward Dupuy, Charles Schwake, Charles Loechner, Henry Baumann, Joseph Baumann, Henry Dreyer, Paul Fischer, John Birnie, Fred Mience, George Scott, T. W. Langan, R. J. Irwin and J. A. Shaw.

At noon a splendid luncheon was served at A. Miller's establishment, at Jamaica, and the dinner in the evening was an honor to the Flatbush caterer.

At the banquet in the evening interesting addresses were made by President Fiesser, Anton Schultheis, Charles Schwake, Louis Dupuy, R. J. Irwin, Herman Steinhoff, Julius Roehrs, Charles Loechner and Abraham Lincoln Miller. Mr. Miller made a stirring plea in behalf of the next S. A. F. convention in New York.

At all the places visited the specialties grown were up to, and in many places above, the usual high standard. The establishments visited were those of W. H. Siebrecht, at Astoria; T. W. Langan, P. Haas & Son, Anton Schultheis, Louis Dupuy, J. M. Keller, Dreyer

Flowers are Flowers

¶But there is a difference. When it comes to measuring them up from a perfect standard, there are but few; the same is true of baskets. We don't claim that our baskets are the most perfect on the market, but we do ask your judgment, if you have used Neidinger's baskets, as to whether you have ever bought a more practical line with that rich appearance for as little money as you have from us.

¶A great many florists never ask the man who fills the basket if he has any preference for this or that basket, consequently he is not aware of the fact that there is a difference. Then, again, there is the florist has gotten into the old rut of buying from certain people. He does not know that he is probably paying a higher price for his baskets than his competitor, who he thinks is selling very cheaply; but if he only knew that this same competitor was probably making more profits on his baskets than he was, owing to the fact that his competitor was buying newer and more up-to-date baskets at a lower price than he, then the wise florist would look around elsewhere.

¶Don't fail to see the line our men have on the road.

¶All our baskets contain the non-leaking pan.

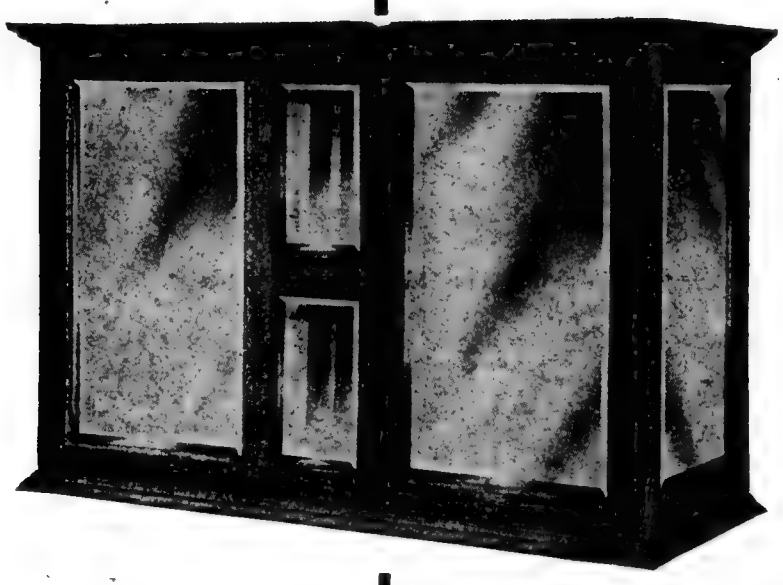
Various Notes.

J. H. Small & Sons' Halloween attracted much attention last week. Cornstalks, pumpkins, ears of corn, black cats and red devils were used artistically. Oak foliage in profusion, mums and crotons added to the charming effect. Crowds of interested spectators attended. Three of the best designers in the city now are with J. H. Small & Sons—Messrs. Hauser, Bridgman and Deery. The big store is complete and at its best, ready for the fall and winter season.



Ladies' night of the New York Florists' Club will be held Monday, November 13. Entertainments, dancing, decorations and refreshments will make this the greatest ladies' night the club members have ever enjoyed.

Siebrecht Bros. are comfortably settled in their new store at 922 Madison avenue, corner of Seventy-third street.

J. J. Coan had an exhibit November 4 of twelve dozen of the old favorite, Mme. Alpheus Hardy; also spikes of Strelitzia Reginæ, the first of the season.

H. E. Mengen, formerly with the Dards and Thorley stores, now is with Ramm's Flower Shop, 350 Madison avenue.

William Kather, formerly with Wadley & Smythe, has a pretty store at 754 Madison avenue, corner of Sixty-fifth street. Madison avenue now has more than twenty flower stores between Forty-second and Eighty-sixth streets and is fast becoming the retail florists' street of New York, as Twenty-eighth street has been and is the wholesalers' Mecca.

H. H. Burns, son of the veteran grower and wholesaler, A. S. Burns, of Woodside, has been successful in his retail store at 509 Madison avenue. He has added a fine, new auto to his delivery facilities. His brother, A. S. Burns, of Spring Valley, N. Y., has completed two houses, each 70x400, and has sold his residence and purchased forty acres of land not far distant, with an old mansion on the property. This is the range where lilies and Hadley roses are the specialties.

The congratulations of the trade are tendered J. R. Lewis and his bride, formerly Miss Freda Rafalsky, who were married October 26. Mr. Lewis is with Ralph M. Ward & Co.

The Kervan Co. is receiving large importations of immortelles from France.

Samuel Woodrow has added a new auto to his conveniences. His landscape work has kept him busy throughout the fall season.

The new store at 810 Madison avenue is the property of Rigo Bros. Both of these young men have been in the service of prominent wholesalers for many years.

Riedel & Meyer, Inc., have added another salesman to their force—a "straw which shows which way the wind is blowing."

The Geo. W. Crawbuck Co. expects to be ready for its house-warming before the middle of the month. The new store was a greatly needed enterprise.

Alexander McConnell's landscape work this fall has been extensive.

Roman J. Irwin reports many fall orders. The trophies of his hunt will soon adorn his office walls. Moose heads, similar to those he exhibits, are worth $500 per pair.

Max Schling's article in The Review for November 2 seems to have been read by every retailer in the city.

HOOSIERS VISIT RICHMOND.

Members of the Indiana State Florists' Association spent a most enjoyable day November 2, with their fellow tradesmen at Richmond, Ind., on the occasion of the monthly state meeting. The visitors were shown through the E. G. Hill Co. range, where new chrysanthemums, both in the large and small varieties, and about 10,000 seedling roses were displayed. The Joseph Hill Co. place and the Graves establishment—the latter now under the management of the Joseph Hill Co.—were visited. The main crops there are roses, carnations and chrysanthemums, in addition to a fine line of miscellaneous stock for the Cincinnati store. Other places of interest were the establishments of Fulle Bros., G. R. Gauss & Co., F. Lemon & Co., E. C. Ruch, John A. Evans Co. and Advance Co.

After assembling at the Pythian temple for luncheon, a straw vote was taken, which gave Mr. Hughes the lead by a large majority. After the collation E. G. Hill, presiding in the absence of President Vesey and both vice-presidents, called upon Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich., to address the assembly. Mr. Smith spoke of his work as a "profession" and not as a trade, and told of his new creation in chrysanthemums. He urged others to strive for new varieties. Mr. Smith was followed by Mr. Davis, of Des Moines, Ia., who spoke of his cucumber ranges. Other speakers were John Frees, of Cincinnati, O.; John Hartje, of Indianapolis; E. Forter, of Cincinnati; Fred Heinl, of Terre Haute, Ind.; J. A. Peterson, of Cincinnati; Robert Newcomb, of Chicago.

After the election of Frank Ball, of Indianapolis, and F. B. Snyder, of Newcastle, to membership, A. F. J. Baur proposed as honorary members Professors Sayre and Woodberry, of Purdue University, and the two were unanimously elected. Professor Sayre then gave an interesting summary of the experimental work at the university. Mr. Baur urged all out-of-state guests to encourage a large attendance at the meeting and exhibition of the American Carnation Society, which will be held at Indianapolis, January 31 and February 1.

Z. von Hartin, of Holland, gave a short talk contrasting the good-fellowship between American florists with that existing between the florists of the old country.

The visitors were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Roger W. Peterson, Henry Shepherd, E. G. Gullett, John Frees, E. Frees, E. Forter, Frank Volz, William Schumann, Edward Schumann, Frank yellow that is wonderfully effective. We believe it will become one of the dozen most popular cannas in time.

CANNA TESTS.

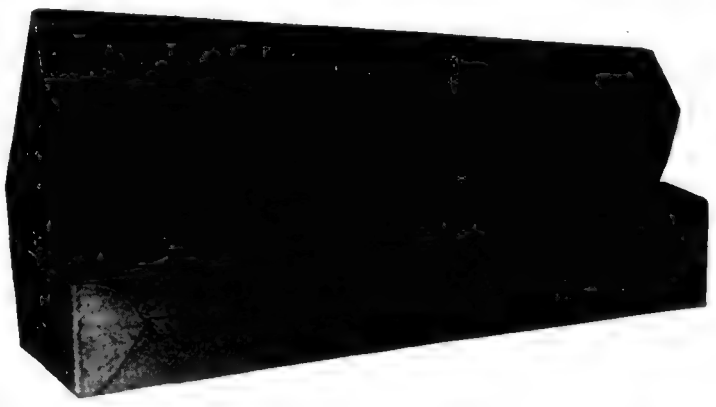
California is not truly variegated, but has such a mingling of gold, bronze and red that it gives the appearance of being of more than one color. We find this old variety one of the most attractive for bordering beds of either red or yellow cannas. It is not yet superseded, by any means.

As to Gladioflora, we think more of it every year we see it grow. The mingling of red and yellow is so good, the habit of growth and freedom of bloom are so nearly perfect, and the bright appearance of the bed is so striking that we can easily overlook the fact that the flowers are not so large as some of the newer varieties.



A Strong-Growing Orchid Type.

Mrs. Karl Kelsey is one of the strongest-growing, largest-flowered and freest of the orchid-flowered type. The flowers are decidedly striped with several shades of red, orange, etc. It is one of the tallest of cannas, but, after all, it will never be popular, for the color is not pretty. We have not yet found one person who picked it as one of the dozen best, though it has a place, especially in borders, where it lights up the shrubbery that is out of bloom. Of course it is not hardy.

Perhaps it is out of place to mention our own seedlings here, but we have two seedlings of Gaiety which we believe to be of real merit. One has the same size of bloom and the same general habit of flower, though it is not so good a multiplier. But in color it is one of the cannas that instantly attract attention. It is a deep, velvety red with a nasturtium tint, and is widely bordered with pure yellow. The other seedling is, in color, between a coral and a shrimp pink, bordered with yellow. It has blooms of the largest size, almost equal to the best orchids, and is a good multiplier.

flowering the plants should be placed in a temperature of 50 degrees by January 1. Increase this to 60 degrees as growth advances. Give them an abundance of water and liquid food when the pots become well filled with roots. It is not easy to have H. Otaksa in good shape for Easter, but the newer French hydrangeas can easily be had in bloom at that time. C. W.

TIMING GIGANTEUM LILIES.

How can Lilium giganteum be handled so that we can bring the plants into bloom at certain intervals? Should we pot them at intervals, or is it better to pot them all as soon as they are received, place the pots in a cellar or coldframe and then bring them in as desired? Are they hardy enough so that freezing in a coldframe will not injure them?

M. E. C.—Kan.

Lilium giganteum likes heat from start to finish. I do not know whether you are referring to new season's or cold storage bulbs. If the latter, they must be started at intervals of, say, a fortnight to secure a succession. With new bulbs it is, of course, the best plan to pot them as soon as possible after being received, but you could hold them for a month or two in a cold cellar provided the bulbs are packed in sand or dry earth and the scales are not at all exposed. You could, no doubt, keep them in this way until February without having recourse to cold storage, but the earliest potted stock would give you better results than the late. It is not advisable to place the potted plants in coldframes or cellars and you must certainly not allow them to freeze. The proper treatment is to give them a night temperature of 55 to 60 degrees at the beginning and 60 to 65 degrees when they are well started. Of course, you could keep part of your crop cooler once the buds are well formed, but they must not have a sharp drop in temperature, or many buds will fail to open. C. W.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Summer-like weather prevailed here last week, much to the dislike of growers, wholesalers and retailers. Large quantities of stock arrived daily. Mums, especially, came in heavily. The retailers complain that the returns fell off considerably on account of the cheapness of flowers and the wholesalers have a great deal of trouble trying to dispose of the large quantity of stock at anything like a fair price. The prices of chrysanthemums dropped and only the extra select stock brought good figures. Major Bonnaffon, Chadwick, Kelley, Appleton and Eaton now are coming in; Ivory and Golden Wedding are expected soon. The exhibition blooms alone hold up in price; other grades bring from $2 to $5 per hundred.

The great glut of roses is on, as was expected, just when the mums are at their height. One wholesaler remarked, "You can't give them away." The stock is excellent and it is a great pity there is no market for it. Carnations sell well, but at low prices; $1 to $2 per hundred is asked. Valley is up to $6 per hundred and good stock can be had daily at this price. Orchids clean up at $6 per dozen. Both valley and orchids have a most excellent demand. Lilies, as yet, are scarce and in good demand. Violets are improving and colder weather will see them in excellent shape. Smilax, asparagus, flat ferns and other greens had a good call last week.

Various Notes.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association held an interesting meeting November 1 at the Eleven Mile House. The big cut of chrysanthemums consigned to the St. Louis market by the county growers came up for general discussion. President Winter urged all members to work hard to make the coming spring flower show a big success. Secretary Deutschmann said the meeting was well attended and that the members are showing a great interest in the proceedings of the association. The officers of the association will hold a special meeting to prepare plans to enroll all county growers who, as yet, are not members, as it is to their interest to become members.

The Illinois State Florists' Association holds its meeting November 9 and 10, at Bloomington, Ill. A number of the trade here expected to make the trip and attend the show.

The big show windows of the Washington avenue store of Grimm & Gorly attracted a great deal of attention last week. They had a fine exhibition of cut mums. The mild weather brought out large crowds and a good transient trade was done.

In the wholesale district on Pine street last week chrysanthemums were in the majority in the cut flower line. The houses of Smith, Kuehn, Windler, Berning, Angermueller and the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co. had a large supply of everything in season. Prices were low, as there was a great overproduction of everything. Buyers had their way when it came to making prices and thousands of blooms were disposed of during the week.

The W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. rented a vacant store next door for the sale of chrysanthemum plants from "Billy" Smith's farm. This made room at the main store for the cut stock. These are great days for Paddy Patton, who loves to work.

The bouquets for the bride's party at the big Busch wedding, as well as the decorations, were furnished by Grimm & Gorly. This job kept the force on the jump for several days.

The stores of Weber, Witek, Boerm, Sanders, Young, Miller and Kalisch, in the far west end, attracted a great deal of attention last week with fine displays of seasonable cut flowers. Business at these places is reported excellent.

The Tucker Floral Co. has moved to 5546 Suburban Tracks and occupies a neat looking store, over which Miss Tucker presides. The location is desirable and a good trade is reported since the opening.

The Koenig Floral Co. opened its branch store at Grand avenue and Floral Co., on Grand avenue, reports a good trade in cut mums and fancy roses. Fred Strohmeyer, the artist at this place, keeps the windows decorated splendidly.

The chrysanthemum show at the store of Fred Foster last week was a big success. The mums displayed during the week were of the best and Mr. Foster says he never before was so busy. An extra force was needed to wait on the trade.

W. S. Wells, secretary of the Missouri State Florists' Association, mailed a copy of the constitution and by-laws to all the members, and any florist in the state wishing a copy can have one by addressing the secretary at 4258 Flad avenue, St. Louis.

William Meier, of St. Louis county, is consigning a fine lot of cut mums to the St. Louis market. Chas. Rager and Wm. Turner mums are among the best. His cut of violets sells splendidly daily.

Clifford Pruner, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, and M. Le Vine, of Lion & Co., New York, were callers on the trade last week. There also were a number of suburban visitors to the wholesale district last week, viewing the great glut of stock. J. J. B.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Something like demoralization rules in the cut flower market, conditions being worse than have existed for many months, and values have slumped to lower levels than a week ago. Chrysanthemums are at their flood tide. The majority are not of particularly good quality, but as purchasers will not pay prices necessary for the growing of big blooms, inferior grades are being produced by most of the growers. Bonnaffon is once more the leader. No other variety equals this quarter-of-a-century-old yellow in popularity. White Bonnaffon, Eaton, Rager, Pacific Supreme, Chieftain and quite a number of other sorts now are offered. Prices rule low. A small number of fancies reach $3 per dozen, but the majority go at from 50 cents to $2. The highest price I have heard of this season is $5 per dozen for small lots. Some made $4, but these are only exceptions to the rule.

Roses are having a hard time and prices have dropped greatly. Stock 15-inch to 18-inch at $1 per hundred, and 21-inch to 24-inch grades at $2, are hardly profitable prices. Beauties have sold tolerably well at $20 to $25 per hundred. Some fancy Russell roses have made $20. Carnations are druggy.

The top price is $2 per hundred, and some of them sell as low as $5 per thousand. Violets are low-priced and lilies have taken a decided slump, the majority making only $4 to $6 per hundred. Marguerites of good quality have realized more than carnations, and good pink snapdragons have sold well. Valley has dragged considerably. Candytuft is abundant and no offer is refused for it. Calendulas, sweet peas, cornflowers and other miscellaneous stock meet with an uncertain sale. Cattleyas are in heavy supply, with only a moderate demand. Sales of asparagus are slow. A good supply of cyclamens, ericas, chrysanthemums, camellias and begonias, in addition to foliage pot plants, now is available.

Various Notes.

The death of George Cartwright, treasurer of the Boston Flower Exchange for nearly twenty-five years, as reported in the obituary column, caused widespread regret in the trade here, where the deceased was extremely popular. Mr. Cartwright's stall was draped in black until after his funeral, as was the entrance to the Flower Exchange.

William A. Riggs, of Auburndale, has 1,500 begonias in fine shape for the holidays; also grand batches of poinsettias and cyclamens. His azaleas have just arrived from Belgium and he has 100,000 Dutch bulbs started. At present he is cutting a fine lot of Chrysanthemum Chieftain.

The advisory board of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society voted November 3 to hold a big fruit show at Horticultural hall, in conjunction with the American Pomological Society, and not to hold any fall exhibition of chrysanthemums and other flowers at all. This decision is received with great disfavor. The recent policy of the society in centralizing its efforts in one or two big shows per annum and neglecting the smaller shows has not proven successful. The May exhibition was a failure, although thousands of dollars were offered in prizes. Boston will support a big spring show, but big summer exhibitions have never proved financial successes. To cut out plants, flowers and vegetables entirely at the expense of fruits is a decidedly retrograde policy.

H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park, is one of the earliest shippers of Paper White narcissi. He has a fine cut of Bonnaffon, White Bonnaffon, Rager, Chieftain and Pacific Supreme chrysanthemums.

The King Construction Co. is completing a range of greenhouses on the estate of Edward A. Clark, at Jamaica Plain, Mass.

John A. Nelson, of Framingham, is cutting excellent Bonnaffon and Rager mums. His carnations are extremely good. Ward, Matchless, Pink Delight, Benora, Alice, Beacon and Fenn are his leading varieties.

in last week's Review to be held at Penn's, November 7 to 9, has been postponed to November 16 to 18. Classes are offered for twelve mums, four varieties; ten pink, ten white, ten yellow, ten red; six vases of pompons, twelve vases of singles, three vases of anemone-flowered mums. There are cash prizes in all classes, which are open to all trade growers. For the Murdock funeral at Proctorsville, Vt., November 1, Penn made a beautiful casket cover of red roses, valley and white orchids. Another casket cover was made at Uxbridge, Mass., the same day, while a large wedding decoration was carried out at the Hotel Somerset.

The Waban Conservatories, which for many years used to be the producers of the highest grade mums coming into the Boston market, is this season growing some late varieties, such as Bonnaffon, Chadwick and Chieftain, which are just coming into season and are of grand quality. Their Hadley, Ophelia, Russell, Stanley and Thayer roses are of superb quality.

J. W. Simpson, of Woburn, has the finest quality Bonnaffon mums I have seen this season. He has a 150-foot house of these. Stem, foliage and flower heads are almost ideal.

Thomas Roland now is sending in camellias, cyclamens, begonias, crotons and ferns in quantity, of his usual high quality, from Nahant. From Revere he gets an average of 10,000 roses daily. His leading sorts are Ophelia, Killarney Queen, Stanley, Killarney, White Killarney and Crimson Queen.

The Budlong Rose Co. is cutting fine Rager and Eaton mums. Among this concern's roses, Prima Donna, Montrose, Double White Killarney, Ophelia and Crimson Queen are extra fine. I regret to report that William Malloy, the Boston manager, who recently was operated on, is in a most critical condition.

Joseph T. White, who spent last summer in charge of the store of John H. Stalford, of the Malvern Greenhouses, Bar Harbor, Me., has joined the Penn forces at the Tremont street store, Boston.

There will be a rousing attendance at the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club November 21, when officers for 1917 are nominated and John Davey, "the father of tree surgery," as he is commonly termed, gives his stereopticon lecture entitled "Tree, Insect, Bird." A number of other organizations are being invited to be present on this occasion.

Mr. Willoughby, of the T. F. Galvin Park street store, has assumed the management of the Fifth avenue store, New York. Mr. Deerry, recently manager there, has joined Small & Sons' staff.

Patrick Welch states that flowers of all kinds now are abundant and that it needs redoubled efforts to move them.

fine lot of pompon chrysanthemums. These are selling more heavily than ever in the Boston market this season.

The Boston Rose Co. reports Beauties as moving nicely. This concern is receiving a superior lot of Russell, Ophelia, Hadley and Hoosier Beauty from the Montgomery Co.; also flowers of seedling No. 235, a pretty variety, of which 1,000 plants are being tried at Hadley this season. The outer petals are pale pink, and the center of the flower is deeper pink. Practically the whole lot is being taken by T. F. Galvin.

Fred Holbrow, of Dorchester, is cutting a grand lot of the sweet-scented and popular Bouvardia Humboldtii. He has an excellent house of late mums just coming in season.

Andrew Christensen, of Stoneham, has been elected treasurer of the Boston Flower Exchange, in place of George Cartwright, deceased. William C. Stickel has been reëlected president of the corporation.

WESTERLY, R. I.

Louis J. Reuter, of S. J. Reuter & Son, was a business visitor to New York last week. The firm is daily shipping large quantities of roses to the New York and Boston markets.

George L. Stillman reports that his dahlia sales last year far exceeded those of any previous year, while his orders for spring are equally satisfactory.

Conrad Schultz was a visitor to Providence last week.

Charles Nichols, office manager for S. J. Reuter & Son, made a trip to New York last week. W. H. M.

Newcastle, Ind.—At the recent Indiana centennial celebration of Henry county held here, there was a parade of nearly 500 decorated automobiles. First prize was awarded to a machine decorated by Clarence Greene, of the Hensley Flower Shop, Indianapolis. He used over 3,000 natural roses and eighty yards of heavy taffeta ribbon, besides quantities of chiffon, netting, baskets, etc. The effect was far more than usually good.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

LESTER L. MORSE is celebrating his forty-sixth birthday today, November 9.

WELL informed men in the trade believe that half the seed peas in the United States now are grown in what used to be referred to as the new western pea country, principally in Montana and Idaho.

SEEDSMEN who have had complaints from southern truckers of the depredations of the tortoise beetle on eggplants will be interested in bulletin No. 422 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, issued October 2.

A PECULIAR breach-of-contract suit recently was dismissed by a circuit court of Kentucky, in which the plaintiff brought action against the Kentucky Bluegrass Seed Co., of Mount Sterling, Ky., for damage because the company had failed to deliver certain bluegrass seeds according to a contract entered into July 19, 1907. Instead of defending the case on parallel grounds, as the plaintiff had anticipated, the counsel for the seed company took a different tack, and proved to the court that a few years after the signing of the contract the same was in restraint of trade and in violation of the statutes. The defendant company won the case and the court said that even if the company had pleaded guilty to breach of contract, the restraint-of-trade action would have precluded a decision in favor of the plaintiff.

LESTER MORSE, president of C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, returned home November 1, after a brief visit to Chicago.

AMONG the week's visitors at Chicago have been T. M. Landrum and O. L. Coulter, of C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, Cal., working their way eastward.

PERMISSION to lay spur tracks from the C. M. & St. P. railway to its houses at Faribault, Minn., has been granted the Farmer Seed & Nursery Co. by the Faribault municipality.

THE seedsman who did not weeks ago order the paper for his 1917 catalogue is on the anxious seat. Not only have prices doubled, but six to ten weeks are required to get delivery.

SAYS E. S. Thompson, in speaking of conditions at Benton Harbor, Mich.: "Business is a little ahead of last season's and is increasing satisfactorily. Every growing thing is doing well, except the bean, and prospects are that 'beans will be beans' another year."

THE Seed Importation Act of August 24, 1912, was amended August 11, 1916, by adding rye-grass and vetch to the seeds subject to the act and by prohibiting entry of seeds containing less than a specified percentage of pure, live seeds. The regulations for the enforcement of the act have been amended under date of October 30 and seedsmen importing any of the varieties subject to the act will do well to send to the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, for a copy of the folder.

TURNIP seed never has been a really important crop in Holland, but the yield this season is such that it is expected many farmers will refuse to cultivate it again.

THE mail-order house that last year put 6 cents' worth of paper into its catalogue this year is putting in 9 to 12 cents' worth, according to how recently the purchase was made.

THE end of the season for French bulbs is indicated by the fact that the steamer from Marseilles which reached New York November 2 brought only fifty-seven cases. In spite of the short crop and high prices, imports this year have been 34,361 cases against 26,820 cases in 1915.

THE Alfred J. Brown Seed Co., of Grand Rapids, Mich., was one of the participants in the eleventh annual trade extension tour of Grand Rapids wholesalers. The excursion was made by special train to Mackinaw, and then to the leading towns of the northern part of the state.

A. H. SMITH, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, says prices are steadily advancing on peas, corn and onion sets, with beans practically out of the market. Canners are inquiring for large quantities of peas and sweet corn and are offering high prices for choice seed, but little is for sale on the market.

A MEASURE of the importance of the supply of seeds drawn from the south of France is found in the report of the U. S. consul at Marseilles, who states that in 1914 the invoice value of "all other" seeds except celery and cummin exported to the United States was $34,448 and in 1915 the total fell to $22,042.

SEED IMPORTS BY QUEBEC.

The seed trade will be interested in the figures on the values of seed imports into the Province of Quebec, Canada, in the last two years:

Year	Total	From U. S.
1915	86,886	84,629

THE ANTIPODES APPROVE.

Yes, it pays to advertise; especially it pays to advertise in The Review—we have the word of an Australian for it and certainly if it pays an Australian it should pay anybody and everybody:

We admit your journal is a first-class publication and a splendid medium for obtaining business—the results certainly have been good.—F. H. Brunning, Ltd., Melbourne, Australia, August 9, 1916.

This is from a seed grower who merely invites correspondence. If he were in position to make a specific offer the results would be still better.

CANADIAN WHEAT FOR SEED.

The wheat crop of southern Alberta, which this year consisted largely of No. 1, is being drawn on for seed purposes so extensively by the United States that there is some alarm among Canadian agricultural authorities, who fear depletion of the quantity available for use in Canada. Considerable quantities of last year's Canadian crop were imported into the United States for seed purposes, the more northern climate having a particularly invigorating effect on all varieties of grain.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

The Drumm Seed & Floral Co., of Fort Worth, Tex., is remodeling its store with the view of separating the two departments, both of which, together with the landscape branch, show steady advance. "By persistent drumming through the press we are where we are," commented Mr. Drumm.

The Baker Bros. Co., of Fort Worth, reports a steady increase in all branches—seed, flower and landscape. Manager Papworth remarked that the company's shipments of bulbs were never finer in quality or larger in number.

The David Hardie Seed Co., of Dallas, Tex., believes the general run of seed business last spring was not so good as usual, but following the recent rains a big impetus was given to fall sowing. "We shall get our share of this prosperity," declared Manager H. Walker.

The Texas Seed & Floral Co., of Dallas, finds its mailing business expanding to such a degree that it cannot take care of the box trade and will retire that branch in favor of bulk supply.

The trio of Houston seed merchants—the Reichardt & Schulte Co., the Moers Seed Co. and O. P. Jackson & Co.—report good business and predict larger areas devoted to truck gardening in east Texas than heretofore. An instance was quoted in support of this assertion of an interview with E. C. Downman, purchasing agent for the Kirby Lumber Co., one of the largest concerns in the Lone Star state, which spends annually $1,000,000 for food supplies. Mr. Downman recently was in the east, and finding an advance in canned goods of fifty per cent he has decided to encourage the growing of fresh vegetables. This the local seedsmen are glad to hear.

M. P. Hargreaves, of Galveston, Tex., says one lesson the floods have taught him is to look farther afield for business. To this end the concern is pushing the mailing end of the seed business. "We branched out into the plant trade a year ago," observed Mr. Hargreaves, "and have built up a nice line solely through The Review's classified ads, from which we selected the stock suitable for this locality. I did this work at home evenings," continued Mr. Hargreaves, "and certainly never spent time more profitably."

The Beaumont Seed Co., of Beaumont, Tex., reports a dry season. "Even with this," observed H. E. Furry, "the dwarf varieties of beans grown under irrigation in Colorado have developed into runners." There have been several complaints regarding the proposed state law on weights and measures. Mr. Furry is of the opinion that the law may benefit local trade, and at the same time be a dog-in-the-manger proposition. W. M.

BULB SHIPMENTS SLACKENING.

Consignments of Dutch bulbs now show signs of the approaching end of the import season, and the shipment which reached New York October 27, on board the freighter Zyldyk, from Rotterdam, probably is the second or third from the last arrival of the 1916 crop. The record for last week's boat, as listed in the manifest on file at the New York customhouse, was as follows:

GRASS SEED IN AUSTRIA.

The central authorities at Carlsbad, Bohemia, according to the U. S. consul there, issue a publication for the information and guidance of subordinate officials and of local and school authorities of the political division represented. The last number contains a statement that "since the planting of grass seed is unfortunately indulged in only to a slight degree within the monarchy, this country has been compelled in normal times to import a great deal of this seed from foreign countries, most of which are now enemy lands; that since this import is now naturally impossible, a large loss of grass seed for the planting of lawns and pastures is feared, if the seed from the wild grass is not gathered and preserved; and that because of this shortage, the ministry of agriculture in Vienna has sent to the various agricultural corporations in the several parts of Austria, a publication, 'The Gathering and Planting of Grass Seed,' and a 'Memorandum Regarding the Gathering of Grass Seed.' The purpose is to aid in preserving and saving the seed for the coming year.

"In the years 1910-1913, inclusive, annual imports of grass seed into the monarchy amounted to 4,577,000 pounds, valued at $442,064, or, roughly, 9⅔ cents a pound. The average annual imports for those years from the five countries sending here the bulk of the imported seed were: Germany, 2,135,816 pounds; Great Britain, 1,434,754 pounds; Italy, 402,119 pounds; Russia, 220,019 pounds; United States, 181,660 pounds. Small quantities of grass seed are also usually imported from Denmark, France, Holland, Roumania, Switzerland and British India.

"Countries now in the war previously supplied ninety odd per cent of the imported seed. When it is again possible freely to export to the monarchy there would seem to be a chance for the United States permanently to enter this market on a larger scale.

"Before the war lawn grass seed retailed at 11 to 13 cents per pound and forage grass seed at 13 cents per pound. Under the conventional tariff, which applies to imports from the United States, grass seed is admitted free of duty."

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

A REPORT of the annual meeting of the California Association of Nurserymen appears in the Nursery Department of this issue.

Berkeley, Cal.—George C. Pape, of 1720 Oxford street, is coast representative of the Lord & Burnham Co., greenhouse designers and manufacturers.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

There is a decidedly better tone to business this week, both wholesalers and retailers reporting a better demand along practically all lines. The finer weather has put the mums in better condition, though the heat has brought them along quickly, and they are not likely to be any too plentiful around Thanksgiving. Some fine Appletons and Queens now are coming in and these are about the best shippers outside of Bonnaffons, which are becoming scarcer.

Roses continue to improve and there are better carnations now for shipping than have been on the market of late. Indoor Cecile Brunner roses are coming in well and bring a good price, but the field-grown stock is a little short in the stem. Centaureas in all colors, including the blue cornflower, are keeping up well. There still is a profusion of dahlias and some late-blooming gladioli. Orchids are more plentiful, Cattleya labiata being now at its best, as well as a few late Gaskelliana and gigas blooms. Spray orchids cannot be said to be popular, though there are more of them sold than formerly.

Small flowering plants are more plentiful, some good, small Chatelaine begonias, cyclamens and pompon chrysanthemums helping out. There is a good stock of ferns and palms, the small kentias being cheaper than usual. Greens of all kinds are in abundance.

Various Notes.

The second annual flower show held under the auspices of the leading daily paper here was far better in every way than its predecessor. The trade came through with fine groups and the private gardeners of Pasadena also helped, so that a bright and effective exhibition was the result. One of the first exhibits to attract attention was that of dahlias from Laurie's, of Pasadena. The usual flat stands of specimen blooms were shown, but there were in addition fine open bunches of large-stemmed showy blooms of kinds that are well suited for cutting for commercial purposes. W. Hunt, gardener for Arthur Letts, of Hollywood, put up a fine group of named shrubs, herbaceous plants and ferns. It is truly surprising to note such a number of shrubs that flower at this season, though when one takes into consideration the fact that such tender subjects as dipladenias flower at Hollywood practically at midwinter, it is not so much to be wondered at. Anyway, it was a superb exhibit, excellently staged and attractive as well as educational. Theodore Payne had a numerous family of native shrubs and plants on view, an interesting collection. The committee consisted of such well known gardeners as J. McGilvray and J. Taylor. W. W. Felgate, J. Urquhart and others fixed up a most attractive group of ferns, bamboos and aquatics. Alongside this showing was the exhibit of Howard & Smith. At the east end of the building the Germain Seed & Plant Co. had a fine exhibit consisting of an arbor built of eucalyptus poles, with plants arranged effectively around them. The attendance apparently was fairly good and the committee deserves great credit for its labors.

Tassano Bros. are showing a large lot of pine cones from the north, which Tony says are meeting with a good demand on account of their novelty.

One of the attractions in the store window of L. H. Freeman, on Fourth street, is a massive Korean porcelain vase of true delft blue. It stands at least three feet high and is fine for bold arrangement of chrysanthemums and other large flowers. Mr. Freeman says his business far exceeds that of this time last year.

Gus Swenson, of Eagle Rock, is bringing in a new white mum something in the way of Queen, but fuller and with a far stiffer and better stem. It looks like a really good thing.

A. F. Borden, of the Redondo Floral Co., has returned from his trip to the middle west and reports a fine time. Albert Knopf has been down with grip, but comes to the store on fine days and sticks to business gamely.

Frank Lichtenberg reports fine business and at the time of my visit was unpacking a lot of new baskets and sundries for the opening of the season. Mr. Lichtenberg and C. Gutting returned this week from a hunting trip around Murrietta.

W. Armacost & Co. are sending in fine cyclamens, some of them in 9 and 10-inch pots, and not overpotted at that. Mr. Armacost says that the whole of the new range is now planted up and working overtime.

Among the visitors last week were: John Morley, of San Diego; Miss A. M. Hosp, of Bakersfield; Mrs. H. G. Helmer, of Santa Barbara.

H. R. Richards.

so it was harder to dispose of the great quantities of chrysanthemums than usual. The shippers are meeting with more competition now that the crop is coming on in other localities, but first-class stock continues to bring high prices. Prices usually drop under conditions such as these, but the Japanese growers pooled their crops this year, as last year, and so far have succeeded in holding prices at top notch in the local market. It is understood that considerable surplus stock was shipped east on consignment. Pompon chrysanthemums are in heavier supply than ever before, but the demand is sufficiently active to warrant the increase in supplies. It seems as though the enormous offerings find an outlet without much effort.

Carnations are still in rather light supply and prices are a little higher than they were at this time last year. A few kinds of summer stock linger, but the offerings of this nature have ceased to be a feature of the market. Dahlias are about gone, after an extremely successful season. The supply of violets is increasing from day to day, and the demand is all that can be desired, both locally and for shipping. Princess, Giant and the new exposition varieties are plentiful, and a good many Marie Louise blooms now are coming in. A few lots of pansies are appearing.

The rose crop is fine and all good stock moves off readily, at well maintained prices. There is a wonderful crop of Russell at present and American Beauties leave no ground for complaint.

Ward also is good, as well as Sunburst. Paper Whites are beginning to appear, but it is too early for them to make much of an impression on the market. There are plenty of orchids, but on the other hand valley is practically off the market and gardenias are only in light supply. Some good-sized shipments of red berries have started to come in and they are having their usually good sale.

Various Notes.

Extensive improvements have been completed at T. Mosco's store and they add greatly to the general appearance of the place and provide better facilities. The store has been remodeled to make use of about four feet of additional frontage. A modern front has been installed, with a center entrance replacing the previous side entrance and single window arrangement. The new windows have tile floors and are up-to-date in every respect.

Joseph Lagomarsino is bringing in a fine crop of violets from his place at Colma, where he has thirty-five men employed. He has about 200 acres under cultivation this year and is said to be the largest violet producer in the state. He recently purchased three automobiles for delivery purposes and now is doing an extensive shipping business, as well as supplying many of the San Francisco florists with stock. He is bringing in a fine cut of Princess and Giant violets and a good many of his new variety, known as Exposition, which is a lighter shade than the ordinary violet. Mr. Lagomarsino has been growing violets on a gradually increasing scale for several years.

The Pacific Grove Dahlia Co. has issued a new dahlia catalogue. It contains twenty-four pages describing the different varieties of dahlias, with an instructive foreword on the culture of dahlias. Full-page photographs of the company's gardens are included.

Peter Grifo, with Joseph's store, is back at work, after being laid up for two weeks with blood poisoning in his hand, which was caused by a rose thorn.

F. J. Bertrand, manager of Joseph's, says the committees which were appointed some time ago to work for better conditions in the local trade are making progress and probably will have important announcements to make in the near future.

The E. W. McLellan Co. is bringing in some nice gardenias, but only in limited quantities, as they have been budded closely. This company has a wonderful crop of Russell roses and continues to cut quantities of Cecile Brunner. Sunburst and Ward show good quality.

Adolph Winters has leased new quarters for his flower and music store at Richmond, an industrial suburb on the east side of San Francisco bay. In the new location, Macdonald avenue and Eleventh street, he will have a store 11x50 feet, with a mezzanine floor. The place is to be fitted up in fine shape for occupancy at an early date.

Lavazello & Picetti have sold their store at 1457 Haight street to Bert T. Dinnes.

The bulb sale at the Emporium flower department was a big success, according to Manager Picetti.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee continues to ship quantities of chrysanthemums. She says her shipping business is better than ever before. With retail business also holding up well, she has no ground for complaint.

The Art Floral Co. recently arranged a vase of orchids worth $200 for a golden wedding anniversary. The vase stood about thirty-six inches high and contained some twenty varieties of orchids, which were grown by J. A. Carbone, of Berkeley. S. H. G.

SEATTLE, WASH.

There is an inadequate supply of cut flowers, a condition that has prevailed for some time. Chrysanthemums are fairly plentiful, but this cannot be said of other flowers. Business is a little above normal and it may be expected that prices, considering all things, should have an upward tendency. Such, however, is not the case, and in some instances flowers are sold more cheaply than in previous years, when they were produced at far less cost. The opinion is often expressed that it takes the Seattle florists a long time to wake up, and, judging by the advertisements lately displayed in the local papers, that opinion is well founded. Carnations are scarce and their quality none too good. A few dahlias are coming in, but the rains put a finish to most of the outdoor flowers. Cyclamens are selling well and there is a good demand for anything in the way of pot plants.

The protracted drought, which lasted fifty days, was broken two weeks ago by copious rains, and now there is work in the nurseries moving plants and filling orders which had accumulated.

The Dutch and French bulbs arrived simultaneously this year and the Dutch travelers are already here seeking orders for next season's delivery.

SPOKANE, WASH.

The Market.

There seems to be no just cause for complaint on the part of either retailer or wholesaler as to quantity of business done. Stock is cleaned up regularly, with no oversupply of anything, save possibly roses, which are more than plentiful. Good quality prevails in all lines, credit for which must be given largely to the fact that we have had almost no cloudy weather this fall. Mums are good and are selling readily at good prices. Carnations are fair and sufficient in quantity, with mums holding the center of the stage in public favor.

Various Notes.

H. L. Olsson is bringing in some fine pot specimens of Chrysanthemum Caprice, in its different colors. It is easily the best pot variety seen here. Mr. Olsson reports having almost sold out of Primula obconica—nothing left but the larger sizes in 6 and 7-inch pots.

The Spokane Greenhouse Co. is offering Chieftain and White Chieftain mums.

The Mrs. William Turner mums from Adolph Donart, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, are the best of their variety to be seen anywhere in Spokane. A. J. Burt is handling the entire crop and is drawing admiring crowds to his store with splendid window displays of this great flower.

The Spokane Florist Co. had a window recently which admirably displayed the chrysanthemum stock. Brown bamboo cane stakes were used to construct a sort of lattice or pergola, from which were suspended Japanese lanterns.

The Hoyt Bros. Co. is putting on the finishing touches at the new store, preparatory to making a formal opening.

Recent visitors included Adolph Donart, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Phillip Weil, of the C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee; Mrs. Wilfred Dumas, of Marble, Wash. The last-named formerly was Miss Winifred Doyle and a bookkeeper for A. J. Burt for several years.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business for the month of October shows a big advance over that for the same month of 1915. Some concerns report that it was nearly a record-breaker and those interviewed expressed great satisfaction over the figures for the month. Weddings and funerals used a large quantity of flowers and counter trade for ordinary events cut a heavy figure in the totals. The supply of flowers was at times less than the demand, and at no time was there any waste. Prices on high-grade stock were a little higher than those of last year. The growers have found a ready market for their entire cuts, at prices that left them a profit.

The chrysanthemum is the leading flower. Some of the varieties now offered are Charles Turner, Bonnaffon, Chieftain, White Chieftain, Charles Rager, Crocus, Queen, Ivory and Harvard. The locally grown supply is about equal to the demand and few California mums are coming in. Pompons are offered in great variety and sell well. Calla lilies and a few easter lilies are to be had. Bouvardias, violets, mignonette, cyclamen blooms, Cattleya labiata flowers, alyssum and a short supply of valley are the principal small flowers offered. A fair cut of roses, including all the leading varieties, and an increased supply of carnations, swell the list of fall flowers to a normal point.

The dry spell was broken November 28 after forty-seven days without rain, and there is unusual activity at the nurseries in filling orders which accumulated.

A few Lorraine begonias, cyclamens and potted mums are the flowering plants displayed.

Halloween is not observed as a flower event and no increase in business was noted.

Now is the best time to start to sow the

to follow the Chrysanthemum crop. No other flower will pay better. You will have fine flowers from January until late in spring. All progressive florists have abandoned growing the late Spencer and are making now four times as much money with this early-flowering type, not only for inside but for outside planting. If sown in October and November they will bloom two to three months earlier; if sown outdoors they will bloom three to four weeks earlier than the late Spencers, producing more and better flowers and keeping the buds during the most rainy weather. We have a limited quantity of the following varieties to offer at reduced prices:

PINK AND WHITE ORCHID, WHITE ORCHID, MRS. A. A. SKACH, ORCHID BEAUTY, rose; LAVENDER ORCHID, lavender pink; MISS FL. FABING, Yarrawa color. This lot will contain about two to five per cent of the late hybrids of the same color and for late planting they are of more value than the re-selected varieties of the same names.

Price: 1 oz., 50c; 4 ozs., $1.50; 1 lb., $5.00; 10 lbs., $45.00

FLORISTS' WINTER ORCHID-FLOWERING MIXTURE. This mixture consists of all the leading commercial varieties of pink, rose, white and lavender, with a very few red and blue.

Price, $4.00 per pound.

GOLD MEDAL MIXTURE.

This is made up of about fifty distinct varieties, evenly balanced to each color. It contains almost every variety in commerce, including this year's and next year's novelties, all of the Winter Orchid type only. Last year we sold over 90,000 packets to private gardeners and retail florists. In semi-tropical countries they have been blooming all winter. In cooler climate, if sown early in spring they bloom in May, three to four weeks earlier. Florists who keep a seed counter should have this steadily on hand, ready for their customers. Sold only in one size packets. Each packet contains sufficient seed to plant 30 to 40 feet of row.

Prices: 1 pkt., 25c; 100 pkts., $12.00; 1000 pkts., $100.00.

Order now all you need for your winter or outdoor planting, as this limited quantity may not last long.

Rahn & Herbert have bought a new delivery car and to christen it Hans Niklas took the writer to the company's range at Clackamas, a ride of about ten miles. Since A. Rahn retired as superintendent of the range, A. Herbert and Paul Peters divide the responsibility, each having charge of certain sections. This summer some improvements were made in the heating system, such as changing the piping, installing a large steam trap and fitting up a small house for gardenias and other warm-natured plants. One part of the range is set to carnations and the plants of Victory, White Wonder, Enchantress and Enchantress Supreme are in excellent condition and producing flowers of good quality. The benches of mums, poinsettias and bouvardias looked well. Some of the best Chrysolora mums in the market this season were grown at this range. Two houses are filled with kentia palms and one plant of K. Belmoreana seen there is said to be the largest and finest specimen in the northwest. A great variety of foliage and blooming pot plants are grown. In one house gardenias were in bud and many pandanus cuttings were being propagated. The crew were potting giganteum lily bulbs in 4-inch pots. Mr. Herbert explained that it paid to start the bulbs in small pots and then shift them, as many of them are defective. Some splendid mignonette was ready to cut. Three boilers, with wood as fuel, furnish the heat.

Clarke Bros. are cutting some Charles Turner mums that bring topnotch prices. S. W. W.

Joseph Lunnemann, of Kallen & Lunnemann, Boskoop, Holland, who recently arrived at New York and opened offices for his house at 14 Stone street, is authority for the information that "members of the Protective Association of Holland Nurserymen at one of their recent meetings agreed not to send directly or indirectly any nursery stock for auction in the United States or Canada. Disregard of this agreement makes one subject to a heavy fine and memberships of those not willing to sign the agreement are to be annulled. The list of names of concerns which have signed the compact is to be published in trade papers in this country and Canada, and when importers on this side coöperate with the movement an important step in the right direction will have been taken."

Secretary-treasurer — Henry W. Kruckeberg, of Los Angeles, reëlected for his sixth term.

At the morning session of the first day the most important subject discussed was the paper by Charles W. Ward, of the Cottage Garden Nurseries, Eureka, on "Transportation and Freight Rates." Mr. Ward laid particular emphasis on the freight charges from California to eastern points, and vice versa. He is of the opinion that the rate for nursery stock on the haul should be not more than $1 per hundred pounds for a minimum load of 20,000 pounds, in order to enable the coast nurserymen and growers to compete with foreign growers who sell their goods in this country. This applies especially to azaleas, rhododendrons, boxwoods, bulbs and other European products.

The Program.

The other sessions were devoted to a number of treatises on subjects of special interest to the conventionists. Able papers were read or addresses made on the following topics, by the men named:

Production, Prices, Salesmanship and Credits, by George C. Roeding, of the Fancher Creek Nurseries, Fresno.

Horticultural Laws, Pomologists and Plantsmen, by George H. Hecke, state horticultural commissioner, Sacramento.

Standardization of Commercial Nursery Products, by Wm. J. Kirkman, Jr., president of Kirkman Nurseries, Fresno.

Discussion by J. E. Bergtholdt, secretary of the Silva-Bergtholdt Nurseries, Newcastle; Leonard Coates, president of the Leonard Coates Nursery Co., Morgan Hill; E. Wightman, of the Chico Nursery Co.

The Proposed California Pure Seed Law, by George P. Weldon, deputy state horticultural commissioner, Sacramento.

Discussion by M. L. Germain, Los Angeles; Theodore Payne, Los Angeles; John Vallance, Oakland.

Commercial Bulb Growing in California, by Colin H. McIsaac, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Santa Barbara.

Discussion by Carl Purdy, Ukiah; Ernest Braunton, Los Angeles; E. James, Oakland; Henry A. Hyde, Watsonville.

New Plants of Commercial Value to the Trade, by D. W. Coolidge, president of the Coolidge Rare Plant Gardens, Pasadena.

Discussion by C. F. Franceschi, Santa Barbara; John Gill, of the E. Gill Nursery Co., West Berkeley; E. Lejeune, of the Exotic Nurseries, Santa Barbara.

The Latest in Avocados and Other Tropical Fruits, by T. U. Barber, of the Hart & Barber Avocado Co., Los Angeles.

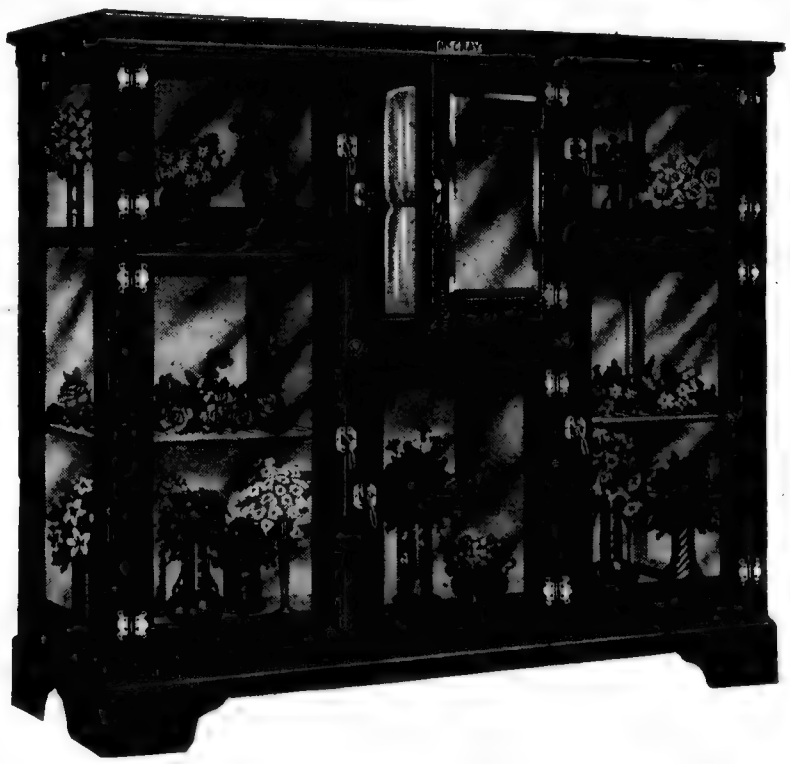
Discussion by F. O. Popenoe, president of the West India Gardens, Pasadena; W. J. Pettingill, of Goleta; C. D. Hubbard, president of the Hubbard Fruit Co., Carpinteria.

Plant Immigrants in Our Parks and Gardens, by Prof. R. T. Stevens, department of landscaping and floriculture, U. of C., Berkeley.

Discussion by H. Plath, San Francisco; John Vallance, Oakland; W. B. Clarke, Cottage Garden Nurseries, Eureka.

Next Year at San Jose.

The annual report of the president showed all the affairs of the association in excellent order and indicated the practical value of membership in the organization. Mr. Kruckeberg's report outlined the work accomplished during the last year, with a financial statement indicating the flourishing condition of the association.



San Jose was chosen as the place for the next meeting, which will be held, as usual, about the middle of October.

Des Moines, Ia.— The Kirkwood Floral Co., at the corner of Fourth and Walnut streets, which had its opening September 1, reports that the arrival of cooler weather has had the result of stimulating business. Mrs. Ray Holt, the store manager, says they have been using large shipments of California chrysanthemums, which have been coming through in fine shape and selling readily at from $4 to $6 per dozen.

McCray Florists' Refrigerators

The McCRAY construction keeps flowers cool and fresh longer than by any other system of refrigeration. It provides an even temperature of the correct degree for cut flowers and stops the great waste and profit loss that is caused by imperfect refrigeration.

The various compartments in a McCRAY are of different sizes to accommodate the different lengths of cut flower stems and your flowers are given an inviting display.

For interior linings you have your choice of either handsome bevel plate mirror or beautiful white enamel, which are very easy to clean. The exterior may be of any finish desired to match the interior of your store woodwork or other fixtures.

Invest in a McCRAY. Make it a partner in your business. You will value it more highly than its mere intrinsic dollar-and-cents value. Investigate anyway!

The Market.

Another week finds stock piling up and overshadowing the demand. American Beauties are in good supply and available in all grades. Other varieties also are in good supply; in fact, Killarney and Mock roses seem to be in oversupply. Ophelia, Sunburst, Reid, Hoosier Beauty and novelty roses are the favorites.

Mums are in heavy supply, but the best varieties clear with little difficulty. Chrysolora mums are poor and inclined to drag. Pompons are in good supply, also the plants. Carnations are arriving in greater numbers and are of better quality.

Snapdragons as yet are not plentiful. Easter lilies are in a slump, having been outpointed by the mums. In valley and violets the demand seems to be well balanced with the receipts.

Various Notes.

Jack Carey has moved into his new location on Woodward avenue near Bogg street.

C. L. Going, formerly of St. Johns, Mich., has entered the employ of Sullivan's.

Clifford E. White is moving three miles north from his present location, where he specialized in dahlias. He expects to have a good lot of dahlias next year, and we hope that the dahlia growers in this vicinity will have better luck next year.

W. J. Palmer, of Buffalo, paid Detroit a short visit last week. He reports that business is good at Buffalo and that he intends to open a new store on Delaware avenue, Buffalo.

Harry Taylor, of John Breitmeyer's Sons' Park store, spent November 5 at his home at Buffalo. H. E. T.

Harrisburg, Pa.—A smart flower store has been opened here by W. L. Keeney, who will draw his supply from his range at New Cumberland.

Lancaster, Pa.—The production of geranium cuttings has been discontinued by J. P. Siebold, who in the future will devote his range to growing cut flowers for the wholesale market, the only exceptions being mum plants and mum cuttings.

Springfield, Mo.—J. N. Draper, of the J. N. Draper & Son Floral Co., and W. J. Schaffitzel, of the Springfield Seed Co., have returned from a trip to Kansas City and Denver, where they studied greenhouse establishments to gain new ideas for their range here.

THE NEW RED CARNATION WITH AN UNBEATABLE RECORD BEHIND IT

WINNER two years in succession of the American Carnation Society Silver Medals, 1915 and 1916. Also winner of the S. A. F. Silver Medal, 1916, besides numerous first prizes and certificates at various shows in different parts of the country. This is purely a commercial Carnation —very bright, clear red, large flower, non-splitable calyx, long stem and just as free-blooming as Enchantress, of which it is a seedling. Prices of rooted cuttings, ready for delivery December 15 and later, 25 or less at the rate of $8.00 per 100; 50 and less than 100 at $6.00 per 100; orders of 100 and less than 250, $5.00 per 100, and orders of 250 or more at the rate of $45.00 per 1000 All cuttings guaranteed strictly first-class.

Merry Christmas

A recent visitor remarked to us: "A scarlet Carnation must produce all first quality blooms to be satisfactory, because there is little chance to work off culls." He bought Merry Christmas because he was unable to find a single cull flower on the whole bench. Come and see for yourself.

December cuttings all sold. Booking orders now for January delivery. $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

The Market.

The supply of stock in the market at this writing is far in excess of the demand. Mums are almost a glut, and the bright, warm weather will cut down the Thanksgiving crop. Roses are plentiful and the quality is good on all varieties with the possible exception of Killarney. Beauties and Ophelias are especially fine. Carnations are picking up both in quality and quantity. A few home-grown violets are to be seen, but the bulk of the supply comes from California.

Some of the growers are going in heavily on cyclamens, which are to take the place of azaleas at Christmas, as the latter will be a scarce article around the holidays. So far not a shipment of azaleas has been received and the prospects for any of the plants are not encouraging. Funeral work was slack last week with some of the retailers, while others have been rushed.

Various Notes.

The Parker Flower Shop had an exceptionally heavy run on mums last week. The force has been stepping lively getting out funeral work.

Carnations and ferns were the two leading crops at the greenhouses of George Sorensen.

Henry Peterson has some sweet pea plants that promise splendid blooms later on.

A visit to the Charles Ederer range found the proprietor almost too busy to talk shop. Last summer he added several new houses to his range and planted them to rose plants, which look fair, considering the fact that they were not benched until late in August. The carnations and mums grown by Mr. Ederer are as good as any I have seen.

Owing to the small demand here for orchids, Hess & Swoboda are shipping theirs to the Chicago market. Their mums and cyclamens are extra fine, as well as their roses. L. S. H.

Petoskey, Mich.—B. W. Cryderman is a grower of asters and other flowers in quantity.

NEW NEPHROLEPIS FERN JOHN WANAMAKER

A "sport" from Nephrolepis Scholzeli, with longer, narrower, gracefully drooping fronds. It is not so compact in growth as Scholzeli, and therefore does not decay in the center, and is a durable house fern. It is a rapid grower, making an abundance of fronds, and is quite distinct from any other Nephrolepis.

CROTONS

NEW SEEDLING VARIETIES

Our new Seedling Crotons, some of which we disseminated in June, 1911, are varieties that should be in every grower's and private person's collection. They are far superior to many of the older varieties of Crotons and the types range from narrow to very large leaf.

We particularly call your attention to our set of thirteen, named after the "Thirteen Original States," which have won highest honors wherever shown.

4-inch pots, strong plants, $3.00 each; $30.00 doz.; $200.00 100.

6 and 7-inch pots, larger plants, $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00 each.

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past few years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. They are also specially attractive to use with Chrysanthemums.

Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year. Very highly colored sprays at 25c, 35c and 50c; cut leaves, $3.00 and $5.00 per 100.

CUT CHRYSANTHEMUMS

We are growing over 50,000 cut blooms of Chrysanthemums in all the best commercial varieties. Ready now and until December 1st. Make arrangements with us to have your "cut Mums" supplied by us. Either daily or weekly shipments. Lowest market prices.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Market conditions have shown a constant improvement during the last fortnight and are gradually assuming the normal, both as regards supply, demand and prices. Carnations continue a trifle short, but roses are good stock, and chrysanthemums, although abundant, clean up well each day. While fancy single blooms command a good sale, there is an increasing demand for the medium heads and bunches of the small varieties. Funeral and decorative work was fairly active last week and a large number of social functions on the calendar promise well for the future.

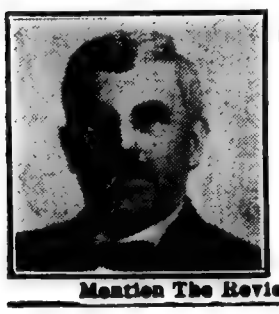
Various Notes.

An attractive wedding took place October 30, when Miss Juliette P. Hazard was united in marriage to John A. Macrae, the well known florist of this city. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton T. Brownell, on Wood street, which was profusely decorated with palms, ferns, chrysanthemums and carnations.

John Johnston, of Johnston Bros., recently was appointed district deputy of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery for Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

William Blease is erecting a greenhouse 20x50 on Newport avenue, Pawtucket.

William B. Hazard has withdrawn his name as nominee on the Republican ticket as alderman from the Tenth ward.



M. J. Leach & Sons, of Pawtucket, have purchased the greenhouses of M. Smith, at Rumford, and will remove them to Pawtucket. The sashes were purchased by Johnston Bros.

John Marshall, of Centerdale, has abandoned one of his greenhouses until February on account of the increased price of coal.

The Flower Growers' Outlet, 317 Westminster street, celebrated its third anniversary October 30 by holding a Halloween sale. W. H. M.

Racine, Wis.—C. Wiedeback has succeeded John Bourgaise in the business at 912 Milwaukee avenue, which will be operated under the name of West Side Floral Co.

Hutchinson, Kan.—More than 1,000 carnations and mums—one to each person—were distributed as souvenirs by the Stamm Floral Co. at the formal opening of its new store.

The Market.

Mums still rule the market. The mid-season varieties are in their glory, Chieftain and Ramapo being the favorites. The best carnations can be had for 2½ cents each. Violets are of good quality, but not popular. Yellow marguerites are in demand.

Various Notes.

Julius, the Florist, reports a busy week. Plenty of funeral work has caused flowers to clean up.

Peter Murray, of Fairhaven, has received a large shipment of azaleas. Mr. Murray is the only florist in this vicinity who has received his shipment.

Fred C. Covill had a most attractive autumn window last week. The background was of red oak foliage, on gray latticework. In the foreground was a good display of mums and Boston ferns. Mr. Covill reports a heavy call for pompons in all the popular varieties.

William H. Davenport reports a steady call for pot plants. Business has been good with him lately. He has purchased a new Overland touring car.

Richard E. Nofftz, of Kempton street, reports business as being unusually good. He has some excellent flowers of Chrysanthemum Mensa.

The New Bedford Horticultural Society held its annual chrysanthemum show in the Public Library building November 2 and 3. The principal displays were made by the H. E. Converse estate and by Galen L. Stone, both of Marion. James Garthley and C. W. Young were the judges. W. M. P.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

THE PIPING AND THE BENCHES.

I am building a greenhouse 14x40, with side walls four feet high, papered and weather-boarded. The height to the ridge is ten feet. The house is closely built and is sheltered on the north. I want a night temperature of 55 to 60 degrees. The outside temperature here rarely drops below zero. Please tell me how to arrange the pipes to heat the house with hot water. Also state how much piping should be used, and of what size. There will be three raised benches. The two side benches will be each three and one-half feet wide; the middle bench will be four feet wide. What is the best height for the benches.

L. E. H.—Tenn.

For heating a house 14x40 to 60 degrees in zero weather, with hot water, we would run a 2½-inch flow pipe about two feet below the ridge and connect it at the farther end of the house with six 2-inch returns, placing two under each bench. To supply the pipes under the middle bench, a 2-inch pipe should be dropped down from the main at the end of the bench. At the end of the house a 2-inch supply should be run to each corner of the house, for the coils under the side benches.

We would give all of the pipes a slope of about an inch in ten feet, and, if the expansion tank is connected with the highest point in the flow pipe, air valves will not be required. If possible, we would locate the boiler so that it will be entirely below the returns. If it can be in a cellar seven or eight feet deep, all the better.

The height of the benches should be determined in some degree by the class of plants to be grown. As a rule, a height of twenty-four to thirty inches answers well, and even a height of eighteen inches is often used when there is glass in the side walls. For roses we would consider eighteen inches sufficient, while for carnations we would prefer a height of twenty-four inches from the floor to the bottom of the bench, and for low bedding or pot plants thirty inches would be none too high.

ber and size of them, to heat a greenhouse 25x100. The temperature wanted is 60 to 70 degrees. On rare occasions the outside temperature drops to 15 degrees below zero. R. M.—Ill.

We are not able to determine from the letter whether steam or hot water is to be used. Neither are we informed as to the amount of glass in the walls, if any.

For hot water, in a house with wooden walls not more than four feet high, we would use three 2½-inch flow pipes and sixteen 2-inch returns. One flow should be placed upon each of the sidewall plates, each to feed five returns, either on the walls or under the side benches. The other flow should be placed two or three feet below the ridge, and the remaining six returns should be connected with it at the farther end of the house. If there is glass in the walls, an additional return will be required for each two feet of glass. Run all pipes with a slope of one inch in ten feet and connect the expansion tank with the highest point of each flow pipe.

To heat the house with steam, use a 2½-inch overhead flow pipe and twelve 1¼-inch returns, distributing the returns under the benches.

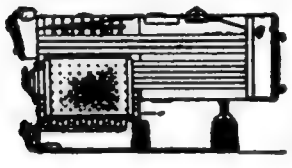
NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

Business is good, but not rushing. Flowers are coming in more freely, but prices as a rule keep up well, though not so high as formerly. Chrysanthemums are of exceptionally good quality. Large pink, yellow and white varieties, blooms of medium size and pompons are plentiful. Potted mums are more in evidence. Roses are plentiful and of good quality. Bulbs for fall planting now are offered by the local florists, and they are of good quality. There is considerable wedding work and a fair quantity of funeral pieces. Counter trade is good but not brisk.

Various Notes.

Many Essex county florists are preparing to enter good exhibits at the Palace ballroom, November 13, 14 and 15.



Henry A. Strobell reports business good, with considerable funeral and wedding work.

Hundreds attended last week's chrysanthemum show at the greenhouses in Branch Brook park. Besides mums, there were on exhibit tuberoses, begonias, gloxinias, etc. R. B. M.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The auction of the stock of the Thomas Galvin gardens was held November 2. The sale was for the purpose of settling the estate and marks the passing of the oldest florists' establishment at Newport. At the death of Thomas Galvin the property came into the hands of his widow and daughters, and has since been managed for the heirs by the son, William Galvin, who operates the nurseries on Harrison avenue, of which he is sole proprietor. When Mrs. Galvin died the daughters decided to close up the greenhouse business, clear the property and place it upon the market, it being valuable because of its central location.

Patrick J. Boyle, head gardener for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harriman, and his assistants came close to being laid low by a .38 caliber bullet a few days ago. Mr. Boyle and his men were at work about the place when they were startled by several bullets passing close to their heads, coming from the direction of a pond close to the Harriman home. The police were notified and upon investigation discovered two young men in a canoe blazing away with rifle and shot gun in a careless manner. They were taken in charge for violating the ordinances. One of the bullets was embedded in a post not far from Mr. Boyle's head. W. H. M.

Plant Insurance at $7

WHAT would happen if your night man fell asleep some night in zero weather? What if you should oversleep, or a cold wave hit your greenhouse when your heat is at the minimum? It would mean ruin to your plants — possibly ruin to you. There have been many such cases.

But not if you are equipped with the STANDARD THERMOSTAT. The Standard Thermostat protects you from just such dangers. It will ring a bell at your bedside when danger is near.

The Standard Thermostat is indispensable to the up-to-date grower. You know preparedness counts! Get the Standard today. It costs only $7.00—lasts a lifetime. Write for descriptive matter now, while you are thinking about it.

BUFFALO.

The Market.

There was a noticeable slump in the market last week for one or two days, and it is difficult to trace the cause of it. The best of all kinds of stock may be had, and yet there is not the right kind of enthusiasm back of it, but the cooler weather is expected to make a decided difference.

Beauties are in ample supply in all grades, but they have a tendency to move rather slowly on account of the large variety and supply of chrysanthemums. Other varieties of roses—Russell, Shawyer, Stanley, Milady, Ophelia, Ward and Sunburst—are in excellent condition and sell at moderate figures.

Mums now are arriving in unlimited quantities, including the pompons and singles. William Turner mums are as large as ever. Carnations are improving and soon will be at their best. They certainly have improved wonderfully; fewer short ones arrive each day.

Easter lilies are easily sufficient for present needs. Valley and orchids also are plentiful, although at times it is a little difficult to get an ample supply of valley. Snapdragons and calendulas are not prominent just now and there is no special demand. The sale of violets is increasing, especially of the singles. Mexican ivy is available again and the supply of greens is adequate.

Buffalo Bowlers Beaten.

The Buffalo Florists' Bowling Club last week was again defeated by the Colts. Following are the scores:

Player.	1st	2d	3d	4th	Ttl.
Coppins	154	160	125	146	585
Sandiford	175	164	148	166	653
Scott	136	175	150	167	618
Braith	158	177	130	172	637
Spiedel	222	163	143	149	677

A. E.

Various Notes.

An artistically arranged window display of debutante baskets in the latest designs was to be seen at S. A. Anderson's last week.

In flowering plants pompons and singles serve satisfactorily. The debutante season has opened and pompons are largely used on such occasions. These affairs have been keeping the staff busy at W. J. Palmer's. This store had the table decorations at the Ellicott Club for the President's and Mrs. Wilson's banquet. There were nineteen at the President's table, which was done in Killarney roses and yellow pompons. At Mrs. Wilson's table there were Noveltonia pompons and Ophelias. The women wore corsages of Bon Silene roses and Noveltonia pompons, with blue ribbon. The President wore a gardenia and Mrs. Wilson a corsage of orchids and valley.

Buffalo's first annual flower show will open at the Elmwood Music hall November 11, with an exhibition valued at many thousands. The south parks' conservatory collection alone is estimated to be worth $50,000. Chrysanthemums are more popular than ever and there will be a great showing of them. William Donaldson, of the Delaware Park conservatory, will show his pet plant, which is eleven feet in diameter and has 1,045 blooms.

Harold Taylor, of Detroit, was in town last week to greet some of his friends.

On account of the election falling on the regular meeting day, the Buffalo Florists' Club held the meeting Monday, November 6, instead. This is the first meeting of the season.

If we should build a greenhouse for ourselves we would put the best material we could into it, but it would not be any better than we put into the houses that we build for our customers.

Yes, it would be an easy matter to skimp here and substitute there, and gloss over in another place to save a little and meet the lowest bidder. We do not do business that way. Why should we cheat ourselves in order to cheat a customer?

For COMMERCIAL GREENHOUSES

This Metropolitan semi-iron commercial greenhouse, 18 x 200 feet, was erected for the Springfield Floral Co., of Springfield, N. J.

Note the neat general appearance of this greenhouse, particularly of the walls. This is made possible by the Metropolitan patented cast-iron eave, which, besides being ice-clearing, also has a combination drip conductor feature which carries off all waters of condensation from the inside of the roof. Notice, too, that no wood headers are necessary with this eave.

The Market.

The augmented receipts of chrysanthemums are having a telling effect on the sale of all other items of cut stock. There are too many mums at one time. The warm and clear weather seemed to bring all of them into flower last week; varieties scheduled to come on a week or two later are here, and apparently there will be few, if any, yellows for Thanksgiving—even the Fricks are well advanced.

Stock at the wholesalers' is more than plenteous and prices have taken a tumble far down the scale. Extra fine Ophelia, Russell and Killarney roses exchange hands at the prices the buyer dictates. Carnations are coming back in larger quantities and show considerable improvement. They sell at a fair price, when one considers the pressure of the flood of mums. Violets are wanted and therefore move out satisfactorily. Pot plants are requisitioned as soon as they make their appearance. Greens have shifted to the long side of the market.

Various Notes.

W. J. Barnes has sold a large number of mum plants in 6 and 8-inch pots. He also is responsible for some top-notch exhibition mums.

Adolph Mohr has practically sold out all his cut mums—two weeks earlier than usual.

A visit to C. E. Gray's found the place in fine shape. For cut flowers Mr. Gray has a fine lot of sweet peas and carnations. He has one large house devoted to tomatoes, and they look like prize-winners.

A. F. Barbe is cutting a good batch of Ophelia roses and his carnations are doing well. His mum crop this year is the best he has ever had.

The Peterson Floral Co. had one of the largest decorations of the season last week, in which it used twelve large potted mums for one part of the show.

Samuel Murray last week had one of the best window displays seen for some time. It contained pot and cut mums and baskets of mums so arranged that all the colors blended perfectly.

Fred Fromhold reports that, for a beginner of only two weeks' standing, business was a surprise to him—far better than he ever expected it to be.

Arthur Newell says he cannot get enough good pot mums to supply the demand. He had a good run of funeral work and decorations last week.

T. J. Noll says he is overloaded with cut mums, from the smallest sizes to the largest. Valley is coming in heavily.

Miss Jennie Murray remains confined to her home and will not be able to return to work for another week.

August Luther is cutting some fine stevias, the first reported this season. He says business is good.

The Market.

A slight improvement in business has been noted since the last report. Considering all things, business for the month of October was satisfactory, and the present month has opened favorably. Little is noticed in the way of receptions just now and weddings and funerals, though plentiful, are of the small kind. The bulb season is in full swing and fair business is being done by most of the florists and seedsmen. Chrysanthemums are quite plentiful and large blooms are seen. There are many choice varieties and all sell well. Among them are Oconto, Pacific Supreme, Bonnaffon, Chrysolora, Touset, William Turner and Queen. The variety of pompons is equally large and the demand for these is good. Fairy Queen is ever popular, as are Alma and Minta. Pink and white Ivory are arriving each day.

The supply of roses is large and the prices somewhat lower. Some good long-stemmed Ophelia and Montrose roses reach us daily and sell well. Russell, Francis Scott Key, Sunburst, Hoosier Beauty and Ward roses are plentiful and sell nicely. Violets are larger and more fragrant, and consequently are more salable. Carnations are improving in quality, but the supply is not overlarge. Orchids are plentiful but move slowly. Valley is satisfactory. Bachelor's buttons and cosmos arrive and are found most useful. Some good cyclamens, primulas and begonias are in the market and find ready sales. The supply of green goods meets all requirements.

Various Notes.

S. Seligman, of the American Bulb Co., Chicago, called on the trade during the week.

Schuyler Arnold, of the Crescent Seed Farm, Spencerport, N. Y., has purchased a new delivery car.

Art Beyers has left the employ of J. B. Keller Sons and has left for his former home at Erie, Pa., to take an extended rest.

A fine chrysanthemum show now is on at the Lamberton Conservatories, Highland park. The exhibition is fully equal to that made in other years and includes many new varieties not seen here before. Neola is possibly the most striking of the new bush plants and attracts a deal of attention.

Another step toward beautifying Rochester is under consideration. A number of buildings, piles of rock and debris will be removed along the river gorge, and with the suggestions of the park officials, trees and shrubbery will be planted. Landscape gardening also will be done around the proposed lake.

Miss M. White is in the employ of H. E. Wilson. Business with this firm is good.

Morris Cohen, of New York, was in town Friday, November 3, and displayed a good collection of ribbon samples. He reports unusually good business on this trip. H. J. H.

North Judson, Ind.—Potted plants, bulbs and cut flowers will be handled by Deardorff & Deardorff next year. They already deal in poultry, pet stock, vegetables, small fruits and honey. Mrs. Grace Deardorff will take charge of the flower department and C. R. Deardorff of the other departments.

Greenhouse White

is made for us by paint experts, by people who have made a life-long study of painting problems; and in buying a product which bears their endorsement you can depend upon securing a product satisfactory in all respects for the purpose intended.

The value of a pure white, light-reflecting surface, which will diffuse and re-use every ray of light, cannot be over-estimated.

Greenhouse White will stay white—therefore, it is the paint to use.

Prices on application to Remember,

all ordinary paint will not do. The conditions are extreme—not to say remarkable, and it takes a paint complying with certain technical requirements to give satisfaction. You will find Greenhouse White to be the paint.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Business is improving and during the last two weeks it greatly exceeded that of previous weeks. Mums are the leader, as usual at this date, and they are of good quality. The supply has been heavy but within bounds; there has been no surplus as yet to speak of. November 4 was a big day for mums on account of the football game, and from the outlook at present there does not seem much danger of an overflow of mums in this market.

Beauties are scarce, with the demand indifferent. Other roses are of fine quality and are moving nicely, considering the heavy supply of mums. Carnations are coming in heavily and are being cleaned up as they come in. They have been bringing a little more than usual at this time. Sweet peas are more plentiful and clear nicely at good prices. There are some lilies to be had, but it seems that the demand is rather weak. Violets are here, but as a rule they are not extra good.

The valley proposition is a hard one and it really is not safe to take orders for sprays. There have been several disappointments lately and some have refused to take orders for it. There is a good demand for bulbs and quite a call for potted plants, but these have been in limited supply.

Various Notes.

Sherman Stephens & Son report business good and stock hard to get.

The Livingston Seed Co. says it is cleaning up stock closely on account of the heavy demand.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. has been cutting heavily of mums, roses and carnations, and has put a new Overland delivery car into commission.

T. J. Ludwig has been having quite a run on small baskets filled with mums.

J. M.

Belleville, Ill.—G. W. Grossart sustained a slight damage by fire at his store October 26. The fire started from a pile of ashes from some weeds that had been burned the night previous.

Des Moines, Ia.—J. S. Wilson, of the J. S. Wilson Floral Co., is one of the board of directors of the Retail Merchants' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, the membership of the retailers' bureau being 560, and of the Chamber of Commerce, 1,800.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

Any sort of a business or industrial experiment may prove expensive enough, even if done in a small way. To let the contract for a new Greenhouse to be built of a wood that is not established as the one best after years and years of trial—that looks like experimenting on a grand scale.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE THE RISK?

But with the greenhouse made of Cypress you have a structure that is so sound and enduring as to remove all thought of experimenting. When you think it all over—when you come right down to Brass Tacks—there's nothing to it but Cypress for Greenhouse construction, if you would eliminate the element of experiment.

GET A BOOK OR TWO

Better get a volume, or two, or a dozen, of our Cypress Pocket Library—they're FREE. Vol. 3 is authority on GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION; Vol. 20 is a new farm book, with plans for eight out-buildings—3 barns, a hen house, hog house, corn crib, silo and a small greenhouse. Better get it; costs nothing. "Write soon; good-bye." Vol. 36 is a guide book to good Carpentry; Vol. 37 is the Silo Book.

Listen! When the largest greenhouses in the country use many miles of a certain gutter; when users write in and tell us of its long life and order more; when the largest grower in the country has over eight miles of it, and still wants more—doesn't it look as though there were something unusually good about that gutter?

PANSIES.

THE BEST GIANT PANSIES.
Our Pansies are the best the world produces. They combine the choicest large flowering sorts of both European and American growers. It has been our aim to make this the finest strain of this favorite flower in existence. Raised at an altitude of 5,721 ft. above sea level, gives them lots of fibrous roots. They start quickly. They are not soft.
Send your order in at once with the cash for field-grown plants, $3.50 per 1000.

PELARGONIUMS.

PELARGONIUMS.

Remember we are the real distributors of Easter Greeting; the first one to advertise it,—now look at 'em. Wide awake florists know a good thing when they see it. Some are a little slow at first, but that isn't to be wondered at when one considers the "new frauds." But listen! Get in the swim for 1917. We have over 25,000 coming for November and December sales and hope to have 50,000 coming a little later, $7.50 per 100. We are making them by special machinery and the war hasn't changed the price. Our guarantee covers everything.

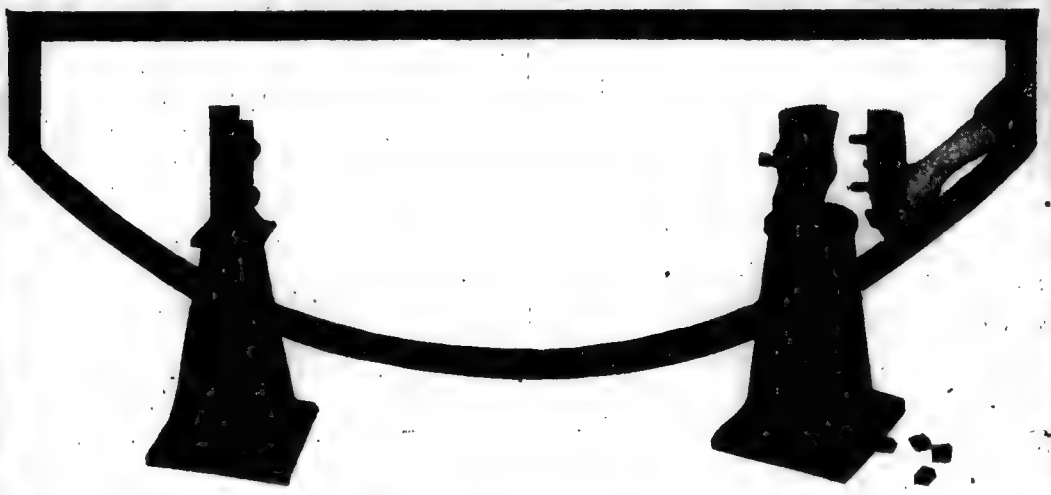
WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Business last week was not all that could be expected, as the campaign made itself felt in Washington through the large numbers of people who went home to vote. It is surprising the effect that this has had, with the glut of chrysanthemums which has swept the market to the detriment of all other flowers. Roses have been plentiful and have met with little sale. Carnations, which have been improving both as to quantity and quality, have dropped to $2 and $1.50 per hundred, although previously they brought twice that much.

There are a dozen different varieties of chrysanthemums to be had at almost the buyer's own price. Among the best of these are Chieftain and Turner. The ruling prices seem to have been $8 and $10 per hundred. Pompons also cut quite a figure during the week, as they were offered in quantity at comparatively low prices. Orchids, while not plentiful, are in sufficient supply to meet all demands. Lily of the valley is coming in more plentifully and can be had at $6 per hundred. Sweet peas are not in sufficient supply to make any disturbance in the market and the same may be said of daisies. Cooler weather is improving the quality of the double violets and the sale has increased. Easter lilies are less plentiful than they have been and the price remains stationary at $12.50 per hundred.

Various Notes.



C. E. Brooks, 1527 Fourteenth street, northwest, is closing up his business there and occupying his new store across the street at 1530. The new quarters are better in many particulars. They are located on a busier side of the street, are more light and cheerful and contain modern improvements. The store is divided in the center by the counter and icebox, the balance of the store being used for making-up, storage and shipping purposes. Mr. Brooks was located at his former address for sixteen years and prior to that he spent two years at 1537 Fourteenth street. He is looking forward to a greatly increased business at the new stand.

The Studebaker delivery wagon owned by Theodore Diedrich was quite badly damaged last week in a collision with a wagon. The auto was being driven into town by Ben Diedrich, who endeavored to pass the wagon. He did not see that there were two large railroad ties protruding from the sides of the wagon and hit these. Fortunately, Mr. Diedrich himself escaped uninjured.

Among the visitors last week was John Henry Small III, who is in charge of the landscape department of the New York store of J. H. Small & Sons and who came here with Mrs. Small to visit his father, who looks after the Washington business. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Small, of New York also were here.

C. E. Jenkins, who for the last two years has been manager of the store operated by C. E. Brooks, in the arcade at Fourteenth street and Park road, Northwest, has taken over that business. Mr. Jenkins had no previous knowledge of the florists' business, but under the tutorage of Mr. Brooks he has made rapid strides and is doing nicely in his new undertaking.

Getting Right Down to Bottom Construction Facts

EVER noticed the design of the bases used in the big sky-scrapers? Take a look next time you are going past one that's being erected, and you will see that the post base they use is very much like the one we use.

It differs mainly in being squattier and made to bolt on top of the concrete footing, instead of being bedded in it, as ours is.

This cast-iron post base of ours has been criticised by other builders as being needlessly heavy and cumbersome.

In comparison with their iron post, with a little turned-up-toe kind of a base, it is heavy. But look at our eave lines, supported by our steel post and this base, and then look at the other fellow's and see whose stays as straight as a string.

Our flat steel posts are bolted to the cast-iron base above the grade line. The columns are also clamped to the same kind of base and further securely secured by a set screw.

This arrangement gives a chance for adjustment, which is a very important point in trueing up the house when erecting.

For full description of every part of our Reconstructed Construction, look in the Supply Book. If you haven't one, send for one.

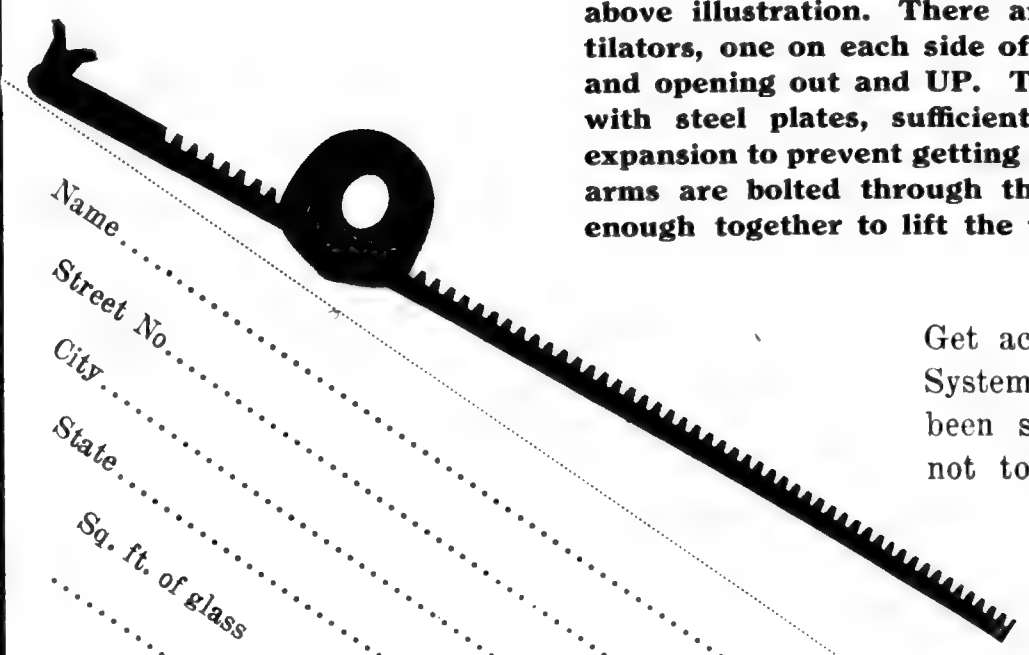
Toledo, O.—Because of the death of J. H. Taylor, the affairs of the American Woodenware Mfg. Co., manufacturer of plant tubs, etc., are to be liquidated.



How much is your stock worth?

Your system of ventilating will, in a great measure, determine this matter. You, as a successful grower, appreciate this fact to a great extent. You know what a power you control in a really reliable ventilating system. In the AGMCO you have it—your ideal.

Note the continuous shaft roof ventilating apparatus in the above illustration. There are two continuous lines of ventilators, one on each side of the ridge, hinged on the ridge and opening out and UP. The sashes are clamped together with steel plates, sufficient space being left to allow for expansion to prevent getting out of line. The rack and pinion arms are bolted through the bottom rail of the sash close enough together to lift the whole sash without twisting it.

Get acquainted with the AGMCO Ventilating System—compare it with other makes. It has been said that comparisons are odious—but not to the AGMCO. They only prove to the investigator that the AGMCO is the one safe ventilating system. Show you? Surely. Fill out the coupon and mail today.

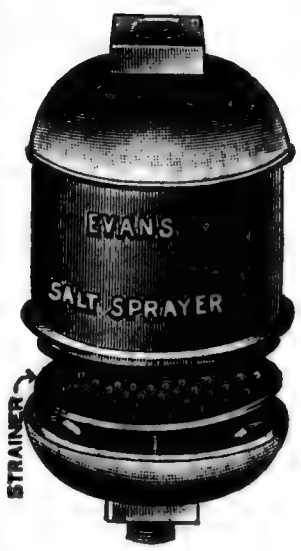
PIPE FRAME GREENHOUSES

FURNISHED BY US FOR ZORN & GAERTNER, SAGINAW, MICH.

Here we have a very nice vegetable greenhouse establishment started only a few years ago and thriving wonderfully. The owners started with only two 28 feet wide houses, but they looked into the future and arranged matters so that more houses could easily be added.



These are our standard type of construction with the "Bolted Thru the Pipe" fittings used on all supporting members, This is the construction upon which we received a CERTIFICATE OF MERIT at the Boston Convention.

If you are thinking of building this is a good time to acquaint yourself with the subject. Better write for estimates and sketches, they are free.

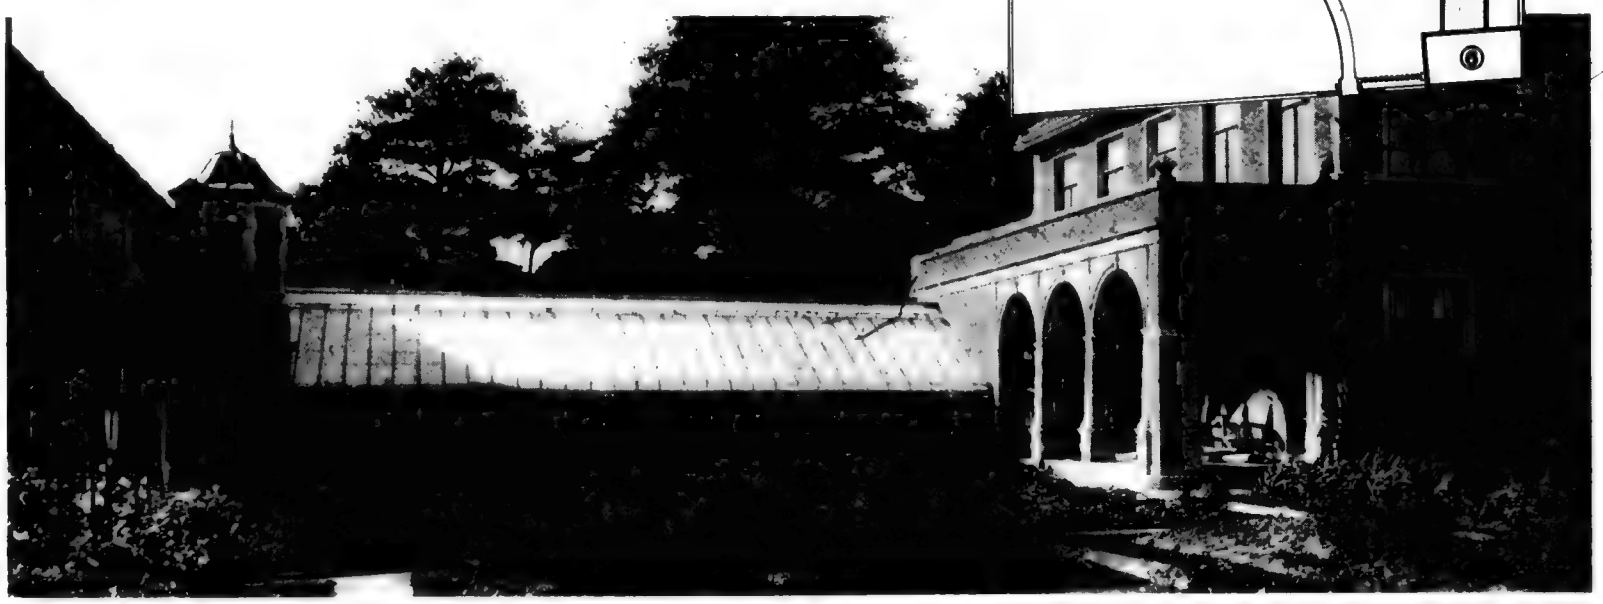
THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

A WEEKLY JOURNAL FOR FLORISTS, SEEDSMEN AND NURSERYMEN.



THE AUTUMN NUMBER

When next you are in Milwaukee take a taxi drive up the beautiful Lake Boulevard; and when you come to this layout (you can't miss it) pull the bell of the gardener's cottage, and we are sure Mr. W. McKinnoe (the gardener) will gladly show you the grounds and glass gardens.

Making the Best of a City Block

An Accomplishment That May Hold a Hint for You

HERE, indeed, is a compact, attractive, practical layout. All three of those things it most certainly is. In brief, two sides of the garden and lawn are bounded by a fine English-design brick wall; the other two sides by the gardener's cottage, a glass show house, the residence, the garage, a greenhouse and the so-called "garden house," which is really a work room, with a sleeping room above.

You can well imagine the street-side effect of the greenhouse—like a big showcase filled with flowers.

Making the greenhouse serve as a boundary to a property is nothing new, but it is a thing well worth keeping in mind.

You have guessed right—both the show and greenhouse of this Milwaukee subject are our construction of Evérlasting Lastingness.

RAINBOW FREESIAS

Rainbow Freesias are great money-makers for all florists, whether they grow for their own retail trade or for the wholesale market. Splendid sellers at top prices. Moreover, the habit of plant is branching, each bulb giving two to three flower spikes with stems long enough for all floral purposes.

Bulbs 3/8 to 1/2 inch, $4.00 per 100; $30.00 per 1000

Announcing the Advent of

Crepe-Wood

A WATERPROOF FLORISTS' ACCESSORY, manufactured from wood. (Patents allowed and pending.) It is an all-the-year-round necessity and applicable to every branch of the florists' business. It can be used outdoors if desired.

We want to tell you something about CREPE-WOOD and how to use it. Right here we suggest that you cut out this page and tack it on the backroom wall for future references.

HOW TO MAKE A FLOWER BOX

←« Simply unroll around any old box and tack in position. The appearance of the box may be improved by tacking on a stained or painted lath, but it is not necessary. This material is ideal for tulips and similar plants. Growers and nurserymen can use this material to advantage.

This illustration shows CREPE-WOOD wrapped »→ around a potted plant. It is not necessary to tie with a ribbon, as thread or ordinary paper fasteners (at all stationers) will hold it. An office stapling machine makes a permanent fastening but is not necessary.

←« This shows baskets and permanent pot covers made from CREPE-WOOD with ordinary shears and a $1.50 office stapling machine. Three or four pieces are cut from the roll (like those lying in picture), and stapled together to form a pot-shaped covering. The handle is then bent and stapled to the sides and across the bottom, the pot resting on the bottom of the handle. These baskets can be made by the florist in about one minute.

We recommend to all florists who have not provided for their full supply of Lilies for Easter forcing to give us a trial order for a few cases and prove to themselves how our stock compares with what they have been using. We have been highly complimented upon the splendid quality of the Lilies we delivered and in many instances have received repeat orders. We are ready to deliver, at a moment's notice, any quantity, from a case to 100,000, as we have the stock in our possession. Furthermore, we have also provided for a large quantity of Giganteum and placed it in storage to take care of the florists' needs for summer forcing. Can supply in quantity Lilium Rubrum, L. Magnificum, L. Album and L. Auratum.

MAGNOLIA FACTS

¶Yes, Mr. Florist, be particular as to what kind of Magnolia Leaves you buy now, under the present conditions.

¶Dye colors have advanced from 1000% to 2000%; preparing chemicals have exactly doubled in prices since the war began, as have also the paper cartons. In spite of this, we are in position to furnish you with first-class Magnolia Leaves through your wholesaler at a small advance in comparison with the above.

¶We guarantee that the quality of our leaves is as good now as they were before the war, and that they are prepared fully, regardless of the above-stated high prices of the materials.

¶You fool yourself if you buy the cheaper grade of leaves, as they will become mildewed and they will dry out shortly after the boxes are opened. Our goods are sold by every leading wholesale florist in the United States and Canada, and they have stood the test for the past six years.

¶A magnolia leaf is only worth using if it has been fully preserved, but NOT by a cheap process, which enables others to sell the leaves cheaper by a few cents. You pay these few cents about ten or fifteen times over, when you consider the poor value of these goods.

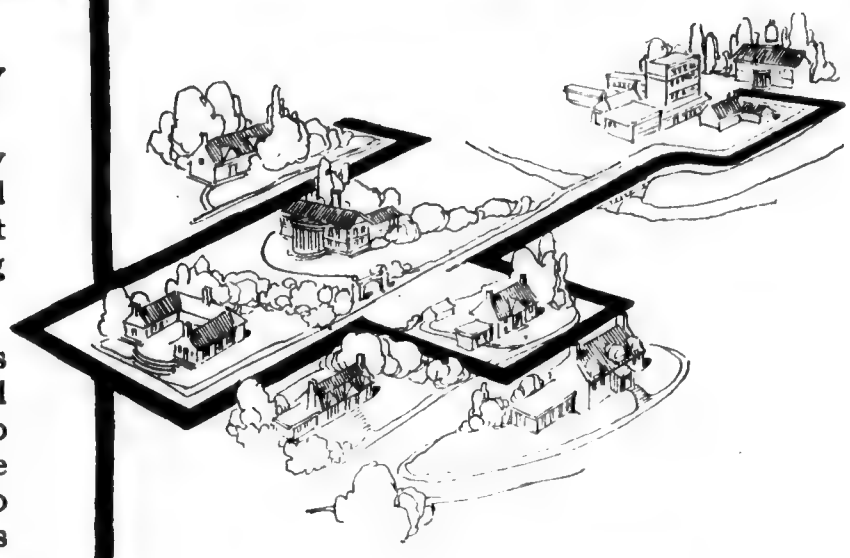
A Studebaker cuts the Cost

—opens up new territory

Not only does this Studebaker Delivery Car at $875 cost less than horses and wagons in actual expense paid—but it cuts the cost in another way—by getting NEW business.

The additional speed of this car and its stamina, its disregard of weather and distance makes it possible for you to make deliveries in the suburbs where now it costs too much, takes too long to deliver by horses and wagon. This increased volume on the same expense represents one of the big economies that a Studebaker Delivery Car insures you.

Florists all over the country are using Studebaker Cars for deliveries, cutting costs, giving BETTER service. They know that with Studebaker's half a century of delivery vehicle experience back of it, this car is built with a complete knowledge of the delivery needs. They know that with the experience of manufacturing more than 240,000 motor vehicles, this car is simple, easy to operate, ECONOMICAL and reliable at all times.



And most important of all, they know that it cuts the cost of deliveries from 2c to 6c per package. We can give you exact figures on YOUR delivery costs and how much this Studebaker will save YOU. See the Studebaker dealer or write us for interesting facts and figures.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

SEEDLING ROSES RAISED AT RICHMOND

When one expert writes an appreciative description of another expert's work, the account surely is worth reading. When E. G. Hill tries to beat even his own past record in raising new roses, and when C. H. Totty reports the results of the Hill experiments, the report deserves attention.

By CHARLES H. TOTTY.

RETURNING from St. Louis after the meeting of the National Flower Show committee, held October 13, I stopped at the establishment of the E. G. Hill Co., in Richmond, Ind. Since it is one of the largest places in that locality and there is nearly always something of interest there to show visitors, I try to call there at least once every year. This year I was doubly and trebly rewarded when I found there a wonderful selection of seedling roses. Mr. Hill informed me that about three years ago, before the stock of Ophelia was distributed at all in this country, he learned its wonderful value as a forcing rose and decided to make a great many crosses, with Ophelia in every case as the mother plant. A series of crosses were made, using as the pollen parent such standard varieties as Sunburst, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Ward, My Maryland, etc., and a most careful record was kept of each cross and the resulting seedlings.

Watching Results.

Out of about 3,000 seedlings which resulted from these crosses, forty varieties were selected and are now in their second year. Some have propagated better than others and a total of about 3,000 plants are now in flower.

Anyone who is at all interested in roses would do well to visit Richmond once or twice this year, to see how these seedling roses are progressing. Personally, I consider Mr. Hill has had excellent results. There is hardly a poor thing in the forty varieties selected for the second year's trial and some of the types are simply wonderful; they will startle the country if they retain their present proclivities. I was so interested in them that I spent an entire day with Mr. Hill, tramping up and down the rose houses and studying these plants. Never before have I seen seedling roses that showed their parentage so strongly as do these of Mr. Hill's.

Marked with Three Crosses.

For instance, in the case of seedling No. 627, which I marked with three crosses, the pollen plant, Killarney Brilliant, has left its imprint on the seedling as regards color and it resembles the pollen parent much more than do most seedlings, which are usually of decidedly the same type as the mother parent. I shall be indeed surprised if No. 627 does not eventually resolve itself into a splendid forcing rose for America. Another cross that shows both parents quite well is No. 393, Shawyer on Ophelia. This has all the Shawyer earmarks of growth, never needing pinching; it makes a wonderfully long growth without any stopping. Shawyer, when it does well, is hard to beat either on the exhibition or commercial dealers' tables. No. 393 would be well worth more than the single cross I gave it.

No. 427 seemed to resemble Mock considerably in growth and also somewhat in color. The fully expanded flower was a little flat, but otherwise the growth of the plant was ideal in every way. No. 467 was a lovely shade of pink, with a deeper heart. Eventually—after I had been up and down the rows about a dozen times—it secured three crosses. It is interesting to hear the different criticisms offered by the various members of the Hill family on their roses. I found afterward that Mr. Hill has set his heart on No. 467 as being perhaps the best of the entire collection. Time alone, of course, will settle this question.

Rose Red Rover.

Almost Ideal.

The best shaped flowers of the entire collection were on No. 882, also a three-cross variety in my notebook. The color is an especially delicate shade, sometimes referred to as blush pink. It may be that this variety will not stand the pressure when jammed and pushed around in the wholesale market, but, as I saw it blooming, it certainly was the "pink of perfection," with its high-pointed center. This struck me as being an almost ideal rose. I made this note after it in my book: "Will it ship?" I suppose we shall have to wait and see.

No. 32, close by, was growing literally like a weed. It has this slight handicap, that the bud is separated, or, as some people say, it "comes double." Otherwise it would be certain to rank quite high.

The varieties resembling Ophelia in color, as well as in foliage and stem, are numerous. No 248, a lovely shade of cream with a yellow heart, showed a great deal of character. The individual buds may perhaps run too small to be classed in the large-flowered section, but it certainly should be useful for corsage bouquets.

Double and White Ophelias.

Nos. 293 and 434 are similar in many respects to Ophelia. So, also, is No. 132, in color, but it might be called a double Ophelia, as it is a gigantic seedling, with foliage and flower about twice as large as those of the average Ophelia. Surely this will be a wonderful variety for outdoor blooming. Other varieties that I thought should be splendidly adapted for garden blooming are Nos. 702, 336 and 666. The last-mentioned is a lovely cream color, quite full and free. No. 702 will certainly be a great improvement on Mrs. Ward as a bedding rose.

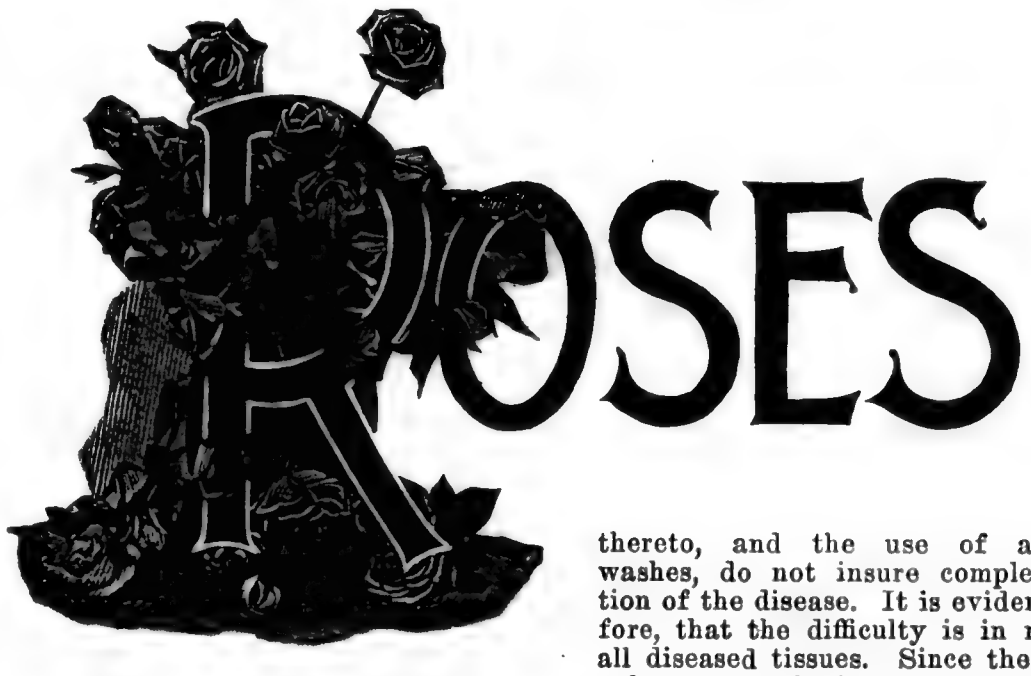
The gem of the entire collection is No. 148, a pure white Ophelia! The buds when opening are faintly tinged with green, which always indicates in any flower a pure white bloom when fully opened. We have almost prayed for a white to help us out in the rose section. Unless all present signs fail, we have it in this white Ophelia, No. 148, which is the best of the white varieties. There are, in all, five numbers among the whites, but nothing, in my humble opinion, to compare with No. 148.

Pink with White Etching.

A variety that will be much noted later is No. 328, the bud of which is a lovely shade of pink. Just when it is in the right condition to cut it seems to have an etching of white, which makes the flower stand out as distinctively as though someone had etched it in a woodcut. No. 1,238 had a beautiful long-pointed bud, white with a yellowish tendency in the center, but the opened flowers did not reveal enough petalage, in my opinion, to make this variety worth while.

Hill's Seedling Rose No. 378.

Mrs. Russell crosses are much in evidence. No. 367 shows prominently the influence of the pollen parent, both in color and stamina. No. 588 is another variety that shows the influence of Russell, but, judging by the crop in sight when I saw it, it is a much freer variety.



One Ready for Distribution.

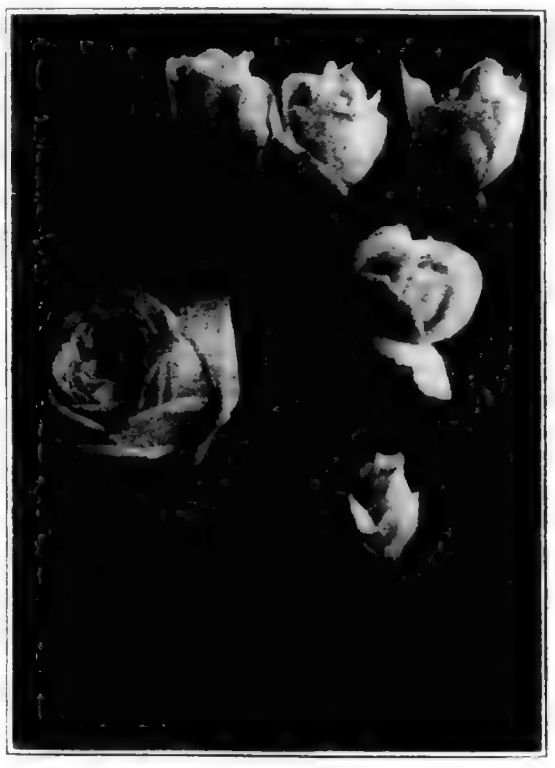
Another splendid variety, and one that will be distributed this winter, is a sort of double red Richmond, a much stronger grower than Richmond and having about twice as many petals as that variety. It has been named, provisionally, Red Rover. This is not a Hill seedling, but it is the only new rose that Mr. Hill will have in quantity to distribute in 1917. It is shown in the illustration on the preceding page.

It is impossible to gauge in one day, or even in one week, such a remarkable collection as Mr. Hill's. The only entirely satisfactory way to do would be to go over them every little while and give each one its degree of merit as it appeared at those times.

I can only say, I have never in all my former experience seen anything that showed such promise as these seedlings and we have all to take off our hats to Mr. Hill, as there is no doubt that the "Old Master" is still "putting them over."

[The reader's interest in the foregoing article may be enhanced by the knowledge that the photographs with which it is illustrated were made by Elmer D. Smith. When two such expert novelty raisers as Messrs. Totty and Smith collaborate in a discussion of the work of a confrere the resulting article can not be otherwise than out of the ordinary.—Ed.]

LADY ALICE STANLEY.



The rose plant I am sending you for identification was received with a number of Ophelias purchased last spring. What is the variety? E. W.—Minn.

The variety is Lady Alice Stanley, a rose which up to the present time has not been grown for cut flowers to any great extent. One or two growers in the east are having good success with it. When grown properly, Lady Alice Stanley is a well paying variety, but so far few seem to have been able to flower it profitably. W. J. K.

CROWN GALL ON MILADY.

We are mailing you under separate cover a Milady rose plant that has a peculiar growth above the roots. This growth eventually will kill the plant. We have lost nearly fifty plants in this same way during the last month and the growth has continued to appear on other plants. We have other varieties in the same house, but only Milady shows this disease. We would like to know through The Review what the trouble is and if there is any remedy for it. M. F. C.—Ill.

George L. Peltier, of Urbana, Ill., has diagnosed the case as follows: "I find that the plant is badly infected with crown gall, caused by bacteria. This is a serious disease to combat and one that is hard to control. Removal of the gall, with the tissues adjacent thereto, and the use of antiseptic washes, do not insure complete isolation of the disease. It is evident, therefore, that the difficulty is in removing all diseased tissues. Since the gall develops promptly in nursery stock, it is readily detected at the time of transplanting, and such infected stock will, wherever possible, be discarded. Any injuries to growing trees at or near the surface of the ground will make infection easier and consequently care should be taken in cultivation of orchards. The fact that the organisms persist in the soil for a long time prevents the growing of plants in infected soil.''

Examine all stunted looking plants in the bench and remove the gall. Then if air-slaked lime is applied to the affected parts and mixed liberally with the surrounding soil, the disease may be kept in check. The trouble is that the disease has, as a rule, obtained considerable headway before it is discovered and then it takes some time to eradicate it. Bulgarie, or Antoine Rivoire, is subject to the same disease, while the Killarneys and other roses seem to be immune. W. J. K.

ROSE FOLIAGE BURNED.

Please tell us what the trouble is with our roses. They are losing a lot of foliage. Enclosed you will find a few samples of the leaves. We fed the plants with tankage twice a month, at the rate of a 100-pound sack to 300 feet of bench.

J. B.—Ill.

Your rose foliage had every appearance of having been burned. Too heavy an application of the tankage probably was responsible for the trouble. The best and safest food for roses is cow manure. This is used by practically all the leading rose growers the country over and I would suggest that you use it in feeding your plants hereafter. If you cannot secure it, try sheep manure, but give tankage and other such fertilizers a wide berth. They are good for some crops, but not for roses. C. W.

ROSE PLANTS IN COLDFRAMES.

Can tea roses be successfully lifted from the field in the fall, potted into 4-inch or 5-inch pots and be kept in a coldframe over winter, to be brought into bloom in April? Also, what would be the best size to build frames?

J. P.—O.

Tea, hybrid tea and hybrid perpetual roses can all be lifted and potted as suggested. The latter part of October is a good time to do this.

A convenient size of sash is 3x6 feet. These can be bought ready made from greenhouse builders, dealers in garden sundries, etc. You can use planks for framework. Be sure to allow a pitch of four to five inches from the back to the front of the frame.

Plunging the pots in leaves will lessen the probabilities of their being broken. You could use mats and board shutters above the sashes. C. W.

CATERPILLARS ON ROSES.

Enclosed you will find some rose leaves, together with bugs or flies that have been feeding on the leaves. I have tried to get something to kill them, but have failed. Will you kindly tell me what to use? W. H. G.—Ind.

I failed to find any of the insects on the foliage forwarded. The pest probably is a caterpillar, and if it is in virulent form the best plan will be to spray the foliage with arsenate of lead at the rate of three pounds to fifty gallons of water, using a fine spray nozzle. This is sure to clean out any leaf-eating pests. It will whiten and slightly disfigure the foliage for a short time, but other poisonous sprays would be liable to scoreh the foliage.

Hill's Seedling Rose No. 132.

For winged insects I would suggest using a nicotine spray. Arsenate of lead has been tried and proved efficacious in cases similar to your own.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Committee Holds Two Meetings.

The executive committee of the American Rose Society held two sessions in Horticultural hall, Philadelphia, during the chrysanthemum show.

President Pennock called the meeting to order at 2:30 p. m., November 8, and there was a full attendance. Provision was made to hold the next annual exhibition and rose show in Philadelphia next March, in Horticultural hall. The prizes allotted for the show were $750 for plants and flowers, $1,000 for rose gardens and $2,000 for cut flowers. The schedule committee consists of E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass.; Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass., and J. K. M. L. Farquhar, Boston, Mass.

A letter was read from John Young, secretary of the National Flower Show committee, inviting the American Rose Society to join in an exhibition in St. Louis in 1918.

Kallen & Lunnemann, Boskoop, Holland, have sent six separate specimens of roses for test in the rose test garden, and it was directed to have these roses go to Hartford, Conn.

The Evening Session.

At the evening meeting, which was called at 8:00 p. m., there was an attendance of over fifty. E. Allan Peirce stated the work of the show, and a letter was read from the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, inviting the American Rose Society to come to Philadelphia, ''the world's greatest workshop and convention city,'' and promising to give every coöperation for its success. The following gentlemen spoke in favor of the exhibition going to Philadelphia: Messrs. Farenwald, Eisele, Simpson, Kleinheinz, Brown, Mills, Dodge, Cartledge, W. R. Pierson, Skidelsky, W. A. Manda and others.

The guarantee fund, as pledged so far, is $4,565, fifty-one firms and individuals making up the amount.

Benjamin Hammond, Sec'y.

WHO SELLS THE LOTUS?

Can you identify the plant from which the enclosed sample was taken? I think it is a lotus, but I have not seen its flowers and therefore am not sure. Is this plant, which is a splendid subject for hanging baskets, offered for sale by anyone? I have been unable to find anything like it in the catalogues.

W. R. Y.—Kan.

The plant in question is a lotus, probably L. Bertholetii, though the absence of a flower makes it difficult to identify. The various species of lotus have pea-shaped flowers, and those of L. Bertholetii are produced in a loose cluster of several flowers, their color being crimson, fading to orange. While this plant is not a new one, I am unable to say where it can be procured.

ILLINOIS FLORISTS' DOINGS AT BLOOMINGTON

FINE SHOW, GOOD MEETING.

The Exhibition.

The tenth annual show of the Illinois State Florists' Association, at Bloomington, November 9 and 10, was by general consent the most thoroughly successful ever held by that organization. Even those who were most sanguine expressed surprise and pleasure at the splendid manner in which florists from all parts of the state, as well as some outside, responded to the invitation to exhibit at Bloomington. Particularly noteworthy is this fact because the show was entirely noncompetitive. Too often have growers felt that it was not worth their while to exhibit when this incentive was lacking, forgetting the advantages which accrue to the trade through having its products brought before the people.

The Reign of the Pompon.

That the public is interested in flowers and flower shows where opportunity is offered to view some of the choice examples of the growers' and retailers' skill, was again definitely proved by the large crowds which thronged the Coliseum during the two days of the show. And the sight which greeted a visitor's eyes as he stepped into the Coliseum was indeed beautiful, not only en masse and from the standpoint of the layman, but also as concerns the character of individual exhibits as seen through the trained eyes of the florist. A hall divided into three sections lay before him. The center section, roped off with wedding accessories, was reserved for tables set for dinner, which were artistically decorated with roses. The two other sections consisted of tables carrying miscellaneous exhibits. Around the sides of the hall were booths of other exhibitors, including trade displays.

Among other things the show brought out is the slow, but nevertheless marked change which is taking place in the relative positions of big mums and pompons. A few years ago pompons were a more or less insignificant factor in the trade. Today they are rapidly attaining a position of supreme importance. The reason is obvious. Pompons are small, neat and pretty. They are readily shipped, hold out well, lend themselves to many uses and fit into a vase or basket of moderate dimensions.

The Exhibitors.

The following are the exhibitors and the committee's enumeration of the exhibits:

J. F. Ammann Co., Edwardsville, Ill., exhibited White Enchantress. Enchantress Supreme and Enchantress carnations, Chieftain and White Chieftain mums, Marigold, Garza, Yellow Mensa, Mensa, Golden Climax, Leelia and Baby pompons, Ophelia, White Killarney and Russell roses; also the only exhibit of orchids at the show.

Henry Baer, Peoria, Ill., one vase each of Yellow Eaton and Charles Rager mums, White Enchantress, White Wonder, Enchantress Supreme, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Champion and Benora carnations, all well grown.

I. L. Pillsbury, Galesburg, Ill., showed Chrysolora, Pretoria and Arthur Horn mums, well grown.

Robert Craig, Philadelphia, staged a large display of crotons and dracænas. This display was purchased by A. Washburn & Sons, Bloomington.

C. Loveridge, Peoria, Ill., staged a vase each of Enchantress and White Enchantress carnations, Killarney Brilliant, Hoosier Beauty and Mock roses, an exceptionally well done vase of Charles Rager and Col. Appleton and Wm. Turner mums and vases of the following pompons and singles: Buckingham, Mason, Klondike, Western Beauty, Richardson, Donald, Model of Perfection and Baby Margaret.

Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Ill., showed vases of Golden Climax, Mary and Western Beauty, a chrysanthemum of a pleasing shade of pink. It also showed seedlings under No. 10-1914, 1-1914 and Hilda Canning, which was awarded a certificate on a score of eighty-eight points. It also exhibited a specially well finished vase of eighteen blossoms exhibition chrysanthemums and twenty-five Tekonsha chrysanthemums.

Restland Floral Co., Mendota, Ill., one vase each Eaton and Yellow Eaton, and a vase of Beacon carnations, all well grown.

Dixon Floral Co., Dixon, Ill., one vase Cream Robinson, a sport of Mrs. Robinson, of a pleasing shade of cream.

E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., one vase of eighteen fancy large exhibition chrysanthemums.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, staged a display of potted chrysanthemums, ferns, dracænas and commercial decorative plants.

Wenona Greenhouses, Wenona, Ill., vase mixed carnations, one vase each Wm. Turner and Dr. Enguehard chrysanthemums, well grown.

El Paso Carnation Co., El Paso, Ill., vase of White Enchantress carnations, and Golden Mensa, Klondike, Diana, Chieftain, Chas. Rager and Wm. Turner mums.

H. Johann & Son, Collinsville, Ill., staged Roman Gold, Chieftain, Rager and Smith's Sensation chrysanthemums, all nice stock.

Hembreiker & Cole, Springfield, Ill., display of cyclamen plants and vases of Roman Gold and Dr. Enguehard chrysanthemums, White Wonder and Enchantress carnations, well grown.

Hembreiker Bros., Lincoln, Ill., staged vases of Chas. Rager and Roman Gold chrysanthemums, nicely done.

Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., staged vases of Russell and Ophelia roses, three vases of carnations, Chieftain, Roman Gold, Chas. Rager, Bonnaffon and Mrs. M. R. Morgan chrysanthemums.. The last mentioned is a beautiful and distinct variety.

Wendland & Keimel, Inc., Elmhurst, Ill., showed vases of White Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Sunburst and Milady roses of exceptional quality.

Henry Gaethje, Rock Island, Ill., showed vases of five varieties, all different colors and types of bouvardia.

L. Stapp Co., Rock Island, Ill., Golden Chadwick, Bonnaffon and White Chieftain, all well grown.

J. Staack & Sons, Moline, Ill., Golden Wedding chrysanthemums and vases of Rose-pink Enchantress, Enchantress, and White Enchantress carnations, all good.

A. Washburn & Sons, Bloomington, Ill., showed H. A. Balfour, judged worthy of special mention; Chieftain, Chas. Turner, Chas. Rager, Mensa, Golden Mensa, Madge, Buckingham, White and Yellow Mrs. Jerome Jones chrysanthemums, all fine.

J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill., displayed vases of Matchless, Superb and No. 143 red seedling carnations, and a vase of assorted seedling carnations. Carnation Superb was granted a certificate, on a score of eighty-six points.

John R. Gee, Bloomington, Ill., had a display of palms and plants in baskets and baskets of cut flowers.

Frank B. Smith's Sons, Danville, Ill., showed crimson seedling carnation No. 208, which looks to be a good commercial variety; Gov. Herrick and a light sport of Gov. Herrick violets, and twenty-three varieties of pompons, all fine.

W. J. Miller & Sons, Pontiac, Ill., one vase of Dr. Enguehard, Smith's Sensation and Wm. Turner chrysanthemums, and two vases of carnations, all well grown.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, Ill., showed an exhibit of palms and vases of eight of the best commercial varieties of roses of fine quality. It also had a booth showing baskets, chiffons, mats and general florists' supplies.

George A. Kuhl, Pekin, Ill., had a beautiful table decoration with basket and corsages of Killarney roses, also Dr. Enguehard, Wm. Turner and Golden Wedding chrysanthemums, well grown.

E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, showed vases of Shawyer, Russell, Stanley, Tipperary, Primrose and Ophelia roses, also carnations and pompons, all of high quality.

Bassett & Washburn, Chicago, showed vases of Mrs. Chas. Russell, American Beauty and Ophelia roses and Belle Washburn, Matchless and Alice carnations, all well grown.

A. T. Pyfer & Co., Chicago, showed White Wonder carnations, and Ophelia, Sunburst and Mrs. Chas. Russell roses, all fine.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, occupied a space in front of the stage with a large line of baskets and supplies. It also had a basket of Thenanthos carnations, which was awarded a certificate on a score of ninety points.

A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, staged a display of bulbs.

Burlington Willowware Shops, Burlington, Ia., occupied a booth with a large assortment of willow baskets.

J. L. Bonnett, Bloomington, Ill., had a booth of plants and baskets of cut flowers pleasingly displayed.

Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago, filled a booth with a large assortment of baskets.

Richmond Cedar Works, Richmond, Va., had a display of plant tubs.

Lion & Co., New York, occupied a booth with novelties in chiffons and ribbons.

Maplewood Greenhouses, Bloomington, Ill., occupied a booth wherein they displayed an assortment of cut flowers.

Zech & Mann, Chicago, showed excellent vases of Russell, Sunburst and Ophelia roses, and a vase of mixed pompons.

C. D. Wiman, Moline, Ill., Arvid Anderson, gardener, showed several vases of pompons and singles, a vase of assorted exhibition chrysanthemums and one large standard form chrysanthemum plant.

Wm. Butterworth, Moline, Ill., C. Sorenson, gardener, showed a vase of exhibition Wm. Turner chrysanthemums and a large standard form of Luxford chrysanthemum plant.

J. E. Yeats, Champaign, Ill., showed his new red rose, Mrs. Yeats, which scored eighty-six points.

Ridgewood Gardens, Highland Park, Ill., showed Bouvardia Humboldtii.

The entire stage of the Coliseum was occupied with an exhibit of pot-grown chrysanthemum plants grown by the school children of Bloomington, Ill., many of which would be a credit to commercial growers. These plants were distributed to the children by A. Washburn & Sons, Bloomington, last spring and they awarded a number of cash prizes for the best grown plants.

The Division of Horticulture, University of Illinois, showed a large variety of seedling mums. A certificate of merit was awarded for this collection.

The McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., showed a fine vase of Mrs. M. R. Morgan chrysanthemums.

Bohannon Floral Co., Chicago, showed a basket of Ophelia roses and bouvardias, with handle decorations of cattleyas and Sweetheart roses.

The Banquet.

November 9 a banquet was held at the Bloomington Club and a happier ending to a successful day could not have been desired. Many of the guests brought ladies, which helped to make the affair even more enjoyable. After an excellent dinner, C. W. Johnson, president of the association, introduced J. H. Hudson, secretary of the Bloomington Club, who, in behalf of the club and Bloomington, extended a hearty welcome to the guests.

The next speaker was Ernst Wienhoeber, Chicago, who spoke on "The Re-

HE IS 83 TODAY

JOHN COOK.

THIS issue of The Review has come into existence just in time to participate in the celebration of the eighty-third birthday of John Cook, the Baltimore rosarian. Perhaps some florists scarcely realize how greatly the trade is indebted to Mr. Cook, for we are prone to receive even the best new roses as we accept the gifts of nature, without much thought about their origin. But consider the Cook roses. Here are a few of them: Souvenir of Wootton, Marion Dingee, White Maman Cochet, Mrs. Robert Garrett, Admiral Schley, Enchanter, Cardinal, Radiance, My Maryland, Panama, Francis Scott Key and—well, the next one is somewhere on the benches where Mr. Cook is still engaged in his wizard-like manipulations. Remember, too, that he introduced to America the Marie Louise Violet, and the roses Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and La France. This business man and wonder-worker was born at Freiburg, Germany, November 16, 1833. He came to America about twenty years later, and was employed chiefly as superintendent of large estates for another twenty years. In 1873 he founded his business at Baltimore, Md.

tail Florist.'' Mr. Wienhoeber pointed out that the foundation of the retail florists' business lies in honest dealing and reliability. ''It is necessary first,'' he said, ''to study your customer, to find out what his particular needs are, and then to give him your advice and honest opinion, telling him what you think would be the right thing to do, but leaving the decision entirely to the customer's own judgment. Never make promises unless you are absolutely certain that you can keep them, and this it is always difficult to be, for you are dependent upon influences beyond your control. Again, always give your customer what he is paying for. Tell him frankly the quality of the goods which you have to offer him, so that he may learn to depend upon you. Never take advantage of a grower's position. Don't press him because he is in difficulty, but on the other hand insist on getting what you pay for. The people you do business with, you will find, will treat you much the same as you treat the growers.'' Mr. Wienhoeber added a few words of caution to the young man contemplating going into the florists' business. He reminded him that it is not an easy road, that the work is hard and the hours long, and that it is far better to stay out if he does not thoroughly enjoy the work.

The next speaker was J. C. Vaughan, Chicago, who stated that the meeting and exhibition was without doubt one of the best in the history of the association. He paid a tribute to Bloomington as a leader in floriculture, added a few words to what had already been said on honesty and cited Ernst Wienhoeber's success as an example of what could be done by honest methods. He advised the trade to keep up publicity in the papers and to turn its attention to efficiency methods.

A. G. Hecht, Urbana, Ill., gave a talk on ''What the University of Illinois Offers a Young Man Entering the Florists' Business.'' He contrasted the values of practical and theoretical knowledge and as an example cited the cases of two young men, one of whom goes to college and the other to a greenhouse where he immediately begins to get practical experience. He pointed out that the boy who entered the university was taught those sciences with which floriculture is closely related, such as chemistry, botany, entomology, etc., that he learned how to write good business letters and probably took a course in public speaking. The boy who entered the practical work, however, had time for study only after hours, when he was generally too tired. And thus, at the end of seven years, the college man, who has a trained mind and the power to draw conclusions, will be forging ahead of his brother who knows only the practical side. He reminded the trade, however, that the college graduate does not know everything and that he requires much help for the first few years after his graduation.

Geo. W. Jacobs, Canton, Ill., read the report of the committee on the exhibition, after which J. F. Ammann, of Edwardsville, Ill., secretary of the association, spoke of previous meetings.

The concluding speaker was Frank Washburn, of Bloomington, Ill., who briefly thanked the florists for coming to Bloomington and bringing exhibits. He announced that the next morning automobiles would be waiting to take the guests around Bloomington to show them the city, after which they would go to his houses and have lunch. Thereupon I. L. Pillsbury, of Galesburg, moved that the association extend a vote of thanks to Mr. Washburn for the splendid work which he had done in connection with the show.

Next day, after the auto trip and luncheon at Washburn's, a party of thirty-six guests left Bloomington for Lincoln, Ill., where they were shown through the new Gullett range of houses which has just been completed.

VERT AND CLEVELAND

C. S. A. CLOSES SESSION.

Officers Elected.

At the close of its twenty-eighth annual meeting, held at Philadelphia last week and reported in The Review of November 9, officers were elected as follows:

President—William Vert, head gardener at Castle Gould, Port Washington, N. Y., advanced from the vice-presidency.

Vice-president—Charles Bause, Cleveland, O.

Secretary—Charles W. Johnson, Morgan Park, Ill., reëlected.

Treasurer—John N. May, Summit, N. J., reëlected.

It was decided to hold the twenty-ninth annual meeting and sixteenth annual exhibition at Cleveland, O., in November, 1917.

A Splendid Show.

While the exhibits were not especially numerous, as shown by the list of awards in last week's issue of The Review, the general impression was that the quality of blooms shown this year was rather ahead of anything in the previous records of the society. The entries were either from the skilled private gardeners of the locality, one of the leaders of whom has been president of the society for three years, or they were from the novelty raisers, who naturally do not show varieties they do not think will be able to hold a place in the race with the sorts now on the market.

Those Present.

The attendance of out-of-town florists was increased to a considerable extent by a special meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society, held November 8, to approve the plans for a special rose show at Philadelphia in March. The visitors noted were:

Vert, William, Port Washington, L. I.
Peirce, E. Allan, Waltham, Mass.
Totty, Charles H., Madison, N. J.
Mann, Earl, Richmond, Ind.
Pierson, Wallace R., Cromwell, Conn.

FLORAL ART GETS SHOWING AT CHICAGO

FLORISTS' CLUB'S NEW STUNT.

Sunday Show in Swell Hotel.

It has been the annual custom of the Chicago Florists' Club to hold a Novelty night at its November meeting, but this year the exploitation of the affair was placed in new hands and the result was a show primarily for the public, held Sunday afternoon and evening in the big ballroom on the nineteenth floor of a downtown hotel. It was a novelty in every sense of the word.

The success achieved seems to depend somewhat on the point of view. The hall, one of the most beautiful in Chicago, with approximately 6,000 square feet of space, was well filled; there has never been anywhere in America so large a showing of the work of retail florists. The pictorial effect of the show was all that could be desired and the individual exhibits were of a quality not open to reproach; yet a lady was heard to remark there was nothing on view one might not see any day in the store windows. The attendance of the public in the afternoon was all that could be desired, as any larger crowd would have been uncomfortable, but in the evening the attendance was much less than was expected. No admission was charged and a large number of neatly printed invitations had been sent out. The attendance of club members and others in the trade was less than had been expected; the growers proved surprisingly indifferent to the uses the retailers make of their stock and the smaller retailers did not seem to appreciate that here was a splendid chance to get a close-range view of how the leaders do things.

One of the gratifying features was the notice the daily papers took of the show, the next day's editions giving write-ups that surely will increase the interest in flowers.

Those who did the work for the club felt well repaid for their effort and expressed the opinion that similar shows could be held three or four times a year with great advantage to the trade.

The Exhibits.

At the entrance to the hall stood a huge basket of roses arranged by the E. Wienhoeber Co. and presented to Miss Selfridge, a debutante, by the Florists' Club. At the far end of the room was a dinner table handsomely decorated with orchids by Wienhoeber, for Hotel La Salle. The same decorator also arranged two big baskets of Mt. Greenwood's new pompons, No. 10-14, golden bronze, and Hilda Canning, bronze, which were among the finest things in the show.

The display of C. Frauenfelder was a demonstration of the artistic abilities of Miss Edna Frauenfelder and was one of the largest and most costly in the show. One table was devoted to bouquets to be worn and included tea dansant, hand, arm, corsage and bride's, the latter of valley and white cyclamen of the Rococo type. A large vase of Chieftain mum and a big basket of Ophelia rose were well arranged. A large basket of mixed mums on a dais was surrounded by baskets of mums, roses, blooming and decorative plants, etc.

George Wienhoeber was the largest exhibitor, his display being a flower show in itself, or, better, a demonstration of the resources of a modern flower store. In addition to a number of tall Beauty vases and big baskets on pedestals, all filled with mums, he used nine tables for the arrangement of smaller pieces and had a number of decorated cages of birds and a dozen or so of illuminated fountains. One of his feature displays was labeled the President basket, but it was so full of flowers the reporter was not able to determine whether the receptacle was made in the form of a turkey or an eagle. It was shown on a flag-draped pedestal surrounded by baskets of cyclamens. A specially attractive table was that showing novelties for the new baby, cradles and slippers filled with flowers, the whole surmounted by a stork just rising from a flower-bordered mirrored pool. Other tables carried corsage bouquets, debutante baskets and a large number of display baskets of roses, pompons and mums, all excellently arranged.

A. Lange had a table of corsage bouquets surrounding a large hamper of violets. A bride's muff attracted much attention. Among the several baskets of flowers those of Champ Weiland rose from Peter Reinberg and Carnation Superb from the Thompson Carnation Co., won favorable comment, as did a vase of Lady Alice Stanley rose and a tall vase of rubrum lilies.

Schiller had four tables as well as several separate pieces, one of which was a big basket of French & Salm's Russell roses, another a combination plant basket and birdcage decorated with Ophelia roses, a third a big vase of Bonnaffon mums. On the tables were debutante baskets, debutante bouquets, corsage bouquets, baskets of plants, fern dishes filled in a variety of ways and other examples of Schiller craftsmanship.

Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, who is a wholesale florist, has been thinking of ways to increase the use of flowers and put up a table of anniversary bouquets to illustrate her ideas to retailers and the public. She believes that the demand for flowers would be enormously increased if every married man could be caused to remember his wedding anniversary and would send his wife a bouquet appropriate for the occasion. The display included bouquets for thirteen anniversaries, examples being:

First—Paper wedding; bouquet of white roses, one for each year of the lady's age, with one red rose in center, in paper bouquet holder and with crepe paper shower.

Fifth—Wooden wedding; bouquet of white roses with five red roses in center, with shower of raffia tied full of little clothespins.

Twenty-fifth—Silver wedding; silver tinsel basket with twenty-five roses, mums, or other flowers, with silver ribbon trimmings.

L. R. Bohannon, of the Bohannon Floral Co., won many words of praise for the decoration of a long table, using decorated arches trimmed with miniature roses; a wedding party of dolls, properly flower-equipped, was passing beneath the arches. Behind the table was a sideboard decoration of mums, with several baskets of pompons and large mums to complete the pictorial effect.

John Mangel was represented by a well arranged basket for a debutante, using mixed pompons.

W. W. Adams had a prettily arranged table featuring two large baskets of mums, cat-tails and butterflies, with numerous smaller debutante baskets and a variety of corsage bouquets.

The Leslie Floral Co. was represented in the arrangement of the tall basket of Beauties that adorned the orchestra's platform.

A tastefully arranged basket of the popular bronze pompon known locally as Mrs. F. Beu was staged by O. A. & L. A. Tonner.

The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., sent, in addition to other things, specimen blooms of James Fraser, Josephine Foley, Wm. Turner, H. E. Converse, Mrs. J. Dunne and Wm. Mease chrysanthemums.

Frank Oechslin staged two groups, one in the outer room, consisting of cyclamens, primulas, mums, oranges, peppers, begonias and ferns, the other filling a corner of the main hall and made up of palms, ferns and a variety of plants with variegated foliage to give the necessary color.

The Growers' Cut Flower Co., of Redwood City, Cal., sent a large box of pompon and single varieties. The mixed flowers were used for a large basket, but there were quantities of Sport Doris, a maroon pompon, and Sport Viola, a darker maroon pompon, for a handsome vase of each.

A. H. Schneider, of Oak Park, filled a corner with cyclamens in several colors, representing the newer varieties, each plant in a basket pot cover.

Vaughan's Greenhouses, Western Springs, built a bank in one corner of the room, of chrysanthemum plants, palms, ferns, etc.

The New Varieties.

There were a number of new roses, mums and carnations on display.

The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., showed Red Ophelia, which is to be introduced as Red Rover, a bright color and a variety of excellent promise. The same exhibitor also sent Mrs. C. Edwards, an imported white mum, and two yellow seedlings for the attention of the C. S. A. committee. The George Wienhoeber exhibits also included a Hill rose sold in this market as Primrose, labeled Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

J. E. Yeats, of Champaign, Ill., came to the show with enough blooms of his new red rose, named Mrs. Yeats, to fill two vases. He was sounding the growers preparatory to its dissemination.

The J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, supplied stock for a tall vase of Carnation Superb, flesh pink, which is to be introduced this season, for a smaller vase of Superb, a vase of a good red, No. 143, and for a vase of mixed seedlings that showed several promising things.

Anton Then supplied stock for a tall vase of Carnation Thenanthos, a variety that has been seen for several years but never in better shape than this time.

James Livingstone, of Milwaukee, sent seedling anemone-flowered mums, No. 9, yellow, and No. 12, pink and white.

The Deerfield Nursery, Deerfield, Ill., showed two seedling mums, No. 223, white of the Garza type, and No. 209, resembling the Mrs. Sander daisy.

Perhaps half the stock used for the show was donated by growers and wholesalers whose names did not appear, among them being: E. C. Amling Co., Meyer & Dramm Co., E. G. Hill Co., Wendland & Keimel Co., Alois Frey, French & Salm, H. Wehrmann, George Ball, Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago Flower Growers' Association, Peter Reinberg, Wietor Bros., Thompson Carnation Co., Bassett & Washburn, J. A. Budlong and Fritz Bahr.

The show was worked up and exploited by Fred Lautenschlager, who also conceived the idea. The staging was in charge of C. T. Johnson, son of C. W. Johnson, who was out of town. They did much hard work and certainly are to be congratulated on the artistic success achieved.

THE AUTUMN EXHIBITIONS

NEW YORK HAS TWO, SEVERAL CITIES ONE EACH

AMERICAN INSTITUTE SHOW.

A Quality Exhibition.

The annual chrysanthemum show of the American Institute was held in the Engineers building, New York, November 8 to 10 and was a wonderful success from every standpoint.

Wm. Turner mum, as usual at this season of the year, carried off practically all the honors in white. The twenty-five blooms staged by Robt. Jones, superintendent for Percy Chubb, Glen Cove, N. Y., were perfect models of beauty. Other wonderful blooms of Turner were shown by William Vert, superintendent for Howard Gould, Port Washington, N. Y., and also by Ernest Robinson, superintendent for M. F. Plant, Groton, Conn.

Wells' Late Pink was splendidly shown by Ernest Robinson, William Vert and Robert Jones in the class calling for twenty-five pink. As shown at the Institute show, this variety leaves nothing to be desired in size or color.

Yellow was chiefly represented by Mrs. R. C. Pulling, Bob Pulling, Wm. Rigby and Odessa, all showing enormous size and excellent finish. Mrs. R. C. Pulling was a bit rough, but its enormous size will always make it a much sought for flower for exhibitions. It is a pity Odessa is not strong enough in the stem to carry its wonderful flower, but as shown in the Institute with artificial supports this handicap was not so apparent. Mary Mason as shown by Robert Jones would be hard to surpass in this color.

In the classes for new varieties, Chas. H. Totty scored first for six white with Louisa Pockett; six yellow, with Golden Champion, and six any other color, with President Everitt. His vase of single mums, which were practically all new seedlings, was much admired.

In the class for twenty-four short-stemmed blooms, C. H. Totty was first and Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y., second. Mr. Totty showed in this class magnificent flowers of W. H. Wait, Wm. Rigby, Golden Champion, H. . Converse, Mrs. Herbert Stevens and Turner. Scott Bros. had H. E. Converse, Rose Pockett and Odessa as their best flowers.

Twenty-four blooms in twenty-four varieties, private growers only, was won by Robert Tyson, superintendent for Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, Convent, N. J. His finest flowers were Mrs. Gilbert Drabble, Nerissa, Mrs. R. H. Boggs, Pres. Viger and Mrs. J. Wells.

Novelty Raisers vs. Gardeners.

In the class for twelve blooms Robert Jones was first and repeated his success in the class for six blooms. In fact, Mr. Jones' flowers were distinguished all through the exhibition by their splendid finish and size. His Turner, Wm. Rigby and Converse were noteworthy examples of cultural skill.

Some twelve exhibitors competed in the class for ten white, and every exhibitor staged Turner.

Carl Schaeffer, superintendent for Richard Mortimer, Tuxedo, N. Y., made an exhibit of a dozen varieties of Japanese anemones, which created a sensation. The finest of these were Old Rose, as its name implies, old rose in color; Yellow Prince, deep bronzy yellow; Graf von Oriole, rose-pink with golden points; Wilfreda, pinkish buff with bronzy center, and H. J. Heinz, a fine bright yellow. This collection was awarded a special diploma and was also scored by the C. S. A., twelve certificates being awarded them. These were the center of an admiring group all day. These are to be distributed to the trade by Mr. Totty.

The center of the hall was occupied by two groups, one exhibited by Mr. Totty and the other by A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn. Both were composed of single and hardy mums and were interesting to the visitors. Mr. Totty had a vase of Japanese mums, varieties shown for the first time this year. They are artistic and novel, a spidery pink being perhaps the best of the collection.

In bush plants Geo. Ferguson, superintendent for Mrs. Payne Whitney, Manhasset, N. Y., and G. L. Wilson, superintendent for C. K. G. Billings, Oyster Bay, N. Y., were the winners.

Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., had a fine collection of pompons.

Howard Gould had a stand of the new winter-flowering begonias and Rex begonias that attracted much attention.

Even though it is late for dahlias, P. W. Popp, superintendent for Mrs. H. Darlington, Mamaroneck, N. Y., showed a remarkable collection which were particularly fine for this late season. Another exhibit of dahlias was that of the Mills Co., which also was fine.

In the classes for specimen plants, Peter Duff, superintendent for Mrs. J. Crosby Brown, Orange, N. J., was first in several classes. Max Schneider, superintendent for Mrs. Peter Hauck, Jr., Orange, N. J., also exhibited in this class, as did also Fred Hitchman, superintendent for Ralph Pulitzer, Manhasset, N. Y.

Fred Hitchman was first in the class for 100 single violets.

The Roses.

The rose exhibits, while not large, were of high quality. Mr. Totty was first for twenty-five crimson, with Hoosier Beauty; twenty-five yellow, with Gertrude Hale; twenty-five pink, with Ophelia; twenty-five any other color, with Francis Scott Key. L. A. Noe, Madison, N. J., was first for twenty-five American Beauty and twenty-five white, with White Killarney, and also was a prize-winner in several other classes. Wm. Lackay, superintendent for Daniel Guggenheim, Elberon, N. J., exhibited some fine Radiance and Ophelia. William Vert scored first in the white, pink and crimson classes calling for fifteen blooms each.

The Big Mums at the American Institute Show, NewYork.

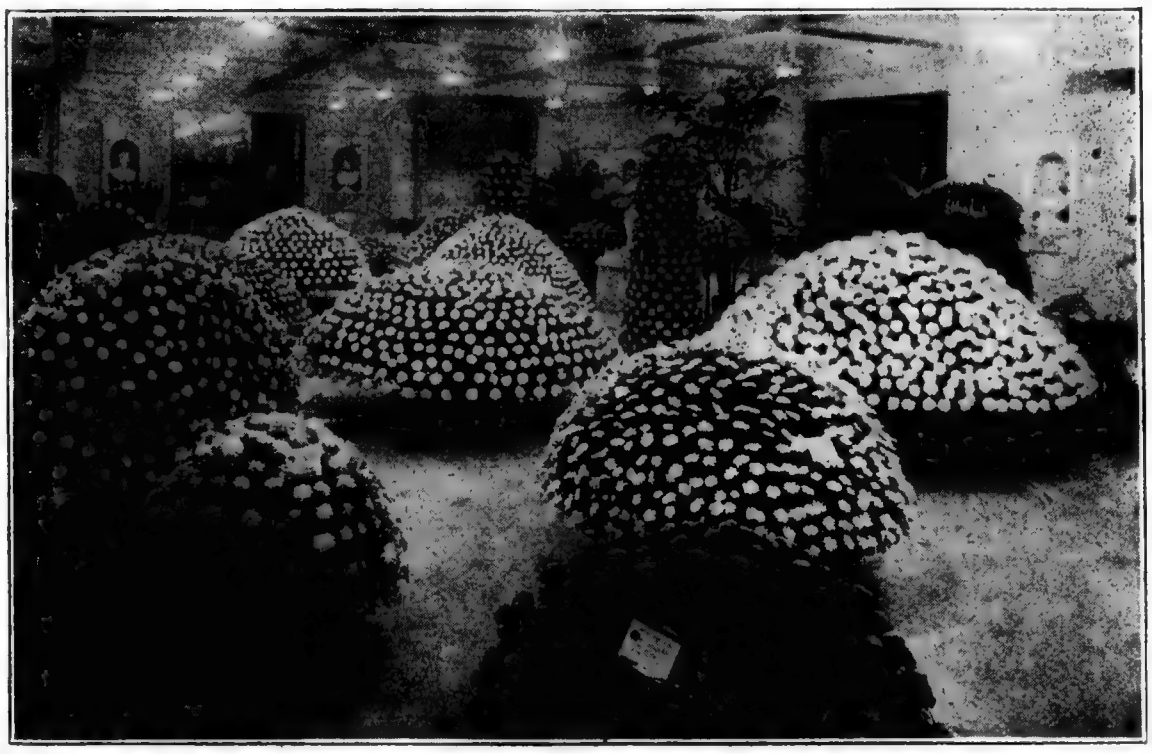
In the new roses Mr. Totty exhibited Lillian Moore, a new yellow; Primrose, a bronzy yellow; Nellie Parker, an improved Ophelia in color though bearing no relation to Ophelia. E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., sent a vase of its new red rose and A. N. Pierson, Inc., showed Mme. Collette Martinette and Titiana, a small deep pink.



Max Schling, New York, was on hand as usual with an artistic arrangement of bronze and crimson mums interspersed with autumn foliage.

In the carnation classes Thos. Wilson, superintendent for Mrs. Erhart, Cedarhurst, N. Y.; Robt. Grunert, superintendent for W. E. Reiss, Greenwich, Conn., and George Ferguson, were awarded prizes, Mrs. Ward, Yellow Prince, Matchless, White Wonder and Beacon being the principal varieties exhibited. Charles Stanley, Plainfield, N. J., was also a large exhibitor in the carnation classes.

There were five entries in the competition calling for twelve varieties. Robert Tyson scored first with a wonderful collection on black velvet. Jos. Robinson, superintendent for Mrs. Henry A. Coe, Oyster Bay, N. Y., won second.

In the fruit classes the entries were numerous and attractive.

Taken altogether the show was a magnificent spectacle and attracted a large crowd, as the weather was ideal and the location of the show, at Thirty-ninth street, convenient to reach from all quarters of the city.

THE MUSEUM SHOW.

New York's Greatest.

The Horticultural Society of New York held its annual autumn exhibition November 9 to 12, at the American Museum of Natural History, and secured an attendance of over 200,000 people, admission being free. It was by far the best show ever made by this society. Last year the total attendance was 194,024, at that time a record figure.

As in other years, the great drawing card of the show was the exhibit of the immense bush chrysanthemums by John Canning. The best plants were R. F. Felton, Lady Lydia, Wells' Late Pink, Eloise Scovell and Greystone.

The crowd was kept moving to the right and thus all confusion was avoided. The exhibits filled all available space on the ground floor of the immense museum. Albert Manda proved one of the ablest managers the society has ever had the good fortune to secure.

The Julius Roehrs Co. had a beautiful exhibit of greenhouse plants in 100 varieties, artistically arranged. C. H. Totty had a large collection of hardy and single mums and in Louise Pockett and Rigby had some of the largest blooms ever shown.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., had a fine exhibit of single and hardy mums.

The retailers were conspicuous by their absence and the society seems to think it unnecessary to secure their attendance.

The Principal Prize-Winners.

The greater part of the schedule was open only to non-commercial growers. The principal exhibitor and prize-winner in bush chrysanthemum plants was John Canning, superintendent for Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y. Other exhibitors in these classes were J. W. Smith, gardener to F. E. Lewis, Ridgefield, Conn.; W. J. Sealey, gardener to Charles Mallory, Port Chester, N. Y.; R. M. Johnston, gardener to W. S. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y., and James Linane, gardener to G. D. Barron, Rye, N. Y.

In the private gardener classes for cut mums the principal prize-winners were A. A. Macdonald, gardener at Duke's Farm, Summerville, N. J.; Anton Bauer, gardener to Henry Goldman, Deal Beach, N. J.; Adam Paterson, gardener to Miss M. T. Cockcroft, Saugatuck, Conn.; George Ferguson, gardener to Mrs. Payne Whitney, Manhasset, N. Y.; E. W. Edwards, gardener to A. N. Cooley, Pittsfield, Mass.; William Huckvale, gardener to G. B. Schley, Far Hills, N. J.; Alex. Thomson, gardener to Mrs. E. S. Bayer, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; Joseph Tansey, gardener to H. M. Tilford, Tuxedo Park, N. Y.; William G. Ellis, gardener to E. L. Meyers, Huntington, N. Y.; Joseph Tiernan, gardener to Adrian Iselin, New Rochelle, N. Y., and Thomas Bell, gardener to Frederick Sturges, Fairfield, Conn. Those winning on cut roses were A. A. Macdonald, F. Heeremans, William Booth, William Graham, William Whitton, Rudolph Heidkamp and Joseph Tansey. The winning carnations came from Thomas Aitchison, Henry Goldman, R. M. Johnston, A. Macdonald, F. Heeremans, J. G. Walter and William Huckvale.

The orchids were fine and came from the usual exhibitors, J. P. Mossman, gardener to Clement Moore; George H. Janes, gardener to Samuel Untermyer, and E. W. Edwards, who won a special prize and the sweepstakes with his plant of Lælio-cattleya Firminii.

In the commercial classes for cut chrysanthemums C. H. Totty was first for twelve blooms in each color without competition, and in all the other classes, Scott Bros., of Elmsford, being second.

Begonias, Vegetables and Mums at the American Institute.

For cut roses by commercial growers F. R. Pierson Co., Louis A. Noe and Charles H. Totty divided the prizes, the latter receiving the silver medal offered for the best novelty.

The Cottage Gardens Co. was the only commercial exhibitor of carnations, showing Crystal White and Cottage Maid.

In the trade class for orchids Julius Roehrs Co., J. A. Manda and Lager & Hurrell divided the prizes.

In the class for foliage and decorative plants open to all, Julius Roehrs Co. and F. R. Pierson Co. competed against private growers, the former being first for bay trees and the latter first for ferns. The principal private exhibitor was Mrs. F. A. Constable.

A large number of special prizes were awarded, those to trade exhibitors including a gold medal to John Scheepers & Co. for a display of fifty plants of winter-flowering begonias; a certificate of merit to George Giatras for six plants of his new nephrolepis, King Constantine; a diploma to Young & Nugent for a basket arrangement; special mention to Julius Roehrs Co. for begonias of the Lorraine type and a certificate to Charles H. Totty for display of chrysanthemums.

AMES, IA.

A disposition of the florists of Iowa to coöperate with the State College was manifest by the large number of entries at the first state flower show, staged at the college in Ames, November 10 and 11. The number of exhibits and the character of the material were exceedingly good considering that no plans were made for the show until about three weeks ago.

Friday, which was Florists' day, brought many trade visitors. About forty-five florists availed themselves of the opportunity and held a meeting in the afternoon, which proved to be of great interest. Dr. I. E. Melhus, of the college, gave a lecture on plant diseases of interest to florists. He was followed by Roy F. Wilcox, of Council Bluffs, who discussed the cost of production in comparison with present selling prices. The remainder of the meeting was given over to a general discussion of terms of credit, flower show, and plans of increasing and educating the trade. In the evening the trade visitors attended a banquet given by the Horticultural Club of the college.

Some of the newer carnations shown were Thenanthos, exhibited by A. L. Randall Co., Chicago; Akehurst, exhibited by the Schroeder Floral Co., Milwaukee; Nebraska, exhibited by C. H. Frey Co., Lincoln; Bonfire and Rosette, exhibited by Wietor Bros., Chicago. Among the roses were Baby Doll, Mrs. W. R. Hearst and Lady Alice Stanley, exhibited by J. A. Budlong, Chicago, and Minnetonka, exhibited by the Alpha Floral Co., Des Moines. Chrysanthemums in variety were exhibited by E. D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich. J. S. Wilson, of Des Moines, had eleven seedlings of single and anemone mums. J. F. Wilcox & Sons, of Council Bluffs, staged an exhibit of cut flowers and potted plants covering 125 square feet.

Wesley Greene and J. F. D. Fulmer, of Des Moines, and Chas. J. Reardon, of Davenport, served as judges of the competitive classes. Awards were made as follows:

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Six white—Kemble-Smith Co., Boone, first, with Wm. Turner; H. E. & C. W. Krebs, Cedar Rapids, second; Kemble Floral Co., Oskaloosa, third.

Six yellow—Aldous & Sons, Iowa City, first, with Marigold; H. E. & C. W. Krebs, second, with Yellow Turner; Kramer & Son, Cedar Rapids, third, with Bonnaffon.

Six pink—O. B. Stevens, Shenandoah, first, with Dr. Enguehard; H. E. & C. W. Krebs, second, with Winter Cheer; Kramer & Son, third, with Dr. Enguehard.

Six any other color—J. L. Denmead, Marshalltown, first, with Black Hawk; J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, second, with Pockett's Crimson; O. B. Stevens, third, with Mrs. O. H. Kahn.

Largest flower—Kemble-Smith Co., first, with Wm. Turner.

Collection of pompons—Grant Newport, Cedar Rapids, first; O. B. Stevens, second; Kemble-Smith Co., third.

Collection of singles or anemones—H. E. & C. W. Krebs, first.

ROSES.

Twelve Mrs. Chas. Russell—J. L. Denmead, first; Kemble Floral Co., second.

Twelve Ophelia—Herman Bros., Cedar Rapids, first; Kemble Floral Co. second.

Twelve White Killarney—J. L. Denmead, first; O. B. Stevens, second; Herman Bros., third.

Twelve Killarney—J. L. Denmead, first; Herman Bros., second; O. B. Stevens, third.

Twelve Richmond—J. L. Denmead, first; Kemble-Smith Co., second; Kemble Floral Co., third.

Twelve any other color—Herman Bros., first, with Sunburst; Kemble Floral Co., second, with Ward; Herman Bros., third, with Ward.

CARNATIONS.

Twelve light pink—Kemble-Smith Co., first; Grant Newport, second; I. O. Kemble, third.

Twelve dark pink—I. O. Kemble, first; Kemble Floral Co., second; J. L. Denmead, third.

Twelve white—Kemble-Smith Co., first; I. O. Kemble, second; Grant Newport, third.

Twelve red—I. O. Kemble, first; Kemble Floral Co., second; Kemble-Smith Co., third.

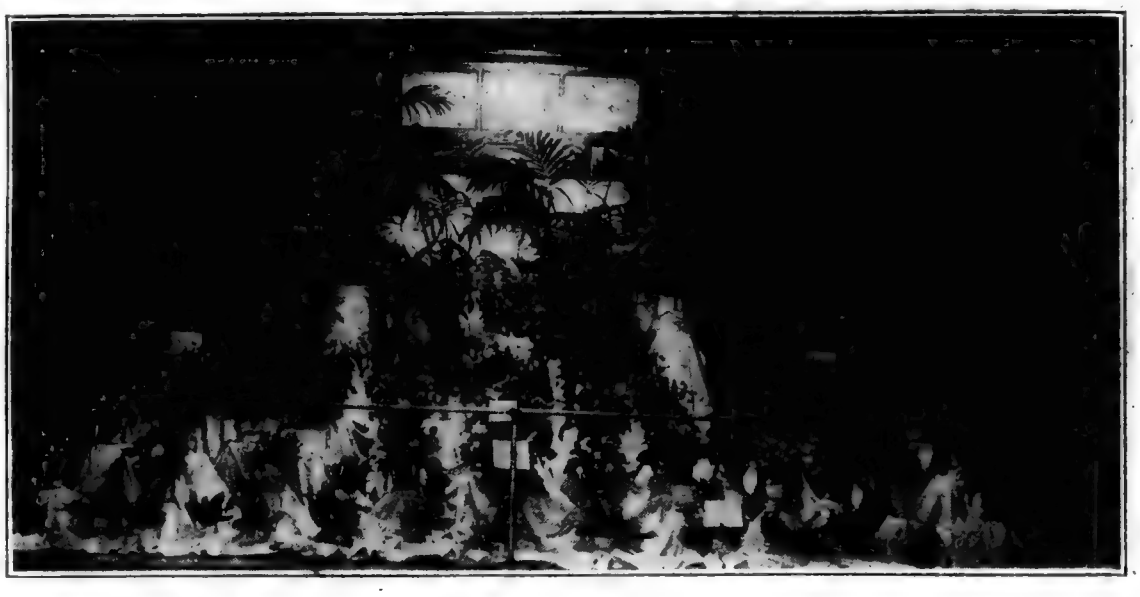
The college had its greenhouses open for inspection and one large house which was filled with specimen and bush plants was a center of interest. Competitions for students in which there were classes for table decorations, basket arrangements, vase arrangements and arrangements of autumn material proved to be of much interest, to the women observers in particular.

A. S. T.

CLEVELAND.

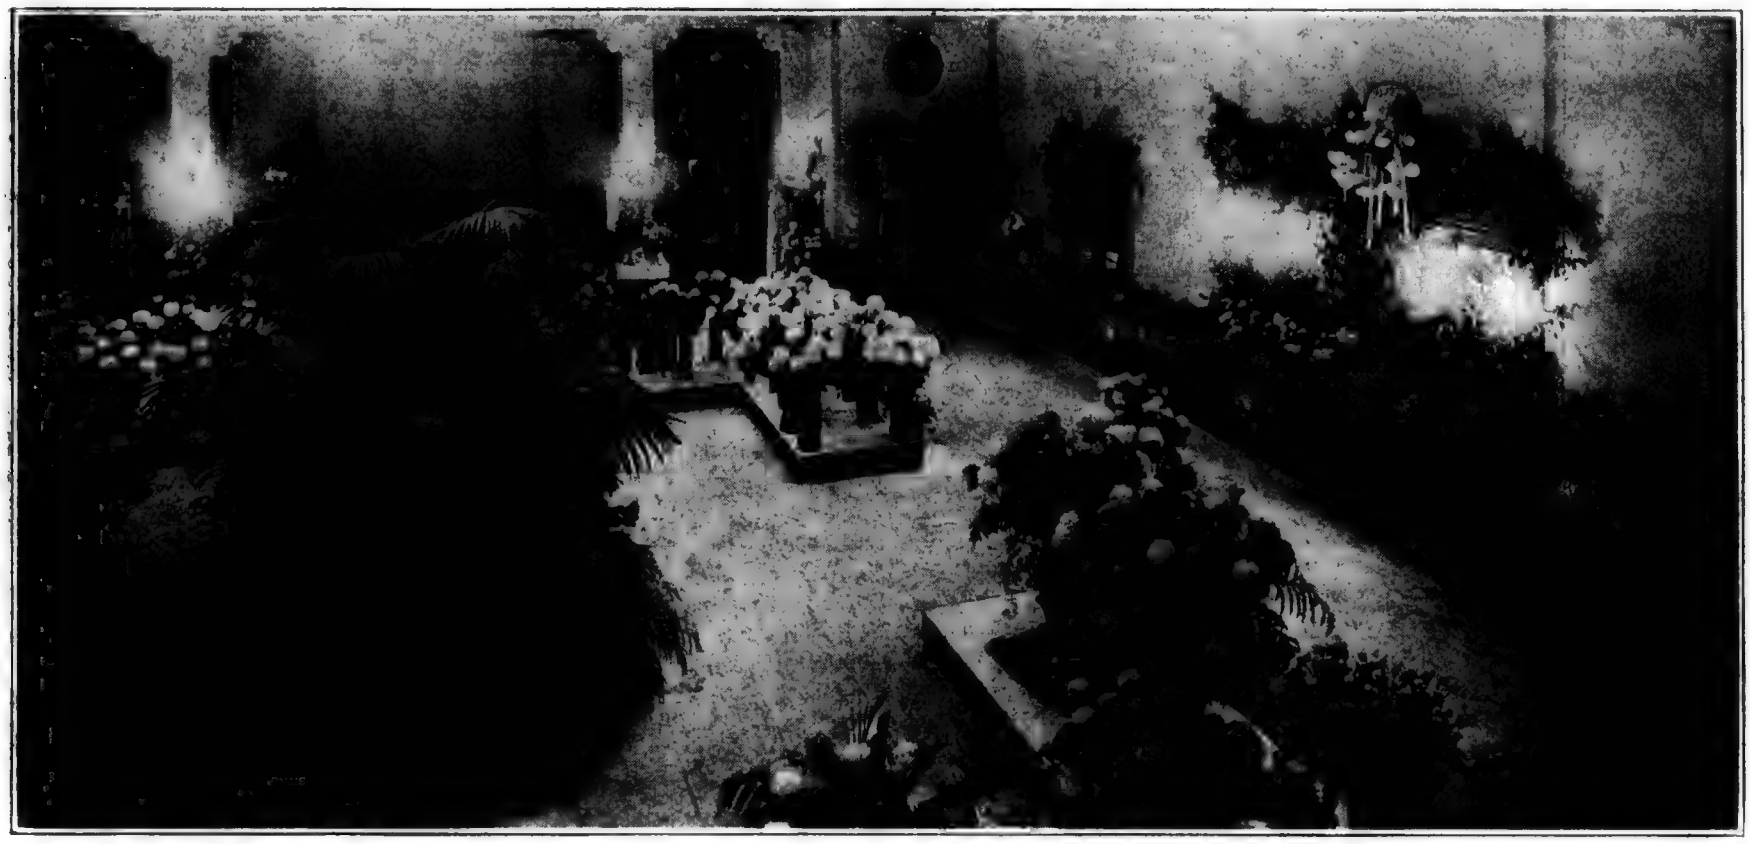
Held in Hotel Ballroom.

The second annual Cleveland flower show was held November 10 to 12 in the ballroom of the Hollenden hotel. It was a success from an artistic standpoint and also financially, as over 5,000 admissions were paid during the three days.



The show was largely supplied by the private gardeners of the vicinity, the special feature being the competition for the Corrigan cup, valued at $500. This called for thirty-six chrysanthemums, six varieties, six blooms of each, staged in two vases for effect. There were five entries, the award falling to William Fisher, gardener to H. S. Firestone, Akron, O., whose exhibit scored eighty-seven points.

The first forty classes on the schedule were open only to private growers and the prizes were pretty evenly distributed between Andrew Gemind, gardener to C. W. Seiberling, Akron, O.; Henry Koltlioff, gardener to Mrs. L. D. Holden; W. S. Richards, gardener to G. R. Ford, Perrysburg, O.; Fred Altknecht, gardener to J. W. Corrigan, Wickliffe, O.; Robert Weeks, gardener to Misses Holden; Hugh Thomas, gardener to C. A. Otis; Rudolph Thurman, gardener to Mrs. F. E. Drury; George Jacques, gardener to W. G. Mather; Walter Dale, gardener to Mrs. J. H. Andrews, Akron; J. Curnow, gardener to C. B. Raymond, Akron; Wm. Fisher, gardener to H. S. Firestone, Akron; Felix Celmer, gardener to Mrs. Price McKinney, and H. B. Rapley, gardener to H. P. Ellis.



Commercial Exhibits.

There was excellent competition in the dozen classes open to commercial growers, the awards being as follows:

Two hundred blooms violets, double—Ethan A.

The Scheepers Exhibit of Winter-Flowering Begonias at the Museum.

A General View of the Cleveland Show with the Corrigan Cup Winner in the Right Foreground.

Coon, Rhinebeck, N. Y., first; Lasher & Pells, Red Hook, N. Y., second.

Two hundred blooms violets, single—Carl Hagenburger, Mentor, O., first.

One hundred spikes antirrhinum—Carl Hagenburger, first; Claude Tyler, North Olmsted, O., second.

Fifty calendula flowers—J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland, O., first.

One hundred spikes of valley—J. M. Gasser Co., first; the Friedley Co., Cleveland, O., second.

Forty stalks Lilium giganteum—The Friedley Co., first.

Twelve cyclamen—The Friedley Co., first; C. Merkel & Son, Mentor, O., second.

Six Begonia Lorraine—The Friedley Co., first.

Six Begonia Glory of Cincinnati—The Naumann Co., Cleveland, O., first; the Friedley Co., second.

Six of any other begonia of the Lorraine type—The Naumann Co., first and second.

Exhibit of strawflowers—Wycoff Floral Co., Chagrin Falls, O., first.

Group of flowering plants—The Friedley Co., first; H. P. Wells, Cleveland, O., second; E. J. Buyer, Cleveland, O., third.

Sweet peas—H. Christman & Son, North Olmsted, O., certificate of merit.

Pansy exhibit—Louis Westerburg & Sons, Warrensville, O., certificate of merit.

Group of cherries—Carl Hagenburger, certificate of merit.

In addition to the commercial exhibits for competition there were a number for exhibition only.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., sent a handsome vase of Tiger, and also showed the new pompon, Little Gem.

The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., sent a large vase of specimen blooms.

Anton Then, Chicago, sent a fine display of Carnation Thenanthos, which was awarded a certificate of merit.

O. C. Barber, Barberton, O., received honorable mention for a vase of Sunburst roses.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., sent a large collection of pompons and singles, also a vase of the new bronze mum, Barbara Davis.

Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J., was represented by a large collection of pompons and single varieties.

The retail florists of Cleveland are not deterred from exhibiting by such an unimportant fact as no provision being made for them in the premium list. Table decorations, basket arrangements, corsage bouquets and similar articles were shown by Knoble Bros., Smith & Fetters Co., the J. M. Gasser Co., Timothy Smith, Christine, T. J. Kegg Co., the Flower Shop, L. C. Hahn, Westman & Goetz, C. B. Wilhelmy and A. N. Albrecht.

H. P. Knoble was chairman of the exhibition committee, Frank A. Friedley had charge of the show and the judges were C. N. Bartels, C. C. Taylor and R. Witterstaetter.

LANCASTER, PA.

Show Marks an Advance.

The second flower show under the auspices of the Lancaster County Florists' Club was held November 9 to 11 at Lancaster, Pa. The weather was bright and clear and brought out a large attendance. In quality of stock the show was superior to the one held two years ago.

Ira H. Landis showed a table on which were Mrs. Ward, Eureka, Benora and Mrs. Akehurst carnations, with which yellow daisies and pompon mums were used extensively.

Elmer J. Weaver showed vases of Lemon Queen and Orange Prince calendulas, which were the finest ever grown in Lancaster county. His vases of mignonette also were extraordinary.

The Orchids at the Museum Show in New York were Fine but Poorly Placed.

Amos N. Rohrer, of Strasburg, showed Ward, Matchless and Pink Delight carnations of superior quality.

L. S. Landis showed a table of well-grown mums, including Bonnaffon, McNiece, Chrysolora, Mrs. H. Stevens and Garza; calendulas, callas and roses.

Charles M. Weaver showed a dozen vases of sweet peas, which for this time of the year were par excellence. Most of them were selections of his own. His mignonette was of its usual high quality. This table received the King Construction Co. prize.

E. P. Hostetter, of Manheim, showed a table of yellow daisies beautifully arranged, creating the impression of a field of daisies.

Maurice J. Brinton showed a table of Formosa and magnificum lilies, which was one of the beauty spots of the show.

Frank L. Kohr had a nicely arranged table of mums, sweet peas, strawflowers and calendulas.

A. F. Strickler had a pretty exhibit of outdoor pompons.

Chas. B. Herr, of Strasburg, showed a specimen plant of adiantum five feet in diameter.

C. S. Loeffler showed a vase of extraordinary Wm. Turner mums.

Thomas R. Fries had a table of ferns, single and pompon mums and general greenhouse plants.

Ed C. Beck's exhibit contained fine ferns, begonias, pansies, fuchsias and cut mums.

W. B. Girvin, of Leola, had one of the prettiest tables in the hall, on which were big and little mums and fine carnations. John H. Schoenberger, his able foreman, was in charge.

The Wheatland Greenhouse Co., operated under the direction of Albert M. Herr, with J. L. Lockard in charge, showed some handsome vases of carnations and mums.

E. F. Campbell, of Marietta, showed a vase of Glenview, Appleton and Turner mums, which were possibly the best dozen blooms in the show.

Rudolph Nagel's stock, throughout, was of the highest order. One of the most admired vases was his disbudded Lillian Doty.

H. D. Rohrer's exhibit filled five tables and consisted of eighty varieties of the large-flowering mums. A table of the best single, anemone and pompon varieties was shown and the exhibit also contained three huge vases of Loiseau-Rousseau, Nerissa and Turner.

Out-of-Town Exhibits.

Among the out-of-town exhibitors were Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrain, Mich., who sent Arista, October Herald, Smith's Imperial, Yellow Turner, Tiger and other large blooms. The new pink pompon, Little Gem, was much admired.

S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., sent a vase of the new crimson carnation, Doris.

Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., sent a fine collection of the newer single and pompon mums.

R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md., had forty-nine varieties of pompons of the hardy outdoor type.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, sent mums, roses and pompons of fine quality.

The McCallum Co., of Pittsburgh, had a fine vase of the new Mrs. M. R. Morgan mum, yellow. E. W. Marshall, of the McCallum Co., was present.

S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, sent roses, orchids and bouvardia.

John F. Rupp, Shiremanstown, Pa., sent a specimen bloom of Aristolochia Sipho.

B. F. Barr & Co. had an interesting retail exhibit, arranged by P. J. Murphy, which was awarded the Michell silver medal. Their exhibit of evergreens and hardy chrysanthemums combined in a landscape effect also was of the highest order.

Mrs. Ida Goldbach showed a pretty arrangement of palms and vases of mums and other flowers.

Alphonse Peters showed designs filled with flowers, with a background of palms.

H. A. Schroyer had a fine table decoration, also huge baskets of mums. His booth was in charge of Miss Carrie Steckman. Their new bronze mum, Mrs. H. A. Schroyer, attracted much attention.

D. T. Connor, of Lord & Burnham Co., showed some of the latest things in greenhouse construction.

S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. had a pretty display of ribbons and baskets, in charge of Mr. Price.

The Awards.

Silver cups and prizes donated by local stores and flower lovers were awarded in fifteen classes for amateur growers. The judges were Wm. F. Gude, Washington; S. S. Pennock and Chas. H. Grakelow, Philadelphia. They also made the following awards in the commercial department:

Best display of chrysanthemums—H. D. Rohrer, first.

Best display of cut flowers other than mums—Chas. M. Weaver, Ronks, Pa., first.

Best table decoration for retailers only—B. F. Barr & Co., first.

Best display of cut flowers and plants by a local grower—Elmer J. Weaver, Ronks, Pa., first.

Blue ribbons were awarded: Rudolph Nagel, of Lancaster, for display of chrysanthemums; M. J. Brinton, Christiana, for display of lilies; Amos N. Rohrer, Strasburg, for display of carnations; E. F. Campbell, Marietta, for vase of mums.

Honorable mention was made of the following: Ira H. Landis, Paradise, for carnations, daisies and pompons; W. B. Girvin, Leola, for chrysanthemums, carnations and pot pompons; L. S. Landis, for chrysanthemums, daisies and lilies; Frank Kohr, Lancaster, for strawflowers and plants; H. A. Schroyer, for retail display.

The committee in charge of the show was Harry K. Rohrer, chairman; M. J. Brinton, A. M. Herr, B. F. Barr, Elmer J. Weaver, L. S. Landis, Rudolph Nagel, A. F. Strickler and David F. Rose. H. K. R.

WORCESTER, MASS.

The annual chrysanthemum show of the Worcester County Horticultural Society, which was held November 9 and 10, surpassed any exhibit the society has had. While most of the exhibitors and prize-winners were local amateurs, the trade was well represented.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., sent a beautiful display of pompons, which received a silver medal.

The hall was laid out in a large garden, divided into several smaller ones. Directly in the center was an old-fashioned garden by H. F. A. Lange, which had as a center a large gazing bowl. Four smaller gardens surrounded it, formed around large bay trees. One of these gardens consisted of yellow mums, another of white mums, a third of deep red mums and the fourth pink mums.

Randall's Flower Shop had a garden of roses. Double White Killarney, Shawyer, Key and Ophelia were the roses used, with a backing of cibotiums.

L. C. Midgley had a display of yellow mums, from the tiniest pompons to the largest blooms. Mr. Midgley also had a large display of singles.

The stage was filled with boxwoods, bays and evergreens, with a large bunch of mums as a centerpiece. This was furnished by H. F. A. Lange.

Frederick B. Madaus exhibited an extra large bunch of violets, which was greatly admired.

The table decorations were excellent. H. F. A. Lange's table had as a centerpiece Ophelia roses with valley. Four bud vases were used to good advantage. Lucy Coulson's table, which received second prize, carried a centerpiece of yellow mums, and boutonnieres and corsages of little yellow button varieties.

The exhibition was in charge of Albert H. Lange, to whom credit should be given for the artistic arrangement and the smoothness with which the show ran. H. L.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y.

The sixth annual exhibition of the Oyster Bay Horticultural Society was held November 9 and was considered the most successful the organization has yet held. There were forty-six classes, competition being exclusively among private gardeners of the neighborhood. The principal prize-winners were: John Sorosich, gardener to John A. Garver; Joseph Robinson, gardener to W. R. Coe; A. Walker, gardener to H. C. Smith; A. Andrews, gardener to C. Blackton; F. Kyle, gardener to Charles Tiffany; James Duckham, gardener to E. F. Whitney; H. Gaut, gardener to H. S. Pratt, Glen Cove, N. Y.; John Devine, gardener to J. A. Blair; A. Patton, gardener to J. A. Blair; F. Gale, gardener to S. Yorset; Howard Strong; George Wilson, gardener to J. B. Taylor.

PHILADELPHIA.

As reported in last week's Review, the exhibits of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society were staged on the first day of the show. The exhibits for the prizes of the Chrysanthemum Society of America arrived on the second day, November 8, completing the main portion of the annual fall show in Horticultural hall. The two exhibitions, taken together, made a handsome effect that was highly creditable to the two societies. The quality of the C. S. A. exhibits was high, both in standard varieties and in novelties.

Several exhibits of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society were not in position when last week's description was written. The Robert Craig Co. displayed a fine lot of well colored crotons and ornamental plants. Louis Burk received the society's gold medal for his display of eighty named varieties of orchids and a silver medal for Vanda Sanderiana. The fowl-shaped boxwoods that were next to, and believed to be included in, the exhibit of John Kuhn, of Olney, were from Adolph Muller's De Kalb Nurseries, at Norristown, Pa. Macaw Bros. had a large bed of gardenias and crotons, well grown. John Hobson displayed his wonderful specimen crotons, of immense size.

John H. Dodds had a handsome group of foliage plants and choicest orchids.

William Kleinheinz's winter-flowering begonias in salmon-pink and scarlet were of exceptional merit.

The Cottage Gardens Co. brought Carnation Cottage Maid, a lovely flower.

These are some of the many meritorious exhibits, to which must be added one more—William Robertson's table of over 100 varieties of hardy pompons.

The vegetables came November 9, adding, with the goldfish and the ginger ale exhibit, to the diversity of the exhibitions.

W. F. Therkildson gave another proof of his happy faculty for exploitation when he brought the mayor of Philadelphia to the show to name the seedling chrysanthemum that won the C. S. A. silver cup. The mayor named the variety Elizabeth Smith, after his little girl, who is 6 years old. That name will now be adopted for the champion seedling of the year by the exhibitor, the E. G. Hill Co., of Richmond, Ind.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., showed a new yellow rose that took well and new anemone-flowered mums from C. H. Totty were a feature. C. L. Seybold, of Wilkes-Barre, sent a display of cyclamens.

THE KLEINHEINZ ORCHIDS.

At the autumn show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, the exhibits of William Kleinheinz, president of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, were many. They were varied and of the highest quality. The most striking was his display of mixed orchids arranged at the top of the grand stairway. The orchid plants were fastened on cork bark. The delicate colors of the blooms were enhanced by ferns. A fountain and mirrors lent their charm to this rich picture of tropical beauty.

A CHANCE FOR SELLERS.

Now that so many club meetings and flower shows are being held in hotels, salesmen find it to their advantage to stay at the same hotels, to get rooms near the "doings" and to spread an attractive display of their wares. The conditions of accessibility and privacy then are right for business and everybody is happy.

The accompanying illustration shows how Martin Reukauf and Stephen Green, of Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, did it at the Hollenden hotel, Cleveland, during the show there last week.

TROUBLE WITH TULIPS.

Will you kindly give me any information you can in regard to a condition or disease which has existed during the last few years on our tulips, especially Murillo; in fact, almost entirely on this variety After the flowers have about matured they seem to get soft and spongy in the stem above the first leaf and droop right over. We have thought that perhaps they were forced too much, or that water lodged in the first leaf, causing the trouble, but from year to year we have tried to avoid both of these conditions. However, last year we suffered considerable loss. Could it be due to a disease in the bulbs? This hardly seems possible, as the flowers appear to mature properly before the trouble is perceptible.

A. D. C.—N. Y.

Murillo does so uniformly well with everyone that I am somewhat surprised to learn of your trouble with it. To have them stocky they must not, of course, be forced, and must not be allowed to remain in soil or coal ashes until the growths are more than two or three inches long. Like all tulips, they want an ample supply of water at all times. A common mistake is to water well after potting, then store the pans away and practically leave them alone until wanted for housing. As a matter of fact, the pans draw away much of the moisture from the earth, and not one but several soakings should be given from the time the bulbs are placed in the soil until they are removed to the greenhouse. I do not think the bulbs are at fault; I rather think a deficiency of water may be responsible.

AVERAGE CROP OF CALENDULAS.

How many crops of flowers can profitably be taken from a calendula plant?

R. B.—Wis.

Calendulas are more or less continuous croppers. If you thin out and disbud the shoots, two good crops of fancy flowers may be had. If the plants are allowed to grow and bloom naturally, they will flower continuously and profitably for four months, provided they are well treated in regard to stimulants.

Charlotte, Mich.—A summer of good business and an auspicious opening of fall business, supplemented by a rattling good sale of mums, have given the Rose Acre Greenhouses a most prosperous air.

COAL SHORTAGE WILL CLOSE MANY GREENHOUSES

TRADE HIT BY FUEL FAMINE.

Some Smaller Places Closing.

Already, before severe weather makes the need for fuel great, there are reports that greenhouses are being closed for the winter because of the excessive cost of coal and the great difficulty of maintaining a supply.

Apparently the larger places are safe, at least for the present, as they all take in a considerable quantity of fuel during the summer and are in position to get along for a number of weeks without further deliveries on their contracts. But the big growers are on the anxious seat, the same as the small country florists, the feeling being one of much insecurity. "It does not do a grower much good to have a contract for coal at a fair fixed price unless he can get deliveries," said one man who has 200,000 feet of glass, in discussing the situation. "We have a month's supply of coal in the sheds, but deliveries have virtually stopped. The mine representative tells us he could deliver the coal if he could get the cars. In the meantime he has a little free coal of a different character and much inferior quality he can let us have at a price more than twice that named in our contract." To accept such an offer is virtually to cancel the contract and the grower is in a quandary.

Big Users Have Support.

Serious as is the problem confronting the large growers, they will get along. Their business is so valuable to the people who furnish their coal that nothing but a complete failure of the supply will stop deliveries; the coal man knows that if he lets his big greenhouse customer freeze up he has lost forever a business worth thousands of dollars a year and he will give the grower the coal in preference to anybody else.

The small man, however, who buys from a local yard, getting wagon delivery, is in a different position. In the first place he probably has been splitting up his orders among several dealers, so that the business is of no special value to anyone and he can command no support on that account. He has no contract and must pay the day's price. Also, he has on the place no reserve supply and must meet the emergency at the moment. With coal more than double what it was a couple of months ago, with the mums nearly all cut, with the place about half empty, the decision of more than one man has been to close up one house, two houses, or the whole place until better times, or until spring. These reports began coming in more than a week ago and seem likely to increase in number as the weather becomes more severe, for there seems no prospect that the fuel famine will be less severe or that prices will decline to any worthwhile extent.

East Harder Hit than West.

Not only the reports from florists but the statement of facts in the coal trade indicate that the east has been harder hit than the middle west. The increased demand for coal has been largely in the east and it is there, also, that the freight car situation is most acute. But these things affect the whole country. In the cities of the middle west the West Virginia smokeless coals are largely used by florists and anything which increases the eastern demand and prices or which slows up the car movement is felt immediately at Chicago. The coal trade insists the big influence of the week has been the car shortage, but consumers have difficulty in understanding how a shortage of cars could boost the price of coal at the mine.

The Prices of Coal.

It is reported by growers and in the coal trade that the big producers of smokeless coals have been doing their best to live up to their contracts, but that they have not been able to make deliveries as expected. The big people are said not to be selling coal to strangers, but to be delivering their entire supply to those who contracted for it. The free coal that is being sold to the highest bidder is said to come from small producers. Most of the growers who contracted for coal in the spring agreed to pay $1.35 per ton at the mines in West Virginia for Pocahontas or New River smokeless. In some cases the price went to $1.50 on deliveries after a certain autumn date, to conform to the general "circular." Last week that same run of mine coal was worth $4 to $4.50 at the mouth of the mine, or $6.05 to $6.55 at Chicago. Considerably higher prices have been reported from the east.

Growers in the middle west who are located where they do not encounter smoke regulation usually use one of the Indiana or Illinois bituminous coals normally selling at the mine for $1.35 to $1.50 on a contract basis. Last week Franklin county mine run was quoted nominally at $3.25 to $3.50 at the mine, or $4.30 to $4.55 at Chicago, but the principal operators are out of the spot market. One man said: "We have a fifty per cent car supply, have sold between sixty-five and seventy-five per cent of our rated capacity on contracts, and hence are from fifteen to twenty-five per cent behind obligations. In addition the demand upon us has grown to 125 per cent of normal if not more." This means that any one who has any free coal can about name his own price.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOUTHERN FLORISTS

CARNATIONS IN THE SOUTH.

Preparation of the field for next spring's planting of carnations should receive due attention at this time. Plow the field deeply and work it as finely as possible with the disk and other harrows. To improve the fertility of the soil, provide a good cover crop; there is nothing better than crimson clover. When a good stand of this crop is secured there is virtually no need for more fertilizer in the spring, although a light application of commercial guano will be a benefit.

It is none too soon to start putting cuttings in the sand now, so that as soon as the holiday rush is over and there is bench room you will have the young carnation plants to fill in.

Before filling the propagating bench with clean sand, see that the bench has been thoroughly washed and has received a good coating of hot lime wash. Then spread a layer of coarse ashes on the bottom, two inches thick, for drainage, and have three to four inches of sand on top, so that when it is properly firmed it will be two to three inches deep. Select the best cuttings from the flowering stems. These will not require to be touched by a knife. In inserting the cuttings in the sand do not try to see how many you can put in a given space, but give them a little breathing room. Many a promising batch is ruined by overcrowding.

After a good watering when inserted, it will depend on the texture of the sand just how much water will be required. Sand of a coarse texture will require much water, while a fine sand may require only a watering two or three times a week. A light dewing with the hose every bright day will keep the plants in good shape. They also will require a little shade during the bright hours of the day, but do not overdo this. In a night temperature of 50 to 52 degrees the cuttings should be rooted sufficiently in four or five weeks to be potted off. Bottom heat is not essential to secure a good strike. L.

AZALEAS IN THE SOUTH.

Azaleas wanted in bloom for Christmas in the south require at least six weeks in a night temperature of 60 to 65 degrees, with the possible exception of Mme. Petrick, which often will come into bloom one to two weeks earlier. It is always well to have azaleas in flower before the holidays, as they are easily held in a cool house at that season of the year. Azaleas seem to find more favor at Christmas than at Easter, and it will pay to bear this fact in mind when bringing them into bloom for these two occasions. The varieties suitable for Christmas forcing are Mme. Petrick, Simon Mardner, Deutsche Perle, Vervæneana and Vervæneana alba.

Left-over plants can be carried through the summer by plunging them in a frame in a lath house, or by placing them under a glass sash protection. It may sound ridiculous, but I have had better results in summering them under glass than in any other way. In the extreme southern states it does not pay to try to hold them over. In July and August they will begin to throw scattering flowers, so that when the time arrives when they should be forced the flowers are gone. In these states it is also impossible to hold the plants for Easter, unless on an extra early date, and to have an evenly flowered plant some fire heat is necessary to push them a little. L.

RETAIL STORE MANAGEMENT

WHAT THE LEADERS IN THE TRADE ARE DOING

TWO POINTS OF VIEW.

There is an old saying to the effect that it takes quite a variety of people to make a world, so we should not marvel at some divergencies in views. For instance, here is what an editorial writer on the Detroit Times thought of Hugo Schroeter's Halloween window:

These Autumn Leaves, So Arranged, Spell Truth.

Most of us cannot get into the October woods, feel the dried leaves beneath our feet, breathe the pungent air, with a slight edge of frost in it, and look through the haze in a clearing toward the dreamy horizon.

Most of us are grinding out matters of small moment individually, but tremendously big in the aggregate, in order to keep our form of civilization in the grooves into which we have fitted it.

There is a window of a florist on Woodward avenue which gives one a feeling that whoever arranged it must have had the same longing for a touch of the autumn woods as many of us have.

The background is a little clump of birch trees, shining white and silvery against a gray setting; there is a bitter-sweet in the foreground and gray moss on the ground.

No vestige of the florists' trade is in this window to mar the harmony of the little scene; no bunches of roses or hothouse lilies break the serene beauty of this sylvan bit of art.

Whoever did it was full of a desire for truth, a desire greater than his wish to sell his wares, or perhaps he had made the great discovery that the very fact that he made no attempt at advertising his flowers would attract more people than if he had spoiled his effect with baskets of various shapes and sizes tied with huge ribbons and filled with gorgeous blossoms.

Whoever this artist may be, we congratulate him twice. First for his artistic skill and second for his ability to divorce himself, for the time being, from the mercenary point of view held by the majority.

"The mercenary view held by the majority" is a hot shot; a hot shot because it strikes home; the shoe fits; we put it on; we must be mercenary. For we are obsessed with the idea that a florist's window might as well be empty as devoid of flowers.

What is the purpose of a window decoration in a flower store? Is it to edify some poor wight pining for his native woods? No, verily, its purpose only is to sell him flowers; we have no woods for sale.

The average florist falls down utterly on his window decoration. He makes a pretty picture, but he completely wastes its sales force. The Greek, who makes no pretense of art, actually is the better merchant, for he puts a price ticket on the roses in the window—he may not draw an editorial in a paper that can't mention his name because that would be giving him an ad, but he draws the money out of the pocket of the man who wants the roses at the price.

Not that every florist should put price tickets on the stock in his windows—far be it from such—but the man whose mercenary nature causes him to mix a little merchandising matter with his art will sell a lot more flowers than will the man whose art is pure and undefiled by contact with the commercial.

PENN'S APPEAL TO SENTIMENT.

There are only a few florists who can combine sentiment with the merchandising of flowers. In a majority of cases either the appeal is wholly to the appreciation of art or wholly to the appreciation of price; in only rare instances is the appeal to sentiment and it is still more rare that the appeal to sentiment is made in such a way that it has a sales value. Penn, of Boston, who for some years has advertised flowers more extensively than anyone else, presents an unusual contrast in his publicity. Some of his advertising is of the department store type, offering special values and low prices, but occasionally an advertisement appears that makes an adroit appeal to sentiment, such as the one reproduced herewith. Such advertising might well be handled on the coöperative basis, paid for by subscription and published without signature, for it is well calculated to increase the number of flower buyers in the community.

How a Skillful Boston Advertiser Makes the Appeal to Sentiment.

HOLLYWOOD'S CHEF D'OEUVRE.

No wedding out of an Italian romance could have had a more profuse and more artistic floral setting than that furnished by the Hollywood Gardens, of Seattle, Wash., for the fashionable Stimson- Moore nuptials last month. The Pacific coast boasts some of the deftest and most clever decorators in the business, and as time rolls on it may become necessary for the east-coasters to look sharply to their achievements.

The illustration on page 35 clearly shows the Hollywood Gardens decoration in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, at Seattle. In the estimation of decorators, social veterans and grand dames, the completed work eclipsed anything of its kind ever seen along the Pacific coast line. The effect as a whole may seem a trifle crowded, but this probably is an illusion, due to the limitations of the photographic lens in the matter of perspectives.

More than 6,000 chrysanthemums, in white, with a carload of southern smilax, augmented by tropical palms and wild orange foliage, were used with lavish and skilled hands. Every circumstance that wealth and good taste could devise was there. First the edifice was calcimined in harmonizing tones and the walls redecorated. Then a network of smilax was put over the high ceiling. Strands of the soft greenery hung at graduated lengths around the sides of the church, graced the altars and were festooned in most effective places. Wall pockets of immense white chrysanthemums, with greens, were placed at intervals about the walls. Over each stained glass window were arrangements of broad palm leaves.

Down the center aisle, through which the bridal party passed, at every fourth seat, was a standard eight feet in height, topped with a cone-shaped white basket which held great clusters of chrysanthemums, and trailing greens. The seats reserved for the relatives were ornamented with bunches of chrysanthemums tied with broad white silk ribbons. The other aisles of the church were in similar array.

The altars were in white and gold. There were great clusters of the blooms, while trailing greens fell over the white marble, and the altar proper, covered in rich gold lace, held tall brass 7-branched candlesticks, which were arranged in graduated effect and held lighted tapers. The chancel railing was especially effective, being entirely covered with chrysanthemums, soft greens and lilies of the valley.

MAX SCHLING'S CENTERPIECES.

As Thanksgiving again approaches, florists who anticipate calls for similar work will be interested in the Thanksgiving dinner table centerpieces of that noted exponent of floral art, Max Schling, of New York, which appear in the illustrations on this page. One, which was used at a large Thanksgiving day dinner, represented a cornucopia, or horn of plenty, out of which empty flowers, fruit and a pumpkin. The pumpkin is cut in basket shape to hold the fruit. The flowers used are chiefly chrysanthemums.

The other was of a style of which eighty-three decorated Thanksgiving dinner tables. The centerpiece represented is the simplest of the lot, reproduced because it shows most clearly the construction and components. A basket made of a pumpkin was filled with fruit and decorated with flowers, autumn coloring being employed throughout.

AMERICAN SWEET PEA SOCIETY.

Meeting of Executive Committee.

A meeting of the executive committee of the American Sweet Pea Society was held at the Hotel Breslin, New York, November 10. President Geo. W. Kerr was in the chair. The others present were: Harry A. Bunyard, secretary; William Sim, treasurer; J. Harrison Dick, William Gray, Edward Jenkins and W. A. Sperling.

A report was received from Geo. W. Kerr and W. A. Sperling, who were appointed an auditing committee at the annual meeting last July. They reported the books in good order, with a balance of $147 in cash on hand and all expenses and bills paid. Their report as set out in the following paragraph was accepted and they were discharged with thanks.

It was through their efforts that the society's finances were put on a sound basis at this time.

Plans for the Future.

It was proposed that all members whose dues were three years in arrears be dropped. An urgent letter of appeal will be sent to those who are delinquent, asking them to pay their dues. There are seventy-five members in good standing at the present time, and ten life members.

A long general discussion took place in regard to ways and means of assisting the society and enlarging its membership. It was eventually resolved that some publication, to be called a bulletin, be prepared containing useful articles on varieties, cultivation and so forth, this to be published together with the schedule early in January. Advertisements will be solicited to help pay the cost of the bulletin. The schedule, with minor alterations, it is hoped, will be on the same lines as that of last year.

Centerpiece by Max Schling that Appeared on Eighty-three Thanksgiving Tables.

A Notable Wedding Decoration by the Hollywood Gardens, Seattle, Wash.

Edward Jenkins proposed that the next show be held in Boston, Mass., the date being the first Saturday after July 4. William Gray seconded, and it was agreed to.

William Sim was appointed a committee of one to interview the trustees of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society with a view to obtaining a guarantee from that society of assistance toward the prize fund for the show.

An invitation to meet with them had been received from the officers who are arranging for the National Flower Show at St. Louis in 1918, and who are offering $250 as prizes for sweet peas. It was resolved to suggest that this sum be at least doubled, since few growers, it was thought, would be induced to send displays unless liberal prizes were offered.

General satisfaction was expressed at the prospects before the society, and it is hoped that a successful year lies ahead. Harry A. Bunyard, Sec'y.

EVERGREEN COVER FOR LAWN.

I am in need of an evergreen ground cover for a much shaded lawn and would like to use Vinca major for this purpose, unless you can suggest something better. Can you inform me where I can buy Vinca major in quantity, as I have not seen it advertised in The Review recently? A. G. H.—W. Va.

Vinca major and its variegated form are largely used by florists for baskets, vases, veranda boxes, etc. It is much more tender than V. minor, the common periwinkle or creeping myrtle, and would, therefore, be less likely to prove satisfactory in your state. Vinca variegata, which you will find advertised largely, is a variegated form of V. major. V. minor, while good as a ground cover, would not prove so satisfactory a plant for your purpose as Euonymus radicans. The latter smothers weeds better than vinca, which, being of more slender habit, allows grass and other weeds to push up through it. Euonymus radicans can be had from practically all nurserymen and many florists. C. W.

Nashville, Tenn.—The Joy Floral Co. has completed the work incidental to the establishment of a branch of the company at Clarksville, Tenn. A greenhouse has been erected there and will be ready for the holiday business.

Montgomery, Ala.—Frank Browne, of the Morningview Greenhouses, has decided to distribute his new coleus March 1, 1917. He has named it Rosabelle. It is a seedling of Golden Bedder crossed by Beckwith's Gem, with rosy carmine center edged with gold.

New Orleans, La.—It is estimated that New Orleans bought 1,000,000 mums All Saints' day and placed them on 100,000 graves. But the supply was even greater than this enormous sale. Many amateur growers offered their stock below the cost of production and prices, even on the best blooms, collapsed completely.

Waco, Tex.—T. J. Wolfe, president of the Texas State Florists' Association, has been, as he describes it, "a little under the weather," but refuses to "knock off" until he gets into shape again.

Raleigh, N. C.—Henry Steinmetz was judge of Raleigh's first fall flower show, which was held recently under the auspices of the Women's Club. There were 150 exhibits by amateurs and professionals.

Dallas, Tex.—Exhibit space was requested by florists and growers of New York, Colorado, Illinois, Ohio and Missouri, besides many Texas florists, in the Texas state flower show, which is being held here this week. A premium list of nearly $1,000 in prizes was prepared by Otto Lang, who is in charge of the activities of florists in connection with the show. H. S. Ely, of Neosho, Mo., is judge of the exhibits.

SCRANTON CLUB BANQUET.

Members Want It Every Year.

The first annual banquet of the Scranton Florists' Club was held November 6 at the Hotel Holland. There were about thirty in attendance, and from a social standpoint the banquet was the finest affair the club ever held. It was voted to make the banquet an annual event.

President W. Ray MacDonald was toastmaster. He welcomed the guests on behalf of the club and spoke on the welfare of the club. Secretary T. B. McClintock reviewed the work of the club since its organization eleven years ago. He said that the club was in a flourishing condition, with eighty-five members in good standing, and that next year he hoped the membership would be doubled. Anton Schultheis spoke on organizing a growers' association, saying that such a body would help to keep the trade with the florists instead of with the 10-cent stores.

J. W. Beagle spoke on the sale of plants and flowers other than by florists. He said it was a bad thing for the business to put flowers in meat shops, grocery stores, etc. Other speakers were C. W. Baldwin, F. J. Moran and T. J. Nolan, of the King Construction Co.

Those Who Feasted.

The banquet room was decorated in an attractive manner with palms, ferns, oak foliage and chrysanthemums. On the tables were Japanese bowls filled with pompon mums. The decorations were by the Misses Schultheis, Besancon and Mrs. T. B. McClintock.

Those in attendance were:

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. McClintock.
Mr. and Mrs. William MacDonald, Moosic.
Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wade, Carbondale.
Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schultheis.
Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Nolan.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Why doesn't the market advance? It is high time. November 11 opened encouragingly and the buyers were numerous, but prices sagged steadily as the day wore on and the iceboxes and cellars were crowded with the surplus.

The big shipments of chrysanthemums surely must diminish before this week is over. The early mums were too early; the late varieties are believed to equalize the season's estimates and give the growers "a run for their money." The street is full of pompons, singles and anemones. The best mums November 11 did not sell above $2 per dozen.

The demand for orchids seems to be growing. Select cattleyas have touched 50 cents, but there are few of these. From 25 to 40 cents is a fair average. Violets now are more appreciated. Choice grades bring 50 cents and up. Narcissi are here but not as yet in any quantity. Sweet peas are improving daily. Of bouvardias and calendulas there is a sufficiency. Asparagus arrives from all directions and is handled even by the supply houses. Autumn foliage is at its best and immense quantities are used by the retailers. Valley is strong, $6 per hundred being the top price with most of the wholesalers, though occasional slips show that $8 is being paid. Plenty of short-stemmed valley sold at $3 and under. Few gardenias are seen. There are too many lilies, as the top price of 4 cents each indicates.

From $2 per hundred down is the general quotation on carnations. Of the rose supply there is little to be added to last week's comments. Shipments continue large; quality shows steady improvement; demand is far below expectations, so the surplus brings low figures in thousand lots. All grades seemed to share in the sacrifice of the weekly house-cleaning. A few select American Beauties sold at 30 cents November 11, and so did the large-budded Hadleys. The best of the other varieties were slightly stronger, the quality of Killarney Brilliant, Mock, Russell, Ophelia, Shawyer, Prima Donna, Sunburst and Mrs. Ward being exceptionally good.

Club Meeting.

About 150 attended the Florists' Club's ladies' night November 13 and the affair was a great success. The ballroom was handsomely decorated and an excellent supper was served at 10 o'clock, dancing continuing until after midnight, with a fine orchestra and professional vaudeville entertainment.

During the regular business session, E. Allan Peirce and Julius Winkler were elected to membership, and applications were read from C. L. Tricker and H. H. Dreyer. Chairman Weathered, of the exhibition committee, reported progress, and Secretary Young reported receipt of $856 from F. W. Newbold of the Horticultural Society. Mr. Vick, for the Sun, offered a silver cup for competition at the spring flower show.

Chairman Sheridan read the names suggested by the nominating committee for the various offices for 1917, as follows:

For president—H. Weston, Charles Schenck, F. R. Pierson, Thos. Boothe de Forest.

For vice-president—J. H. Fiesser, Max Schling, P. W. Popp, W. G. Badgley.

For secretary — John Young, J. H. Dick, M. C. Ebel.

For treasurer—W. C. Rickards, Wallace R. Pierson, James McHutchison.

For trustees—R. J. Irwin, Christian Madsen, John Canning, A. Kottmiller, C. H. Brown, Victor Dorval.

Mr. Dick withdrew his name for the office of secretary. A letter signed by many members, asking that the name of G. E. M. Stumpp be added to the nominations for president, was accepted and his name added to the list of proposals.

The exhibits included Narcissus Soleil d'Or, from P. W. Popp; anemone and single mums, from Frank Dinda, and several vases of excellent sweet peas, staged by Guttman & Raynor. Cultural certificates were awarded in each case.

Various Notes.

These are golden days for the florists' supply houses. Shipments out of town are increasing, the local demand is enormous and big orders are already booked for Christmas.

Joseph S. Fenrich is fortunate in having shipments of C. H. Totty's many novelties, G. T. Schuneman's orchid sweet peas, J. Dean's mums and roses and Miesem's large supply of longiflorum lilies. The big store is crowded with buyers every morning.

Distinguished visitors last week were many, among them being President Kerr, of the S. A. F.; R. Vincent, Jr., of Maryland, and William Sim and G. L. Stillman, of New England.

Last week John Weir, who was the leading retail florist of Brooklyn for nearly half a century, celebrated his three score and eleven years. He is hale and hearty enough to be the leading buyer in the wholesale section of the trade.

The poultry department of the MacNiff Horticultural Co. is now complete and under efficient management.

The Barclay Nursery Co., 60 Barclay street, has been successful this season in disposing of its large bulb importations.

The windows of the Stumpp & Walter Co. are so attractive with seasonable displays that a crowd always is in evidence. The business this year is fifty per cent above that of any other year in the concern's history.

The following notice appeared November 11 in every wholesale florists' window: "From November 10 members of the Wholesale Cut Flower Protective Association require a deposit on all boxes, which will be refunded on the return of the boxes."

G. P. Callaghan has been appointed salesman and manager of George C. Siebrecht's basket department.

Joseph Trepel has a new auto for his store at 1070 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn. He has purchased the property at Reid avenue and Broadway, Brooklyn, and will have a house-warming and celebration there November 18.

Joseph Morichard, salesman for the Pennock-Meehan Co., is reported seriously ill.

Earl Mann, son-in-law of E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind., is in the city, and, in the care of C. H. Totty, is seeing the sights of the metropolis.

Samuel Woodrow is building a rockery at Larchmont, N. Y., for a millionaire.

Angelo Dentale is the latest addition to the ranks of the wholesale florists. He has located at 41 West Twenty-eighth street, upstairs, next door to Woodrow & Marketos. Mr. Dentale, usually known as the "Count," has had fourteen years of retail experience.

There was a special meeting of the American Dahlia Society at the Grand hotel November 9.

The executive committee of the American Sweet Pea Society had a meeting in the Hotel Breslin November 10. Those present were President Kerr, Treasurer Sim, Directors Jenkins, Gray and Sperling and Secretary Bunyard.

NOTICE!

To Subscribers whose address labels carry an expiration number higher than 995 (Dec. 21, 1916).

EVERY florist knows through his own purchases what has happened in the paper market the last few months—prices have doubled all along the line.

And it takes more than four tons of paper each week to print The Review!

Many readers have been so kind as to write that The Review is worth considerably more to them than its subscription price. Well, the tremendous rise in the price of paper makes it no longer expedient to sell The Review at $1.00 a year.

The subscription price, therefore, will be advanced January 1, 1917, to $1.50 a year.

Until December 31, 1916, any member of the Trade may subscribe for one or more years at the old rate of $1.00 a year.

Readers whose present subscriptions do not expire until after January 1, 1917, may renew for as many years as they like at $1.00 per year, providing that such renewals are sent during 1916.

Send $1.00 and your subscription will be extended one year from the present date of expiration, whenever that may be.

Send $2.00 and the subscription will be extended two years from the present date of expiration.

Send $3.00 for three years, $5.00 for five years.

No renewals for a full year will be accepted at less than $1.50 unless they are mailed by December 31, 1916.

The Canadian subscription price will be $2.50 a year beginning January 1, 1917. Canadian renewals mailed on or before December 31, 1916, will be accepted at $2.00 a year.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

The Market.

Bright, clear weather has stimulated business somewhat. Mums still are favorites, but carnations soon will rule. Better flowers at lower prices have been coming in during the last week. Violets are of good quality, but not too plentiful.

Various Notes.

Julius, the Florist, reports a lively week, heavy wedding work the first of the week keeping all hands busy.

A new flower store was opened recently on Union street by Mr. Rex, of Worcester.

R. H. Woodhouse has had much funeral work of late.

Edward M. Pierce, of Cottage street, reports a good business. Mr. Pierce is cutting some fine violets. The first stevias of the season are being cut at his establishment and fine pansies are to be seen.

Fred C. Covill has been doing an unusually good business. He has probably disposed of more mums than any other florist in the city during the last week.

Manuel Silvia is doing a great deal of landscape work this fall for summer colonists at Padanaram and Nonquitt.

Harry Brightman has been on the sick list for a couple of days with rheumatism.

The New Bedford Horticultural Society held its monthly meeting November 6. There were few present and business was postponed until the December meeting.

W. M. P.

Evansville, Ind.—The Expanded Wood Co., a branch of the Evansville Veneer Co., has started to manufacture crepe wood, the invention of E. J. Moore, an officer of the company. This is a flexible wood, about a twenty-eighth of an inch in thickness and of various widths. It comes in a long roll, similar to a roll of crepe paper, and will withstand water. In manufacturing it green logs, free from knots and other imperfections, are cut up into sheets of wood, six feet in width, on a rotary lathe. These sheets are then sewed on a machine, the sewing adding to the flexibility of the wood. After this the sheets are cut by automatic knives to the desired length and colored.

OBITUARY

Fred W. Vick.

It is with regret that I record the death of Fred W. Vick, which occurred at the Vick family residence on Ridgeway avenue, Rochester, N. Y., Sunday, November 12, after a long and painful illness. The deceased, who was 59 years of age, was a life-long grower and florist. In the year 1874 he left school and went to work for James Vick, his father, who at that time was foreman of the well known seed house, which had trial grounds on the south side of East avenue. A few years later Fred Vick became leading partner in the firm of Vick & Hill Co., extensive growers at Barnard's Crossing, near Rochester. Three years ago last June the deceased commenced business for himself and from that time on until seized with sickness he was a most successful grower.

Mr. Vick was the first president of the Rochester Florists' Association, an office he held for three consecutive years, and he also served as vice-president of the S. A. F. For several years he was a member of the Fifty-fourth regimental band and was widely known in musical circles.

Mr. Vick was a man of good business principles and high ideals—a man well liked and respected by all who came in contact with him. During his painful illness he put up a hard fight to live and it was wonderful to see how bravely he fought.

Fred W. Vick.

Besides his wife, Etta Butler Vick, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. J. Mate and Miss Jane L. Vick; two sons, Albert F. Vick, manager of a Pittsburgh wholesale cut flower house, and Fred C. Vick; one brother, H. Vick.

The funeral was held November 15, the pallbearers being John Dunbar, George B. Hart, E. P. Wilson, Charles H. Vick, Thomas J. Ewart and A. H. Salter.

The Rochester Florists' Association, which held its monthly meeting November 13, adopted appropriate resolutions of sympathy. H. J. H.

Thomas Chaplin Joy.

While examining rose houses with his son on the morning of November 10, Thomas C. Joy, of Nashville, Tenn., head of the Joy Floral Co. and one of the leading florists of the south, succumbed to a sudden attack of heart failure. He was 54 years of age. Prior to his death, Mr. Joy was in the best of health and had never suffered an attack.

The deceased was born at Godrich, Ontario, Canada, and moved with his father to Nashville in 1878, where they started a flower and market gardening business, the latter then being the most important branch of the business. The enterprise grew steadily from two small houses until it now ranks as one of the largest in the entire south. The business makes use of more than 250,000 feet of glass, besides forty acres of land, numerous hotbeds and lath houses. Practically the entire output is required by the retail department.

Mr. Joy was closely affiliated with the state association of florists, as well as with other florists' organizations. He was a member of the Episcopal church and had believed in that faith for many years. He gave liberally of his time and means to all worthy causes. His home circle was a most happy one, his sons and daughters forming close associations and regarding their father as counselor, friend and comrade.

Mr. Joy was united in marriage in 1887 to Miss Susie McAllister, of Nashville, and to the union the following children were born, all of whom, with the wife and mother, survive: Misses Nellie, Lillian, Marion, Ruth and Susie, Thomas H., Harold M. and Edwin. Mr. Joy's father, T. S. Joy, and four sisters, Mrs. C. B. Harrison, Mrs. J. Frank Horn, Mrs. Paul Sloan, of Nashville, and Mrs. John T. Glenn, of Spartanburg, S. C., also survive.

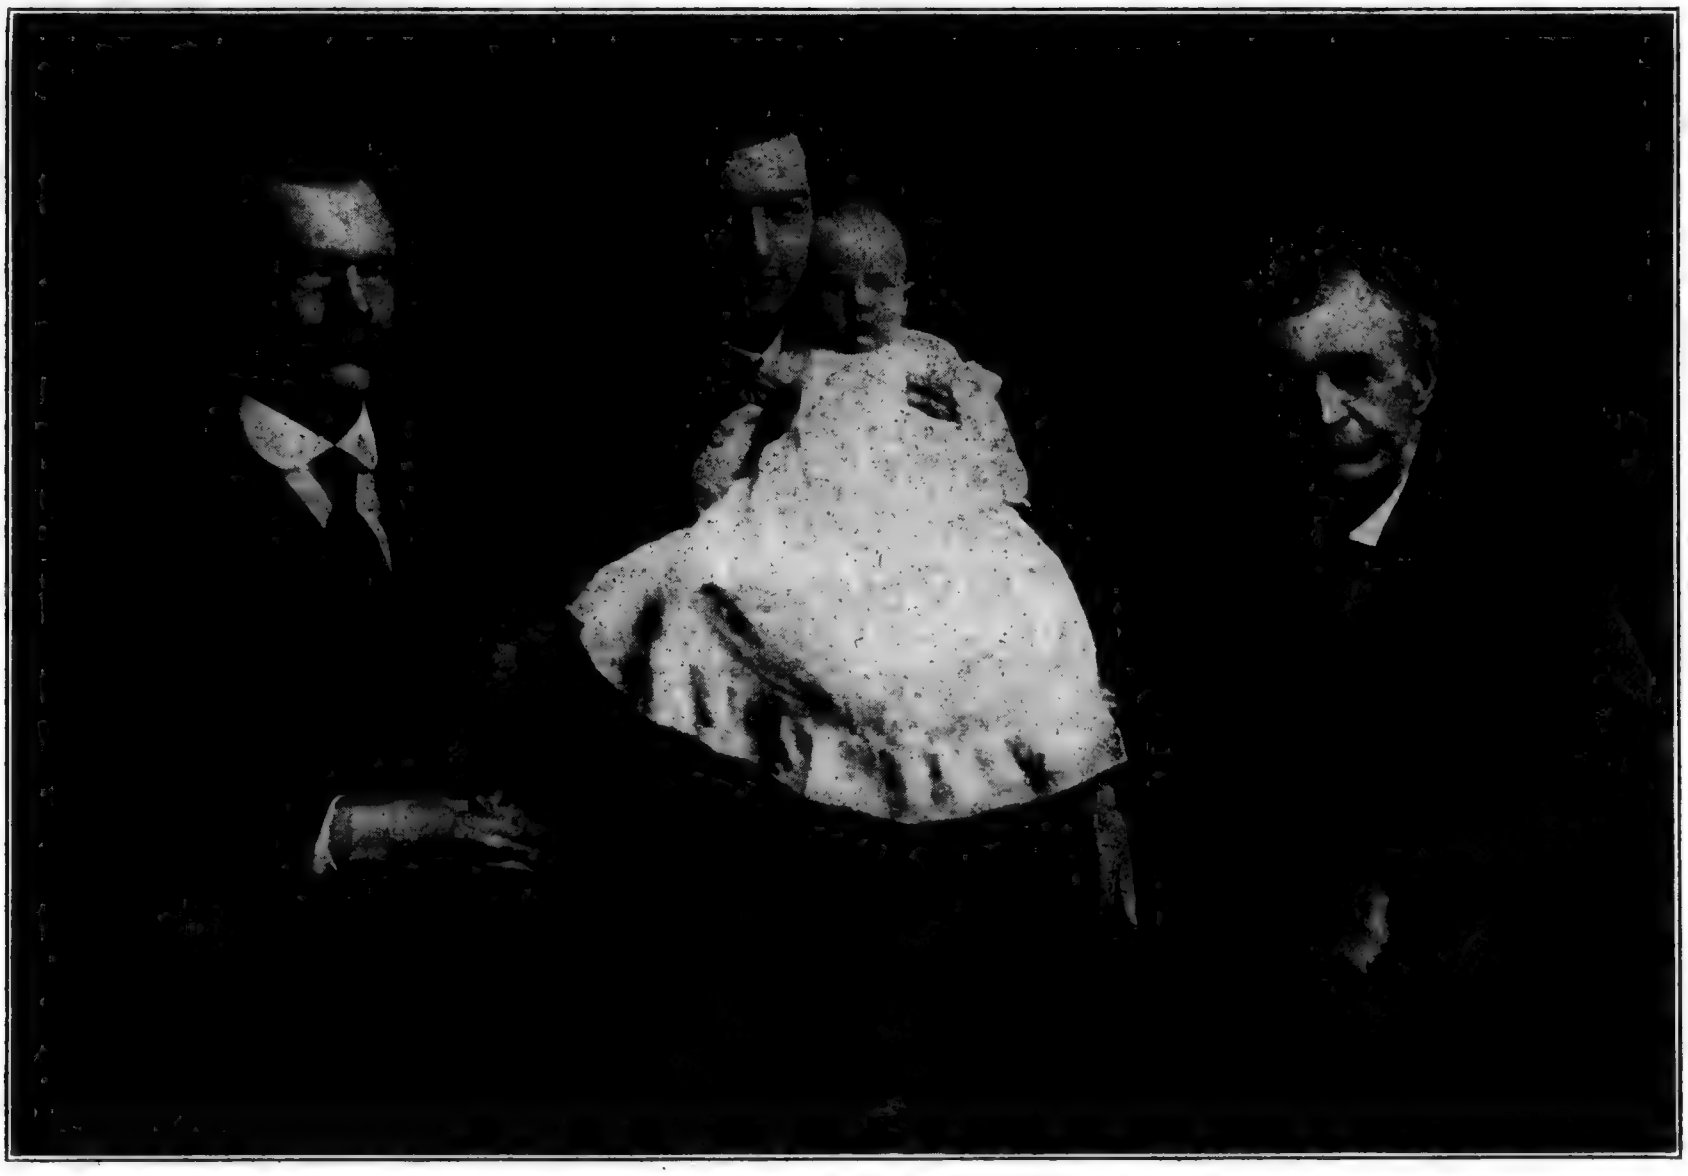
Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, November 12, and were attended by a large number of people.

The business will be carried on by the sons. Harold M. has been trained as a grower and Thomas H. will manage the store, as formerly. The grandfather, T. S. Joy, who is as hale and active as a boy, will lend needed counsel when occasion calls.

William T. Good.

William T. Good, for many years identified with the retail florists' trade of Boston, was struck by an automobile November 7 and died in the hospital from a fractured skull the following day. The deceased was in business on his own account on two occasions and had worked for the late W. E. Doyle, T. F. Galvin and Hoffman, being with the latter when he met his death. He was 55 years of age. The deceased was a former member of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston and was well and favorably known in the retail trade. At the funeral November 10 there was a good representation of the retail trade and the floral tributes were numerous. W. N. C.

W. H. Donohue.



W. H. Donohue, of New York, died suddenly November 15. He was 28 years of age, the son of Fred Donohue, who has been in the florists' business in New York for forty years. The young man was formerly in business at 2 West Twenty-eighth street, and with Hoffman, at Boston. He leaves a widow.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Decidedly poor business prevailed the greater part of last week, but Saturday brought things around to normal and a fair quantity of stock was disposed of. Throughout the week there was little else but counter trade. Funeral work was slow and social affairs during election week were few; the absence of these, combined with the general run of business, accounted for the slump. The quantity of stock on the market compares favorably with that of previous years. There is a good supply of all kinds of seasonable stock, chrysanthemums being the main feature. A good supply of Major Bonnaffon reaches us daily and these sell easily. Some fine William Turner mums also are seen. Oconto, Supreme, Touset, white and yellow Queen, white and pink

Four Generations of the Joy Family, of Nashville, Were Broken Last Week by the Death of T. C. Joy, Seated at Left in this Group.

Ivory, Chieftain, Rager, etc., are plentiful. Some of the florists here are using a pink dye on the white varieties and find that the flowers then sell well. A good quantity of pompons moves satisfactorily. Some single varieties, such as Garza and Mrs. Buckingham, sell fast.

The new carnations are arriving in good quantities and are fair as to size and color. The demand for them is good. Roses are plentiful and their quality is improving. Violets are of good color and size and now sell more easily. Valley meets all demands. Orchids move slowly. Single and double bouvardias are good, but the demand is not large. Easter lilies are improving in size and quality and sell well. The supply of ferns and green goods meets all present demands. Galax and leucothoe are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Visitors to the trade last week included G. E. Walker, of the Susquehanna Cut Glass Co., Columbia, Pa.; Robert Greenlaw, of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia; Louis Hanfling, of Russin & Hanfling, New York; E. Engelberg, of New York.

The Lady Florists' Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. H. W. Wilson November 8 for its monthly meeting and social.

W. Myrl, of the Allen Nursery Co., of this city, has left for Cleveland, where he will become manager of a new branch office of the company opened there.

Fred F. Fogarty paid a flying trip to Buffalo November 10.

Harry Merritt, of Irondequoit, N. Y., is cutting a large quantity of White Wonder carnations. His Delight carnations also are in splendid condition, with good, strong and lengthy stems.

H. E. Wilson and the Rochester Floral Co. are getting a good deal of publicity at this time. Novel street car advertisements are attracting desirable attention.

E. R. Fry, of West Main street, is doing a good business. He has been running a chrysanthemum special for about a week, at $1 per dozen. Being so closely located to the hospitals, he receives much transient trade.

Beautiful baskets of assorted pompons, with large baskets of white and yellow mums, made a handsome window decoration at the J. B. Keller Sons store last week. They have just received "via Rotterdam," by the S. S. Noordam, twenty-two cases of plants.

James Vick's Sons report a satisfactory business at their retail store on Stone street. They have experienced an unusually good season in bulbs, in which they have a large mail-order business. H. J. H.

After a long and painful illness, Fred W. Vick passed away on the evening of November 12. Details are given in this week's obituary column.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

Wichita, Kan., has experienced another success in its annual wheat exposition. Charles P. Mueller made fine displays at his two stores, and J. H. Culp & Sons at their new store had an equally attractive showing.

J. A. Tapscott & Bro., of Owensboro, Ky., and the Morgan Floral Co., of Henderson, Ky., each report good business. They are growing some fine chrysanthemums, but buy considerable stock.

The C. A. Dahl Co., of Atlanta, Ga., is making fine displays in its handsome store. Mr. Dahl returned from the F. T. D. meeting greatly pleased with his trip.

Niednagel & Sons and the Blackman Floral Co., of Evansville, Ind., are making showy displays in their downtown stores. The Randall Co. electric fountain in the Blackman store shows up brilliantly at night. William Blackman mentioned that the whole force was busy from Saturday morning until Sunday noon, with about one hour's rest, on the funeral work and All Souls' day business.

Louisville, Ky., is in a "satisfactory condition floriculturally," according to George Schulz, of the Schulz Flower Shop, who says that the yearly balance was struck November 1 and shows the best year on record. Funeral work is considered spasmodic and placed in a special class. W. M.

Officers for 1917: President, Robert C. Kerr, Houston, Tex.; vice-president, A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y.; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.

Thirty-third annual convention, New York, N. Y., August 21 to 24, 1917.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them. We both have them.

CLEVELAND already is planning a big fall show for 1917 and has set the dates as November 6 to 11.

APPARENTLY the debutante bouquet has given place to the debutante basket of cut flowers. The change at least makes the gifts more useful to the recipient.

THE Godfrey calla is gaining in popularity steadily, as growers learn the method of handling it, and promises practically to displace the old Æthiopica for cut flower purposes.

WHILE early November has seen a slump in nearly all the important wholesale cut flower markets, this has not been the case with the retail trade in the country. With the latter section of the fraternity business has steadily improved. The slackened wholesale demand has been due to the fact that many retailers who buy at other seasons have been busy moving the mums they grow in the houses now to be used for bedding stock.

A NEW YORK daily in a recent issue devoted space liberally to the treatment of fall bulb planting, by amateurs. "Bulbs for a City Yard," "Bulbs for the House" and "Amateur Bulb Planting" were the heads over instructive and fairly comprehensive articles. It goes without saying that educational treatises of this description, if published throughout the country year after year in different guises, would be business boosters of inestimable value to the trade.

LARGE STOCK, LARGE SPACES.

There is a hint for others in the subjoined letter; a hint especially for those who expect a small horse to pull a big load:

We find advertising in The Review profitable, with better returns than from any other trade paper, and after trying out advertisements of different sizes we have found that the larger spaces brought the greatest returns for each dollar spent. Larger production has made larger advertisements advisable and we expect to use more space in The Review this coming year than ever before.—William Toole & Son, Baraboo, Wis., November 6, 1916.

When you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty sure he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

CALIFORNIA COUNTS.

California has been to the front this month, politically and in a trade sense. Just as California had to be reckoned with in the matter of who is to be president, so California has had to be reckoned with in the matter of the supply, distribution and price of cut flowers. It was something of a surprise, too, in both cases to a good many people.

This is the first year that California mums have penetrated the middle west in quantities to unsettle the markets there. For the last year or two they have entered into competition with Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City stock for the All Saints' day business in Louisiana and Texas, but otherwise had not been felt. The production of chrysanthemums, mostly in cloth houses, in southern California and in glass houses around San Francisco has increased greatly in the last year or two and early this month there was a far greater quantity than the local buying would consume. The result was an energetic campaign for a wider market. In this the shippers had the important assistance of the two largest express companies, each of which operates a refrigerator car service east from a coast terminal. The coast mums are earlier than the crops in the Missouri river country and farther north, so that at first the long distance shipments filled a need, but when the local mums came in the importations only created a glut greater than usual and depressed prices to a serious extent. The Chicago market suffered and so did many others, not so much perhaps from the number of California mums sent there as from the fact that many customers who usually buy in those markets already had been filled up with the shipments from the west.

What another year will bring forth is a matter for conjecture. It has been demonstrated that mums grown almost within sight of the Pacific can be shipped far east and have a fair percentage open in salable condition. How far the business can be developed at a profit remains to be seen. No doubt there are limits. The Review hears of shipments on which the express was nearly 3 cents per flower and in which the waste was high which sold at a profit early in the season but which could not be handled after the local crops became heavy. After that the importations stopped. California violets meet Hudson river violets about at the Mississippi river. A few reshipments of the Rhinebeck stock from Chicago go farther west, but at Des Moines and Kansas City the western flowers hold the lead.

The Californians are pushing steadily to open eastern outlets for their products and, although there seems to be a limit beyond which they can not go as a matter of regular business, they give every indication of affording competition which will have to be taken into consideration by everyone in the business in the western half of the United States.

THE PRICE OF FLOWERS.

The Review is convinced that large numbers of florists, especially those in the country towns who grow most of the stock they sell, are retailing cut flowers and potted plants at prices below the cost of production. Evidence of this comes to hand every few days. For instance, a subscriber in a southern town writes that a certain wholesaler overcharged him on an order for All Saints' day and investigation reveals the fact that the order was for 75 cents' worth of white carnations, 75 cents' worth of pink carnations and $2 worth of mums. The wholesaler sent fifty carnations and fifteen mums and obviously it was good stock, as the distance was nearly a thousand miles and the complaint is on the quantity, not the quality.

The man who complains of prices scarcely ever judges them by city standards. The city buyer knows something of the cost of production and the reasons for fluctuations; he does not call 3-cent carnations high at the end of October. On the other hand, the man who retails the stock he produces on the home place is likely to have too many duties to give time to figuring the cost of production and he gradually falls into the error of selling too cheaply. By his standards he is overcharged when he sends an occasional order to a city wholesaler.

It behooves each man to take an account of his business and to do it now. Costs of doing business are rising every day and it is necessary for the florist who would avoid financial difficulties to know what stock costs and to ask prices that will make the business return at least a living.

Beware This Swindler.

The Review is advised that a man is calling on the trade, asking for subscriptions to this paper and offering a brown leather pocketbook as a gift to those who will subscribe. Please take note that The Review employs no such solicitor; it never has found it necessary to give pocketbooks, knives or any other kind of premiums to get people to buy the paper and anyone making such an offer can be set down as a swindler.

Not long ago a solicitor canvassed near Chicago for The Review, but when the receipts were read with care it was found that it was the Farmers' Review, not the Florists' Review, which had been obtained with the brown pocketbook. The Farmers' Review refunded.

We Can Supply the Mums You Will Need for Thanksgiving

IT is quite evident that the Mum season will be nearly over by Thanksgiving—not only is Thanksgiving a week later than usual, but the weather has been so warm it has brought the stock along faster than usual. Consequently, the Thanksgiving supply of Mums will be less than in any recent year.

Foreseeing this condition, we arranged with some of the largest and most skillful growers for special crops of fine late varieties to be cut November 25 to 29. We can book orders up to 25,000 to 30,000.

ALSO A FINE LOT OF POMPONS

Try some of our Pompons now and you will order a big lot for Thanksgiving. Order some of our Novelty Anemone varieties in assortment of colors—they always make a hit.

RUSSELL AND OTHER ROSES

Our supply of Russell is famous all over America. The crop is coming on now and will be splendid for Thanksgiving.

The crops of Killarney Brilliant, Ward, Milady and Sunburst also will be specially large and fine by next week. Order these for Thanksgiving and you surely will want them for Christmas.

DOUBLE—VIOLETS—SINGLE

If you are not satisfied with the quality of the Violets you are using, try ours. You will say you never used better stock. Our supply is very large.

CARNATIONS

Our stock comes from the most skillful growers.

VALLEY

You always can get fine Valley here.

EASTER LILIES

While we never are without good Giganteum Lilies, our supply this week is larger than usual. The stock is fine, cut tight for shipping.

has made all Chicago shiver, has shortened the cuts to a considerable degree and indications are that if the cold weather continues, the supply will be pretty short by the end of the week. Both shipping and city trade have improved and seem to be on the up grade.

American Beauties of good quality are in good demand and are clearing well. Poorer stock, however, is not moving so fast. Other varieties of roses began to move better November 10 and 11, and are clearing pretty well. Carnations are in good supply and of excellent quality, but, on the whole, are moving rather slowly; some of the sales to clean up last week's accumulation were at spring glut prices.

Better grade mums are moving well and selling at fair prices. Poorer quality stock, on the other hand, is almost impossible to move. Pompons in all varieties are on the market in good numbers, but as a rule are selling rather slowly. Last week's glut is thought to be over.

Valley continues on the scarce side of the market. Lilies are slow and are obtainable at low prices. Violets, both single and double, are in good supply and are clearing fairly well. Sweet peas are scarce, with but little demand as yet. Orchids also are scarce, but are in good demand. Calendulas are not arriving in large numbers, but are moving well. Mignonette is short and clearing well. Paper Whites are coming in more plentifully and are in good demand. Present indications are that there will be an ample supply on the market for Thanksgiving.

Strawflowers are in good demand. Buyers evidently are beginning more and more to realize that they are a profitable investment. All greens are moving well.

There was an enormous business in debutantes' bouquets November 11, there being three millionaire coming-out parties for which the orders had been accumulating for weeks. The E. Wienhoeber Co. had the largest number of orders, as all three homes are in the vicinity of its store on Elm street, but each of the leading retailers contributed something to the floral display.

Abele Turns Another Deal.

WANTED TO BUY—Or exchange, my good Chicago flat building, bringing 16% on investment, for a greenhouse of from 10,000 to 20,000 ft. of glass. Place must be in good condition and price right. Address No. 420, care Florists' Review, Chicago.

C. V. Abele came to Chicago a few years ago with considerably less than a thousand dollars; within a month he had leased some old, unprofitable greenhouses at Sixty-first and Throop streets and had pledged his last cent for repairs. He paid only $45 a month rent, but soon was coining money—one year he cleaned up over $7,000 and put it into real estate. When he sold his stock to the National Plant & Flower Co., which now operates the greenhouses, he owned the handsome 9-flat building at 5600 Marshfield avenue, with rents of nearly $3,000 per year.

Then comes John Zimmerman, of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., who, wishing to retire, bought the flats for $27,500, giving in part payment the Mt. Pleasant Greenhouses, 22,000 feet of modern glass, valued at $15,000.

The Review want ad that brought them together cost Mr. Abele $1.30.

dling the stock of well known houses in the various lines of bulbs, plants and greenhouse supplies. His office will be at 160 North Wabash avenue, with Kyle & Foerster.

Mrs. William Hutchinson, who has conducted a successful store at 2136 West Harrison street, has removed to better quarters at 2208 West Harrison.

The real estate investment of Louis and Fred Wittbold rapidly is rounding into shape. Buckingham apartments, as the building is called, is nearing completion; in fact, only that part adjacent to the store awaits the finishing touches and thirty-three of the thirty-eight apartments are occupied. The splendid light and air have made them easy to rent at prices that are expected to make the investment pay twelve to fifteen per cent. The flower store, leased to the George Wittbold Co., is in a separate section of the building, with workrooms below, a splendid show house at the back, offices on the right and apartments above. This section is fireproof, for the only wood in the store is the furniture; the walls are brick, the floors concrete and the window frames steel. The store will be one of the finest in the city.

The chrysanthemum shows are in progress at the parks and are attracting large crowds. With three annual big free shows of this character, one on each side of the city, it requires something out of the ordinary to get a crowd at a flower show where 50 cents admission is charged.

While Wietor Bros. each season try out one or two novelties, N. J. Wietor thinks the carnation list now so satisfactory that it will take extra good varieties to displace any of the present leaders. His choice of white is Matchless, with White Enchantress for quantity; of light pink, Alice and Enchantress; of dark pink, Mrs. Ward and Rosette; of red, Champion and Bonfire. It is a strong half dozen sorts.

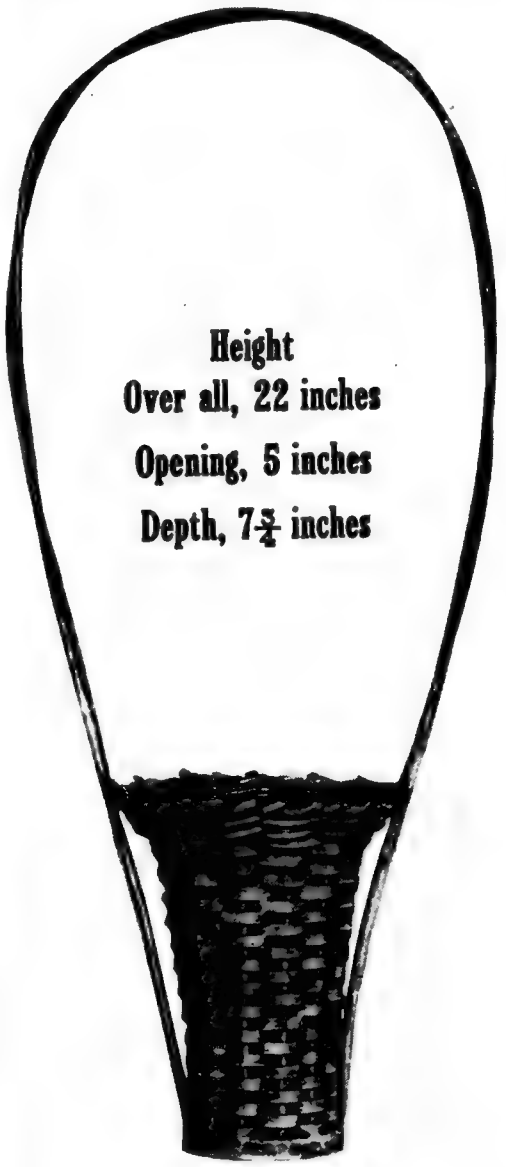
INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

The weather last week, extraordinary because of its serenity, caused an accumulation in the market. Stock of all kinds was overabundant, but, despite this volume, prices of chrysanthemums were normal. Carnations and roses, however, were hard to dispose of at any price, although the quality was exceptionally good.

As the result of the election and an impending street car strike, a slight depression was felt during the week that caused some anxiety among the florists, but this was relieved November 11 by a stupendous consumption of chrysanthemums, which was principally due to a football game.



Roses in all the best varieties, including Russell, American Beauty, Shawyer, Ophelia, the Killarneys, etc., which regularly made $6 to $8 per hundred, were sacrificed at $2, and dragged at that. As a result of the glut, street boys bought surplus stock for apparently nothing and peddled it wherever they could find buyers. Examples of these cut prices were: One lot of fifty American Beauty roses, twenty-five of which had 18-inch stems and twenty-five 12-inch stems, in fine condition, for 75 cents; fifty extra select carnations for 50 cents. This slashing of prices is disastrous to the retailer, as he cannot purchase stock for that, but until the florists coöperate nothing will be done to prevent this butchering of prices by peddlers, department stores and transients.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The cut flower market continues disappointing, particularly from a chrysanthemum standpoint. The mild weather has brought the midseason varieties of chrysanthemums all in at once, besides softening the flowers. The demand has been poor. The result is extremely low prices. So bad have been the conditions that it is feared chrysanthemum growers will not make expenses on their midseason crop. The early varieties did well and it is confidently expected that the late varieties will find a good market, but the grower who has cut heavily during the last three weeks has not met with proper encouragement. Pompons have suffered with their big sisters.

Roses show an improvement. There is quite a fair demand for Ophelia, Sunburst, Ward and Hadley. White Killarney has sold better than Killarney, which now makes a poor tail to the list. Carnations lag badly. Violets suffer except on Friday and Saturday. Valley has been about equal to the demand. Orchids have shortened in supply as labiata goes out and Trianæ goes in; the price has advanced. Good snapdragon is more abundant and sells nicely. A few Paper Whites have come. Cosmos is still about.

The Political Field.

There was one particularly noteworthy feature of the November meeting of the Florists' Club that deserves to be chronicled. It is the appointment by President Farenwald of W. F. Therkildson to the chairmanship of his most important committee. This is significant because Mr. Therkildson was Mr. Farenwald's opponent at the polls in October.

In the early days of American history the newly elected president asked his defeated rival to become secretary of state, with the idea of uniting all parties to the common weal. When Thomas Jefferson was president James Madison was secretary of state, and so on. So in the case of our own club Mr. Farenwald has set the admirable precedent of placing his confidence in his erstwhile opponent and by so doing uniting all the members to work together for their common welfare.

The Strafford Flower Farm.

The Strafford Flower Farm was established by Edward A. Stroud in 1903. It consisted of about twenty-two acres, on which were erected three Hitchings houses, each about 28x300 feet, which were connected by a corridor house running at right angles to the three houses. There also was a smaller house about 25x100 feet, a well-equipped office, a dwelling and some farm buildings. Eight years later, in 1911, Mr. Stroud built a large King house, 54x350 feet. He also added a garage and two delivery cars.

Strafford, from the first, has stood foremost among the carnation ranges in this section. The varieties grown, the quality and quantity of stock, has always been of deep interest to growers, wholesalers and retailers who know anything about the divine flower. When the carnation experts came to Philadelphia from Chester and Lancaster counties they went out to Strafford, fifteen miles out on the Main Line of the Pennsylvania railroad, to see whether that stock was up to the highest standard in every particular. Later Strafford also became famous for its chrysanthemums. First the Japanese varieties were grown, and then the anemone-flowered, singles and semi-doubles, including some rare seedlings, were even more successfully cultivated.

There was another feature of Strafford that added interest to the place in the eyes of every grower who visited it. Here were the ideas of a bright mind carried into execution, untrammeled by lack of means. Nearly all of us know what it means to be poor. It may be good for us, it may make better business men of us in the long run, but how bitterly hard it is to have cheaply constructed greenhouses, or to grow old, inferior varieties or what not, for lack of capital! Well, at Strafford, through Mr. Stroud's courtesy, every grower was welcome. He could study for himself what the best varieties would do in the best houses under skillful culture. He could then determine what he must have and what he could do without, for a while at least.

All this is recapitulated merely to show why the floral world attaches so much importance to the change at Strafford this season. On the first day of last July Alfred M. Campbell succeeded Edward A. Stroud as owner and manager of the Strafford Flower Farm. After four months of active work this place is beginning to produce in earnest. Mr. Campbell has made few changes, continuing with pretty much the same force and the same stock as his predecessor. He has moved his family out to the homelike-looking farm house on this place.

The finest sight at Strafford today is that half of one of the large Hitchings houses planted to the orange-colored chrysanthemum seedling, Strafford. It is a commercial cut flower variety of merit that has been thoroughly tested. You climb on an elevation and look over some 20,000 blooms, which form a sheet of orange—a sight so striking that you are certain to remember it with pleasure for a long time afterward.

Next to Strafford are the spray chrysanthemums. These are absorbingly interesting. They cover a wide range of types and nationalities. They are all good; there is not a poor variety among them. They were Mr. Stroud's especial pride. Here is Fairy Queen, now so popular; Buckingham, favored by the leading retailers; Souvenir d'Or, with its promise of a golden Thanksgiving; Garza and Mary Colladay; Como, named by Mr. Stroud after the next station to his summer cottage; Cavalier, so gay and dashing, and many more. The Japanese varieties were represented by a number of the best sorts, all well grown. The smaller house of pot-grown specialties, next to the office, was almost as hard to leave as Strafford and the spray chrysanthemums. These little specialties were nicely grown. There was Geranium Alphonse Ricard, looking as it does in May, not in November; pans of Begonia luminosa, richly colored, and a whole lot of other things, all quite tempting.

The palms and ferns fill a big house, standard varieties in standard sizes, and all showing a clean bill of health.

Last and most interesting of all is the big King house containing 30,000 carnations in benches. It is quickly said or written, but did you ever see 30,000 carnations in one house? Probably some of you have. Even so, you will admit it is not an ordinary sight, and it is a fine one. The plants have been pinched back with the object of bringing them into bloom in December. They are healthy and promise well. Outdoors Strafford possesses some fine evergreens that are most ornamental, and an excellent collection of hardy chrysanthemums.

The Rose Show Here.

A special meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society was held in the Florists' Club's room in Horticultural hall, on the evening of November 8. Nine of the ten members of the committee were present. The tenth, August F. Poehlmann, wrote a cordial letter to Secretary Hammond regretting his inability to be present and promising his aid should the plan of holding an independent show be undertaken. About thirty of the leading rose growers of Philadelphia responded to the invitation to meet the committee.

President Pennock explained that the object of the meeting was to decide whether the Rose Society should undertake a show of its own in Philadelphia next spring. The dates March 20 to 23 had been reserved and the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, or rather the council representing the owners, had offered Horticultural hall free of charge for those days, with the understanding that the regular spring show of the P. H. S. might be staged downstairs during the rose show. President Pennock had personally undertaken to raise a guarantee fund of $5,000 to assure the financial success of the show. His plan of having fifty subscribers at $100 each had already succeeded, forty-three of the fifty being pledged and the remaining seven practically assured. With this encouraging statement, each person present was asked to express his views.

The consensus was that the show should be held as proposed. The feeling seems to be that the time has come when the Rose Society should run its own show and by so doing increase its membership and its usefulness. A letter was read from Howard B. French, president of the Chamber of Commerce, endorsing the plan.

Those present were Samuel S. Pennock, Benjamin Hammond, E. Allan Peirce, Harry O. May, Louis J. Reuter, Robert Simpson, Wallace R. Pierson, Robert Pyle, F. W. C. Brown, Admiral Ward, William Kleinheinz, John H. Dodds, Earl Mann, J. D. Eisele, Robert Craig, Joseph Heacock, George Burton, A. Farenwald, William K. Harris, Mark P. Mills, William P. Craig, E. J. Fancourt and others.

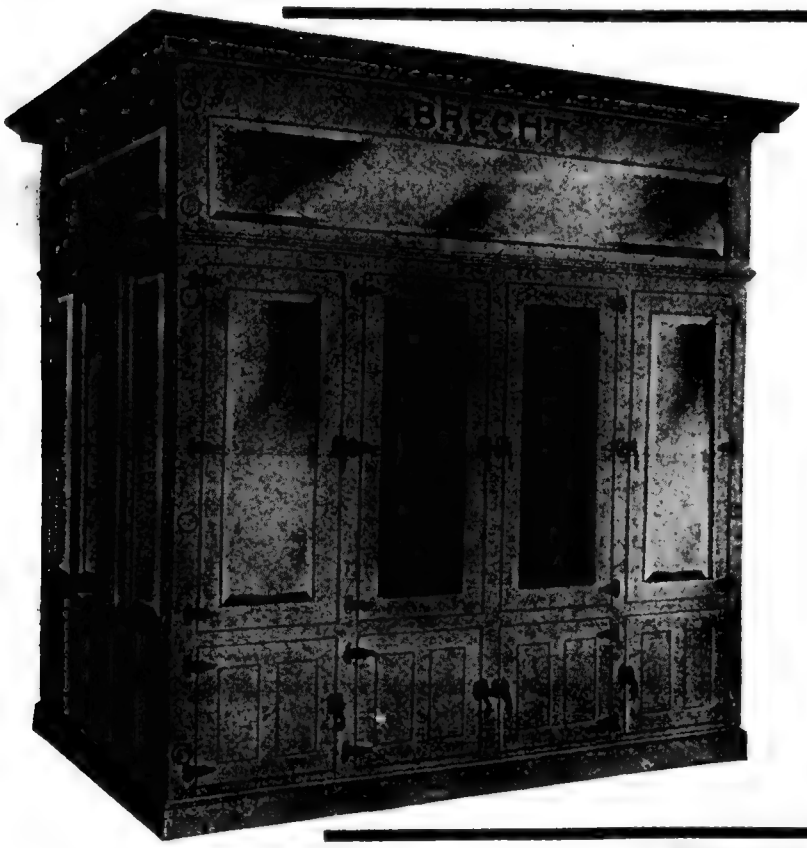
Various Notes.

George Burton has purchased fifty acres of land on Church road, at Arlingham station, on the Fort Washington branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, adjoining the sixty-six acres recently purchased by his father, John Burton. It is Mr. Burton's intention to erect a commercial range of greenhouses on his newly acquired property, which has the advantage of a convenient railroad siding.

J. E. Doerer, of Columbia, Pa., was in town this week.



S. M. Meehan spoke on "Hardy Chrysanthemums and Other Fall-Flowering Plants" before a large audience that gathered to admire the annual chrysanthemum show of the Germantown Horticultural Society, which was held in the library of Vernon Park, November 13. The show was open in the afternoon; the meeting was held in the evening.

Clarence Alwine, of Aldan, is bringing fine chrysanthemums to Berger Bros. His varieties include Chieftain, Rager, Bonnaffon, White Bonnaffon and Dr. Enguehard.

M. J. Callahan says that concentration is a key to success.

N. Leon Wintzer, of West Grove, Pa., is most successful with his specialty, gladioli.

William Berger Sons make effective use of trellis boxes filled with pompons and finished with ribbon. A couple of these trellises in their window were much admired this week.

The Market.

Politics last week completely demoralized the local flower market and killed the sale of even the best stock. It is said the florists' business was the hardest hit of any and it will be a week or ten days before normal conditions return.

The market is glutted with single and pompon chrysanthemums and excellent Bonnaffon, Eaton, Chieftain, Turner and Mrs. Charles Rager are to be had. Chrysolora is about done for.

There are quantities of good Double White Killarney of as fine a quality as this market ever sees at this time of the year, but there is no market for

GLOEKLER FLOWER STORE REFRIGERATORS

Gloekler Fixtures in Store of A. W. Smith Co., Pittsburgh.

THE essential feature of a refrigerator for cut flowers is a cold, dry circulation of air. That is the fundamental principle of Gloekler Flower Refrigerators. The stock keeps to its full limit, and at the same time results in a saving of ice. It requires perfect insulation to produce this condition, and the Gloekler method of reinforced cork insulation has been proven by test the only practical way of producing such a result.

And then, the selling quality of the refrigerator—that is a big point for consideration. These refrigerators display flowers so attractively that the flowers almost sell themselves. They are as valuable as an extra salesman in your store. They present an insistent argument to the customer to buy, but in an unobjectionable way. And, after all, the first aim of the florist is to sell.

Gloekler Refrigerators are made of selected materials, finished to exactly harmonize with your store interior, and completed with our own heavy, attractive hardware.

Many splendid styles and sizes in stock for quick shipment. We build any size or style to order. Any finish.

A NEW CATALOGUE of FLORISTS' REFRIGERATORS shows flower store interiors in full color. Send for your copy. It's free and it's worth while. Write TODAY.

them locally. Roses in colors are holding their own, particularly Hoosier Beauty, Hadley, Red Radiance, Killarney Brilliant and Shawyer. Mock, which has been extra fine so far, is beginning to become bull-headed. Carnations are still suffering on account of the chrysanthemums. Sweet peas are somewhat more plentiful. Double violets are meeting with fair sale but single violets are left unsold. For the first time in many months there is an oversupply of valley. A fine lot of bouvardia is ready.

Various Notes.

The Washington Floral Co. is cutting some exceptionally fine Mensa mums, Double White Killarney and Ophelia roses.

The automobile delivery outfit of the Leo Niessen Co. was practically demolished last week when hit by a touring car. The colored driver was not given time enough to jump clear of the wreck and was thrown with the car, but escaped without serious injury.

Among the changes noted in the various stores are reported the resignation of Mrs. Supper from the employ of George C. Shaffer and the employment of Samuel Everett at the Dupont Flower Shop. Edward Niedomanski, formerly with George H. Cooke, now is engaged at a steel plant.

Clifford Wilson, who is employed at the Fourteenth street store of the Washington Floral Co., is on the sick list.

William Marche has secured a lease covering the entire building at 731-735 Fourteenth street, northwest. Mr. Marche has for a number of years occupied the corner store, the other two being occupied by a photographer. Upon getting the lease, Mr. Marche immediately pushed back the side wall, the additional space making a great deal of improvement.

In commenting upon the Philadelphia and Lancaster flower shows, which he attended last week, William F. Gude said they were fine but he deplored the fact that the retailers at both shows were conspicuous by their absence.

The sympathy of the trade is with Mrs. Mary E. Freeman, who has a store on Thirteenth street and is the owner of a range of greenhouses here, on the death of her daughter, Katharine Elisabeth, who passed away last week after an illness of about three months. Miss Freeman was the sister of Louis and Joseph Freeman, who have been conducting the business since the death of their father, the late J. R. Freeman.

Michael J. McCabe, of Anacostia, D. C., who operates a stand in the Center market, has returned home. Mr. McCabe had been forced to give up active work because of a nervous breakdown and has been recuperating in New York. His health is much improved.

The monthly meeting of the Florists' Club last week was devoted largely to a discussion of politics and the effect of the election upon the District of Columbia. The prediction was made that the forthcoming months will be more prosperous.

Thomas Knight, of Knight & Struck Co., New York, is in Washington with a number of men packing up the Briggs orchid plants which the firm has just acquired. It is stated by Mr. Knight that by Christmas there will not be one of these plants left in Washington and this also means the end of orchid production in this city. The collection

The Markets.

Business last week was satisfactory, but the supplies of mums and carnations were rather more than the demand required. Large and single mums sell well, but carnations find a slow sale, though their quality is good. Roses are in good form and sell nicely, considering the large flood of mums. Lilies are in short supply, but violets are sufficient to meet the call. Potted plants move slowly.

Various Notes.

Emil Kranz, of Muscatine, Ia., was a visitor in Davenport November 9.

P. G. Pearson, Arvid Anderson, C. Sorensen and Henry Gaethje attended the Illinois state florists' meeting at Bloomington last week.

C. J. Reardon and William Goos were among those present at the Iowa state meeting and flower show at Ames last week.

Miss M. Turney, of the Bills Floral Co., reports trade good for the season, with mums and roses as the prime sellers.

Forber & Bird report that single mums are selling well, double pompons not so well, with a good demand for the large varieties.

Harry Bills is having a large pick of violets.

The meeting of the Tri-City Florists' Club was postponed to Thursday, November 16, in order not to conflict with the date of the Illinois state meeting at Bloomington and the Iowa state meeting at Ames. W. G.

GET READY

Festoon Winding Machines Improved

Fourth year on the market. Two types. Makes all kinds of Festooning. Type No. 1 will wrap on any size wire used for its center. One turn with handle gives two wraps on Festooning. Center wire is measured while Festooning is wound, which eliminates measuring of Festooning. Type No. 2: Fine wire is used for the center, one turn with handle gives one wrap on Festooning. Does equally as good work as Type No. 1. We furnish machines ready to work, with enough wire to make 500 yards. Three days' trial allowed. Money refunded if machine is not what you want. Prices:

Type No. 1, $10.00; Type No. 2, $5.00

THE FIRST IMPRESSION.

WHEN making a delivery the first impression is made by the box. Of course the flowers contained in it cannot fail to please, but you did not make the flowers. Your contribution toward the perfection of the whole is the box. A well made, neat and attractive box is the only means you have to impress your connection with the transaction, so why not make the box your opportunity to impress your name on the memory of those who receive the flowers?

The Climax Line is a Good Line to Tie To

THE FACT that we have in the past seven years built up the largest Cut Flower Box business in the Country is our best advertisement. We strive to please and the results speak for themselves.

"WHEN BETTER BOXES ARE MADE WE WILL MAKE THEM" is still our slogan.

We manufacture and carry in stock for prompt shipment: Oxford Gray, Mist Green, Mist Tan, White Carnation and our popular Favorite grade—the latter a most satisfactory telescope shipping box. Holiday boxes in season. We make special sizes promptly and at reasonable charge, and specialize in attractive and up-to-date printing and embossing.

With our increased facilities we aim to make our service the best in our line, and if you are in the market it will pay you to wait for the "Climax" Salesman, or send for late price list and samples to nearest office: 141 Milk St., Boston; 2914 11th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Chrysanthemums are at their best and are used for all occasions. Roses and carnations are of good quality and the supply is equal to the demand.

Florists as yet have not advanced the prices of cut flowers to meet the extra high costs of supplies and production.

Various Notes.

Karl Zeidler left November 14 for his annual trip to the wilds of Mississippi with local hunters. His roses, carnations, mums and all potted stock never were in better form than now. Business has been extra good with him.

The Evansville Florists' Club met November 8 at the Ernest L. Lutz residence at Boonville, where Mr. Lutz and his family gave the visitors a fine reception. Oliver Marker gave an interesting talk on shrubs. Emil Niednagel told of his trip east and C. A. Morgan spoke of what he saw at the florists' meeting at Louisville. James Snyder was accepted as a member, his name being proposed by Theodore Kuebler. Otto Kuebler and Theodore Kuebler exhibited some fine mums. The next meeting will be held December 13, at Julius Niednagel's greenhouses.

C. E. Gysemen has resigned his position at the city greenhouses to enter the nursery business for himself. His partner is C. P. Beard, of this city.

J. C. Elspermann is enjoying a fine trade. His mums, carnations and other stock are fine.

C. L. Niednagel will have a good crop of roses for the holidays. The stock is in fine condition.

The Market.

Last week flowers of all kinds continued to pile up and the regular trade could not possibly use all of them. As a result, only the best of the stock was sold by the florists and the remainder sacrificed to the street fakers, who had the time of their lives. It was a shame to see some of the stock sold on the streets, but what could the wholesalers do? Of course, the retailers complained and explained that it would be better for the business if the surplus were thrown away, but the wholesaler thought "a bird in the hand was worth two in the bush" and took what he could get for the surplus.

The wholesale houses were plentifully supplied with good roses, carnations and mums in wide variety. Paper Whites, violets, mignonette, snapdragons and yellow daisies were plentiful and gave everybody a lovely time looking for customers.

The retailers had a splendid week. Trade was good, considering that it was election week; it was more than they expected.

There is some anxiety over the non-arrival of azaleas and some in the trade have concluded that there will not be any this year. Some fine plants of lilacs have been on the road so long that perhaps they will not be worth forcing.

Florists' Club Meeting.

There was a good attendance at the November 7 meeting of the Florists' Club, which was devoted to exhibits and discussions of the too plentiful mum. Schenley park had a couple of vases containing the largest and finest mums ever shown at a meeting, and someone said that the flowers were grown by a park employee who knew little about flowers, but had brains enough to do as he was told. Other exhibitors were M. Curran, H. J. Heinz and C. Goodwin & Sons.

The committee having the twenty-fifth annual club banquet in charge re-

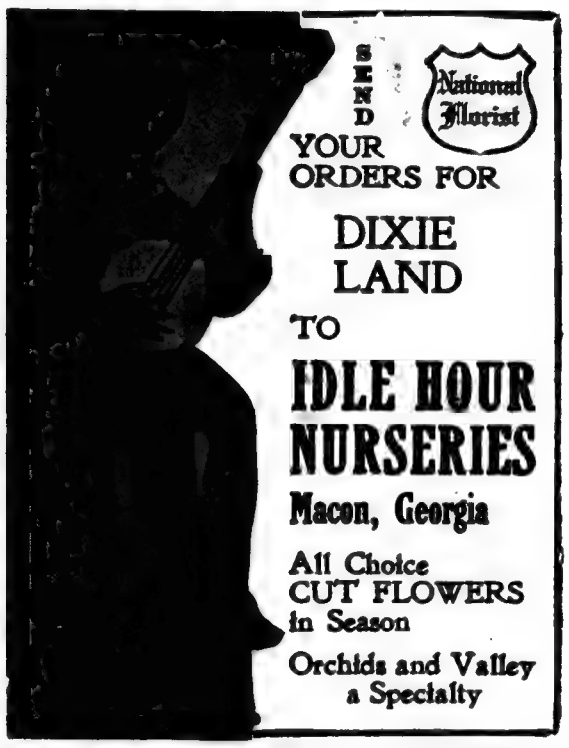
BOSTON.



The Market.

The records of previous years show conclusively that during the first half of November, when chrysanthemums are at their flood tide, prices have been low and the cut flower business poor. Each year a certain number of growers decide to drop mums or materially reduce their plantings, while other growers, hearing of these things, plunge in them heavily. The results we all know. The clear skies we have had of late, with mild weather, have favored a heavy cut of all flowers and we must wait a few more days for a recession of the main tide and more bracing weather before business improves.

Chrysanthemums seem to be in as overwhelming supply as ever and prices rule too low to be profitable. While single-stem flowers lag, the sales of pompons and singles are quite good. Roses are not in an enviable position, but are doing a trifle better than a week ago. The flowers are somewhat lacking in substance, owing to the warm weather. Carnations are little changed, with few fancy flowers selling over $2 per hundred. Violets sold well November 11 for local football games. They now are arriving of much better quality. Lilies still sell slowly. A few nice sweet peas are coming in and sell quickly. Yellow marguerites for so early in the season are quite abundant and clean up nicely. Candytuft is hard to sell. The supply of Cattleya labiata still is ample and there is a good variety of cypripediums. The pot plant trade is fairly good.

Various Notes.

The funeral of William F. Malloy, the late manager in Boston for the Budlong Rose Co., was largely attended by local growers, salesmen and retailers, among whom Mr. Malloy was highly esteemed. Services were held at the Natick Catholic church November 9. Among those in the trade attending

J. T. Butterworth, of South Framingham, one of our leading and most expert orchid specialists, has lost his entire crop of Cattleya labiata this season. Mr. Butterworth's orchid houses run close to one of the streets and some of the town employees a few days ago raked up and burned all the leaves on the street, which had been treated with tar and oil. The smoke blew through the ventilators and destroyed about $800 worth of flowers and buds, also sending many carnations to sleep in adjoining houses. The town seems to be clearly responsible for damage done and will probably settle for it. It is hoped that foliage on affected plants may not suffer also. Mr. Butterworth's orchids are in fine condition. His collection of rare cypripediums and cymbidiums are specially noteworthy.

James Wheeler, of Natick, is glazing a new house 30x200, which he will plant with yellow marguerites as soon as completed. Mr. Wheeler is our leading and most successful local specialist in yellow marguerites. He grows all his plants in solid beds, in which they already are smothered with blooms and will continue so right through the winter, thus upsetting the theory that to bloom marguerites in winter they must be starved at the root. A liberal topdressing of cow manure on the beds now knocks the starvation theory on the head completely. A space 60x150 is filled with marguerites in bloom, all propagated this year. Carnations are well done here. Alice surpassed all others in productiveness. Pink Delight looks splendid. Nancy compared unfavorably with the two former varieties and will need to hustle to catch up with them. Matchless, White Wonder, Benora and Beacon all are in splendid shape.

The W. W. Edgar Co. has received over 100 cases of its azaleas from Belgium. Considering that these were shipped September 20, their condition is good. More Dutch bulbs than ever have been planted here this season. The demand for cyclamens and begonias is so strong that plants with only one or two flowers open are eagerly taken.

Patrick Welch is receiving some fine shipments of laurel wreaths, the best I have seen this season. Single chrysanthemums from Farquhar's Dedham nurseries sell well. The supplies of all flowers are heavy and it requires much strenuous work to help clean them up.

John McFarland is cutting a fine crop of Bonnaffon mums, in addition to Lilium giganteum and lily of the valley. He showed his fine hybrid Lælio-Cattleya Eastoniensis at the Coöperative Market, November 11. This is a cross between Lælia Digbyana and Cattleya gigas and was awarded a silver medal by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in 1914.

Thomas Galvin, Inc., November 11 had a fine window of yellow chrysanthemums and crotons. Another window contained crimson mums and red roses, while a central one was devoted to a display of Ficus elastica. Business here continues good.

Remember the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club November 21. In addition to John Davey's stereopticon lecture on "Tree, Insect, Bird," which will attract a big attendance, there will be nominations of officers for 1917 and good displays of late chrysanthemums and other flowers.

Fire November 10 damaged the store of Mrs. J. W. Rogers, on Summer street, near the South station.

Neil Boyle, of Malden, has finished potting 12,000 giganteum lilies for next Easter. His roses are giving an excellent account of themselves, especially Ophelia and Hoosier Beauty.

Paine Bros., of Randolph, have at last received and planted all their Dutch bulbs. They are cutting a fine assortment of pompon mums, in addition to the ever-popular Bonnaffon.

Henry Penn has received many entries for his chrysanthemum show to be held November 16 to 18. He intended to advertise this show in the Boston dailies.

In addition to the store on Massachusetts avenue, Hoffman now operates a store on Dartmouth street, near the Back Bay and Trinity Place stations, and has the flower booth at the Copley Plaza hotel.

The annual election of officers of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will take place November 18. Voting, as usual, will be by Australian ballot.

At Welch's heavy supplies of flowers now are being received, but shipping trade has been quite good. A spell of colder weather, it is believed, will brace up business. A large supply of Christmas sundries now are coming to hand.

The Houghton-Gorney Co. had attractive displays of camellias, orchids and chrysanthemums in its windows November 11.

I regret to report that, owing to ill health, William Downs has been obliged to resign his position as superintendent for E. S. Webster, of Chestnut Hill, Mass. Mr. Downs is one of our ablest local craftsmen and I hope a long, complete rest will restore him to good health.

The Welch Bros. Co. is busy preparing for the Thanksgiving and Christmas trade and, judging from the quantity, variety and quality of stock being received, it should be able to suit almost every taste. Business with them is good.

The death of William T. Good, which occurred November 8, is recorded in the obituary column. W. N. C.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Last week the market was in a crowded condition. There was quite a lot of business going on among the retailers, but this was not sufficient to move the big cut coming in daily. Prices suffered greatly in all grades and clean-up sales were recorded only in valley and orchids.

Chrysanthemums now are in midseason height. The fine, warm days brought in the late varieties that the grower was banking on for Thanksgiving sales. Bonnaffon now is in great profusion and only the extra choice blooms bring a fair price. Golden Wedding and Chadwick made their appearance last week. Some fine Turner, Kelley, V. Poehlmann and Appleton were seen, as well as a large variety of pompons. Roses, too, are in great profusion in all varieties and of extra good quality, but prices are exceedingly low. Russell is the best seller and Beauties clean up daily, but Killarney, Ward, Richmond, Ophelia and Sunburst glut the market and in many cases these are sold as low as $5 per thousand.

Carnations are slow in demand, with the home-grown stock having the call. These suffer in price along with the roses. Excellent blooms can be had as low as 50 cents per hundred. The best of the home-grown carnations hold up to $15 and $20 per thousand. Easter lilies now may be had daily at $10 per hundred. The market for fine orchids has been good here, cattleyas cleaning up daily at from $6 to $7.50 per dozen. An extra good supply of valley is held at $6 per hundred.

Violets as yet are not of extra quality; the warm weather caused the buds to come blind. Sweet peas are arriving daily, also Paper Whites. All greens are in demand, with flat ferns up to $1.75 per thousand. Smilax and asparagus are in big demand.

Florists' Club Meeting.

The St. Louis Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, November 9, this being the first indoor meeting the club has held for the last five months. The attendance was disappointing to the officers, only about twenty-five being present.

President Bourdet called the meeting to order and after the routine proceedings the chair called for reports from all committees. The most important of these was that of the spring flower show committee. Secretary W. W. Ohlweiler said that all committees having this show in charge were working harmoniously, that the subscriptions were nearing the $10,000 mark and that the preliminary premium list had been mailed. This show will be the largest ever given by St. Louis florists.

A number of communications were read and filed for future reference. The committee on the applications for membership of Paul Redin, J. J. Karins, Joseph Deutschmann, W. J. Wright, A. P. Shaad, F. Sanders, J. W. Reese, A. Taber and R. C. Kerr reported favorably and their election followed. On motion it was decided to appoint a committee to change the by-laws of Article

I, Sections 2, 3 and 4. The chair appointed Messrs. Beneke, Irish and Wells to compose this committee and report at the next meeting.

Luther Armstrong, of Kirkwood, Mo., staged a new variety of yellow chrysanthemum, a large, single yellow, which was much admired.

The trustees were instructed to select a new meeting place and report at the next meeting. The club has had its present meeting place for the last twenty years and it will be hard to convince members that a better place could be found.

Various Notes.

November 20 the Retail Florists' Association will hold an important meeting at the Mission Inn Garden. President Charles Young says the membership committee has an interesting report to make. Secretary Weber, who is chairman of the retailers' exhibition committee of the spring flower show, will give a talk on what is expected of the members at the spring show.

The chrysanthemum show at the Missouri Botanical Garden last week was a brilliant one and drew an immense crowd, especially Sunday. General Manager Ohlweiler says this year's show far excels any previous efforts at the Garden. The show is free to the public and will continue until the end of the mum season.

J. W. Ross, of Centralia, Ill., reports that the fall flower show held recently at Centralia was a great success, both socially and financially. Mr. Ross is consigning a fine cut of Easter lilies to the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co.

Charles and William Meier, of Kirkwood, are cutting a grand lot of Bonnaffon and White Bonnaffon; also fine Turner mums. These bring top prices and clean up well daily.

Joseph Witek, on McPherson avenue, had a fine display of mums in baskets. Mr. Witek and his assistant, Alex Geranios, know how to feature new designs.

Martin Seeger, with the Mullanphy Florists, at Eighth and Locust streets, says business last week was large. This firm's show windows are filled with the choicest of cut stock. Nat Kingsley, in charge of the Grand avenue store, had his big force working overtime each night last week.

Edward Westmann, manager of Vandervoort's flower department, says that the sale on fall bulbs is larger than ever this year. The special flower sales each week have proved a big success, especially when mums are on sale.

The Milliken Beauty houses, at Crescent, Mo., now are producing a fine cut daily. Much is expected of these for the coming holiday season.

Gust Grossart, of Belleville, Ill., reports that he will have a fine lot of poinsettias in plants and for cut flowers for Christmas. Mr. Grossart says business in his line has been excellent so far this season.

The Lady Florists' Home Circle held an interesting meeting November 8 at the home of Mrs. George B. Windler. All members were present. Mrs. F. W. Bruenig will entertain the members next month.

The following florists visited the wholesale district November 9: George Madsen, Alton, Ill.; F. M. Widmer, Highland, Ill.; Gust Grossart and W. E. Ogle, Belleville, Ill.; Edward Denker, St. Charles, Mo. All attended the Florists' Club meeting in the afternoon.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. B. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

ACCORDING to present indications, quite a shortage is developing in canners' peas.

THE spinach crop in Holland, always an important one to the seed trade here, is said to be less than half a normal one.

UTAH is the only state in the Union that reports any considerable increase in the acreage of peas for canning this year. In Utah the gain is twenty-five per cent.

PAUL S. SUZUKI, of Oakley, Wyo., is the representative for the United States of Suzuki Bros. Co., of Yokohama, Japan, growers and exporters of lily bulbs and medicinal plants.

SOME foreign shipments of seeds are beginning to come in, but so far they have been rather disappointing and there is considerable question as to whether certain varieties will be shipped at all this year.

FRED W. VICK, a member of the prominent Vick family, of Rochester, N. Y., died November 12, after a long illness. This week's obituary column contains a brief sketch of the life of the deceased.

IN a circular to the canning trade, urging a careful consideration of costs before 1917 prices are quoted, the National Canners' Association lists as the first item of many increased costs that "seeds have advanced nearly seventy-five per cent."

VISITED CHICAGO: A. E. Bell, president of the American Seed Co., Fort Worth, Tex. Mr. Bell was in high spirits over the outcome of the presidential election and reported that business in Texas is exceptionally good. In fact, he said it was hard to secure enough stock for the trade and that good prices are obtained on everything.

SEVERAL of the large California growers of seeds are now starting on their annual trips east and the trade may again be prepared for reports of short plantings and higher prices on onion seeds. There are those in the seed trade who think the travelers will find among their troubles the necessity of explaining to their friends in the east how California happened to vote as it did.

A. H. SMITH, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, reports large inquiries this week from the pickle and canners' trade, for dill and spinach seeds. Both of these seeds are usually imported from Holland and Germany, but because of the embargo on their exportation by the Holland government, receipts will be small this year and prices high. In fact, Mr. Smith says that parties who were able to place orders have been fortunate.

SEEDS ALONG SACRAMENTO.

The growing of seed in the Sacramento valley of California is assuming larger proportions, as is evidenced by the shipments from the delta region this season. Fourteen carloads were shipped by two firms, the Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co., of Gilroy, Cal., and Waldo Rohnert, of Hollister. Of these, eight carloads were onion seed, four carloads carrot, one beet and one parsnip. It is expected the acreage devoted to garden seed will be greatly increased next year in the valley.

A PROFIT-SHARING DIVIDEND.

Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, recently made known to their employees a profit-sharing dividend plan affecting at present about 150 people. This dividend is awarded on the basis of net earnings of the company for the fiscal year closing July 1, in proportion to the salary of each individual and length of continuous service. At the time the announcement was made, checks were handed to all those who were entitled to them for the year ending July 1, last.

The plan was put in operation to bring about a greater degree of cooperation, to increase efficiency and to encourage thrift. If the plan works out as well as is anticipated, it is expected it will be continued on the same liberal basis as first announced.

CANNERS AT MILWAUKEE.

The convention of the Wisconsin canners, held in Milwaukee November 13 to 16, was well attended by members of the seed trade. The consensus seems to be that there is a healthy quality in connection with the general advance in prices. Some seeds, however, have advanced so much that the prices have a serious influence on the sales. Especially is this true of spot peas. The greatly increased value of seed for export has a serious effect on the domestic situation. Alaskas were offered for $7.50 to $8 per bushel. Prices of course have advanced materially since last year and the advance was greatly needed, as there was little or no profit in the turnover last year. The bean situation is still unsettled and present indications are for higher prices, especially inasmuch as garden beans for seed have not advanced in the same proportion as edible beans. Seed sweet corn is a scarce article and, to quote

Announcement!

To my Friends and Customers:

This is to inform you that I have sold my interest in the firm in which I was a partner; also that it is my intention soon to call on you personally in the interest of what I deem to be the best sources of supply in America, Japan and Europe.

I will cover the same territory that I have been traveling for the last 12 years.

Please hold your Spring and Fall, 1917, orders until I call on you. My estimates will be to your advantage.

WANT GRASS SEEDS IN BRAZIL.

At a time when seeds are scarce the world over there are, of course, innumerable opportunities for new business. Most of these opportunities will disappear with the conditions that brought them about, but Consul General A. L. M. Gottschalk, at Rio de Janeiro, calls the attention of American grass seed dealers to a chance to make permanent connections of a profitable nature.

"American firms dealing in grass seeds," he says, "should be interested in a cattle congress to be held at Rio de Janeiro in May, 1917. Presumably an excellent opportunity will be offered, in the handsome building devoted to the congress, for an exposition in glass cases of foreign pasture-seeds, with their price lists, etc. The attention of seedsmen in the United States, particularly those who have had experience with grass seeds, nonirrigated

FLORISTS ARE LIKE CABBAGES

They don't head well when planted too close together. Some towns are so full of them that they have to hammer each other to keep busy, using epithets such as Crape-Chaser, Shrapnel-faced bouquet peddler, Sockless John the cut-priced fiend, Fritz the 5 & 10 cent store slave, etc., merely to indicate the sore spot in their own carcass. Now the basic principle of knocking is jealousy, and jealousy is a social cancer that grows by what it feeds upon. It is also a form of damphoolishness that rebounds against the dispenser like a boomerang. If you happen to belong to this society of sad-eyed season sweaters, resign at once and sell your hammer and buy a horn—and blow it ever afterward. Advertise flowers—go after business, and if you can't make a good living in your town, get out of it and into another—never mind the greenhouses—sell them for whatever they will bring, for they're no good if they will not support you. Many a man has had to start over in life and it's never too late either. And remember—IT DOES NOT TAKE SO MUCH STRENGTH TO DO THINGS AS IT DOES TO KNOW WHAT TO DO AND WHEN TO DO IT. There is one thing we can save you thinking about by telling you what to do and when to do it, and that is GET SOME HORSESHOE BRAND GIGANTEUM—GET THEM RIGHT NOW—plant them for Easter Flowering. And if you want some during the season in 1917—send for our improved planting table showing planting and flowering dates all through the year.

seeds, and pasture-crop seeds generally, is invited to the advantages of their communicating with this office or of their writing directly to Dr. Miguel Calmon du Pin e Almeida, who is president of the Sociedade Nacional da Agricultura. His address is Rua Primeiro de Marco 15 sobrado, Rio de Janeiro.''

The area of Brazil is approximately as large as that of the United States. The country has large tracts which furnish range today and which could probably support 100 head of cattle where they now support one.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

The Bollwinkle Seed Co., of New Orleans, La., has fully recovered from the disaster of a year ago and is enjoying a prosperous business. ''If we can only find a remedy for the boll weevil, we shall quickly become wealthy,'' remarked John Bollwinkle.

The Bruce Seed & Poultry Co., of New Orleans, is well settled at its new location—more room, at less rent. It may need a little additional advertising for a while, but this would be beneficial in the end, is the opinion of Robert Bruce.

The Steckler Seed Co., of New Orleans, finds the combination of seed store and menagerie of pets profitable. As the oldest seed house it has a clientele of good old-fashioned customers.

Chris Reuter, of New Orleans, who probably has the most extensive seed and commission connection in Louisiana, says that in all his experience he never had so perplexing a time as now, when he can give his growers big prices for their product, but finds the greatest difficulty in furnishing the seed for that supply.

Van Antwerp's Seed Store, of Mobile, Ala., reports a steady increase in shipments along the gulf and Central American ports. ''We are constantly experimenting to combat various insect pests, having our own entomologist,'' observed Dr. J. Van Antwerp. ''The worst enemy with us is the cotton scale, which is causing great havoc and for which we have not yet found an exterminator; but it will be found.''

The Hastings Seed Store, of Atlanta, Ga., finds its clientele places such confidence in the advice given in the catalogue that it is issuing the new annual with unusual care.

Mark W. Johnson is the pioneer seed merchant of Atlanta, where he runs his business along the lines of ''before the war,'' with an enviable reputation for reliability.

The McMillan Bros. Seed Co., of Atlanta, reports exceptional prosperity. ''Speaking of high prices,'' remarked John McMillan, ''reminds me of a customer who observed that 'the only items falling were leaves and the mercury.' ''

Greil Bros., of Montgomery, Ala., have added a wholesale seed department to their big grocery interests. It is in charge of Thomas Love, an experienced seedsman, who reports good returns for the first year's business.

The Harvey Seed Co., of Montgomery, reports a good season. The managing force has been increased by the admission of J. Harvey, Jr., who will travel in the interests of his house. W. M.

OH, HEAVENLY MUSIC!

Here is sweet balm to the catalogue compiler, be he boss, ad man or clerk, who reckons the fruits of his labors unsung. Excerpts from an editorial on the seed catalogue:

There was a day before chimneys were abolished, and toward Christmas time, when we used to gather before the open grate and read the seed catalogue.

Somehow we thought then, and we still think, that the artists who designed these catalogues must have been touched with the genius of those ancient masters who made the walls of Rome talk and who drew tears to the eyes of those who gazed upon their canvas still moist with pigments.

The seed catalogue is more bewitching than the best told fairy story. Hans Christian Andersen, the Brothers Grimm and Arabian Nights hold within their pages nothing more fascinating, nothing more bewitching, nothing more awe-inspiring than the pictures of the wonderful achievements of the seeds that are sold when properly planted.

The seed catalogue lingers a little, but just a little, in the shadow of fiction, but it must be admitted that it is the most fascinating form of literature now to be had. It is neither ponderous nor severe, it is neither classic nor prosaic. It is the printed embodiment of life. It affords a future picture of what we all may possess by the practice of a little patience and industry.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

William P. Stark Nurseries, Stark City, Mo.—"Guaranteed Trees and Plants," an interesting catalogue, distinctive both in text and illustrations. It offers a general line of stock, including perennials and garden roots, but gives the chief prominence to fruit-bearing trees and plants, which occupy about 130 of the total 160 pages.

D. Hill Nursery Co., Inc., Dundee, Ill.—Wholesale list of seasonable stock for florists, especially tubbed evergreens, and hardy evergreens for window boxes and urns; also peonies, lily bulbs, hybrid perpetual roses, and such forcing stock as azaleas, rhododendrons, lilacs, spiræas, hydrangeas, etc.

John Lewis Childs, Inc., Flowerfield, N. Y.—An illustrated, 22-page trade catalogue of gladioli, irises, lilies, miscellaneous bulbs, cannas, dahlias, perennials, etc. Gladioli, the Childs specialty, occupy the first thirteen pages of the book. The list starts with three new varieties of gladioli for 1917; then follow twenty-one varieties selected particularly for florists' use.

Felix & Dykhuis, Boskoop, Holland—Twenty-ninth annual wholesale catalogue of shrubs and plants for forcing, general nursery stock, roses and hardy perennials; an elaborate, carefully compiled book of 127 pages, well printed and especially well illustrated. The nursery stock includes young plants for lining out. At the end is a magazine section, entitled "Sub-Rosa."

Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.—"Christmas Flowers and Supplies for Florists," an anniversary catalogue, celebrating the company's entrance into its twentieth year of business. The booklet is illustrated, consists of sixteen pages and cover and is attractively printed in green.

Havana, Ill.—Miss Ida R. Vogel, formerly with A. P. Brown, at Springfield, has opened for business in the Zelle block, as the Havana Seed & Floral Co.

Berlin, N. Y.—When Arthur Cowee is not busy counting up his profits on gladiolus bulbs, he dabbles in politics, and dabbles most successfully. At the recent election Assemblyman Cowee, of the Second district of Rensselaer county, had practically a walkaway in his race for reëlection, winning by the handsome plurality of 2,031.

VEGETABLES AND FRUITS DEPARTMENT

THE Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station says it is noteworthy that last season downy mildew of cucumbers was reported in greenhouses in the eastern part of the state as early as May first, which was fully a month earlier than this disease usually makes its appearance. It continued to cause serious damage during the entire summer, and was present in some houses long after the first fall frosts. It resulted in total failure of the cucumber crop in some places, and heavy loss resulted everywhere, both to indoor and outdoor crops. A similar outbreak of the disease occurred in 1913.

POLLINATION OF TOMATOES.

I have tomatoes in a house 50x200, just planted. Can you tell me the quickest and best way to set the flowers and grow a good crop?

F. L.—N. J.

A hive of bees would help materially, but tomato flowers do not appeal to bees so strongly as do cucumbers. Tomatoes require a dry, buoyant atmosphere, and a tapping of the wires or shoots about noon each day, particularly when the sun is shining, will disseminate the pollen nicely. During spells of dark, sunless weather hand pollination should be practiced. A bunch of cotton wool or a rabbit's tail, tied on the end of a stick, makes an excellent medium with which to fertilize the flowers. Run your plants a trifle dry at the roots, and they will

OUTDOOR CAULIFLOWER.

How and when is cauliflower sown in the fall and how much protection does it require? A. R. G.—O.

Cauliflower would not prove hardy with you and it does not pay to endeavor to winter it in frames. For an early crop in hotbeds, sow at Christmas. For a first outdoor planting, sow in March in a hotbed or greenhouse. C. W.

USINGER'S UTTERANCES.

C. R. Betts has opened a handsome flower store at Jamestown, N. Y.

Dana Herron, of Olean, N. Y., had a fine stock of blooms in his retail store. Manager Oppenheimer is ever busy properly displaying the stock, and, with his gracious smile and pleasing personality, wins many friends.

S. Offerle, of Warren, Pa., reports business satisfactory at his new range, and, with a good crop coming along, a successful season is looked for.

A. H. Sharman, of Warren, has had a strenuous season. The scarcity of labor was severe and made it necessary to work well into the night. Mr. Sharman has been well rewarded, however, as stock never looked better.

Victor Offerle, of Warren, has finished repairing some of his houses and a better than usual season is looked for.

John Laver, of Erie, Pa., is cutting some fine roses at the Erie Floral Co. range, which he recently acquired.

The Bauer Floral Co., of Erie, had a magnificent display of seasonable stock in plants and cut flowers.

The Schluraff Floral Co., of Erie, reports business is far in excess of that of last year and a banner season is predicted.

L. A. Eaton, of Conneaut, O., says his stock of Christmas plants is coming along finely.

Violet plants in pots are a feature of the Tong & Weeks Floral Co., of Ashtabula, O. This was the first time the writer ever saw violets sold this way. Mr. Weeks says the item is a good seller.

The management of the Wilson Flower Shop, of Painesville, O., is planning a new store, which the continued increase in business warrants. Some fine stock was noted in the houses built last summer.

W. R. Parker, of Sandusky, O., has opened a store on West Market street. He closed shop for the summer and opened in the new location.

The Matern Flower Shop, of Sandusky, had some fine novelties on display. Business is reported unusually good.

H. A. Cook, of Oberlin, is disposing of a large cut of mums in the Cleveland and near-by markets.

The Humm-Wainright Floral Co., of Oberlin, O., has opened a store on West College street. There was a good display of baskets, ribbons and cut flowers. The greenhouses are producing some excellent mums, violets and other seasonable stock.

The L. C. Hecock Floral Co., of Elyria, O., says that funeral orders have been heavy and counter trade good.

Roland Schwerdtfeger, of the North Hill Greenhouses, Akron, O., has been tied in wedlock to a local belle. He has the best wishes of the trade in Akron.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

An interesting illustration showing the most elaborate church decoration thus far executed by the Hollywood Gardens, Seattle, Wash., is a feature of another section of this issue of The Review.

ROSE RUST IN CALIFORNIA.

Enclosed are some rose leaves taken from a number of rose bushes in my nursery. The red, peppery appearance shows only on the under side of the leaf, and, as I do not think it is the red spider, I should like to have your opinion as to what the disease is. Also, what is a remedy for it?

I have several rows of fig trees and would like to know if sweet peas grown in the rows would in any way injure the fig trees.

Will it be all right to pot cyclamen plants in soil in which sweet peas have been grown? B. V. N.—Cal.

The rose leaves enclosed are infested with rose rust—Phragmidium mucronatum—and, while there is no known remedy for the rust, the attack usually can be stopped by removing and burning all affected leaves. In southern California there are many neglected berry patches covered with rust, and, although experts say this is a different kind, I have frequently noted bad cases of rose rust in the vicinity of the berry patches.

The leaves submitted also were badly affected with mildew, which is common on outdoor roses in this section. Sulphur is about the best remedy for this. Shake fine flowers of sulphur over the bushes through a sack or piece of old burlap. The best time to do this is in the early morning, when there is reason to expect a hot day. The morning moisture on the bushes holds the sulphur until the heat of the day liberates the sulphuric acid, which kills the mildew.

The sweet peas can do no harm to the fig trees, provided the trees are far enough away, so that the roots are not disturbed. The fig trees are far more likely to rob the peas than vice versa.

The soil in which sweet peas have been grown is all right to use for potting cyclamens, provided it is properly enriched with fertilizer, the same as would be done to any other soil.

BRUNNER IN CALIFORNIA.

Kindly inform me through The Review how to propagate the Cecile Brunner rose. What treatment is required to insure a good color?

M. M. F.—Cal.

The great popularity which the Cecile Brunner rose has attained in California has had the usual result of its being grown for quantity rather than for quality. Carelessness in selecting the wood for cuttings and in finding a suitable soil and position has caused the production of thin-textured, pale flowers, which are not nearly so attractive as those from plants given better treatment.

The wood for propagating should be taken from the lower part of the bushes, not from near the flower stems. The wood roots freely if cut into lengths of about four inches and inserted in a sand bed. If a little bottom heat is at command, the cuttings will root more surely and more rapidly, but this is not absolutely essential, many thousands of cuttings being raised annually without bottom heat.

Insert the cuttings in the usual way, by marking the drill with an old table or chisel knife on a lath, and see that the bases of the cuttings rest on a firm bottom and that the sand is well pounded around them.

Thoroughly soak the sand at the first watering, in order that no interstices be left in the sand, and after this never allow the bed to become dust-dry on the one hand, or overwatered on the other. Give the cuttings just sufficient water, by sprinkling overhead once or twice daily in bright weather, to keep the wood plump, and no more. In a cool greenhouse, lath or canvas house, or even in a partly shaded position outdoors, the cuttings will be rooted in about five weeks, more or less, as the weather is cool or warm. Never allow the cuttings to make much root in the sand, but pot them into 2-inch pots as soon as the roots are about half an inch in length. Pot them firmly in moderately heavy soil, shade them for a few days and increase the light and air when they have taken to the shift. Repot into the 3-inch or 3½-inch pots as the roots are feeling the sides of the pots, and again press the soil firmly. Pinch the growths to insure a low, bushy habit, and the plants will be ready for setting out in from five to eight weeks, according to the weather.

While these baby roses are often grown in poor, light soil, it is not by any means the best for them. To produce flowers of good color and substance, a fairly heavy, or loamy, soil is best. Light, sandy soils may be improved by the addition of marl or clay, or even road edgings or scrapings, and well decayed cow manure, but the soil with a good, substantial texture is far better. An open position in the full sun is best for growing the plants and early in the season no shade is needed. But later in the year, when the sun is more powerful, a light shading of cheesecloth, lath or other material must be given, or the flowers will open too rapidly and be deficient in color and substance. The shade should be applied when the buds are showing and before they are fully grown, and should be maintained until all are cut, when it should be removed. Allow the plants to finish their growth, feeding and watering freely, and then ripen and dry them off. After a month's drying cut the plants back, using the wood for cuttings if needed, and start them up again. At least three distinct crops may be grown this way in one year and far better flowers produced than under the haphazard way of planting and leaving them alone to shift for themselves.

The foregoing remarks refer to the bush form of Cecile Brunner, which is the one used principally for cutting. The climbing form, which is greatly superior as a garden rose, should have the wood selected as advised for the bush form, but heavier, stouter growths, cut into longer pieces, are better. The usual custom in the trade is to tie these in bundles of about twenty-five and stand them on end in trays of sand, covering the lower two inches or so and placing the trays in a cool place. When the cuttings are calloused they are planted in nursery rows about six inches apart. They root readily and make fine plants the first year. They should be lifted in November and either potted or planted in permanent positions. The growth of long, vigorous shoots should be encouraged, this wood well ripened and all small, weak wood cut out in spring. The long shoots will produce flowering laterals along their entire growth and make a magnificent display. It should be noted that the climbing form flowers only once a year, in quantity, though on large old plants there are always a few blooms showing. The bush variety is practically perpetual in flowering.

Grown under glass, Cecile Brunner is one of the most profitable of all roses, as it is practically immune from all insect pests, never mildews and never fails to give a good account of itself at flowering time. Here in California, at least, it is not subject to checks from fluctuations in temperatures, as are other roses. Whether or not this is the case in the east I am unaware.

This variety stands plenty of feeding and should be kept going continually until the plants are becoming exhausted, when their places should be taken by young stock prepared in time for the purpose. A thorough renewal of the soil on the beds or benches should be made as for other varieties, as either indoors or outdoors the best flowers can only be produced by careful and liberal culture and good soil.

H. R. Richards.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Business, despite the election, wars and rumors of wars, has improved considerably and the call for good stock has been insistent and regular. There have been quite a number of social affairs and our most prominent retailers say they are well booked with future orders. In addition there has been a good demand for funeral work, and with Thanksgiving looming ahead there is every prospect of a good season. Really good chrysanthemums are scarce, a few fine Appleton blooms being the best offering in yellows. Good bronzes are hardly obtainable and pinks are scarcer than whites. Dahlias and gladioli are losing out, but still are quite a factor in the market.

In roses there are plenty of medium grades and some fine long stock of Russell, Prima Donna, Milady and Ophelia. Good Beauties are scarce, but better things are promised shortly. Plants are beginning to make a show, cyclamens and begonias especially. Asparagus plumosus is scarcer, but other greens are about equal to the demand. Quite a number of fairly good palms and extra good ferns are being offered.

Various Notes.

The closing days of the Broadway flower show, though not so crowded as the earlier ones, were most interesting, as new exhibits were added. But it was quite apparent that a 4-day show is quite long enough; things drag a little at the end when a whole week is given. Among the later arrivals at the show was a grand exhibit of palms, cycads and similar plants, finely arranged by William Hertrich, superintendent at the Huntington estate. The Broadway Florists sent a magnificent basket of Jeanne Nonin chrysanthemums, which was arranged with yellow ribbon and the bronze foliage of the Oregon grape. Wright's flower shop had a charmingly arranged basket as a table centerpiece and Wolfskills' & Morris Goldenson exhibited an American flag made of white and red carnations and blue cornflowers.

The L. A. Floral Co. has been showing fine Beauties grown outdoors in Arizona. The flowers are good and the stems about twenty-four to thirty inches long. I also noted some of the finest Appleton mums that have been sent to the market this season.

Among the orchids shown at Wright's Flower Shop last week were some beautiful specimen blooms of Odontoglossum grande.

The staff at J. W. Wolters' store has been busy with decorations for parties and other social functions, and there is a sheaf of orders on file for future work.

George Eischen, of Ocean Park, appears frequently at the market in search of stock and says that, while business is not quite as rushing as it was earlier in the season, he has nothing to complain of and is looking for a big crop of eastern tourists this year.

Good sales of baskets, ribbons and all kinds of sundries and supplies are reported by S. Murata & Co. Shipments of orchids as well as the local demand have also been on the up grade. Consistent care in handling the better grades of stock has built up a fine out-of-town trade.

Darling's Flower Shop is a busy place these days, funeral work of the better class being plentiful. Several good wedding orders have been on the cards of late. There have been no christening orders, but Wallace Boyd

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The chrysanthemum situation has many angles at present. The California Flower Market has been running a growers' pool and has refused thus far to make any price concessions. This has kept local prices high, which is a source of satisfaction to the retailers, as it has kept the street peddlers from buying first-class stock at reduced figures. On the other hand, it has made it impossible to market the surplus stock at a profit in the east since the crop has begun to come in from other localities. The Japanese undertook to ship the surplus to Chicago on consignment when it could no longer be handled by the independent shippers at the prices paid earlier in the season, but the warm weather and arrival of heavy supplies from other directions broke the market there, so the venture did not prove so profitable as was hoped. Some of the independent shippers are of the opinion that it would have been more satisfactory all around had the growers' pool let them handle the surplus at prices warranted by the condition of the eastern markets. They figure they could have then continued to ship to their regular customers on definite orders, thus providing a wider distribution than was possible by the stock being shipped in quantity to Chicago alone.

There has been some frost, which has about put an end to outdoor stock, but a few gladioli and dahlias still are offered, as well as a few scattering lots of cosmos, scabiosas, stocks, etc. Violets are extremely fine, the quality being excellent and the supply large. Carnations show better quality and the cut is larger than last week, with prices holding up fairly well in view of the strong demand. Roses clean up well in face of strong competition with chrysanthemums. The rose supply has been kept back somewhat during the last week by cool wind, which made it impossible to keep the greenhouses warm. Other greenhouse stock shows the effect also, orchids being quite scarce again. There is no valley at present and none of the growers will have any for some time, it is reported. In potted stock good cinerarias are offered and cyclamens are plentiful.

Joseph's Closes Second Year.

November 16 Joseph's, on Grant avenue, celebrated its second anniversary in the flower business, having achieved a degree of success which many old hands at the trade believed impossible and which is indeed remarkable for so short a space of time. The growth in popularity of this establishment seems the more surprising owing to the fact that B. M. Joseph, the proprietor, had no former experience in the flower trade. Mr. Joseph is a thorough-going department store man, with twenty years of experience in one of the leading establishments of San Francisco. His specialty is art goods, of which he has long been an expert connoisseur and collector, making frequent trips abroad. His store, in fact, is unique in the striking and attractive combination of fine art novelties with flower decorations and it is this which has especially appealed to local society people and visitors alike.

Largely contributory to the success, also, has been the efficient corps of assistants, headed by Frederic C. Bertrand, whose position as salaried manager of a large retail flower store is unique in the local trade. Mr. Bertrand entered the business in San Francisco as a street peddler twenty-five years ago, working up through various positions to a thorough knowledge of the flower end of the business. His former work included orchid collecting in the Philippines and other tasks requiring considerable ability.

An important matter with Joseph's is the determination to originate, not follow; and this idea is carefully carried out in art goods as well as in floral designs and combinations of the two. This is carried even to the plain baskets, few stock designs being purchased. Five skilled artists are steadily employed in originating novelties, aside from the large quantity of material picked up and adapted by Mr. Joseph.

Entering on its third holiday season, Joseph's is doing a larger business than ever and the outlook for this enterprising concern certainly is bright.

Various Notes.

The Growers' Cut Flower Co., of Redwood City, Cal., expects to have a heavy cut of pompons after Thanksgiving.

Frank Pelicano is bringing in Quaker Lady violets. This new variety, which is about the same shape as Prince of Wales and grows about the same, is lavender in color.

While C. W. Ward, of the Cottage Gardens Nurseries, Eureka, Cal., was in town last week on a short visit, he had as his guests at luncheon one day at the Hof-Brau, Frank Pelicano, H. Plath, P. Ferrari and Edward A. Wallace, of Vancouver, B. C. Mr. Ward stated that conditions are favorable in Humboldt county.

The E. W. McLellan Co. has added extra help in its store for the winter season, in view of the prospects for a heavy shipping business. At present violets, Cecile Brunner roses and greens are the principal items going forward. This company has a tremendous cut of Ophelia and has a nice crop of gardenias starting.

Mrs. R. E. Darbee says she had been unusually busy shipping flowers east until last week, when the demand fell off somewhat owing to the heavy arrivals from other sources. She looks for things to pick up soon, however. Meanwhile she has been doing much decorative work locally.

Notwithstanding the reports that orchids are scarce, Podesta & Baldocchi had a whole window full of them on display a few days ago.

D. Raymond, of the Garden City Pottery Co., of San Jose, Cal., is of the opinion that his is about the only concern in the country that has not raised prices on pots recently. Instead, he says, they have curtailed overhead expenses and do not intend to raise prices. He says they have always paid their help good wages and for that reason do not have to raise now.

John Gill, head of the E. Gill Nursery Co., of West Berkeley, Cal., is moving the greenhouses from the Spring estate, which he purchased recently, to his place and setting them up there.

Edward A. Wallace, of Vancouver, B. C., has been spending several days in San Francisco. He is an extensive grower of orchids and other flowers, and Members of the California Dahlia Growers' Association have received Vol. I, No. 1, of a series of bulletins to be published by the organization. It is an 8-page pamphlet containing a foreword by President T. A. Burns, a report of the dahlia show at the Palace hotel in September (taken from The Florists' Review of September 14), the secretary's report, constitution and by-laws, a list of members, and articles of interest on such subjects as "The Dahlia as a Cut Flower," "Registration of Names" and "Definition of Amateur."

The Market.

Market conditions remain practically unchanged, with plenty of good stock and a good market for it. Retail business is good and there is more activity in the way of home decorations for parties, teas, weddings, etc., than ever before. Funeral work is steady and to be depended upon, though no particularly large ones have been held recently.

Various Notes.

A noteworthy trade event this month was the grand opening of the remodeled store of the Hoyt Bros. Co. The opening was held Saturday, November 4, and was attended by one of the largest crowds that ever participated in a store opening in this city. From the number of favors and souvenirs given away, it was estimated that close to 15,000 people visited the store during the opening day. The store has been almost completely rebuilt. There is a new front, ceiling and floor. There are no platforms or raised floors in the windows, the displays being built up from the same level as the store floor. The new floor is of terrazzo, gray in color, with red and black panel strips and borders. S. Younkin, the manager of the store and the man who planned the unique arrangements, is to be congratulated on the splendid results achieved.

The Market.

Followed by a prolonged uncertainty as to its result, the election last week had a depressing effect on the demand for flowers and there was a slight falling off from the activity of the week previous. Calls from out-of-town points took all the surplus and a few mums were shipped in from California. The cut of roses has decreased so that, after the local dealers are supplied, there are few left to fill out-of-town orders. Violets offered are nearly all locally grown. Orchids are being shown in most of the stores.

Various Notes.

The Portland Floral Society will hold its annual ladies' night Tuesday, November 21, in the Masonic Temple. There will be entertainments, a banquet and social features. A short business meeting will be held before the entertainments. Members and their families, and employees and their families will be welcomed.

The Tonseth Floral Co. furnished the church decoration for the funeral of Sied Back, Portland's most prominent Chinaman.

Edward Boyse, of the Martin & Forbes Co. store, has been unable to work for several days. A nervous disorder of some sort has brought about his illness.

S. G. Lubliner said that he could not buy a sufficient supply of mums from the local growers and that he was receiving some from California. He has added to his force of workers at the store in order to handle his fall trade.

The committee on exhibitions of the Portland Floral Society, James Forbes, chairman, accepted the invitation of the managers of the food fete to make

Now is the best time to start to sow the

to follow the Chrysanthemum crop. No other flower will pay better. You will have fine flowers from January until late in spring. All progressive florists have abandoned growing the late Spencer and are making now four times as much money with this early-flowering type, not only for inside but for outside planting. If sown in October and November they will bloom two to three months earlier; if sown outdoors they will bloom three to four weeks earlier than the late Spencers, producing more and better flowers and keeping the buds during the most rainy weather. We have a limited quantity of the following varieties to offer at reduced prices:

PINK AND WHITE ORCHID, WHITE ORCHID, MRS. A. A. SKACH, ORCHID BEAUTY, rose; LAVENDER ORCHID, lavender pink; MISS FL. FABING, Yarrawa color. This lot will contain about two to five per cent of the late hybrids of the same color and for late planting they are of more value than the re-selected varieties of the same names.

Price: 1 oz., 50c; 4 ozs., $1.50; 1 lb., $5.00; 10 lbs., $45.00

FLORISTS' WINTER ORCHID-FLOWERING MIXTURE. This mixture consists of all the leading commercial varieties of pink, rose, white and lavender, with a very few red and blue.

Price, $4.00 per pound.

GOLD MEDAL MIXTURE.

This is made up of about fifty distinct varieties, evenly balanced to each color. It contains almost every variety in commerce, including this year's and next year's novelties, all of the Winter Orchid type only. Last year we sold over 90,000 packets to private gardeners and retail florists. In semi-tropical countries they have been blooming all winter. In cooler climate, if sown early in spring they bloom in May, three to four weeks earlier. Florists who keep a seed counter should have this steadily on hand, ready for their customers. Sold only in one size packets. Each packet contains sufficient seed to plant 30 to 40 feet of row.

Prices: 1 pkt., 25c; 100 pkts., $12.00; 1000 pkts., $100.00.

Order now all you need for your winter or outdoor planting, as this limited quantity may not last long.

For all other Sweet Pea Seed see our list, which is free for the asking.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.
President, John Watson, Newark, N. Y.; Vice-president, Lloyd C. Stark, Louisiana, Mo.; Secretary and General Manager, Curtis Nye Smith, Boston, Mass.; Treasurer, Peter Youngers, Geneva, Neb.

BULLETINS for nurserymen on the use of sodium cyanide as a fumigant are being issued from the office of G. M. Bentley, state entomologist of Tennessee, at Knoxville. Rules with regard to the shipping of cyanide are included in the pamphlet. Sodium cyanide as a fumigant instead of hydrocyanic acid gas is recommended by Mr. Bentley, who says that sodium cyanide costs less, is less troublesome, less dangerous and gives equally good results.

WEST COAST BIG GUNS.

Although the 3-day convention of the California Association of Nurserymen this year was an unusually busy one for those who attended, what with numerous papers, addresses and discussions on weighty subjects, the conventionists found time now and then for matters social. On one of these occasions a photograph was made of some of the members who attended the annual meeting at Santa Barbara, Cal., October 26 to 28. This photograph, which is reproduced herewith, is a pictorial cast, as it were, of the star performers of the Pacific coast body. The key to the picture is as follows: No. 1, George C. Roeding, of the Fancher Creek Nurseries, Fresno; No. 2, A. B. Clarke, of the Cottage Gardens Nurseries, Eureka; No. 3, Charles Willis Ward, of the Cottage Gardens Nurseries, Eureka; No. 4, Secretary H. W. Kruckeberg, of Los Angeles; No. 5, Mr. Anderson; No. 6, Colin H. McIsaac, of the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce; No. 7, W. J. Pettingill, of Goleta; No. 8, E. THE NEW RED CARNATION WITH AN UNBEATABLE RECORD BEHIND IT them out in nursery rows. Leave only the tops of the cuttings above the ground; soak with water and tamp the soil about them hard. If you can give them some water for a few weeks, the percentage of rooted cuttings will be greater. Keep the soil between the rows well cultivated. Spring cuttings planted in the same way will root fairly well, provided they are watered or that we have a damp spring and summer.

WINNER two years in succession of the American Carnation Society Silver Medals, 1915 and 1916. Also winner of the S. A. F. Silver Medal, 1916, besides numerous first prizes and certificates at various shows in different parts of the country. This is purely a commercial Carnation—very bright, clear red, large flower, non-splitable calyx, long stem and just as free-blooming as Enchantress, of which it is a seedling. Prices of rooted cuttings, ready for delivery December 15 and later, 25 or less at the rate of $8.00 per 100; 50 and less than 100 at $6.00 per 100; orders of 100 and less than 250, $5.00 per 100, and orders of 250 or more at the rate of $45.00 per 1000. All cuttings guaranteed strictly first-class.

C. W.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Three weeks have passed since the last report, and they have been busy as well as eventful ones. There is an abundance of good stock of all kinds and the demand has been heavy. Roses are as good as any I have ever seen at this time of year—a decided relief after an all-summer run of poor roses. Ophelia and Hoosier Beauty are doing better than they did last season, and that is going some. At a recent funeral I saw a large design composed of Hoosier Beauty and Ophelia roses that was the richest piece of work I ever saw made of roses. Red Radiance continues to make a name for itself and some predict that, instead of being grown in small quantities for trial, it will have liberal bench space next year. Baby Doll and George Elger are having a good run this season and bid fair to have a permanent place in the hearts of Nashville's flower-loving public. Baby Doll is especially liked.

Carnations are good at present and are plentiful, but we have noticed few new things. However, they are selling well, as usual. This is a carnation city, anyway. Bulbs have been selling exceptionally well this fall, especially Darwin tulips. Tulips have never been really popular here, as the season is so short for the old varieties. Darwins, however, gradually have won a place for themselves and the demand has been heavy this fall. The cannas in the public parks still are making a brave showing, but last week a frost pretty well finished them for the season. Dahlias are beginning to bloom again, having been cut down badly some two weeks ago.

Various Notes.

The sudden death of T. C. Joy, head of the Joy Floral Co., which is reported in this week's obituary column, brought sorrow to the fraternity here. Mr. Joy was one of the few who believed that, though his competitor, a man also could be his friend.

Daniel McIntyre, senior member of the firm of McIntyre Bros., last week was in a most critical condition with a bad case of cancer. He was cheerful in the face of the knowledge that his life could only be counted by days at the best. Last week he called his many friends to his bedside and gave them his parting message.

Leslie Littel has employed E. McElvery, a grower from the Battle Creek Sanitarium greenhouses, for the coming year. He is planning to enlarge his greenhouses and business.

Last week I visited the Mount Olivet greenhouses for the first time in several months. The management is cutting down its commercial work and hereafter will confine its energies to the needs of the cemetery.

Geny Bros. have had a heavy run of business of late. Their mums are exceptionally good this season.

The Dutch bulb salesmen are abroad in our land again this fall. They are talking high prices and scarcity of bulbs next year, but they apparently are getting few orders. F. B.

For Thanksgiving and the Holiday Trade
we have the following to offer:

Begonia Glory of Cincinnati and Begonia Melior

6-inch, in bud and bloom ....$1.00, $1.50 and $2.00 each

New Begonia Mrs. J. A. Peterson

Strong 3-in., in bud and bloom.....$ 30.00 per 100
Strong 4-in., in bud and bloom..... 50.00 per 100
Strong 5-in., in bud and bloom..$75.00 and 100.00 per 100
Strong 6-in., very large plants .....$1.50 and $2.00 each

A limited number of extra large specimens of above named Begonias, at $3.00, $5.00 and $10.00 each.

We have an exceptionally fine stock of Begonias this season.

CYCLAMEN GIGANTEUM—we offer choice plants as follows:

Strong 5-inch, full of buds and bloom.....per 100, $50.00
Heavy 5-inch, full of buds and bloom.....per 100, 75.00
Heavy 6-inch, full of buds and bloom.....per dozen, $12.00 to 18.00
Extra strong specimen plants, 8-inch pots.....per dozen, 30.00 to 36.00

During the past six or seven years we have been selecting the very best plants for seed, for the improvement of the Cyclamen. They are finer plants and better blooms than we have ever had, or have seen anywhere else. We know that they will please you.

Asplenium Nidus-Avis (Bird's Nest Fern), choice plants, at $1.00, $1.50, $2.50 and $3.00 each.

Adiantum Farleyense, nicely furnished plants, 4-inch pots (only), at $50.00 per 100.

J. A. PETERSON & SONS, Westwood, Cincinnati, Ohio

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Business is most satisfactory, with an ample supply of stock of all kinds on hand. Social activities have started rather earlier than usual this season and there are indications that they will continue with a busy whirl for several months to come. Chrysanthemums of all varieties and sizes are in supply slightly in excess of the demand, with a consequent shading of prices. Providence has not yet acquired the taste for extra fancy single blooms and rarely is a customer found who will pay more than $2 or $2.50 per dozen.

Various Notes.

Albert Holscher is showing at his greenhouses one of the choicest lines of chrysanthemums ever seen hereabouts, notwithstanding that his sales have been exceptionally large.

A large automobile truck smashed through the plate glass display window of the Quality Flower Store, 144 Main street, Pawtucket, recently, causing about $150 damage to window and stock.

George L. Stillman, of Westerly, accompanied by Mrs. Stillman, has been spending several days in New York city. W. H. M.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Alex. MacLellan was a business visitor to New York for several days last week.

V. A. Vanicek, of the Rhode Island Nurseries, was one of the principal buyers at the auction sale of the estate of Thomas Galvin last week. He secured several of the greenhouses, which he will remove to his new nursery grounds on the East Main road, Middletown.

The board of aldermen have under consideration a claim by Henry J. Hass of $375 for damage done to his horse and wagon in a recent collision with fire apparatus. W. H. M.

NEW VARIETIES YOU NEED

NEW POMPONS

Hilda Canning. A bronze seedling from Baby, raised by the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association. The finest distinct novelty offered in years. It is one which every chrysanthemum grower should include in his planting.

Romaine Warren. In the class with Frank Wilcox, a commercial sort that will be profitable. Orange-bronze in color. Strong grower, making nice sprays. Stiff-stemmed, and needs almost no tying. It is a worthy companion to Golden Climax as a money-maker and will flower between Golden Climax and Frank Wilcox.

Delphine Dodge. Light pink in color, making large, full sprays. Flowers small. It is a big producer per square foot of bench.

Price of above, $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100

NEW SINGLE VARIETIES

Katewood. If you grow fancy stock for a high-class trade, Katewood will prove the finest single you have ever grown. It is clear, bright pink in color. A tall, strong grower, and makes the finest individual flowers of any of the Singles.

Virginia Holden. The finest deep crimson ever offered. As deep as Harvard in color and one of the easiest varieties to handle. Makes good sprays and good-sized plants.

Jessica McMurray. A soft rose-pink that follows Mrs. Buckingham into flower. Good for a select trade.

Pink Simplicity. Shell pink, medium dwarf in growth, strong-stemmed. A very choice variety for any grower to handle.

Jane Ingalls. A semi-dwarf seedling from Brutus. Comes into flower for Thanksgiving. Reddish bronze in color. Will make excellent pot plant.

Price of above, $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100

BARBARA DAVIS

A. N. Pierson, Inc.

CROMWELL, CONN.

LARGE-FLOWERED CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Barbara Davis. The finest novelty of the season for the commercial grower. A reddish bronze, strongly reflexed with orange reverse to the petal. It is medium dwarf in growth, making strong stems and good foliage. It is a color that sells on sight, being distinct from all other varieties, and there is always a market for good bronze varieties. 2¼-inch, 50c each, $5.00 per doz., $35.00 per 100.

Alice Day. Sent out last season. Has proved to be our best second early white. It follows Oconto. Big, pure white flowers. Strong, sturdy grower, making good stems. The best white in its season. 2¼-inch, $3.00 per doz., $20.00 per 100.

Josephine Foley. A big, pure white that will follow Alice Day, and will with us, replace Naomah. It is the best white to precede Chas. Rager and White Chieftain. 2¼-inch, $3.00 per doz., $20.00 per 100.

NEW CARNATIONS

Arawana. A crimson seedling of our own raising. Just a good commercial crimson sort that will please you and your trade. Rooted cuttings, $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

Nebraska. A fine new scarlet. Large flowers, strong grower, good producer. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Aviator. Very intense scarlet in color, very free-flowering. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Nancy. A new light pink that looks good with us. Perfectly formed flowers, of good color. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Alice Coombs. Strong grower, making large flowers. Light pink in color. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Merry Christmas

A recent visitor remarked to us: "A scarlet Carnation must produce all first quality blooms to be satisfactory, because there is little chance to work off culls." He bought Merry Christmas because he was unable to find a single cull flower on the whole bench. Come and see for yourself.

December cuttings all sold. Booking orders now for January delivery. $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

The Market.

Taken as a whole, business is rather poor. The demand for stock is good only at times, while the market has an oversupply of every seasonable item. Roses are excellent and are in extremely heavy supply. Carnations, too, are too plentiful. The less said about the chrysanthemum situation the better. Mums are going through one of the worst gluts this market has ever had at this time of the year. Orchids, valley and sweet peas find a fair market. Paper White narcissi are not selling any too well. Easter lilies and callas are plentiful. Smilax is again in good supply.

Various Notes.

During the last fortnight E. A. Forter gave a chrysanthemum show at his new store. The attendance was large and justified the efforts Mr. Forter made.

The E. G. Hill Floral Co. gave its annual chrysanthemum show at its store at the close of last week. Needless to say, the fine show blooms from Richmond, Ind., attracted the crowds.

C. E. Critchell has been having a good call for his boxwood.

William Taylor, of Pine Hill, has been sending some excellent Chadwick mums to the market.

The regular meeting of the Cincinnati Florists' Society was held November 13 at Hotel Gibson. Resolutions on the death of Henry Schwarz were adopted. President Schumann appointed a preliminary flower show committee, which is to prepare plans for a flower show next fall and make its report at the December meeting.

Among recent visitors were G. M. Bird and daughter, of Sidney, O.; G. W. Frisch, of Dayton, O.; Joseph Hill, of Richmond, Ind. C. H. H.

Rochester, Minn.—The Bragg Floral Co. has moved its store to larger and handsomer quarters in the B. B. theater building.

Virginia, Ill.—A greenhouse 25x60 feet is being erected here by a Chicago builder, for Mrs. George Angier, a newcomer to the business.

NEW NEPHROLEPIS FERN JOHN WANAMAKER

A "sport" from Nephrolepis Scholzeli, with longer, narrower, gracefully drooping fronds. It is not so compact in growth as Scholzeli, and therefore does not decay in the center, and is a durable house fern. It is a rapid grower, making an abundance of fronds, and is quite distinct from any other Nephrolepis.

CROTONS NEW SEEDLING VARIETIES

Our new Seedling Crotons, some of which we disseminated in June, 1911, are varieties that should be in every grower's and private person's collection. They are far superior to many of the older varieties of Crotons and the types range from narrow to very large leaf.

We particularly call your attention to our set of thirteen, named after the "Thirteen Original States," which have won highest honors wherever shown.

4-inch pots, strong plants, $3.00 each; $30.00 doz.; $200.00 100.

6 and 7-inch pots, larger plants, $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00 each.

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past few years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. They are also specially attractive to use with Chrysanthemums.

Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year. Very highly colored sprays at 25c, 75c and 50c; cut leaves, $3.00 and $5.00 per 100.

The Market.

Business during the last week has been good in all lines. The bright weather made the chrysanthemums advance so rapidly that the growers will have all they can do to hold them for Thanksgiving. So far a heavy call for mums has kept them from a glut. Roses of all varieties are plentiful, with Hoosier Beauty and Prima Donna proving the best sellers. Carnations are picking up in quality and increasing in quantity.

A few violets are seen in several stores, but the call for them has been indifferent. Bulbs for fall planting are selling well, with the quality good.

Funeral work was slack the first part of the week, but seemed to pick up later. Counter trade has been good with all the stores. Greens of all kinds are plentiful, except good green and bronze galax.

Various Notes.

A visit to the Anton Schultheis greenhouses found everything looking well. The mums are the finest that I have seen this season. I make special mention of Mr. Schultheis' Turner and Col. Appleton, both for size of flower and length of stem. Mr. Schultheis has added two new houses to his range this fall.

Muir & Co. report a busy week in funeral and counter trade. Their windows are always attractive-looking. Mrs. M. Muir is able to be around again, after a week's illness.

F. J. Moran has severed his connection with G. R. Clark and has accepted a position with Muir & Co.

G. R. Clark reports a heavy call for bulbs and a busy week with funeral work.

Private growers held a chrysanthemum show November 10. There were some fine specimen blooms exhibited. The Misses Schultheis, A. L. Besancon, Anton Schultheis and G. R. Clark acted as judges.

The sympathy of the trade is extended to Giles Clark on the death of his wife and to Charles Cluter, grower for J. W. Beagle, on the death of Mrs. Cluter.

Morris M. Cohen, of New York, was in the city last week with a big line of ribbons and went away with a book of orders.

C. A. Baldwin reports business good. He is cutting fine mums, carnations, snapdragons and lilies, for which he finds a ready call.

A number of retailers have entered their windows in the window-trimming contest which is being held by the Scranton Advertising Club. F. J. M.

Des Moines, Ia.—A fire in the greenhouse owned by August Carlson recently caused heavy damage to the growing stock.

The Market.

Flowers are plentiful and prices as a rule reasonable. Chrysanthemums are in their prime, the blooms being large, perfect and of good color. There is a good demand for the large fellows, the pompons and potted plants. Carnations of excellent quality are arriving, but there is a comparatively small demand for them on account of the mum's prominence. The same thing applies to a small number of sweet peas and other flowers. Roses are plentiful and the prices are about right.

Various Notes.

A large number of entries were made at the flower show held under the auspices of the Essex County Florists' Club in the Palace ballroom November 13, 14 and 15. All of the leading growers of Essex county and a number of retailers had exhibits. Besides these there were exhibits from other New Jersey growers and from New York and Philadelphia supply houses. Music was furnished both afternoons and evenings.

McLaughlin & Murphy report that their October business exceeded that of October of last year, and that November is starting out well.

George Muller states that he has had considerable funeral work. Although there were a few dull days at election time, business has been quite satisfactory during the last few weeks.

James Rose says that business opened up rather slowly this fall, but that it now is improving. R. B. M.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

ABOUT BOILER COMPOUNDS.

Will you kindly give us some advice as to the selection of a good boiler compound? One of our engineers is desirous of using coal oil, but we are somewhat skeptical about its effects, never having heard of its being used as a boiler compound. Do you know anything about it? What compound do you consider the best? C. W. D.—Ia.

Especially when none of the prepared boiler compounds is readily available, coal oil (kerosene) is often used and it gives satisfactory results, not only in the boiler itself but in the heating coils, where it lessens oxidation. About one pint per month is used for a 50-horsepower boiler, and the same proportion in larger and smaller boilers.

Another material which serves the same purpose, and which is readily obtainable, is sal soda. One pound of this may be dissolved in a gallon of water and used in a 50-horsepower boiler. It will cause the water to foam and after four or five days the boiler should be thoroughly washed out.

The various proprietary boiler compounds on the market are quite similar in their composition and differ but little in value. We would use the brand carried by the nearest dealer in machine supplies.

USING 2-INCH PIPE.

I am building a new house 14x50, running east and west. The south side will have three and one-half feet of cement blocks and three and one-half feet of glass. The north side and ends will be boarded up, with paper on the outside. The boiler will be at the northwest corner of the house. At the south side and center will be raised benches; at the north side a raised bench twenty-five feet long and twenty-five feet of solid bed. I wish to maintain a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees, with 50 to 60 degrees at night, in zero weather. Shall use hot water, with 2-inch pipe. How shall I pipe it? E. A. B.—Mich.

For heating a greenhouse 14x50 feet, with glass as described, to 55 degrees at night, we would run three 2-inch flow pipes and six 2-inch returns. Place one flow on each plate and the other two feet below the ridge. Connect each flow with two 2-inch returns, carrying the coil on the north side on the wall and the others under the benches. There will be no difficulty in maintaining a temperature of 65 degrees during the day.

If the flow pipes run downhill and are connected with the expansion tank at their highest points there will be no occasion for using air cocks.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

The market was heavily stocked with cut flowers last week. Every effort was made by the wholesalers to dispose of the large receipts and the quantity of flowers sold was surprising, few of them going to the dump. This week will see a difference in the supply of stock, as some of the growers have practically cut all their mums. Prices on all cut flowers were low during the week; large mums and pompons were more plentiful than ever before in this market.

Carnations and roses have steadily increased in quantity and improved in quality. The growers report that enough of them will be cut to supply all demands after the mums are gone. Yellow mums will be at a premium for Thanksgiving in this vicinity, as the only blooms then will be the Fricks. Violets and valley find a ready sale, but at low figures. Greens are plentiful, except in the long strings. Large quantities of mum plants in 6-inch and 8-inch pots sell at better prices than the cut stock.

Various Notes.

Arthur Newell reports that business is in full blast. His best sellers have been baskets and novelties made up with all kinds of mums. He says that he has had a hard time to procure enough pot mums to supply the demand.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. has received a new Studebaker delivery car. This concern reports cutting an extremely large quantity of chrysanthemums during the week. Its roses and carnations are coming into flower. Pot mums have been especially good this fall.

T. J. Noll & Co. say they never saw so many mums as last week. They had to refuse some of the consignments from local growers, as they were rather crowded. Supplies sold well last week and they have received their new line of Christmas supplies.

Costello Moore is about to dispose of his flower store on account of other business he is interested in. His place is well located; heavy traffic passes every day.

The Alpha Floral Co. is making large preparations for the holiday trade. This concern reports a heavy decorative business.

A. F. Barbe is rapidly cleaning up on his mums, of which he has a few late varieties left. The cemetery business has been good, he says. Carnations and roses now are plentiful at his place.

W. J. Barnes had a week of heavy funeral work. He now is getting all of his Christmas pot plants ready. This is his strong line and has been for years.

The Elmhurst Nurseries are occupied with an unusually large amount of landscape work, especially in the southwest part of the city.

Biedermann & Son had a good week in decorations. They have cleaned up on all of their mums.

At Walter Heite's place there still are plenty of mums to be cut, but nothing is being wasted. So far the sweet peas there are looking fine.

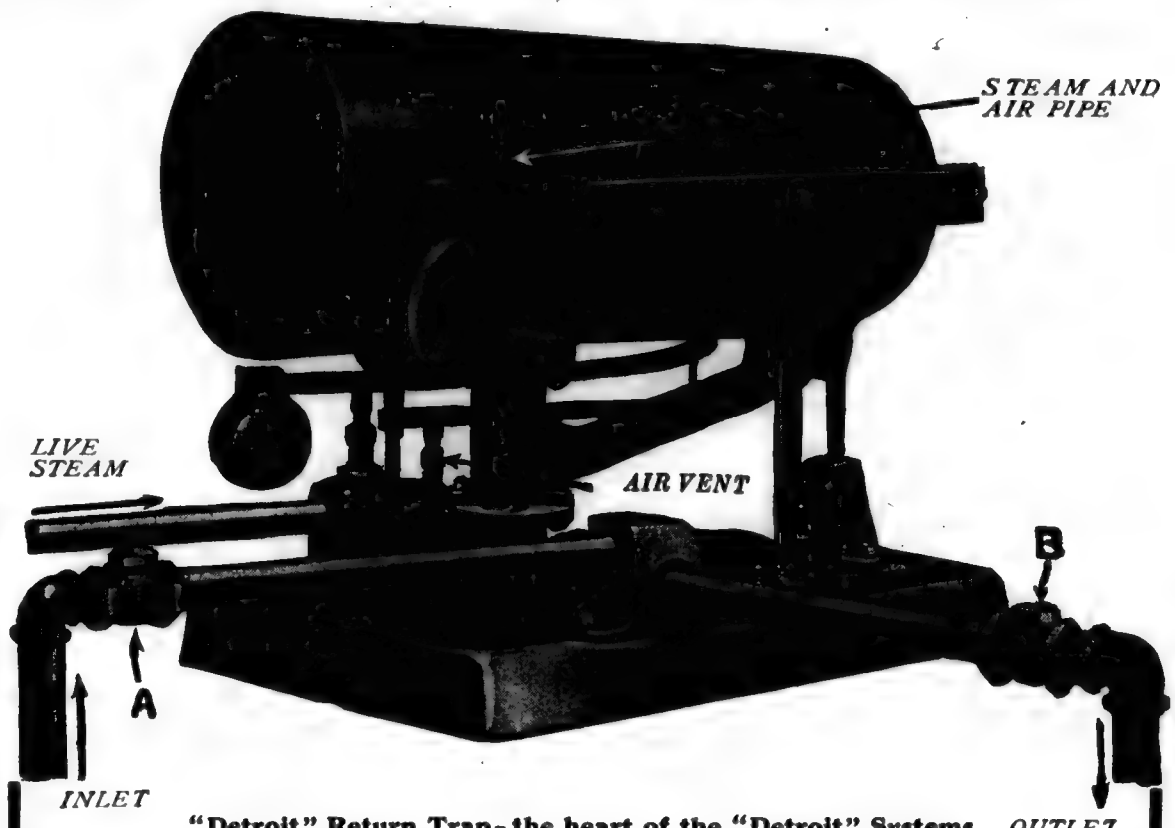
The convention will be held in Washington, D. C., December 5 and 6 and in addition to an interesting program, entertainment of the visiting members has not been overlooked. There is to be an auto trip through the park system of Washington, a visit to the White House, the Capitol, the various department buildings and to the country estate of George Washington at Mount Vernon. A large attendance both from the east and west is looked for.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

The Market.



Business last week was good, according to reports, but some of the florists add that it was not a walkaway by any means. Fine, topnotch cut flowers are to be had, the rose offerings including Milady, Killarney, Richmond and Cecile Brunner, with the prices ranging from $2 to $8 per hundred. Excellent Ophelia roses come to the market and find a ready sale for their loveliness. Splendid American Beauties, though high as to price, sell well. Easter lilies are in weak supply and the prices are stiff. Valley continues inadequate to meet requirements, which were many last week. Violets of good quality arrive in fair quantities.

Pompons and the big fellows may be had in countless varieties and in any color. But there is a big demand for them and prices are good. Good cyclamens and primroses, while a trifle early, enjoy a good sale. The Boston fern is selling remarkably well and some of the growers, realizing the good market in Minneapolis for this plant, are devoting much space to it.

The greenhouses connected with the cemeteries have been busy clearing the graves of all plants, etc. These have remained out as long as possible, but the cold days now have put an end to them. There has been much shrub planting done this fall.

Various Notes.

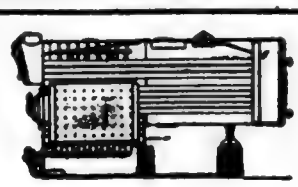
The bowling contest between the Rice Bros. team and the Desmond outfit resulted in a victory for the Rice men, and not for the Desmonds, as first reported.

"Detroit" Return Trap—the heart of the "Detroit" Systems.

Overcoming a Serious Difficulty

If the circulation in your heating coils isn't absolutely free, a "Detroit" System will overcome the trouble.

The "Detroit" System removes the condensation from the pipes—whether above or below the water level in the boiler—and automatically returns it to the boiler.



A more efficient heating system and lowered fuel bill result.

Better investigate. As a starter ask for "Watch your Condensation"—Book No. 5A.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

508 South Dearborn Street

CHICAGO, ILL.

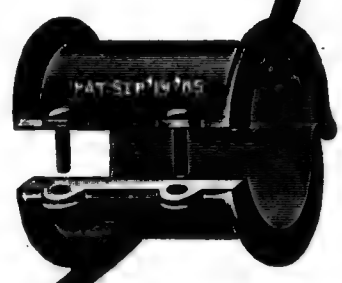
At the park board greenhouses the annual chrysanthemum show has taken place. Great crowds viewed the fine stock of chrysanthemums shown. The members of the Florists' Club visited the greenhouses Thursday, November 9, having received an invitation from Superintendent Wirth.

The Whitted Floral Co. has been fairly busy, but reports no great rush of work just yet. The men have had many tables to decorate for luncheons, clubs, etc.

The Johnson Co. is increasing its business by leaps and bounds. The store is splendidly located and with good stock, good services and right prices the company is bound to prosper.

Many of the florists are busily making magnolia wreaths, for which there is a large demand at all times here.

Much improvement is going on at the Lake Street Florist Shop. A larger stock is kept and the proprietor is making a good bid for bigger business.



William F. Holmes says that business is good. Handsome window displays are Mr. Holmes' forte. E. M. P.

A PROMINENT CARNATION GROWER SAYS THIS ABOUT THE STANDARD RECORDING THERMOMETER

ORDER NOW
$25.00

Lancaster, Pa.

Standard Thermometer Co., Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: Please send me 25 record plates like the enclosed sample, and I want to say that the machine, bought a good many years back, is keeping up its good work right along. I think it a very useful adjunct to good plant growing, and it should be in every greenhouse, as reference to it may often tell what is wrong with a batch of plants. Very truly yours,

ALBERT M. HERR.

The actuating element of the Standard Recording Thermometer is of lamina metal, which, besides being extremely sensitive to temperature changes, is practically indestructible. Record charts are furnished either daily or weekly, and the whole mechanism is contained in an attractive metal case fitted with lock and key, which insures the record from being tampered with.

The clock movement is of extremely high grade; everything about the instrument is up to the highest possible standard of manufacture.

The Market.

Retail trade has been increasing lately and the approach of winter increases business. Mums are plentiful and singles and pompons are much in vogue. Roses are numerous and violets are increasing in volume. The florists all look for a big Thanksgiving business and are preparing for it.

Various Notes.

The latter part of the week H. F. A. Lange's windows displayed the pompons which received a silver medal at the chrysanthemum show. Mr. Lange has a fine showing of cyclamens and begonias for Thanksgiving.

Harry I. Randall, proprietor of Randall's Flower Shop, reports business good. He is receiving fine roses from the Waban Rose Conservatories.

William Luby, formerly with H. F. A. Lange, has gone into business with Mr. Estabrook, a grower here. They bought out the Fisher store and had their opening last week. Many congratulations were sent them and as a souvenir they gave all who visited them a carnation.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held at Glen Cove Wednesday, November 9, President James MacDonald presiding. The main feature of the evening was the competition by assistant gardeners for the best table decoration. James Halloway, Samuel Trepass and Daniel Coughlin, who were appointed judges, awarded first prize to James Waite, second to George Ford and third to Arnold Gattiker.

The other exhibits were of chrysanthemums, and John Johnstone, Joseph Adler and Frank Watson were appointed to judge these classes. They awarded first prize to James McCarthy for three white chrysanthemums and first for three yellow; certificate of culture to John Dombrowski for a vase of a single chrysanthemum, Emma, and honorable mention for a vase of a seedling anemone, with the recommendation that it be shown again. After the meeting a smoker was held. Next month the annual meeting will be held and election of officers will take place.

James McCarthy, Cor. Sec'y.

QUALITY IS ECONOMY

Especially is this true in the buying of Fertilizers to use as a feed for either Flowers or Vegetables.

That's why so many growers now insist on Magic Fertilizers, knowing they always get the very best.

Magic Fertilizers contain more natural plant food than other brands, because—

They are manufactured solely from Animal Blood, Animal Bone and High-grade Animal Tankage. And Pure Humus is the make-weight, or filler.

Why not buy the Best Fertilizers at Factory-to-Consumer Prices? Write today for our price list.

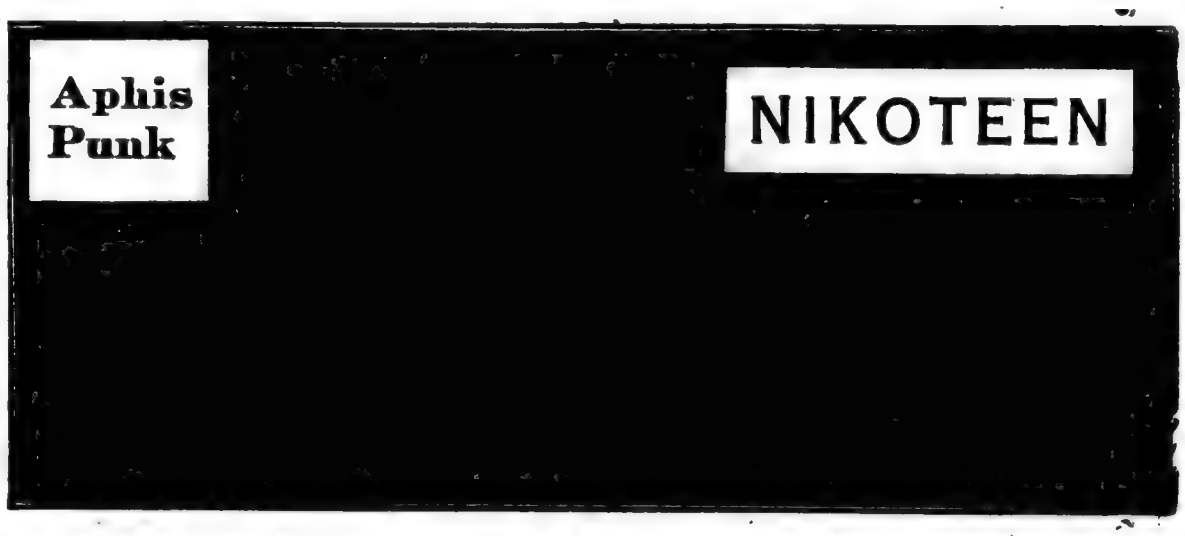
The Market.

Business is better than normal and it may be expected that prices will have an upward tendency, as there has been a slight decrease in the supply of stock. Good quality prevails in all items, with mums still holding the center of the stage. Lilies are scarce; the same applies to green goods.

Various Notes.

Lewis Henderson says that his roses are coming along finely. "Looie," as nearly everyone calls him, was busy last week paying off his election bets.



Stewart's Seed Store was the first in the market with Paper Whites. This concern does a tremendous business in retailing bulbs of all kinds. The bulbs arrived late this year and a heavy trade in them was not looked for, but the sales exceeded expectations and the stock has been well cleaned up.

The writer made his annual fall tour of the Council Bluffs greenhouses November 12 and was much surprised at the quantity of quality stock to be seen, both in cut flowers and vegetables. The first stop was at the Herman Bros. Co. place. There the roses and carnations are in fine shape, with prospects for a heavy Christmas crop. The mums are of good quality—those that remain, as not many late varieties are grown. The Gerber Greenhouses are devoted to lettuce. Mr. Gerber is a beginner in the business, but what he has accomplished so far does him credit. The J. F. Wilcox & Sons establishment was the next stop. Their fifty odd houses, devoted chiefly to roses, carnations and mums, never looked better. Little space is given to pot plants, but those to be seen were of the best. The next and last stop was at the establishment of the genial and ever-hustling Fred Lainson. The first house examined contained cukes, and Fred certainly may be proud of them. The mums are grown by a different method than at most places. Instead of planting them closely and growing one or two blooms to a plant, Mr. Lainson gives them more space and has four to eight flowers on each plant. His carnations are fine, as well as his sweet peas.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

Counter trade was excellent last week, but funeral work was light. The warm temperatures last week brought chrysanthemums into the market in many varieties. Pompon and single chrysanthemums are more popular this year than ever before. The supply of American Beauties is good in medium grades, but the stock in the finer grades is scarce. Roses and carnations are in good supply.

Single violets are abundant. The supply of double varieties is not large enough to reckon with. Calla lilies are in large supply and Easter lilies are equal to the demand. Valley is in moderate supply. Cattleyas are plentiful.

Association Meeting.

The second meeting of the newly organized Fort Wayne Florists' Association was held Wednesday evening, November 8, at the Flick Floral Co. store. Miss Rhoda Doswell, of the Doswell Floral Co., presided as temporary chairman. The election of officers was held, with the following result: President, Miss Rhoda Doswell; vice-president, Edgar Wenninghoff; secretary, Miss Marguerite Flick; treasurer, Herman Leitz. An election of committeemen resulted in the choice of the following: Publicity committee, Clem Lanternier, chairman; Mr. Freese, Mrs. Alice Shive, Mrs. R. W. Doswell; program committee, Mrs. Richard Blossom, chairman; W. J. Vesey, Miss Margaret Vesey, Miss Doswell, John Doswell; committee on constitution, W. J. Vesey, Jr., chairman; Miss S. L. Nelson, Miss Doswell, Mr. Shive, Clem Lanternier.

It was decided at this meeting to hold the first annual flower show in the ballroom of the Anthony hotel, Thursday, November 16. The publicity committee is issuing invitations to both in and out-of-town patrons and friends. The meeting was well attended and it was decided to hold the next one the first Monday evening in December.

Various Notes.

Miss R. W. Doswell, H. C. Leitz, of the New Haven Floral Co., and Miss Green have returned from Chicago, where they visited many wholesale establishments, including those of the Poehlmann Bros. Co. and Peter Reinberg.

The New Haven Floral Co. is cutting some fine Adonis, Dr. Enguehard and Snow White mums; also Russell roses. Their carnations are doing well.

Lanternier & Sons are receiving some excellent Wells' Late Pink, Major Bonnaffon and Chrysolora mums from their greenhouses on Anthony boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Lanternier and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lanternier motored to Paulding, O., where they spent the week end. R. F.

The Market.

The market last week surely was a buyers' market. The conditions were not so healthy as they might have been, but, on the whole, prices were fair and stock was disposed of in large quantities. Chrysanthemums were especially plentiful, as both the early and late varieties were in the market at the same time. Some fine Chieftain and White Chieftain mums, as well as some elegant blooms of Turner, were to be had at reasonable prices. Bonnaffons also were in good supply and there was an abundance of bunch mums in the market. Considering the large crop, the daily cut was well taken care of and there was comparatively little surplus.

Carnations are plentiful and their quality is good. Owing to the large supply of mums, this stock did not move so well last week, and prices were somewhat lower. The rose cut dropped off to a great extent and there was a shortage of this stock felt all around. Mrs. Russell, Ward and Ophelia roses were in greatest demand and consequently were the hardest to obtain. The quality of the stock is good, however, and fair prices are being realized.

Orchids are in sufficient supply to meet the demand and the stock is in fine shape. Lilies are plentiful but selling well, while valley remains scarce and of only medium quality.

Business was rather lethargic last week, but we have had a few cold days that should help general conditions quite a bit.

Various Notes.

Mr. Schiller, of the Schiller Flower Shop, 1044 Twenty-seventh street, has been ill at his home for about three weeks. Mr. Schiller underwent an operation some time ago and his present illness seems to be of the same character as that which culminated in the operation. He is reported to be convalescing slowly and probably will be on the market in a week or so. H. J. S.

Greenwood, Ind.—After a successful season with asters, Mrs. Fred Rose has decided to erect a greenhouse and try her hand at growing stock under glass.

One-third More Plants in Same Space

From one of our customers, S. A. McCalley, of Colorado City, Colo., we have the following:

"Another point of great merit in your System over the old way is that I can get one-third more plants on the land than the old way, as I can plant every foot of it, while the old way takes a lot of land for furrows and ditches to carry the water. It is much easier to start plants under the Skinner System."

is made for us by paint experts, by people who have made a life-long study of painting problems; and in buying a product which bears their endorsement you can depend upon securing a product satisfactory in all respects for the purpose intended.

The value of a pure white, light-reflecting surface, which will diffuse and re-use every ray of light, cannot be over-estimated.

Greenhouse White will stay white—therefore, it is the paint to use.

BUFFALO.

The Market.

Beauties in all grades are plentiful. They clear well, although there could be more snap in their sale. Other roses now are at their best, but they seem to lag a trifle. The best roses anyone could wish for sell at a most reasonable figure. Carnations, which previously were scarce and much in demand, now are more plentiful and of excellent quality, but they do not clear with a rush. Easter lilies have been much in demand and are clinging to the scarce side.

Mums and pompons are in extremely heavy supply and the demand is not great enough to clear them. Valley and orchids are in more even supply than before. Violets continue to clear daily, both the single and double varieties. Some excellent snapdragons reach the market, but the supply is rather erratic. Sweet peas, too, are to be had occasionally.

Various Notes.

John Dunlop, of Toronto, was in town last week for a short visit. F. G. Nelson, of the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia., also was a recent visitor.

More than 20,000 people attended the first annual flower show of Buffalo, Sunday, November 12.

Bowling Scores.

Last week's contest resulted in a victory for the West Siders. Following are the florists' scores:

Players—	1st	2d	3d	4th	T'l

HYDRANGEAS.

500 French hydrangeas, pot-grown, now in 4-in., grown in frame all summer, pots plunged over the top. We get a plant equal to any 5 and 6-in. pot grown by this method. The plants run in equal mixture of Avalanche, Bouquet Rose, Vibraye and Mme. Mouillere, but were mixed in propagation, so I will sell them as mixed. They run from 3 to 5 shoots, lots of crown eyes at ground. Are now hardened off and will make great forcing stock for Easter. Price $15.00 per 100, not less than 50 sold at this price. You can get your money back if not as represented. Also same size and grade, I offer 200 Otaksa, same price. Cash with order.

PANSIES.

THE BEST GIANT PANSIES.

Our Pansies are the best the world produces. They combine the choicest large flowering sorts of both European and American growers. It has been our aim to make this the finest strain of this favorite flower in existence. Raised at an altitude of 5,721 ft. above sea level, gives them lots of fibrous roots. They start quickly. They are not soft.

Send your order in at once with the cash for field-grown plants, $3.50 per 1000.

PELARGONIUMS.

Remember we are the real distributors of Easter Greeting; the first one to advertise it,—now look at 'em. Wide awake florists know a good thing when they see it. Some are a little slow at first, but that isn't to be wondered at when one considers the "new frauds." But listen! Get in the swim for 1917. We have over 25,000 coming for November and December sales and hope to have 50,000 coming a little later, $7.50 per 100. We are making them by special machinery and the war hasn't changed the price. Our guarantee covers everything.

The Market.

The supply of stock now is adequate, but until the present time there has not been enough surplus to warrant any uneasiness. Good roses are scarce, but the cut of carnations is gradually growing larger and better. Chrysanthemums are at their best. Fine blooms of William Turner and Odessa are being offered.

Business has been good and November sales so far show a good increase over those of last year for the same period.

Various Notes.

The C. W. Crouch Co. has been exceedingly busy of late, and, with the exception of valley and orchids, it has had an abundant supply of stock. The men are cutting large quantities of fine chrysanthemums.

The following salesmen called on the trade last week: Robert Shoch, representing the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia; Albert P. Stevens, of the Hubbs & Corning Co., Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Haeger, of the W. F. Haeger Floral Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., were visitors in Knoxville November 10 and 11.

Many here were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Thomas C. Joy, of Nashville. Mr. Joy was well known and highly esteemed by florists here. He had on several occasions been a guest at meetings of the Knoxville Florists' Society. In his death we feel that the south loses one of its best florists and citizens. R. E. M.

INSECTS ON SNAPDRAGONS.

Can you tell us the trouble with the enclosed snapdragon The variety is Keystone and the plants are growing in the same bench with Nelrose and Phelps' White, but these varieties are not affected in any way. There were some chinch bugs in the house, but if these are the cause of the trouble it seems as if the other varieties would be affected in the same way.

L. C. S. & S.—N. Y.

This looks like the work of either chinch bugs or grasshoppers, more probably the latter. If they trouble you another season, it will be well to use a poisonous spray, such as arsenate of lead, to check them. This whitens the foliage, but will clean out the pests. I do not imagine you will have any further trouble this season. I would advise pinching back affected plants well. C. W.

A SELECTION OF PHLOXES.

What would be the best selection of six varieties of hardy phloxes, considering color and habit?

G. E. Y.—Okla.

My choice as to the best selection of hardy phloxes would be as follows: Albion, white; Thor, pink; Antonin Mercie, lilac; Europa, pink and white combination; Rheinlander, red, and Riverton Jewel, pink. These we consider the best growers, best in their respective colors and in hardiness.

Chas. H. Totty.

RE-GLAZING A HEAVY EXPENSE

Do you know, Mr. Greenhouse Man, that cypress is a wood that holds "glazing points" better than any other kind of wood that is being used in greenhouse construction? It is a fact, and while a "glazing point" is a small matter (taken by itself), the reglazing proposition is an important one in your industry. When re-glazing comes too often it becomes a source of heavy expense. Cypress is the wood that helps to keep down this recurrent item.

So, too, with putty; cypress takes putty kindly and holds it perfectly. No other greenhouse wood operates so well with putty to hold the glass fitted in.

A BOOK, PLEASE

Vol. 3, CYPRESS Pocket Library, tells a lot about greenhouse construction; Vols. 4, 20, 36 and 37 are for the farmer. They contain plans for all out-buildings, and they are absolutely free. There are 42 of these books, and you would better help yourself to them.

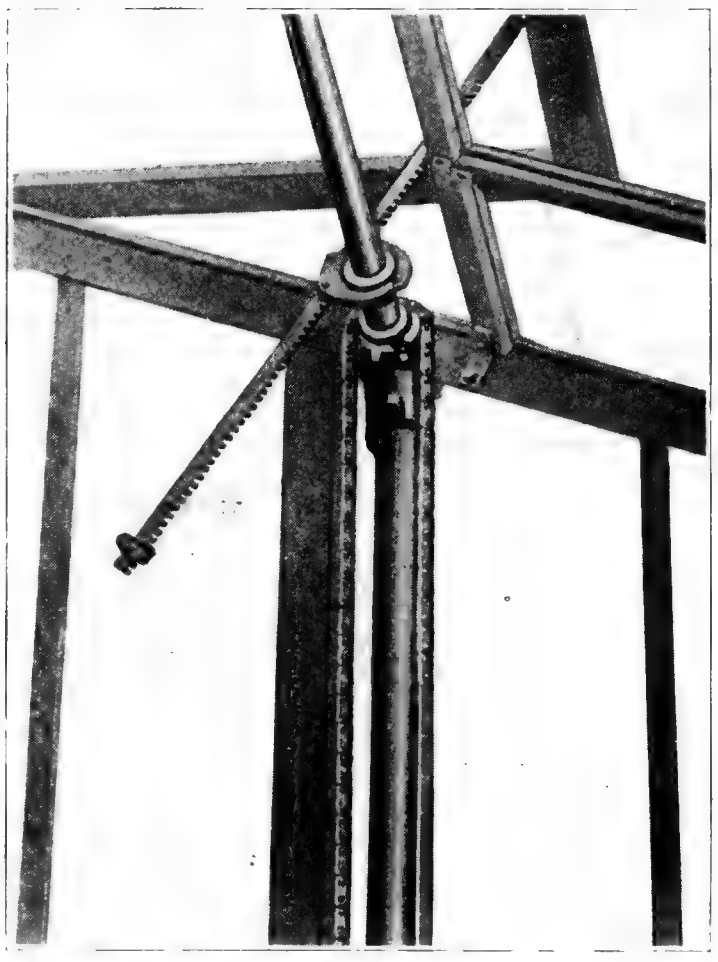
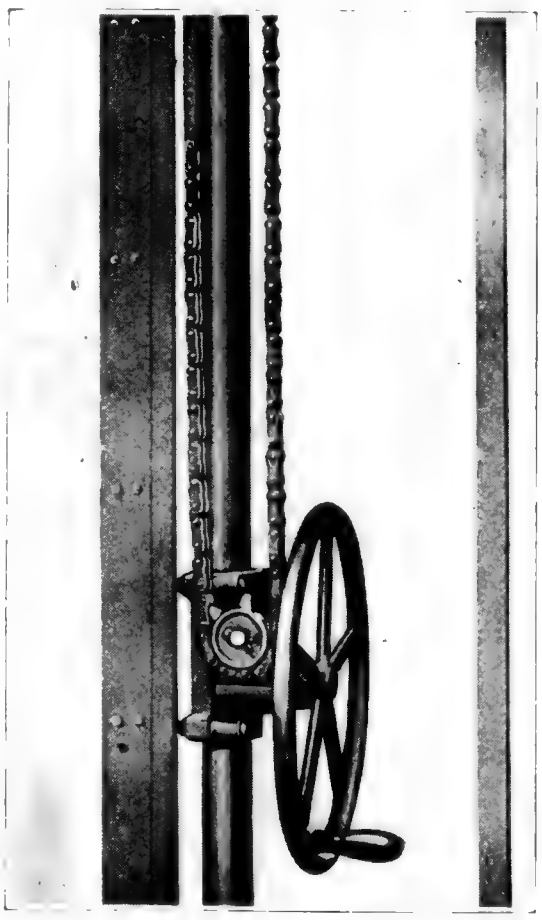
FOLEY IRON FRAME HOUSE, 50 FT. WIDE BY 175 FT. LONG



Iron Frame Houses, as we build them, are a credit to any establishment. Our construction embodies many desirable features found in no other house. This we can show you if given the opportunity.

If you are thinking of building, look into the merits of our construction. Send us your inquiry, or better still, let us send one of our representatives to see you.

The Foley Greenhouse Mfg. Co., 3248 West 31st Street, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS



Here's your ventilating apparatus!

—because

——it really does not matter how large the ventilator is—it is the opening that counts. The AGMCO device is so designed as to make each size of sash do its full duty. Frequently you find a large ventilating sash equipped with a lifter incapable of opening it more than one-fourth of the way. This is wrong.

Now, in the AGMCO the weight of the sash cannot cause the machine to gain speed when it is being lowered. You can spin the hand wheel without fear of results. There will be no slip—no crash of shattered glass—no lifters pulled off.

Here's your strong meat! The AGMCO is built to last. Constructed of the most durable material; once installed, it will last a lifetime.

Arrange now to make the AGMCO ventilating machine one of the great conveniences of your plant. Get acquainted today with the cost of installing it in your new plant.

PIPE FRAME GREENHOUSES

FURNISHED BY US FOR ZORN & GAERTNER, SAGINAW, MICH.

Here we have a very nice vegetable greenhouse establishment started only a few years ago and thriving wonderfully. The owners started with only two 28 feet wide houses, but they looked into the future and arranged matters so that more houses could easily be added.

These are our standard type of construction with the "Bolted Thru the Pipe" fittings used on all supporting members. This is the construction upon which we received a CERTIFICATE OF MERIT at the Boston Convention.

If you are thinking of building this is a good time to acquaint yourself with the subject. Better write for estimates and sketches, they are free.

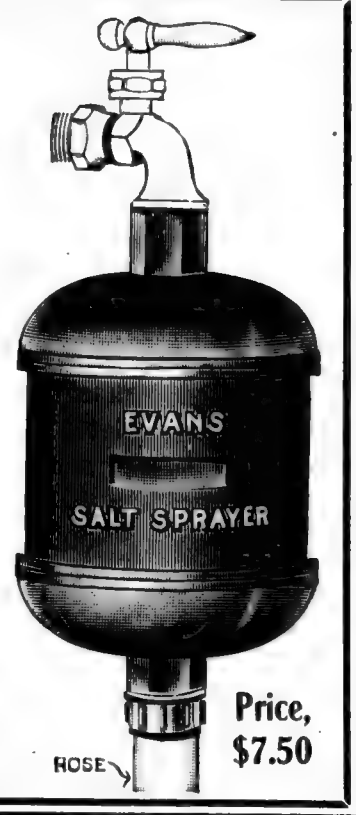
EVERYTHING FOR THE GREENHOUSE



SERIOUS BUSINESS OF BUYING

You know that fast rules for ventilating greenhouses are not possible. There is probably more variation than in any other business.

We believe that you will find it a most valuable aid in purchasing from a reliable firm with experience, that will do better work at no higher cost, and avoid disappointments and delays in getting your houses completed.

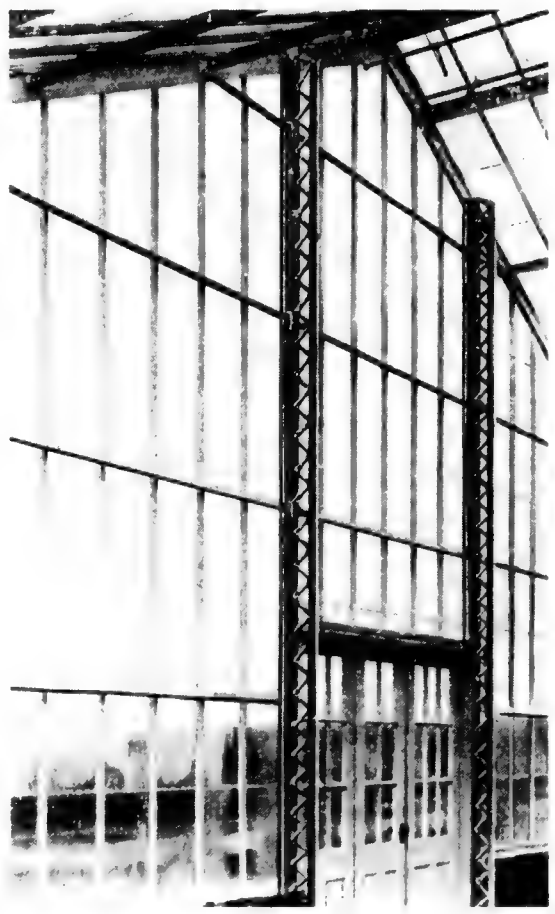
INDEX TO ADVERTISEMENTS AND TABLE OF CONTENTS—PAGES TWO AND THREE

There is strength and convincement in every line of this gable, 51 feet wide.



By Their Gables You Can Know Them

MUCH loosening of glass is caused by weak gables.

Wind thrust against the gable, unless rigid, is transferred to the entire house.

Rigid gables mean a framing expense that many builders cut out, to cut down costs.

If a grower can't see that it's for the good of his business to have our gable construction, constructed the way we have exactly proven it should be constructed, then we can't do business together. We don't attempt to tell a grower how to grow. He has made a study of it. It's his business. It's not ours.

In houses wider than 40 feet, we use two extra deep rafters. On houses of extra width of corresponding height, two lattice rafters are used in connection with the usual flat iron ones. No back bracing is necessary.

Doesn't it stand to reason that having made a business of greenhouse building for over half a century, we ought to know how they ought to be built?

Building them that way, we can stand back of every one we build.

You take no risk. The responsibility is all ours.

MAGNOLIA FACTS

¶Yes, Mr. Florist, be particular as to what kind of Magnolia Leaves you buy now, under the present conditions.

¶Dye colors have advanced from 1000% to 2000%; preparing chemicals have exactly doubled in prices since the war began, as have also the paper cartons. In spite of this, we are in position to furnish you with first-class Magnolia Leaves through your wholesaler at a small advance in comparison with the above.

¶We guarantee that the quality of our leaves is as good now as they were before the war, and that they are prepared fully, regardless of the above-stated high prices of the materials.

¶You fool yourself if you buy the cheaper grade of leaves, as they will become mildewed and they will dry out shortly after the boxes are opened. Our goods are sold by every leading wholesale florist in the United States and Canada, and they have stood the test for the past six years.

¶A magnolia leaf is only worth using if it has been fully preserved, but NOT by a cheap process, which enables others to sell the leaves cheaper by a few cents. You pay these few cents about ten or fifteen times over, when you consider the poor value of these goods.

Every size of every variety offered below is today of more than usually good value at prices quoted. We therefore advise our friends to

Rush Orders for CRAIG QUALITY

Our stock of Craig Specialties is larger and of even higher quality than any ever before offered by us. We desire to call particular attention to our Crotons, 300 varieties; Dracaenas, Ferns, Areca Lutescens, Ficus in variety and Begonia Cincinnati and Lorraine. A cordial invitation to all the trade to visit our Philadelphia and Norwood plants. Illustrated catalogue ready.

NEW NEPHROLEPIS FERN JOHN WANAMAKER

A "sport" from Nephrolepis Scholzeli, with longer, narrower, gracefully drooping fronds. It is not so compact in growth as Scholzeli, and therefore does not decay in the center, and is a durable house fern. It is a rapid grower, making an abundance of fronds, and is quite distinct from any other Nephrolepis.

The following ready for immediate delivery: 4-inch pots, $25.00 per 100; 6-inch pots, 50c and 75c each; 8-inch pots, $1.00 each; specimens in tubs, $2.50 and $3.50 each.

CROTONS NEW SEEDLING VARIETIES

Our new Seedling Crotons, some of which we disseminated in June, 1911, are varieties that should be in every grower's and private person's collection. They are far superior to many of the older varieties of Crotons and the types range from narrow to very large leaf.

We particularly call your attention to our set of thirteen, named after the "Thirteen Original States," which have won highest honors wherever shown.

4-inch pots, strong plants, $3.00 each; $30.00 doz.; $200.00 100.

6 and 7-inch pots, larger plants, $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00 each.

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past few years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. They are also specially attractive to use with Chrysanthemums.

Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year. Very highly colored sprays at 25c, 35c and 50c; cut leaves, $3.00 and $5.00 per 100.

A PAGE FOR THE ORCHID GROWERS

Is it because orchids have bloomed less freely than usual this season, or is the demand this year so much greater than usual? At any rate, the interest in orchids never was stronger, and growers and retailers will be interested in these seasonable suggestions concerning popular commercial varieties.

TO a good many florists, especially in the stores, the word orchid means only one thing, the cattleya, but there is a wide increase in the popularity of the spray orchids that now are coming onto the markets in larger and larger quantities, and which are found increasingly useful in the better class of work, baskets, vases, dinner table centerpieces, etc. Still, Cattleya Trianæ is the standard winter cattleya and fills a longer season than any other variety. A small proportion of the plants usually are in bloom for Christmas, while others will last until the end of March.

Cattleyas for Christmas.

The buds are showing prominently in the sheaths of many Trianæ plants now and in some cases have pushed through. These latter should be in bloom for the holidays. As cattleyas bring a fancy price at the Christmas season, it will pay to get as large a crop as possible at that time. Hard forcing of the plants is not to be recommended, but plants in the cool end of the cattleya house may be moved to the warm end and placed where they can get a fair amount of sunshine. Plants to be retarded should go to the cool end and be shaded.

It is possible to hold back a few of the late C. labiata until Christmas, but they must be in a dry house. If placed where it is cool and moist, the flowers will soon become spotted. I doubt whether it pays to move cattleya plants in flower at this season from the house in which they are growing. Cattleya houses should be well ventilated and fairly dry, and at night the minimum temperature should not now be over 58 to 60 degrees. As the plants pass out of flower, keep them on the dry side until new growths and roots show signs of starting, when any repotting may be done.

The Sale of Seedlings.

Cattleya labiata promises soon to become a scarce article in the markets. All plants now arriving are small seedlings and the prices are constantly advancing. He who has the facilities and will undertake to raise seedlings of this indispensable fall variety will make an excellent investment. In spite of the almost innumerable hybrids raised, none of them surpasses this variety in floriferousness, in substance, in size and in all-around commercial properties.

Cattleya Percivaliana is a small cattleya when compared with C. labiata and C. Trianæ. It is free-blooming, however, and is valuable because a large number can be depended upon to flower for Christmas. A year ago, when C. Trianæ was worth $9 to $12 per dozen at wholesale, and even more, C. Percivaliana readily made $6 per dozen. Even if it can be sold at an average through the season of $3, it will pay the grower as well as the large cattleyas, but it must be flowered early, for when it is in competition with a full crop of Trianæ the larger flowers will invariably be selected. Give Percivaliana a warm, sunny spot for the next few weeks, to advance it as much as possible. Perhaps you may have some nice 5-inch or 6-inch plants which will be in good bloom for Christmas. In such a case, if you chance to have a call for choice pot plants, you may be able to dispose of them.

Shade on Cattleyas.

We have reached a season when the sun's power is steadily declining, and while it is just a little early to remove all shade from cattleyas, the greater part would better be removed. Letting the plants have a good sunning may make the foliage a little paler, but it will harden the growths and make them bloom much more satisfactorily. Plants in flower or coming into flower can easily be given a location where they will be protected from the sun's rays.

The foliage on calanthes will now begin to turn yellow as the flower spikes advance. Now that the bulbs are fully made up, the use of liquid manure must be discontinued. Keep the plants in a warm and fairly moist house; 60 to 65 degrees at night will suit them nicely. As the flowers begin to open, let the plants have somewhat cooler and drier quarters. As calanthes are deciduous when in flower, if the plants are mixed witb adiantums to cover the pots they will look much more effective. Only a moderate supply of water now will be needed, and when the flowers are expanded none will be needed at all.

At this season and for some months to come, cypripediums are in the heyday of their glory.

A Vase of the Spray Orchids of Increasing Popularity.
(Arranged by the Art Floral Co., San Francisco.)

They lack the gorgeousness of the cattleyas and the grace of the oncidiums, phalænopsis and odontoglossums, and do not carry such masses of flowers as many of the dendrobiums, but they are both charming and interesting, and when it comes to keeping qualities no other orchids at all approach them, with the possible exception of lycastes and cymbidiums.

Cypripedium Insigne.

Cypripedium insigne, now coming into season, still is the greatest of the family commercially. The yellow sports, like Sanderæ, Laura Kimball, Sanderianum, Ernestii, etc., are yearly becoming more plentiful and will soon become fairly common in the markets. They bring at present, and probably always will bring, a considerably higher price than the old type. Any florist with a house which he can keep shaded, moist and fairly close in winter can grow most of the cypripediums well. The old C. insigne is not at all a fussy subject and will grow in any ordinary greenhouse, succeeding finely outdoors under trees through the summer. C. Leeanum, villosum, Sallieri, aureum, Lawrenceanum, Harrisianum superbum and Spicerianum are all good commercial cyps, obtainable at low prices. The number of hybrids is legion, but their prices in most cases are beyond the average commercial purse.

Dendrobiums.

The nodes are now well advanced on some of the earliest ripened plants of Dendrobium nobile and D. Wardianum. These have been kept for some time in a sunny house, with a temperature of 50 degrees at night, and kept quite dry at the root. Water is given sparingly until it is seen that the nodes will produce flowers and not growths. All dendrobiums of this type and many hybrids should have a good resting period to insure their flowering well. Some hybrids, like Juno, will not bloom at all unless thoroughly baked.

Odontoglossum Crispum.

Last summer, with a lack of strong heat, proved favorable for Odontoglossum crispum and it has come through in good condition. It should now be given a bench in a sunny house with a carnation temperature, where the leaves will soon take on a bronzy hue. Such plants are harder and will stand the hot summers much better than those carrying green leaves, the result of being kept in the shade all the time.

TO ECONOMIZE ON PAPER.

There is a movement on foot at Washington, D. C., looking to the conservation of wrapping paper and merchants in all lines of business are being urged to send out packages wherever possible without doing them up unnecessarily. It is pointed out that boxes of flowers can easily be sent out without being covered with paper, as they are in themselves neat and attractive. It is said that custom has caused the members of the trade to expend large sums of money annually in wrapping paper of the Kraft type, tissue and wax paper, and that there is no need for the use of such large quantities as are being consumed. The price has advanced close to 200 per cent within the last year. C. L. L.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FOR SOUTHERN FLORISTS

CATCH CROPS IN SOUTH.

Calendulas.

There is a good demand nowadays for flowers—other than roses and carnations—that are dainty and suitable for table decorations. Calendulas, mignonette, candytuft and snapdragons are favorites and are easily grown in most sections of the south. They will all grow under practically the same conditions, with a night temperature of not over 50 degrees.

Calendulas will flower in twelve to fourteen weeks from date of sowing the seeds. These grow quite bushy and should not be planted any closer than 12x12 inches. The cabbage worm, the larva of the small white butterfly, seems to be the only pest to bother it.

Mignonette.

Mignonette is a difficult subject to transplant, so it is better to sow the seeds in the bed where they have to grow. Lay off the bed in cross lines six by eight inches apart, and at each intersection sow a few seeds and cover them lightly. When the growths are large enough, thin out to one plant. Pinch this once and allow only two shoots to develop, to get good spikes. The plants must be kept trained as they grow, in order to keep the stems straight, and all side growths must be cut out. Mignonette likes rather good soil and semiweekly doses of strong manure water as soon as the embryo flower appears. The cabbage worm is fond of this plant and the early crop especially must be carefully looked over every day to catch the pests. Hand-picking is the surest remedy.

Candytuft.

Candytuft may be sown thinly in shallow drills. To get good heads, thin out to four to six inches and pinch once, allowing two or three shoots to develop. In the more southerly states candytuft will do well in a coldframe or outdoors. Where this flower is well grown, it is an exceedingly ready seller. If only wanted for designs, a few rows sowed thinly outdoors will give many blooms.

Snapdragons.

Snapdragons already are great favorites with the flower buyers. Seedling plants of these set outdoors during early spring will give a succession of blooms until frost. Plants that have been grown outdoors during summer may be lifted just before frost and, when severely cut back, planted on a bed or table in the greenhouse. Treated thus they will not flower indoors until early spring. The best way is to plant young plants from seed in June or July. Seedlings set out in July ought to be flowering freely now. These plants require considerable water and must at all times be kept nicely tied up, otherwise the stems will be crooked and unsalable. L.

STOCK PLANTS.

As soon as the chrysanthemums are cut, the disposition of stock plants, too often much neglected, should receive proper attention. If space will permit, there can be no better place for stock plants than a bench well up to the light in a violet house temperature. The plants can be set in rows ten to twelve inches apart and given a good watering. In a night temperature of 40 to 42 degrees they will produce quantities of nice, stocky cuttings. If bench space is not at disposal, flats four to five inches deep can be used to good advantage.

An excellent plan, which I have followed for years, is to plant the stock in coldframes over an old hotbed, cover with perfectly dry leaves, place sashes over these, and later protect with mats and match-board shutters. If well protected around the sides, mum stock plants can be safely carried through minimums of 10 to 15 degrees below zero in coldframes. When uncovered in early spring they will quickly give a crop of grand, succulent cuttings. Do not, on any consideration, tuck your stock plants below benches and hunt them up about the time you want to start propagating. Such cuttings as you get will be mighty poor and you will wish you had taken more intelligent care of the plants.

EARLY YELLOW POMPONS.

What is the earliest outdoor-flowering pompon chrysanthemum in yellow? My experience with outdoor pompons is that they do far better and flower much earlier when in the lee of buildings or windbreaks than when grown in the open field. R. M. C.—Mich.

I have found Seven Oaks, with large, double yellow flowers, the earliest of the golden yellow pompon mums, flowering profusely. To follow it, Excelsior, rich golden yellow, is good. You are correct in saying that sheltered positions near buildings or between greenhouses are far better for these mums than open locations. In the protected places they bloom earlier and are far less liable to suffer from early freezes.

C. W.

MUMS TO FOLLOW GERANIUMS.

In the spring of 1917 I expect to erect six sash houses, 10x100, and to use them for geraniums in the spring, followed by mums. The sashes would be removed before planting the mums. There will be five feet of head room. What varieties would be best suited for such cultivation? We have the best sale for Pacific, Chieftain, Bonnaffon, Seidewitz, Chrysolora, Mistletoe, Nonin, Rager, Jones, Appleton and Marigold. At present I have one house planted to Pacifics. They were planted June 1 and are now in full bloom, bearing large flowers, but with only six to seven inches of stem. All the other varieties, planted in range houses, have longer stems. What method should be used in running the new houses?

H. C. H.—Pa.

If the varieties mentioned in the inquiry have been found satisfactory, why not plant them again another year? Two excellent varieties with which to supplement them would be, in white, Alice Day and White Chieftain. A good early white is White Gloria and a good early pink is Unaka. The reason the Pacifics are only six to eight inches high is probably because they were propagated late. If they were large stock, planted from 4-inch pots June 1, they should be considerably higher than stated.

It will be well to run the new houses east and west, to get the benefit as far as possible of the midwinter sun for the geraniums. Of course, a house of this kind will be hot in summer, but if, as H. C. H. says, he is going to remove the sashes before planting the mums, the summer heat would not make any difference; therefore I would suggest that by all means the houses be run east and west. Chas. H. Totty.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY.

Work of the Committees.

The examining committees of the C. S. A. have submitted reports on new varieties as follows:

At New York, October 28, Miss Anola Wright, bright pink, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the exhibition scale: Color, 15; stem, 4; foliage, 4; fullness, 14; form, 12; depth, 12; size, 25; total, 86.

At New York, October 28, October Herald, light bronze, Japanese, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 19; form, 13; fullness, 8; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance, 13; size, 8; total, 87.

At Boston, October 28, Smith's Imperial, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 13; fullness, 9; stem, 13; foliage, 14; substance, 13; size, 8; total, 87.

At Chicago, November 11, Helen Lee, light pink, incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 12; foliage, 14; substance, 14; size, 9; total, 90.

At Cincinnati, November 11, Helen Lee, light pink, incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 15; form, 12; fullness, 10; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance 14; size, 8; total, 85.

At Chicago, November 12, No. 9, yellow, anemone, submitted by James Livingston, Milwaukee, Wis., scored as follows: Color, 36; form, 15; stem and foliage, 20; fullness, 18; total, 89.

At New York, November 6, Richmond, yellow, Japanese incurved, submitted by the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 13; fullness, 9; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance, 13; size, 7; total, 86.

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE—AND WHY

WILLIAM W. VERT.

A BORN flower grower? Yes, the phrase fits William W. Vert as if made to his measure. Besides inheriting the requisite abilities, he began life in the right environment. He was born in August, 1884, at Audley End Gardens, of which his father had charge, in Saffron Walden, England. After mastering his profession, the young man came to America in 1906. Since then he has been gardener for Howard Gould, at Castlegould, a large and fine estate at Port Washington, N. Y. He was married in 1911 and has a little daughter. He has been notably successful as an exhibitor at many large flower shows. He was elected vice-president of the C. S. A. in 1915 and was advanced to the presidency of the organization at its recent Philadelphia convention. He is a member, also, of the N. A. G. and other horticultural bodies.

At Chicago, November 12, No. 92, yellow, incurved, submitted by the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 16; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 15; foliage, 15; substance, 14; size, 7; total, 90.

At Chicago, November 12, No. 69, yellow, incurved, submitted by the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 17; form, 10; fullness, 8; stem, 13; foliage, 14; substance, 14; size, 7; total, 83.

At Chicago, November 4, J. Hamilton Lewis, straw with lavender edge, pompon, submitted by Peter Reinberg, Chicago, Ill., scored as follows: Color, 37; form, 18; fullness, 19; stem and foliage, 18; total, 92.

At Chicago, October 28, Ella, bronze yellow, anemone, submitted by H. W. Wehrmann, Maywood, Ill., scored as follows: Color, 35; form, 18; stem and foliage, 18; fullness, 18; total, 89.

At Philadelphia, November 8, No. 3, yellow, Japanese incurved, submitted by G. A. Lotze, Glen Burnie, Md., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 14; foliage, 13; substance, 13; size, 8; total, 89.

At Philadelphia, November 8, No. 20, light bronze, single, submitted by M. Curran, gardener to Mrs. E. M. Horne, Sewickley, Pa., scored as follows: Color, 35; form, 18; stem and foliage, 17; substance, 18; total, 88.

At Philadelphia, November 8, W. H. Waite, reddish bronze, Japanese incurved, submitted by Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J., scored as follows: Commercial scale—color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance, 14; size, 9; total, 90. Exhibition scale—color, 14; stem, 4; foliage, 4; fullness, 14; form, 14; depth, 13; size, 26; total, 89.

At Philadelphia, November 8, Louis Pockett, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J., scored as follows: Commercial scale—color, 18; form, 14; fullness, 9; stem, 13; foliage, 12; substance, 13; size, 9; total, 88. Exhibition scale—color, 14; stem, 4; foliage, 3; fullness, 14; form, 14; depth, 12; size, 27; total, 88.

At Chicago, November 12, Hilda Canning, bronze, pompon, submitted by the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Ill., scored as follows: Color, 38; form, 18; fullness, 18; stem and foliage, 18; total, 92.

At New York, October 28, Smith's Imperial, white, Japanese incurved, submitted by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., scored as follows on the commercial scale: Color, 17; form, 13; fullness, 9; stem, 13; foliage, 14; substance, 14; size, 8; total, 88.

At Philadelphia, November 8, Golden Champion, deep yellow tinged with bronze, Japanese incurved, submitted by Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J., scored as follows: Commercial scale—color, 18; form, 13; fullness, 9; stem, 13; foliage, 13; substance, 12; size, 9; total, 87. Exhibition scale—color, 14; stem, 4; foliage, 4; fullness, 13; form, 14; depth, 14; size, 26; total, 89.

THE LAST OF THE FALL FLOWER SHOWS

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Florists' Charity Show.

November 15 to 17 the Knoxville Florists' Society held a fall flower show in a vacant store-room at 412 Gay street, Knoxville. The show was given for the benefit of the Young Women's Christian Association, which recently started a campaign for a building fund. An admission fee of 25 cents was charged, all of which went to the Y. W. C. A., the florists receiving only the publicity.

This is the first flower show held in Knoxville for a number of years and, though not as largely attended as hoped for, it proved quite a success. It was participated in by all the florists and a number of amateurs, and fine stock was exhibited. No prizes were awarded, except to the amateurs.

Mrs. Rosa Hall Ryno's exhibit was a beautiful mantel decoration of ferns, fancy-leaved caladiums, araucarias, dracænas, aspidistras, begonias, pandanus, crotons, etc.

A. H. Dailey had some handsome Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty, Radiance and Kaiserin roses. These were without a doubt the finest ever shown in Knoxville at this season of the year. Mr. Dailey also had a good table decoration.

The C. W. Crouch Co. feature display was a large urn of Radiance roses. The company also showed some fine chrysanthemums and blooming plants, and its table decoration probably was the most artistic at the show.

Baum's exhibit consisted of a table of thirty-six varieties of chrysanthemums, one to each vase, and also a general display of the same varieties, six to a vase. They also showed some excellent carnations in four varieties, 100 to a vase. A most attractive feature of the Baum exhibit was two large vases of chrysanthemums. There were 100 blooms each of William Turner and Odessa, the blooms averaging ten inches in diameter and valued at $1 each.

Lectures and Stereopticon Attract.

The Howell Nurseries exhibited some fine stock in evergreens and hardy shrubs.

The department of entomology of the University of Tennessee—G. M. Bentley—furnished quite a number of plants; also a large collection of both destructive and beneficial insects.

On the evening of November 16, Professor Bain, of the University of Tennessee, gave his noted and popular illustrated lecture on the natural flora of this part of the country. November 17 Bruce Howell, of the Howell Nurseries, gave a lecture and showed stereopticon views of landscape work and hardy shrubs. These lectures proved strong features and helped to bring the people out.

R. E. M.

DALLAS, TEX.

The State Florists' Show.

For the third successive year the Texas State Florists' Association has held a flower show that called the florists of the southwest into active cooperation and enlisted the assistance of others from San Francisco to Chicago.

The show, held in Dallas, November 15 to 17, was successful in every way and was by many considered an advance on what the organization has done in preceding years. Although the officers of the association did a considerable part of the work, the local responsibility was delegated to Henry F. Greve, of the Dallas Floral Co., and to Otto Lang, and to their efforts no small credit should be given for the happy result.

The show was staged in the old Santa Fe railroad station in coöperation with a local organization known as the Woman's Forum.

The Awards.

The premium list was divided into three parts, one list of classes being open only to Texas florists, another open only to florists outside the state and the third list open to all. The awards were:

FLORISTS OF TEXAS.

Twenty-five white mums, any varieties—Drumm Seed & Floral Co., Ft. Worth, first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., Dallas, second.

Twenty-five yellow mums, any varieties—Drumm Seed & Floral Co., first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second.

Twenty-five pink mums, any varieties—Lang Floral & Nursery Co., first; Drumm Seed & Floral Co., second.

Twenty-five mums, any color or variety—Drumm Seed & Floral Co., first; Texas Nursery Co., Sherman, second.

Ten mums, any color—Drumm Seed & Floral Co., first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second.

Single bloom mum, white—Drumm Seed & Floral Co., first; Bird Forrest, Waxahachie, second.

Single bloom mum, yellow—Texas Nursery Co., first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second.

Single bloom mum, pink—Drumm Seed & Floral Co., first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second.

Single bloom mum, any other color—Texas Nursery Co., first.

Exhibit of pot mums—Texas Nursery Co., first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second.

The sweepstakes prize to the exhibitor taking the most premiums in the above classes was won by Drumm Seed & Floral Co.

Fifty assorted roses—Texas Nursery Co., first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second.

Fifty American Beauties—Lang Floral & Nursery Co., first.

Fifty carnations, white—J. E. McAdam, Ft. Worth, first; Texas Nursery Co., second.

Fifty carnations, pink—J. E. McAdam, first; Drumm Seed & Floral Co., second.

Fifty carnations, red—J. E. McAdam, first; Wichita Nursery & Floral Co., Wichita Falls, second.

Fifty carnations, new varieties—J. E. McAdam, first.

FLORISTS OUTSIDE TEXAS.

Twenty-five mums, any varieties—Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., Denver, Colo., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, second.

Twenty-five yellow mums, any varieties—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first; Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., second.

Twenty-five mums, any varieties—Mrs. R. E. Darbee, San Francisco, first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, second.

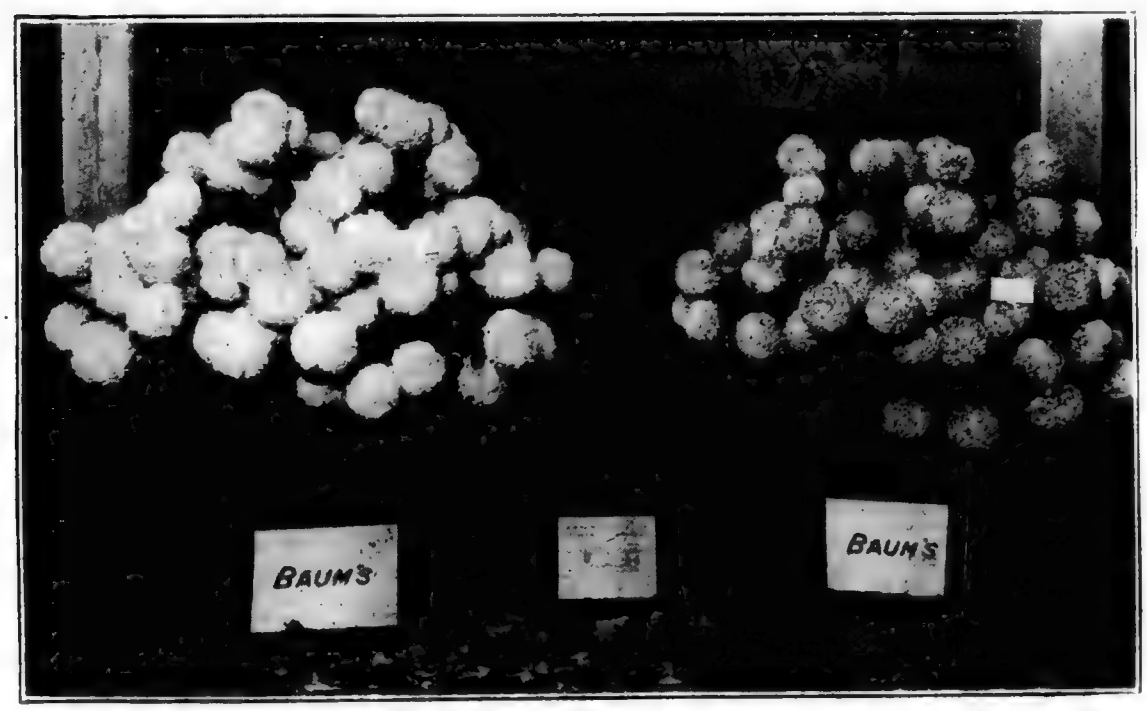
Twenty-five mums, any color or variety—Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., first; Mrs. R. E. Darbee, second.

Exhibit of pot mums—Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo., first.

All of the prizes in the four classes for single specimen blooms, white, pink, yellow and any other color, were won by Mrs. R. E. Darbee, there being no others who entered in competition.

Sweepstake prize for the exhibitor taking the most premiums in the above classes was won by Mrs. R. E. Darbee.

One hundred roses, white—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first; Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., second.



One hundred roses, pink—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first; Gullett & Sons, second.

One hundred roses, any other color—Gullett & Sons, first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second.

Twenty-five American Beauties—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first; Gullett & Sons, second.

Fifty carnations, white—Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., first; Gullett & Sons, second.

Fifty carnations, pink—Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., first; Gullett & Sons, second.

Chrysanthemum Wm. Turner — Chrysanthemum Odessa

Best varieties carnations, any varieties or color —Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., first.

OPEN TO ALL.

Collection of not less than 100 chrysanthemums —Lang Floral & Nursery Co., first.

General exhibit of plants and novelties—Lang Floral & Nursery Co., first; Stuppy Floral Co., second.

Exhibit of blooming plants—Stuppy Floral Co., first; Poehlmann Bros. Co., second; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., third.

Collection of ferns—Lang Floral & Nursery Co., first.

Table decorations, table set for four—Lang Floral & Nursery Co., first; Dallas Floral & Nursery Co., second; Texas Nursery Co., third.

Bride's bouquet, shower style—McKinney Nursery Co., Dallas, first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second; Texas Nursery Co., third.

Corsage bouquet—McKinney Nursery Co., first; Lang Floral & Nursery Co., second; Dallas Floral Co., third.

Basket of flowers—Lang Floral & Nursery Co., first; Texas Nursery Co., second; Dallas Floral Co., third.

The special prize for best 100 white roses was won by Poehlmann Bros. Co.

There also was a list of classes for amateurs.

H. S. Ely, of Neosho, Mo., did the judging.

In addition to the competitive entries, there were a number who sent stock for exhibition only. A list of these is as follows:

E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., a large vase of fancy exhibition mums and a display of pompons.

Joy Floral Co., Nashville, Tenn., a large display of chrysanthemum blooms in many varieties.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., a large vase of specimen blooms.

J. F. Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs, Ia., a large display of cut flowers, including roses, carnations and mums, and blooming plants.

Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo., blooming plants and a handsome display of roses, carnations, sweet peas, calendulas and snapdragons.

Furrow & Co., Guthrie, Okla., a large display of mums, roses and carnations.

Park Floral Co., Denver, a group of fine booming plants, including fancy cyclamens, azaleas and primulas.

Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., a group of foliage plants in variety.

H. S. Ely, Neosho, Mo., a large collection of potted plants.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, a large display of cut flowers, including roses, carnations and mums, and a handsome group of foliage and blooming plants.

Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., Denver, a large display of cut flowers.

The McKinney Nursery Co., McKinney, Tex., a group of palms, ferns and blooming plants.

Business Meeting.

President T. J. Wolfe called a special business meeting of the Texas State Florists' Association during the show, when a committee consisting of H. O. Hannah, A. Y. Koehle and H. Kaden presented resolutions on the death of Thomas C. Joy and resolutions of appreciation for all those who had contributed in any way to the success of the show.

It has been decided to combine the show and annual meeting of the association in 1917, holding both at the same date, sometime in September, at Waco, the home city of President Wolfe.

LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

The twelfth annual chrysanthemum exhibition of the Lake Geneva Gardeners' Association, held in Horticultural hall, Lake Geneva, November 10 to 12, was a great success. The quality and arrangement of the subjects staged were of the best, and the attendance during the three days was most gratifying.

In the main hall the mum reigned supreme; huge exhibition blooms, captivating singles, pompons and anemones were there in bewildering display. In the class for large groups, these four types were blended with palms and ferns into one artistic whole.

The principal exhibitors and prize-winners were: A. J. Smith, gardener for J. J. Mitchell; A. Johnson, gardener for Mrs. F. T. Junkin; A. Montgomery, gardener for Mrs. N. W. Harris; A. Martini, gardener for F. D. Countiss; R. Blackwood, gardener for Mrs. A. C. Allerton; W. P. Longland, gardener for C. L. Hutchinson; C. Lockwood, gardener for the Wrigley estate; J. Balsden, gardener for Mrs. Boisset; W. Wahlstedt, gardener for Mrs. H. H. Porter; R. P. Sampson, gardener for Edward Swift.

The vegetable and fruit display was not extensive, but the stock entered was of special merit. A. Martini, A. Johnson, R. J. Niles, J. Balsden, A. Montgomery and C. Ackerson were the prize-winners. The judges were Messrs. Head, McNaughton and Francis, of Lake Forest, Ill. F. W. Sparks.

A. H. Dailey Did Himself Credit at the Knoxville Fall Flower Show.

CLEVELAND.

The following awards were in addition to those reported in last week's issue, as made at the second annual Cleveland flower show, held in the Hollenden hotel, November 10 to 12:

A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn., certificate of merit for group of novelty chrysanthemums, not for competition, and honorable mention for the new chrysanthemum, Barbara Davis.

Charles H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., certificate of merit for group of pompon and single chrysanthemums, not for competition.

Nagirroc Gardens, of Wickliffe, O., honorable mention for group of palms and stove plants, and honorable mention for a vase of pompon and single chrysanthemums.

Anna Dean Farm, of Barberton, O., honorable mention for a vase of Sunburst roses, not for competition.

John A. Then, of Chicago, Ill., certificate of merit for the new carnation, Thenanthos.

Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich., certificate of merit for the new pink chrysanthemum, Little Gem.

H. P. Eells, of Cleveland, certificate of merit for Asparagus Sprengeri.

The executive committee met November 22 in the office of William G. Mather, president of the Ohio Horticultural Society, to receive the final report of the show from M. A. Vinson, manager. At the same time plans were started for the third annual show, which will be held on a large scale in the Coliseum, November 6 to 11, 1917.

H. P. Knoble,
Chairman Executive Committee.

NEWARK, N. J.

The second annual flower show of the Essex County Florists' Club, which was held in the Palace ballroom November 12 to 15, was larger and more successful than its predecessor. There were exceptionally good entries of chrysanthemums, roses, carnations and other flowers, as well as vegetables.

Henry Hornecker, chairman of the committee of arrangements, and those who were associated with him, surely were rewarded for their efforts in making the show a success. The judges were William Reid, of Orange; J. J. Wilson, of Newark; Edwin Pierson, of Irvington.

The winners of first prizes were as follows: Henry Hornecker, of East Orange, ten first prizes; Springfield Floral Co., of Springfield, six first prizes; William G. Muller, four first prizes; John R. Rassbach, of Bloomfield, three first prizes; Andrew Pierson, of Irvington, three first prizes; the J. J. Wilson Seed Co., two first prizes for an exhibit of vegetables and a collection of seeds and bulbs; Ralph Plebany, of Irvington, first prize for twelve bronze chrysanthemums; Fred Holdrich, first prize for white chrysanthemums; Jacob Hauck, of Bloomfield, first prize for twenty-five yellow chrysanthemums; Edward Jacobi, of Irvington, first prize for anemone chrysanthemums; Madsen & Christensen, first prize for peppers; Lehnig & Winnefeld, first prize for cyclamens; Joseph A. Manda, of South Orange, first prize for orchids; John L. Pfeiffer, of Irvington, first prize for twenty-five light pink cyclamens; Andrew Deisler & Son, first prize for palms; H. Stein, first prize for Beauties; Ernest Helms, of Irvington, first prize for pansies; Charles Maillard, first prize for retail exhibit; Charles J. Connolly, first prize for basket of roses; H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, first prize for baskets and florists' supplies; R. J. Irwin, of New York, first prize for plants. R. B. M.

BALTIMORE, MD.

Maryland Week Exhibitors.

Maryland week, the annual "educational orgy" of Marylanders to promote the natural resources of the Old Line state, which was held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, November 14 to 21, this year was an unqualified success and easily surpassed any of its predecessors in the matter of exhibits and attendance. The sponsors this year were the Maryland Agricultural Society, the Maryland State Horticultural Society, the Maryland Crop Improvement Association, the Maryland State Dairymen's Association and the Maryland State Beekeepers' Association. It is to the efforts of these bodies in bringing out exhibitors that the success of the show is attributed.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

SCHLING IN TEST CASE.

The article in The Review of November 2, "What My Business Has Taught Me," by Max Schling, which was reprinted from System, is quite a revelation. It impressed me when I read it in System and I am glad to have read it a couple of times over in the Florists' Review.

This article doubtless has given the Rotary motto, "He profits most who serves best," a deep consideration by many who have read it, and I would like to say a word for Mr. Schling's strict adherence to his policies.

I had occasion to use halftones of flowers and noticed prints of some valentine novelties prepared by Mr. Schling in The Florists' Review of last January. I wrote to Mr. Schling for photographs, or prices of similar designs for photographing. My letter was misplaced in his files some way or other, and it was after St. Valentine's day before my letter was answered. It was then too late, as my booklet was already on the press, and I wrote him that it was too late to use them. He evidently misunderstood my purpose in wanting the valentine designs, for he wrote again, asking my pardon for his lack of service in my particular case and asking, as a partial reparation, that I send him the name of the young lady who perhaps had to go without my valentine.

It happened that I had a particular lady friend in New York, who in a few days was leaving for Bermuda. So I sent Mr. Schling her address and sent her his letter, saying that he wanted to send her a few flowers without expense to me and his reason for doing so. Of course, it was a selfish motive on my part to get credit for sending my friend the flowers, as it was probable that she would not have received the valentine flowers even after they had been photographed; but I was curious to know whether she would get the flowers, and, if so, if they would be anywhere near as nice an offering as the ones he priced to me.

I was taking notes on what Mr. Schling in reality believed in his service policy. In fact, I wanted to know if others were as liberal in their service as we are in our "seed service."

I did not see the corsage Mr. Schling sent, but from the description of what it contained and the quality of stock used in making it, I judge that it would have cost me about $20, a little more than the value of the best valentine novelty illustrated in The Florists' Review.

Mr. Schling does not know me and I doubt whether he had ever heard of me. I live in Atlanta, Ga., quite a distance from New York, and looking at his side of this case it seems that he was throwing away about $20 on me or a school girl near the end of her studies in New York, this being shown by the address and the fact that I wrote him she was leaving New York for Bermuda before returning to Atlanta, or home.

That is service, gentlemen, open-hearted service, and Mr. Schling has unknowingly sold upwards of $200 worth of cut flowers as a result of this single instance of practicing his valuable idea and policy of liberal service; and more is coming to him in the future.

We have found that few customers actually write us about anything unsatisfactory. Most of them would rather not order from us in the future.

Cultivate kicks; welcome them; delight in them. They are a valuable asset to our business in pointing out our weak spots, and when we satisfy a customer, whether or not he has cause for complaint, we have nearly always made an all-time customer out of him and a friend who will make customers for us among his neighbors.

It does not matter whether we sell seeds, Mr. Schling sells flowers, or someone else sells coffins. Liberal service in all dealings cannot help but profit the server as well as the one served, and both handsomely.

I congratulate you on publishing Mr. Schling's "What My Business Has Taught Me."

TORONTO, ONT.

A recent event of special interest was the formal opening in Toronto of the new flower store of J. S. Simmons & Son. It was a splendid success from every point of view. J. S. Simmons has been one of the foremost in the cut flower trade in Toronto during the last twenty years and one of the ambitions of his life was fully realized on this occasion.

Without a shadow of doubt the new store is the result of most careful planning, and the result fully entitles the concern to lay claim, from an artistic as well as from a utilitarian standpoint, to the finest flower store in the whole of Canada. W. G. P.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa.—Special autumn offer of "Keystone Quality" florists' supplies, including baskets in a vast number of original designs, wicker stands and fern boxes, bird cages, aquarium stands, wreaths, wax designs, prepared foliage, mats, pot covers, letters and inscriptions, wheat sheaves, wire, silkaline, etc.; sixteen large, well illustrated pages, in a neat cover, on the back of which is a view of the new Rice building. Five different assortments of baskets are clearly shown in the pictures. Among the novelties are some unique "futurist" baskets and a new style of cemetery vase.

AN ITEM IN PLENTY.

Amid all the stories of scarcity of merchandise, and consequent high prices, it is pleasing to know that at least one item of Christmas stock is plentiful and lower in price. There are enough immortelles this year.

For several seasons the crop of immortelles was less than the world requirements, but this season the world, or at least the European part of it, is occupied with other things and America became the chief market for the immortelle crop of southern France. Prices there fell below the levels of recent years and American supply houses bought heavily. Large shipments have been coming to hand for three months or more, the Marseilles steamer which docked at New York November 16 adding 135 cases to the visible supply, consigned as follows:

Consignee.	Cases.
N. Y. Florists' Supply Co.	25
Russin & Hanfling	30
A. Herrmann	50
International Forwarding Co.	3
H. Bayersdorfer & Co.	20
American Express Co.	7
Total	135

The jobbers are selling immortelles at about $21 per hundred bunches, or at about 19 cents per bunch in case lots, a price considerably below that of the last two or three years.

POINSETTIAS LOSING FOLIAGE.

We have our poinsettias now in 4-inch pots, in soil mixed according to directions given in The Review. The top foliage looks fine, but the bottom leaves seem to get yellow and drop off. We keep the plants in a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees at night. Is there any fertilizer that is good for this? Is cow manure good for a top-dressing?

G. B.—Wis.

Provided your soil is suitable, the most probable cause of foliage dying in this way is careless watering, allowing the plants to get too wet or too dry. The temperature named is all right for the present, but a little later, as the bracts show, give them 60 degrees at night. I would not advise mulching with cow manure, but if the pots are well filled with roots an occasional weak application of cow manure water will be beneficial. Remember, however, that anything in the nature of an overdose of either liquid manure or top-dressing will speedily cause a heavy loss of foliage. C. W.

ROSE SHOW PLANS.

The executive committee of the American Rose Society met with leading Philadelphians at Horticultural hall November 22, thirty being present. It was decided that the spring rose show be held at the First Regiment armory, Broad and Callowhill streets, Philadelphia, March 20 to 23, 1917. Premiums for plants will total $750; for rose gardens, $1,000, and for cut roses, $2,000. The fee for admission will be 50 cents and trade tickets will be sold at $25 per hundred. The manager will be A. Farenwald; the local secretary, Fred Cowperthwaite. The chairmen of committees will be: Exhibits, George Burton; publicity, W. F. Therkildson; decorations, John P. Habermehl; special premiums, Mark P. Mills; schedule, Harry O. May; tickets, Edwin J. Fancourt. Phil.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

Charles Eble, recognized by his confreres as the dean of the profession at New Orleans, La., in discussing the momentous question of higher prices, said that he has taken the lead in this direction with some success, but that it takes time and effort to educate the public. "These William Turner mums," said Mr. Eble, "at $1 each, $10 per dozen, are slow sellers, but"—turning to a vase of Chieftain, priced at $5 per dozen—"we will sell many more of these than any of the larger ones. I believe we get as good prices as anywhere," continued Mr. Eble, "especially in the south, where large quantities are grown outdoors." A visit to other stores confirmed this opinion—and, by the way, the fine blooms referred to in the handsome Eble store were from the Golden Gate.

Hugh Seales, of Birmingham, Ala., says the disastrous rains earlier in the season flooded his houses, causing blight and mildew, which he has been fighting ever since. "But," said Mr. Seales, "we never had a better season for business and every label we put on a package stands for our 'seal of quality'—to this we attribute our success."

"He who loves a garden loves a greenhouse, too," quoted W. C. Cook, familiarly known as the "doctor," a title bestowed upon him by the college students here. "Ever since I came to Montgomery, Ala., and associated myself with the Rosemont Gardens, I cannot disassociate myself from the greenhouse." Under the guidance of Will Patterson, one of the four big brothers who are steadily enlarging the prosperous business begun by the father, a tour of the two plants of the Rosemont Gardens was made. Chrysanthemums galore in all styles are there, from spray form to specimens. The most striking is Totty's Cap family, which are good for pot purposes. The carnations look most promising. The varieties are the Enchantress family, Alice, Champion and Belle Washburn. I noted Radiance and Frau Karl Druschki, both doing splendidly outdoors. The usual stock grown for retail trade looks well. "We shall pull down the old range and rebuild on the new place, where we have ample room for expansion," said Mr. Patterson.

Schmaus Bros., John Van Aart and G. R. Noble, of Paducah, Ky., report excellent sales, with All Saints' day business fully up to the usual demand.

Harold Ladue, head of the shipping department at Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y., has joined the ranks of the benedicts, theorizing that sometimes two can work out life's problems better than one. The happy couple have the best wishes of their many friends in the trade. W. M.

URBANA, ILL.

University Flower Show.

The fifth annual chrysanthemum show of the floricultural division of the University of Illinois was visited by over 6,200 people. The show began November 12 and extended through November 18. Sunday alone, between the hours of 1 and 5 p. m., over 3,500 people viewed the display of 364 varieties of chrysanthemums. Of these 225 are seedlings of pompons, singles and anemones and are the result of student class work. The potted plants of the smaller varieties filled a house 35x105 feet. The large-flowering varieties were in the bench and were viewed from a raised walk along the entire length of the house. The entire range of greenhouses was open to the public.

Various Notes.

M. Bebb, E. A. Bebb, W. K. Palmer, G. C. Klehm and C. Jez, all graduates in floriculture, were home-coming visitors.

SAGINAW, MICH.

The Market.

The weather has been crisp and the temperature down to 12 and 14 above zero nearly every night during the last two weeks, with the days dark and cloudy. This means that there has been a consumption of coal all of the twenty-four hours. The coal situation, which looks as though it might be a serious one this winter, as yet has not affected any of our Saginaw or Bay City growers. All one can get from the mines are quotations on coal—which be none left after Thanksgiving, ex-former winters—but no coal. Those who laid in their supply early did the wise thing.

November has given us a good taste of winter business, parties, weddings and other social affairs having done their part, and all the florists have been busy. Funeral work at times has made everyone more than busy. The main supply in cut flowers, of course, consists of mums, which are in demand far in excess of that for other flowers. It seems as though there will be none left after Thanksgiving, except a few culls. Pompons have done better this year than ever before; there will be few left for Turkey day.

Roses are about equal to the demand and the quality is much better than last year at this time. Carnations are not so abundant as might be expected, but fully sufficient to meet the demand, which is just as well, since we are in the middle of the heavy mum cut.

Society Meeting.

The Saginaw-Bay City Floricultural Society meeting and mum show, which was largely attended, was held in the greenhouses of Charles Frueh & Sons. Of course, the chrysanthemums were the big attraction for the evening. Pompons of every possible color and type were shown, and the large ones, or rather mammoth ones, were as large as those at any mum show. Individual flowers were shown that measured twenty-five and one-half inches in circumference, and a vase of twelve flowers measured 274 inches.

The judges had rather a difficult time deciding to whom the honors belonged. Finally they fell to Charles Frueh & Sons, for the large mums, and first on pompons to Boehringer Bros., of Bay City. The judges, John Irvine and F. H. Stevens, said it was a rather even toss-up all the way through.

At the business meeting it was decided that the society pay as premiums out of the treasury fund the sum of $5 in two prizes, $3 for first and $2 for second, to go to the growers of the stock. William Robertson, grower for Chas. Frueh & Sons, was about ready to "bust" when he heard the report from the judges, but he finally calmed down and gave us his paper on mums, which was most interesting and instructive and brought out many points. Second money fell to the William Roethke Floral Co., grower.

Next month there will be a showing of roses and some fine stock is expected. There will be an exhibition each month of cut flowers or plants in co nection with the monthly meetings. The exhibitors were Charles Frueh & Sons, Roethke Floral Co., Grohman, the Florist; J. B. Goetz Sons, Saginaw; Boehringer Bros., John Marsh, Bay City; C. A. Hawley, Vassar; David Kleinhans, St. Louis.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

Last week was the coldest of the year thus far and stock in a few small houses not properly prepared for the sudden drop was slightly injured by frost. There now are absolutely no outdoor flowers left. As is usually the case, business picked up with the colder weather that arrived last week. Everyone seems to be having about all he can attend to and there is little waste stock of any kind. Chrysanthemums, of course, continue to hold the center of the stage, but they are by no means the "whole thing" this fall, as in some seasons. While chrysanthemums have lost none of their popularity, they are dividing favors pretty evenly with the roses. On the whole this is a good thing, as it is never the best thing for business to have the demand centered on one kind of flowers.

Chrysanthemums this year have the finish of any season's best stock, but they are not so large as those of the last two or three years. This does not harm their sale, however; in fact, some growers are of the opinion that there is more profit in a medium-sized flower, if the quality is there, than in an extra large one, for this market. The people here do not like to pay more than $4 per dozen for mums, at least not for many of them.

Carnations are making a great record this fall. I have never seen the quality so uniformly high this early in the season. There is a good demand for all that can be spared for shipping to other cities.

Again I feel constrained to speak of Rose Baby Doll. If it does as well elsewhere as it does here, it certainly will become a popular rose. It seems to produce sheets of bloom.

Various Notes.

One of the last pieces of business attended to by the late T. C. Joy was the superintending of the construction of a greenhouse at Clarksville, Tenn., which is to be used as a branch of the home range. Harold Joy has entered on his duties as general manager of the Joy greenhouses. The company is making heavy shipments of flowers nearly every day to all parts of the south.

The first azaleas of the season arrived at Nashville last week.

Leslie Littel reports that he is rapidly picking up the business formerly carried on by the Hillcrest School Farm. He says sales were heavier last week than those of any other week since he started business two years ago.

Frank Cornell is devoting a great deal of the space in his houses to keeping plants for people during the winter.

J. F. Corbett is making regular shipments of cut flowers to St. Louis this fall.

Daniel McIntyre seems to be holding his own pretty well and is cheerful in his affliction. At the store they are showing fine pot mums, as well as plenty of good cut stock.

Haury & Sons are beginning to offer their usual large quantity of pot mums. They make a specialty of pot plants both fall and spring.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

The weather last week took a decided turn and the mercury dropped to 10 degrees above zero. This benefited business considerably by shortening up the supply of stock. Chrysanthemums now dominate the market, and the supply is better by far than at any time during the present season. Prices are holding up well, the smallest sizes bringing $3 per dozen and the medium and large sizes $4, $5 and $6. The best varieties are Turner, Chieftain, Wells' Late Pink, Golden Wedding, Chadwick, Bonnaffon, Eaton and Roman Gold. Pompons also are in excellent supply and in numerous varieties.

Roses are of better quality, Russell, Ophelia, Shawyer and Sunburst being the leaders. American Beauties are coming into the market in fine condition and prices are good. Carnations are in good supply and the prices satisfactory. Orchids from local greenhouses are in good supply. Valley is scarce and brings $6 per hundred. Sweet peas also are scarce. There are some fine long-spiked antirrhinums on the market. The supply of narcissi is increasing. Easter lilies, rubrums and callas are in good demand for funeral work. Violets are becoming a factor in the market. Cyclamen and chrysanthemum plants are of excellent quality and fine variety. Greens are not plentiful.

Fort Wayne's First Flower Show.

The first flower show to be given in this city was opened November 16 under the auspices of the Fort Wayne Florists' Club, in the ballroom of the Anthony hotel. The results were gratifying to all the florists and especially to A. J. Lanternier, chairman of the show, and to Miss Marguerite Flick, secretary of the club.

The ballroom was a mass of flowers, and the florists, in many ways, had to crowd their exhibits to fit the allotted space. There were displays by the Flick Floral Co., W. J. & M. S. Vesey, A. J. Lanternier & Co., the Doswell Floral Co., F. J. Knecht & Co., Markey Bros., Edgar Wenninghoff and the New Haven Floral Co. Chrysanthemums were the predominating flowers in the show, although there were meritorious exhibits of roses. W. J. & M. S. Vesey displayed cattleyas, oncidiums, vandas and cypripediums. The Flick Floral Co. had a bride's party, with bouquets of colonial style, and handsome table decorations. Markey Bros. had William Turner mums with other stock and the Doswell Floral Co. exhibited Ophelia and Shawyer roses, as well as a variety in chrysanthemums.

Various Notes.

Miss Clara B. Flick, of the Patten Flower Shop, Toledo, O., is spending several days here visiting Mrs. Richard Blossom, of the Flick Floral Co. Miss Flick reports business at Toledo unusually brisk.

Park Superintendent Carl J. Getz returned last week from a visit to nurseries at Tippecanoe, Springfield, East Cleveland and Painesville, O., where he purchased 2,000 plants for the city parks, besides, 1,400 large-leaved trees.

A. M. Anderson, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, called on the trade last week. R. F.

BUFFALO.

The Market.

Last week could not be recorded as one of the really busy weeks. There was plenty of all kinds of stock, but little demand. Now, however, with the fall of snow giving the genuine aspect of winter, it is thought that business will improve. Moreover, if the cold weather continues, the supply will not be quite so heavy.

American Beauties are in good demand and the quality is quite satisfactory. Other roses which lingered somewhat last week are now moving nicely. Mums continue to arrive in just as good quality, if not better in some instances, but the quantity has fallen off. Pompons are far more plentiful than mums and the variety is larger. Valley and orchids are few and hard to obtain. The supply of lilies is slowly increasing. Violets, both single and double, move nicely. The supply of sweet peas is as yet small and the demand weak. Miscellaneous stock is rather erratic as to supply; it is plentiful one day and scarce the next. Greens are sufficient for needs.

Various Notes.

The Wm. F. Kasting Co. held the formal opening of its wholesale house at 570 Washington street Thursday evening, November 16. Much credit is due to the staff of the company and it is evident that persistency combined with patience will finally obtain what is sought. As the guests arrived the reception committee, which consisted of Wallace Eiss and Emil Brucker, escorted them through the entire establishment, from the refrigerator on the main floor, a cooling system, to the second floor, where everything is arranged in a most systematic way. From there the guests were taken to the third floor, where everyone was entertained during every moment of the time spent there. There was not a dull moment during the entire evening. An orchestra of eighteen pieces furnished music for dancing and rendered some beautiful selections between dances. American flags and wild smilax adorned the walls, while palms and Boston ferns added much to the decorations. The table decorations consisted of baskets of Killarney roses and yellow pompons.

Mrs. G. L. Graham and son, of Bradford, were in Buffalo last week. They attended the municipal flower show. Business with them has been quite satisfactory, but there still are many chances for improvement.

David Scott, of Corfu, now is completing the erection of a new house 36x126, which will be devoted entirely to the sweet pea. This flower has been a wonderful success with him within the last few years.

While coming in on his regular trip Monday morning, November 13, Herman Ehmann had some thrilling and exciting experiences. Because of the dense fog, it was not easy to discern anything ahead, and while driving at a regular speed, with an icy pavement, he suddenly approached two wagons. Intending to stop, he quickly applied the brakes, but before stopping his car turned entirely around—but did not tip over. However, it was a close call.

Galley Bros., of Gardenville, are daily shipping in large consignments of Major Bonnaffon mums. These sell readily at a good figure.

All indications now are that there will be plenty of stock for Thanksgiving. Let us hope so, because it looks as if business will be good.

Mr. and Mrs. White, of Medina, N. Y., were in Buffalo last week. P. M. Phillips, with S. A. Weller, of Boston, Mass., also was here.

The municipal flower show held in the Elmwood music hall was well attended, especially Sunday. The attendance each day ran high up into the thousands. Many out-of-town florists attended. A. E.

HOLYOKE, MASS.

The regular meeting of the Holyoke and Northampton Florists' and Gardeners' Club was held jointly with that of the M. A. C. Florists' and Gardeners' Club, at Amherst, November 13. With the M. A. C. flower show as an extra attraction, members turned out in good number and, as usual, the occasion was one of profit and pleasure.

It was felt that a closer spirit of cooperation between the two clubs would tend to mutual advantage, and to this end an open invitation was extended to the members of each club to attend the meetings of the other. A pleasing feature was the presentation by President Butler, on behalf of the club, of a cut glass bowl to Prof. A. H. Nehrling, in honor of the Professor's recent marriage.

G. H. Sinclair, D. J. Gallivan and R. S. Cary, judges of the students' work at the show, were called upon to explain the why and wherefore of their awards. They acquitted themselves nobly. After a social half-hour the members dispersed with the feeling that it was an evening well spent.

CINCINNATI.

The Market.

Business as yet is not what it should be, but toward the close of last week it improved considerably. The market is well supplied with all seasonable lines and prices are rather low. Many heavy orders are coming in for Thanksgiving.

Roses continue plentiful and generally are of a high quality. Carnation receipts are larger than necessary to supply the present demands. Chrysanthemums are crowding and all sizes are available. Easter lilies, too, are plentiful. Orchids, valley and sweet peas meet with a fair demand. Calla lilies and Paper White narcissi are offered. Mexican ivy now is in the market and up to this time has sold well.

Various Notes.

J. A. Peterson & Sons have a fine lot of Glory of Cincinnati, Melior and Mrs. J. A. Peterson begonias for Thanksgiving trade.

C. E. Critchell has been finding a good market for Mexican ivy.

The E. G. Hill Floral Co. store, with its tasteful decorations last week, looked almost as well as it did the week of its fall chrysanthemum show.

Among recent visitors were Martin Reukauf, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; William Cook, of Montgomery, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Beckman, of Middletown, O.; Karl Heiser, of Hamilton, O. C. H. H.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

Business conditions were more satisfactory last week. There was plenty of stock of all kinds, but the demand was good and cleaned up everything, although prices on any of the inferior stock were too low.

There seems to be a much better demand for violets than last year, but the quantity of blooms coming in is much smaller than that of any other year. It was thought early in the month that there would be a scarcity of chrysanthemums at Thanksgiving, but all indications now are that there will be plenty of them. Pompons, carnations and roses, however, may be scarce, as the continued bright weather has brought in much of the stock intended for next week.

The wholesale houses have been busy; the quantity of flowers coming in has kept them on the jump to find outlets for the stock. At this season of the year there is greater competition with the unattached growers, who produce mums and do not seem to know the proper values, or else are compelled to sell cheaply to dispose of their stock.

The John Bader Co. last week received a shipment of Belgian stock, including palms, which was caught in the cold snap. The plants were ordered shipped in a refrigerator car, but the railroad packed them in a common box car, and as a result the consignment is a total loss. Clarke.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

The glut of last week was checked by weather unusually cold for this time of the year. The cold wave both improved and retarded stock; thus the present prospects for a good Thanksgiving are brighter than those of two weeks ago. Indications are that chrysanthemums and roses will bring top-notch prices and that carnations of fine quality will be abundant.

Business the early part of the week was active, which was attributed to several prominent funerals. Social functions were numerous, but weddings were few and affected the sale of valley and orchids. Business dropped back to normal the latter part of the week and Saturday, which is always the biggest day, was just fair.

Various Notes.

B. F. Hensley, of the Hensley Flower Shop, has purchased a new auto truck to run between his Knightstown greenhouses and the Indianapolis store.

Allen Humason, of Chicago, was a visitor this week.

The death of T. C. Joy, of Nashville, was keenly felt by his numerous friends here.

E. J. Boydell, of the Duroc Paper Products Co., Chicago, was a recent visitor.

The lack of an embargo on foodstuffs is affecting the florist as well as the merchant. Necessities are so high that the middle and poorer classes buy flowers only in case of death, and then usually the cheaper casket sprays.

The Circle Flower Store will hold its opening December 2.

Herman Young, of the Smith & Young Co., is at a loss to know why an elaborate bride's arrangement, including attendant and vase bouquets of Russell and Ophelia roses, was sent to him, as he has not been celebrating any anniversary, planning a divorce or contemplating giving his daughter away.

The W. C. T. U. last week held a large banquet in the Riley room of the Claypool hotel, at which there was an attendance of over 600. The decorations were carried out in yellow and white—Bonnaffon, Golden Mensa and Diana mums and white tulle. E. E. Temperley was highly complimented on his arrangement by his patrons.

John G. Chisholm, of Cincinnati, and C. F. Meyer, of New York, were in the city this week.

Homer L. Wiegand is building a new residence near Riverside park, so that he can be close to the golf links!

Baur & Steinkamp have been grading for the erection of a new greenhouse in early spring.

The store of the E. G. Hill Co. had an auspicious opening November 16 and 17. There were soft lights, music, pedestal lamps of old rose, frieze of heliotrope silk, Japanese lanterns and, most important of all, exquisite blooms. Hawaiian music and miniature fountains completed the setting. Besides numerous chrysanthemum seedlings, both their own and those of other florists, eighteen seedling roses of the E. G. Hill Co. were exhibited. Standard types also were abundant. An unusual display of orchids, including a wonderful collection of Vanda cærulea, and an elaborate basket of red bouvardias, were other features.

The committees for the carnation show are as follows: Entertainment, O. E. Steinkamp, Joseph H. Hill, Irwin Bertermann, George Wiegand; reception, John Bertermann, Herman Young, Henry W. Rieman, George Gauss, John Hartje; decorating, Homer L. Wiegand, Harry Pahud, C. Schoymeyer, E. E. Temperley; membership, W. W. Coles, Fred Heinl, Fred Dorner, J. A. G. Haugh, E. G. Hill; table, F. H. Lemon, Charles Pahud, C. C. Thomas, C. H. Bookedis, John Rieman. The information committee consists of officers of the Indiana State Florists' Association.

E. E. T.

Cleveland, O.—L. F. Darnell, formerly of the J. M. Gasser Co., accompanied by Mrs. Darnell, started last week for southern California, where they will spend the winter.

Florists, who invariably are good fellows, frequently buy space to "support the trade press," but those who merely sell to florists are prompted by no sense of loyalty or obligation—it is a matter of cold-blooded business with them. That is why The Review carries so large a volume of allied-trades advertising that appears in no other paper.

Gentlemen:--

Enclosed find copy for increased space---our fall campaign.

The "Review" certainly is profitable to us. We get as many orders from small space with you as we did from big space in other papers. Orders received in the last two weeks through the "Review" pay for increased space for some weeks to come.

And large space is especially gratifying at this time, when every florist is prepairing to safeguard his greenhouses by buying a few clamps for emergency.

Any time we can say a good word for you let us know.

Very truly yours,

OBITUARY.

Thomas M. Fitzgerald.

Thomas M. Fitzgerald, of Beaver, Pa., prominently known throughout western Pennsylvania, died at his home November 13, after an illness of less than an hour of acute indigestion.

Mr. Fitzgerald was a native of Pittsburgh, having been born there February 27, 1868, a son of Thomas and Mary Fitzgerald. His father was a private gardener and served on many of the large estates at Pittsburgh. With $100 as capital, young Fitzgerald started a florists' business at Beaver. The enterprise grew steadily until now it makes use of twelve houses and a retail establishment.

The deceased, who was considered one of the most prosperous business men in the Beaver valley, was a member of the S. A. F. and the Pittsburgh Florists' Club. He was a quiet, unassuming man, whom one had to know intimately to fully appreciate. He is survived by his wife, six children, Katherine, John, Joseph, Helen, Agnes and Anna; his father, who made his home with the deceased; three brothers, James, of Pittsburgh, and John and Edward, of Erie, Pa.

Alger, O.—H. O. Arnett has started a greenhouse business here.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

AGAIN this season it has been demonstrated that there is no chrysanthemum the people like better than old Major Bonnaffon.

IT is the intention of The Review to answer promptly all letters that bear the full name and address of the sender, but no effort is made to reply to or investigate anonymous inquiries.

PUBLISHERS have been hard hit by the rise in printing paper, but retail florists have had to stand a greater increase in the price of tissue, used almost every time the cash register rings. Tissue paper that jobbers formerly sold for around $5 per bundle recently has sold for $15 and hereafter will be $17 per bundle.

THE excellent portrait of John Cook, of Baltimore, which appeared in The Review for November 16, was from a photograph by Fred Lautenschlager, 444 West Erie street, Chicago. Mr. Lautenschlager offers to loan the film to any florists' club which would like to make an enlargement for the decoration of the club room.

REPORTS indicate that there have been numerous losses on the azalea imports again this season. While some shipments are said to have arrived in perfect condition, others have opened in such shape that the value for this season is problematical. It is understood that this season there is no insurance for the shippers, guaranteeing against losses of this character.

SOME PUFFS FOR US.

The sum of money received for subscriptions is so small compared to that received for advertisements that many publishers make the mistake of making every item a puff for an advertiser. Such papers have difficulty in holding circulation; they must employ canvassers, give premiums and resort to other devices to keep going, and they get no letters like this:

I enclose check to pay for The Review for the next thee years, to November, 1919. The paper keeps improving every year and has my best wishes for a successful future.—Wm. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass., November 8, 1916.

And the advertiser's interests are best served, not by lauding him and his goods in extravagant language, which nearly everyone recognizes for what it is, an effort to curry favor, but by printing a paper the people not only pay for but READ. Then results are like this:

You may discontinue our ad for the present, as we are completely sold out. We certainly have had good success with The Review this year.—Evenden Bros., Williamsport, Pa., November 11, 1916.

When you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty sure he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

THE MUM SEASON.

The chrysanthemum season has been one of unusual conditions in nearly all parts of the country this year, conditions which may not occur again for a long time, although it is probable that the increased plantings will continue.

The quantity of mums grown was larger than ever, the increase being particularly great in pompons and singles. The weather conditions were such that the early varieties were one, two or even three weeks later than usual in reaching the market, the mid-season varieties being right on their heels. The result was a scarcity early in the season, and unusually good prices at wholesale, followed by what was for many growers the most severe glut ever known, with an excellent retail demand the only thing that prevented utter demoralization of prices, with values so low that it is doubtful if the flowers paid more than the cost of production to growers shipping to wholesale markets. Those who retail their stock fared somewhat better.

With the middle of November the pressure relaxed, with the result that values have become more stable and there is excellent prospect for the success of the late varieties, the Thanksgiving supply being less than usual.

STANDARDIZATION HELPS.

One of the reasons why a grower today can build a greenhouse at a cost, compared with two years ago, that is much less than the average advance in the price of the materials is that the builders have standardized their output. A standardized article always can be had at a price less than the cost of a special article.

Until quite recently every greenhouse was a special proposition, individual from the first rough sketch to the last hammer-stroke. Today it is different. It has been discovered that there is no good reason why Smith should put up a house six inches wider than Jones, and Jones four inches less than Johnson. Nothing whatever is gained by such slight differences, but they make an important difference in the cost, as each must be milled specially. The result has been that manufacturers have adopted standard widths for their various styles of constructions; they are the best widths, for certain definite reasons. For such houses the plans, the erection details, even the shipping lists, are all ready and the material is run in quantity; all that is necessary on receipt of an order is to count off enough parts for a given number of lineal feet of house. It makes a great saving. As these economies have been worked out during the time that commodity prices have been rising, they have enabled the material manufacturers to get along with smaller increases in their own prices.

CHICAGO.

"Watch Your Step."

The Review has received several reports that a man is calling on the trade, asking for subscriptions to this paper and offering a cheap imitation-leather pocketbook as a gift to those who will subscribe. As it is the easiest thing imaginable to get florists to subscribe to The Review, the field would be a fertile one except that the trade knows The Review never has found it necessary to give pocketbooks, knives or any other kind of premiums to get people to buy the paper and anyone making such an offer can be set down as a swindler.

Representatives of The Review are well known in the trade. Don't pay money to strangers for this paper's account.

The Market.

The cooler weather which prevailed last week had the desired effect of cutting down stock and relieving the glutted condition of the market. The end of the week, in fact, brought better conditions than had obtained for some time. Shorter supply and better prices were generally reported. Although there was fair business November 20, the market nevertheless again manifested a tendency toward easier prices, but the wholesale houses in general look for a steady strengthening from now to Christmas.

All varieties of roses are clearing fairly well, the shorter stems moving best. The supply is considerably less than it has been for some time and good prices are generally obtaining. American Beauties are on the scarce side, due largely to the fact that most growers pinched their plants for a Christmas crop and therefore are not cutting much at present. The stock reaching the market is clearing well, however, fair prices being obtained. Carnations are about the deadest item on the market. The supply is large, while there is little demand, although the quality of the stock is excellent. From some quarters reports are beginning to come, however, of improved demand and better prices.

Good and fancy mums are clearing well at good prices. Inferior quality stock is, on the other hand, difficult to move at even strong concessions. Pompons are moving finely and getting good prices. Present indications are that there will be a scarcity for Thanksgiving, as the warm weather during the first two weeks of November hurried them into crop.

ORDER ENOUGH

WE urge our customers and the trade generally to order an abundant supply of cut flowers for the Thanksgiving business. Anyone who is short of good stock of any kind can get what he needs by ordering of us.

POMPONS

Enormous quantities can be sold for the Thanksgiving tables. We can supply them in all colors.

BIG MUMS

We believe we have the largest supply in the country this Thanksgiving—and of the finest quality.

CARNATIONS

A very large supply and excellent quality. You will wish you had ordered more.

ROSES

If your trade calls for the best in Roses, try our long-stemmed Russells—nothing except Beauties can compare with them. Our crops of Killarney Brilliant, Ward, Milady and Sunburst also are specially large and fine.

DOUBLE—VIOLETS—SINGLE

If you are not satisfied with the quality of the Violets you are using, try ours. You will say you never used better stock. Our supply is very large.

EASTER LILIES AND VALLEY

We never are without good Giganteum Lilies, or fancy Valley. You can count on our ability to fill your orders.

FOR THANKSGIVING

When placing your Carnation orders for Thanksgiving there are two things you should consider: The quality of the stock and the service. We have a large supply of Carnations in all the leading varieties. The character of our stock, combined with Randall service, guarantees you satisfaction.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS - POMPONS

Both the choice and popular-priced stock. We are prepared to furnish you in quantity.

VIOLETS - VALLEY

Good supply for Thanksgiving.

RUSSELL — ROSES — OPHELIA

All leading varieties of Roses in lengths up to 36 inches. Our stock and facilities enable us to handle your orders promptly and satisfactorily.

WABASH AVENUE AT LAKE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.

Valley continues scarce, and is clearing well at good prices. Easter lilies are in good supply, but are moving slowly. Rubrum lilies are coming in slowly and are clearing at fair prices. Cattleyas are as scarce as usual and are bringing good prices. Paper Whites are of exceptional quality and are clearing well. The supply, however, is limited. Calendulas are in good supply and are moving fairly well. The fact that there have been and are so many yellow flowers on the market is proving a drawback to the sale of these flowers.

Violets have enjoyed a return to popularity which some retailers attribute to the opening of the opera season. As the supply is smaller than it was, prices are advancing.

Thanksgiving is not one of the holidays that brings a heavy run of orders far in advance, but these have begun to accumulate in the last few days and the trade seems to be unanimous in the belief that the Thanksgiving business this year will break all records.

Amling's Will Move.

The most important news of the week is that the E. C. Amling Co. has consummated a ten years' lease on the first floor and basement of the Durand building, at 169 to 175 North Wabash avenue, corner of Benton place, directly across the street from its present quarters, and will remove to the new location as soon as certain alterations and improvements can be completed by the owner, which is expected to be early in 1917. The lease runs from January 1.

The building is 60x120, the street floor having a 20-foot ceiling and a balcony 60x60 across the rear half, so that this floor affords over 10,000 square feet of available space, or about two and one-half times as much as the company has in its present quarters. In addition the usable basement space is 80x110, or nearly 9,000 square feet. Being on the corner, the light is good and Benton place affords an excellent parking space for customers' automobiles out of the way of the heavy traffic in Wabash avenue.

"The reason for the move," said E. C. Amling, president of the company, "is that in the last year the volume of our business increased over $150,000, or about forty per cent. The facilities which were more than adequate for the business being done at the time of removal to the present location still are equal to the needs of the business being done today, but not for another increase like that of the last year. We merely are following our policy of maintaining facilities that will permit a steady growth in the business.''

The Amling move is of unusual interest in the market because it will have the effect of making way for further improvements. The present Amling store probably will be sublet, for it is under lease to May 1, 1920, and with a large wholesale house on the street floor of the Durand block, the second floor of that building also will become attractive for wholesale cut flower purposes, so that the rentable space in the market district will be increased. The two buildings at the northeast corner of Wabash avenue and Randolph street, up to the Kennicott quarters, are to be demolished and replaced by modern buildings as soon as present leases expire.

on the floral art exhibit held at Hotel La Salle November 12. The punch bowl won by Andrew Benson was finally awarded.

The most important business of the evening was the nomination of officers for the coming year. The following candidates were named: For president, F. Lautenschlager, W. H. Amling; vice-president, Paul Klingsporn, Emil Reichling; secretary, A. Zech, G. W. French; treasurer, O. H. Amling, N. P. Miller, M. Barker, E. Murette; for trustee, W. J. Keimel, Aug. Jurgens.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, December 7, at which time the election will take place.

[The Review has received from Mr. Lautenschlager a letter eulogizing W. H. Amling and affirming Mr. Lautenschlager's decision to decline to be a candidate, so that Mr. Amling's election to the presidency may be unanimous.—Ed.]

Various Notes.

In inviting friends to Union Grove, Guy French offers assurances that French & Salm can show "Mrs. Russell with as many buds as you ever saw on Killarney," which surely is a sight worth looking at.

Peter Reinberg returned November 18 from a two weeks' hunting trip in southern Illinois.

Always thinking up a novel idea, George Wienhoeber last week had his windows full of the E. G. Hill big mums displayed in the original large corrugated board shipping cases in which they came to the wholesale house. The idea perhaps grew out of the fact that in the last few weeks his purchases for Friday and Saturday have been so heavy it was difficult to find space to unpack the mums and put them in water.

That the patented electric fountain for window or table has been the most successful novelty ever handled by the A. L. Randall Co. is merely to quote Manager F. M. Johnson. The Randall fountain factory in the basement of the Lemoyne building, fitted up with special machines and tools obtained in quick time by buying out a New York fountain factory, has a capacity of fifteen fountains a day, which is being steadily increased, as it is barely sufficient to meet the demand.

That removal from Michigan avenue to the Lemoyne building was a wise move for the Chicago Flower Growers' Association is shown by Manager Klingsporn's statement that sales have shown an increase every month as compared with the last record for that month in the old location, some months as much increase as $13,000.

Wearying of the every-day use of a 6-cylinder car weighing 3,800 pounds, C. L. Washburn bought a 1,100-pound machine, with which he and Mrs. Washburn have been having much pleasure since it was delivered about three weeks ago. All the trimmings in the accessories catalogue were added to it and Mr. Washburn calls it a flivver dressed up in Sunday clothes.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. received four carloads of azaleas from Ghent, Belgium, November 15. The stock arrived in excellent condition.

The changes incident to the enlargement of the J. A. Budlong store have been completed and the establishment is a model for arrangement. Occupying a width of two stores, the room is more nearly square than are most stores, with the result that many steps are saved. The iceboxes and shipping department are across the rear, with dressing-room and box storage above. The office is in one corner at the front. There are three entrances. But the best feature is the splendid light, as, being located on the corner, all of two sides are plate glass.

Although he calls it lucky, A. T. Pyfer congratulates himself that the sheds of Pyfer & Olsem are as full of coal as they will hold. It was a case of forethought that has banished worry, saved a goodly sum and placed them in a position where they even have been able to turn over a car to a less provident neighbor.

The Market.

Last week the wholesale cut flower market was stagnant until November 17, but the closing days of the week furnished the first evidences of the long-looked-for revival of business. With colder weather—frosts that have killed all outdoor flowers—and society's return to activity, there must come and remain a decided change for the better, especially in the retail department of the business.

The shipments of mums are already lighter and better wholesale values are assured for Thanksgiving. The quality is magnificent. All the old varieties of value have been retained and many unnamed novelties are seen. The best price November 18 was $3 per dozen, with one or two exceptions, when $4 and even $5 were secured for novelties. Of the above grade the supply was light; $10 per hundred was the favorite quotation. Many thousands of mums sold at $1 per dozen, and down to 75 cents—flowers that commanded double this figure in other years.

Carnations advance slowly. There is no reason for this except the mum flood. The quality of the carnations now arriving is excellent and it must be to realize even $2 per hundred. November 18 fine Enchantress blooms sold at $1.50, and some even as low as $1 per hundred.

Longiflorum lilies still are in excess of the demand. Thousands remained unsold, the maximum price asked being $4 per hundred. Valley was higher-priced than lilies, $6 per hundred for the select and not enough to go around. Orchids, the hybrids, Trianæ and labiata, are scarce and the tendency of prices is upward. The best flowers were held at 60 and 75 cents each and there were none offered under $4 per dozen. There are few gardenias.

Roses are advancing. Shipments were lighter at the week end and prices for Nos. 1 and 2 grades were firm. Nothing sold under $1 per hundred. American Beauties touched 30 cents November 18 and Hadley 25 cents. All new varieties and the specialties, especially, now are in wide demand by the prominent retailers, the banquet season having already begun. About ten varieties of hybrids are appealing for steady recognition, with Russell, Ophelia, Mock, Francis Scott Key and Prima Donna meeting with growing favor.

Violets at last have strengthened in value and improved in quality. Football games claim the lion's share on special days. More are worn on the streets than usual; they seem to be regaining their old-time popularity. Thanksgiving day they will sell at $1.50 per hundred, the specialists say. Sweet peas are improving in favor and quality. Bouvardias, pansies, narcissi and stevias are among the remaining sundries. The demand for autumn foliage was never so universal as now. All the supply houses furnish it in immense quantities. Wild smilax, too, is called for from many cities for decorative work. Large shipments are made daily.

Various Notes.

The Wholesale Florists' Protective Association had a celebration in the form of a banquet, at Hotel Breslin, November 18. All the notables were there and much harmony was engendered. It is said that a grand reunion, to include all branches of the florists' business, is contemplated—an affair calculated to bring together the wholesale and retail cut flower contingents.

J. K. Allen is disposing of a large number of mum plants from the establishment of Charles Hunt, of Staten island. His Russell roses are worthy of special mention.

George T. Schuneman, of Rockville Center, L. I., is known in the east as the "Sweet Pea King." He has been shipping fine flowers of many varieties to Joseph S. Fenrich and William Ford for four weeks and expects to continue shipments until April. He has four large greenhouses devoted to sweet peas and his present shipments amount to 12,000 daily. His exhibit at the recent meeting of the New York Florists' Club was greatly admired.

Paul Berkowitz, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, was in the city November 13 and attended the ladies' night of the Florists' Club.

A. S. Burns, of Spring Valley, is repeating last season's success with Hadley. They hold their place close to Beauties in the wholesale market.

So successful was the ladies' night celebration of the Florists' Club that three similar functions yearly are advocated by some of its members as a worthy way of spending the interest on its capital.

Among visiting notables were Patrick Welch, of Boston, and Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich.

Several thousands of azaleas were sold at auction this week by the MacNiff Horticultural Co. Bidding was spirited and prices satisfactory. Many of the leading plant growers around New York were in attendance.

Frank Millang and Bonnot Bros., on the upper floor of the Coogan building, make a specialty of out-of-town shipments and say a great improvement in such demand has begun. The outlying cities and towns have made no mention of hard times since October ended.

November 18 and attended the banquet of the Wholesalers' Protective Association that evening.

Business is growing so rapidly with the New York Florists' Supply Co. it is crowded for room and could use advantageously double the space in the big new building. J. A. Shaw.

To the Florist—

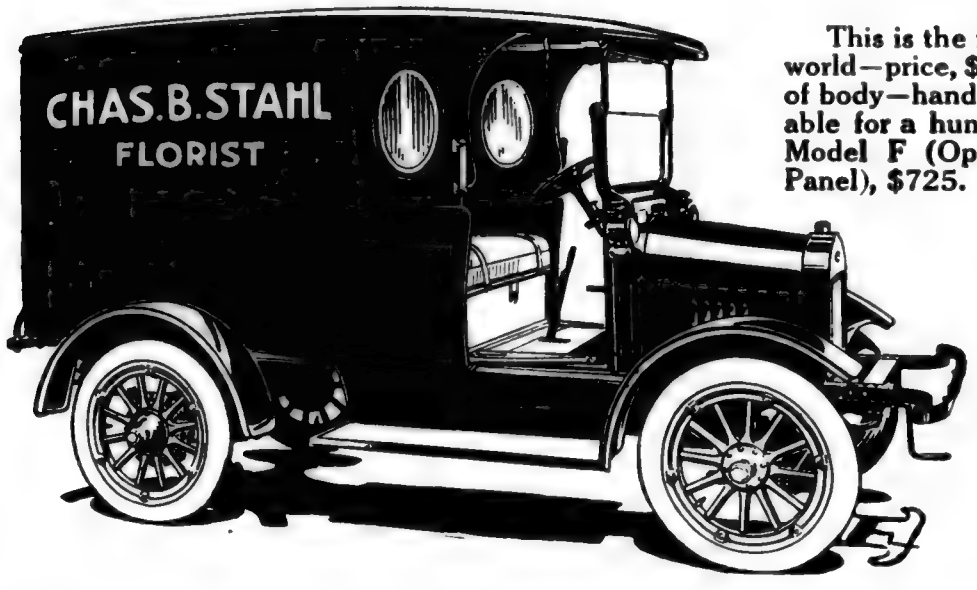
—what would it mean to you to cut your delivery costs?

FLORISTS, more than perhaps any other merchants, find that delivery cost is one of the hardest of all elements in their business to regulate.

Most merchants can establish routes, depend on a certain amount of business every day on each route, and get some delivery figures that they can rely on.

But three-quarters of the florist's business demands an emergency delivery—at a cost out of all proportion to the value of the business,

Limit your delivery costs. There is a way to do it—and that way, as several hundreds of alert florists will tell you, is to use the husky reliable VIM Delivery Car.



Motor truck delivery is not new to the florist trade. A good many florists have adopted converted pleasure cars, for instance—and then find that their delivery cost doesn't drop as they know it should.

For efficient, economical delivery service you must have a car designed for that service—a car that will haul half a ton of potted plants as readily as a dozen cases of cut flowers.

You need a car that will be on the job every day and all day—a car that will keep out of the repair shop—a car that will make a rush delivery without eating up all the profit by excessive gasoline consumption.

A car, moreover, with class and style—one that will be a rolling advertisement for your business.

You need the VIM Delivery Car—the only car designed specially for delivery service with a full knowledge of the needs of that service. Capacity, one half ton and remarkably economical in gasoline and tires.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

A turn for the better has come in the cut flower market—not so much an advance in prices as a better average price, with supply and demand more evenly balanced. It was pleasant to see that violets figured as the leading flowers in the improvement. The cool, bracing weather and the Yale-Princeton football game November 18 helped our modest little friends; there was an active demand for violets at advanced prices November 17 and 18. Cattleyas went up another notch, i. e., to $10 per dozen for labiata and a few Trianæ. The smaller cattleya, Percivaliana, is here in moderate numbers, at $5 to $6 per dozen. Cypripedium insigne also has arrived.

Roses show a decided gain in the fancy grades and in the novelty class. Sunburst has done well when well colored; the poorly colored flowers lag. Ophelia and Mrs. Ward are also in demand. Hadley is reported as selling well in some places, while others think that its novelty has worn off. Mrs. Russell is of fine quality and is in active demand at good prices. Beauties sell well, but the supply is fully equal to the demand; that means not all the Beauties sell at asking price. The ordinary varieties of pink and white roses are rather dull.

Carnations have improved in so far as well colored stock like Mrs. C. W. Ward is concerned. The pale pink carnations are not in demand. Whites fare better because they can be used in design work, of which there is a good deal just now. It seems that the market is not well supplied with small white flowers, so the buyers turn to white carnations. Valley is scarce, so scarce that the probability of the advance from $6 to $8 per hundred is discussed. Bouvardia has come; strange to say, it is not taking yet. The number of Paper Whites is increasing; the yellow narcissus has just come. Easter lilies are in oversupply. Why do the growers bring them in during the height of the season for fine white chrysanthemums? It is a great mistake.

Chrysanthemums are in the height of their last big fortnight at the close of the week before Thanksgiving. All the leading late varieties are in their glory. Prices have ruled low, with a tendency toward an advance on quality at the close of the present week, November 22. There are too many pompons for the market. The best varieties, well grown, bring fairly good prices, but the poorer stock drags down the whole lot to a lower level. Indications point to an improved demand next week, November 23 to November 29.

Business Comradeship.

The following little talk is of unusual interest because the speaker, Raymond Brunswick, has given intelligent thought to the subject of advertising. He aims to put high ideals into practice:

vertisement that referred to them. Here it is; I will read it to you:

A neighbor's hearty greeting. Welcome and congratulations to James E. Caldwell & Co. on their removal to Juniper and Chestnut streets!

The founder of the house is still well remembered as an old, personal, kindly friend, and as one of a group of the first citizens of his time, when John Welsh, James E. Claghorn, Daniel Smith, Adolph E. Borie, Joseph Patterson, George H. Stuart, Frederick Fraley, Gen. R. Patterson, Alexander Henry, Anthony J. Drexel, Thomas A. Scott and James E. Caldwell and others moved together in affairs of public spirit in advancing the interests of Philadelphia.

For seventy-eight years the business house established by James E. Caldwell has been an honor to the city and to the mercantile profession. His son and the younger men who succeeded him have inherited the spirit of the father of the business and retained well the lessons he taught them.

The high character and dignity of the installation of the old business in their new establishment is a good evidence of wisdom and of ability to continue the leadership in the particular rank in which they have been so long famous.

"You see, the point is that Caldwell's are competitors of John Wanamaker in jewelry, silverware and objects of art. Mr. Wanamaker does not ignore them when they move from downtown up Chestnut street to his very door. He welcomes them as friendly competitors. Here is their reply:

J. E. Caldwell & Co. desire to extend their grateful thanks to the thousands of friends who took a personal part in the opening, yesterday, of their new store. Among the numberless treasured expressions of appreciation and encouragement, there is one unique in its broad-minded generosity, impressive because of the distinguished achievement of its writer. Honorable John Wanamaker, chief of modern merchants, is the neighbor by whose neighborliness we are deeply honored.

"This is broad on both sides. It also is high-class advertising that, while it does not seek to advertise magnetically, attracts the reader with a power none but the best advertising can do. I hope to see the day when the florists' supply business will reach this level—each striving his utmost for advancement without throwing so much as a straw in his competitor's way."

A Rainbow Wedding.

A real novelty in wedding effects was produced last week by J. J. Habermehl's Sons. It was styled a rainbow wedding because the hats and bouquets of the bridesmaids were designed in rainbow colors. The bride's party was unusually large. There were thirty-two in all—a maid of honor, fifteen bridesmaids and sixteen ushers. The bride's bouquet was, you will guess correctly, of lilies of the valley and white orchids. The other bouquets will be left to your imagination, in part at least. They were made of different flowers artistically combined in at least seven colors. Snapdragons in several shades; pompons in certain carefully chosen hues; Sunburst and Ward roses, and cornflowers, were a few of the many flowers used. The ushers wore gardenias. The effect of the assembled bride's party was rich and striking. The church decorations were in green and white.

A Forest Dinner.

A rather unusual decoration was arranged by J. J. Habermehl's Sons for the Pennsylvania State Society dinner held in the Bellevue-Stratford hotel Thursday evening, November 23. There were over 400 guests. The novel part of the decoration lay in the genuineness of the forest in which the affair was held. A special agent was dispatched up-state to select and superintend the cutting and packing of two whole carloads of hemlock and spruce. They were brought to the hotel and carefully set up in the ballroom, where the dinner was held, with an artist's eye for effect.

Various Notes.

When Robert Craig saw the new 500-foot shed just erected on his company's place at Norwood he expressed the desire that the men who built the Pennsylvania railroad sheds might come to see it.

Raymond Kester, of the Williamsport Floral Co., Williamsport, Pa., was welcomed by his friends in this city.

C. L. Peterson, of the Tunlin Paint Co., has received a letter from a leading citizen of Fort Worth, Tex., telling him that a recent hail storm following excessive heat had knocked off the paint of all the buildings in Fort Worth, excepting only those painted with Tunlin paint. Mr. Peterson says the heat dried and cracked and the hail stripped off the other paints, but that Tunlin had the stuff in it and stood the test.

John Walsh happened to be in Newark, N. J., with the H. Bayersdorfer & Co. traffic car last week. A good salesman generally happens to go to a given place at the right time. The Newark show was on that week. The managers insisted on an exhibit. So now H. Bayersdorfer & Co. have a blue ribbon in token of first prize for their florists' supplies.

Novelties in the market this week and their owners are: William J. Baker, Mikado and fancy mignonette; at A. M. Campbell, Souvenir d'Or; the Leo Niessen Co., Cattleya Percivaliana and Cypripedium insigne; the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Cattleya Trianæ and extra fancy Mrs. Charles Russell; the Philadelphia Wholesale Florists' Exchange, yellow narcissi.

R. Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., delivered the first of a series of lectures before the Pennsylvania society Tuesday afternoon, November 21. The subject was geraniums, handsomely illustrated.

Carl Gloeckner, of the Henry F. Michell Co., went to New York November 21 to expedite the reshipment of valley just received from abroad. The firm's spiræas have just arrived.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

The first killing frost of the season hit Washington last week and put out all the outdoor bunch chrysanthemums and other outdoor stock. At the same time the supply of roses and carnations shortened to an appreciable extent and buyers were forced to go from wholesaler to wholesaler and to call on the various growers.

Up to last week carnations hung fire and prices were low, but it is an easy matter now to get $3 per hundred for them. There has not been a great increase in the price of roses, but these also will gradually go up. Among the new arrivals of the week are narcissi. These, however, are not in much demand. Some good white and yellow daisies are being offered. There are few Easter lilies, but there is little call for them, or for the callas and rubrums, which have just made their appearance. Sweet peas and violets have become more popular since the coming of the cool weather and the same may be said of the miniature roses, which are selling in fair quantities, but at low prices.

A bit of color was given last week by ruscus and red immortelles and from now on these will sell quite heavily.

show in Baltimore. Mr. Grillbortzer visited that city in his Cadillac.

Among the visitors of the week were Charles E. Meehan and S. Price, of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia.

The Washington Floral Co. is showing some exceptionally fine specimens of the rose Mrs. Euler at the store at Fourteenth street. This is the first year they have handled this rose and they are pleased with the way it is behaving. Sunburst and Hoosier Beauty produced by this company also are worthy of notice.

Clifford Lanham, assistant superintendent of the Department of Trees and Parkings of the District of Columbia, has been appointed by the commissioners to succeed his father, the late Trueman Lanham, as head of the department.

Enormous William Turners were the feature of the annual chrysanthemum and rose show at the store of Gude Bros. Co. In the front center of the store was an illuminated fountain and the singing of a number of canaries and the music from a large Victrola, with the moon popping up above the balcony, gave the store the effect of a garden scene. All the work incident to sorting and making up, as well as shipping, was relegated to the basement during the show and the large workroom, as well as the conservatory at the rear, was filled to overflowing with cut flowers and plants. The attendance at the show this year beat all records.

The assessor of the District of Columbia is about to call upon the florists' establishments here having vault spaces under the sidewalks to make up a schedule upon which the amount of tax to be paid therefor may be determined.

Congress included in the law appropriating funds for the expenses of the local government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, a provision that "hereafter the commissioners of the District of Columbia are authorized and directed to assess and collect rent from all users of space occupied under the sidewalks and streets in the District of Columbia, which said space is occupied or used in connection with the business of said users."

John McCabe, who operates the delivery car of his father, M. J. McCabe, of Good Hope, D. C., figured in an accident last week which resulted in serious injury to the occupant of a pleasure car, and minor injuries to four others who accompanied her and the placing under arrest of the chauffeur of that machine. He was charged with colliding, for he hit the florists' machine from the back, badly damaging it.

C. L. L.

LANCASTER, PA.

Florists' Club's Visiting Tour.

Thursday afternoon, November 16, about thirty members of the Lancaster County Florists' Club journeyed by automobile eastward from Lancaster and visited eight florists' establishments.

At Charles M. Weaver's, where sweet peas are grown almost exclusively, we found houses of these in fine order. Some of the peas are long-stemmed, with large blooms; others are several feet high, and one house contained stock about six inches high. Mr. Weaver's houses are 42x325 feet. Most of the varieties grown here are selections of his own and high-grade stock is the rule.

At the Elmer J. Weaver place carnations are principally grown. There we saw Pink Delight, Mrs. Ward, Northport, Matchless, Alice, Mrs. Akehurst, Supreme—all in excellent condition and holding great promise for an abundance of blooms throughout the season. Mrs. Coombs, Nebraska, Nancy, Belle Washburn and Miss Theo are being given a trial, and I hope later to give Mr. Weaver's opinion of them. Mr. Weaver also has sweet peas, mignonette and calendulas, the latter most remarkable for size and quality. A planting of tomatoes, a French variety, showed much prolificness, some plants containing half a peck of well developed green fruits.

H. B. Weaver, at Bird-in-Hand, was next called upon. His carnations, which are his principal crop, are fine. He grows Mrs. Ward, Matchless, Alice and Supreme. Fine Jeanne Nonin and Patty mums were seen. Early mums were a successful and profitable crop at this place. Some choice red gladioli in bloom were a novelty for mid-November. Mignonette, calendulas and stocks are grown well.

Jacob H. Weaver's establishment, at Smoketown, was our next stop. Here, also, carnations are the main crop. Matchless, Alice, Supreme, Gloriosa, Belle Washburn, Pink Delight and Miss Theo are the leading varieties grown. Seedling No. 2A, in its third year, a cross between Gorgeous and Alma Ward, is a magnificent variety and will be heard from later. A yellow, with faint pink markings, a remarkable constitution and a free-blooming habit, is another good one. Bonnaffon and Patty mums of high quality are grown, as are also freesias and Paper Whites. Mr. Weaver's cinerarias, cyclamens and primulas are in their usually fine condition. Chester Weaver ably assists his father in the business.

Elias Lefever, whose carnations this year are among the finest in the county, was next visited. A new house by the Lord & Burnham Co., 35x158, is a recent addition. Mr. Lefever's varieties are Pink Delight, White Wonder, Alice, Matchless, Gloriosa and Miss Theo, the latter being strong, bushy stock. Ward and Pink Delight are being cut with 30-inch stems and are first-class stock.

John R. Shreiner, at Greenland, grows sweet peas, calendulas, freesias, Paper Whites and mums. Patty and the bronze Mrs. Wilcox were of remarkable quality. Mr. Shreiner sells his flowers locally. He is assisted by his son, Emanuel.

Enos Lefever, near Fertility, was called on next. Carnations are the leading product of this establishment, Mrs. Ward, White Wonder, Gloriosa and Matchless being in wonderfully fine condition. Mrs. Brock and Patty mums

Festoon Winding Machines Improved

Fourth year on the market. Two types. Makes all kinds of Festooning. Type No. 1 will wrap on any size wire used for its center. One turn with handle gives two wraps on Festooning. Center wire is measured while Festooning is wound, which eliminates measuring of Festooning. Type No. 2: Fine wire is used for the center, one turn with handle gives one wrap on Festooning. Does equally as good work as Type No. 1. We furnish machines ready to work, with enough wire to make 500 yards. Three days' trial allowed. Money refunded if machine is not what you want. Prices:

Type No. 1, $10.00; Type No. 2, $5.00

are the two profitable pink varieties grown here. Mr. Lefever's son, Harry, is a partner.

A. W. Denlinger, near Mellinger's church, on the Lincoln highway, has several houses of good carnations, comprising Mrs. Ward, Matchless, Supreme and Comfort. Bonnaffon and Patty mums are good for Thanksgiving sales here. Paper Whites, sweet peas and much spring stock are grown by Mr. Denlinger.

J. Wade Gayley, near Strasburg, received us next. His new King house, 35x140, seems the acme in greenhouse building. Mrs. Ward, Supreme, Beacon, Alice and Matchless are grown, the last-named being the finest of the variety seen on our day's trip. Mr. Gayley, who has only been in the business for five or six years, has reason to be congratulated on the remarkably fine appearance of his houses.

The Meeting.

At 7:30 in the evening the regular meeting of the club was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. H. K. Rohrer, chairman of the flower show committee, reported a successful show. After all bills are paid, a substantial amount remains to be divided between the Armory and the club. E. P. Hostetter, Amos N. Rohrer and W. B. Girvin were appointed as auditors.

chrysanthemums, was opened by Rudolph Nagel. A discussion followed that brought out much valuable information as to the best commercial varieties to grow, etc.

B. F. Barr, who is an expert on pompons, enlightened us as to the best ones to grow. D. F. Rose, L. S. Landis and Thomas Fries were appointed to arrange for our annual banquet, which is to be held in December.

Rudolph Nagel exhibited a vase of Chadwick Improved, Golden Chadwick and Mrs. Edwin Seidewitz, the latter a truly wonderful late pink.

The first cold weather of the winter reached us last week, and for three nights the temperature was in the vicinity of 20 degrees.

Mrs. G. Goldbach has opened a store at Columbia. She will conduct this as well as her present one at 140 North Duke street, this city. Her many friends wish her success. H. K. R.

Madison, Wis.—A flower show was held November 5 by the horticultural department of the University of Wisconsin. Through the courtesy of Prof. J. G. Moore, in charge of the department, and J. Kolb, greenhouse manager, the five greenhouses and potting house were opened to the public. For more than three hours a continuous line of visitors waited their turn to see the varied display of mums, carnations, tropical plants and vegetables.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The market was in excellent condition last week; the demand was brisk and prices advanced. The seasonable stock arriving is of good quality. There still is a glut in the lower grades of mums, but the fancy stock is selling better than at any time since the season opened. The retailers report business excellent since social affairs began. The weather was good during the week and brought out the late varieties of mums. Among the new varieties last week were T. Eaton, Golden Wedding, Golden and White Chadwick, Major Bonnaffon, Lynnwood Hall and Seidewitz. The latter two proved good sellers. So far the mum season has been the best ever. Pompons are selling well. The demand for these has been much larger than usual and prices undoubtedly will advance this week. Paper Whites now are here and clean up daily.

Carnations are arriving satisfactorily and show a big improvement in both stem and flower. Prices average $2 per hundred for choice stock. Enchantress and White Enchantress, also good red and rose-pink, are in good demand. The demand for orchids last week was large, but they are quite scarce. Valley cleans up daily at $6 per hundred, the supply and quality of the stock being good. Violets show better color and stem and make 50 cents per hundred. Sweet peas as yet are scarce and the few coming in bring good prices. In greens, smilax, asparagus and flat ferns have a big demand.

Various Notes.

President Jules Bourdet, head of the executive committee of the spring flower show, says that the show will be the best and largest ever held in St. Louis. The chairmen of the various committees meet at Mr. Bourdet's office every Tuesday and make reports of their progress. The Armory hall, in which the show will be held, affords an opportunity for outdoor display. The floor space of the building is large and a grand display from outside St. Louis is looked for.

Lechner Bros., bulb importers, have leased the lower floor of the Caxton building, in which they have offices, for a show and storage room. This firm represents the Growers' Association of Holland. Martin Lechner, head of the firm, says that business was larger this season than ever before and that orders from customers have been doubled this year.

Invitations have been mailed by the directors of the Missouri Botanical Garden to the twenty-seventh annual Shaw banquet, which will be given to gardeners, florists and nurserymen at the University Club, December 1. This is in accordance with the will left by the late Henry Shaw, founder of the Missouri Botanical Garden. It is one of the big events in trade circles here, when they meet and praise the great good Mr. Shaw did to advance floriculture in St. Louis.

Charles Meier, of Kirkwood, commenced cutting Mrs. Edwin Seidewitz, a lovely pink mum, and Lynnwood Hall, a grand white variety, last week. His Bonnaffon mums are hard to beat. Mr. Meier will have a good cut of Eaton mums for Thanksgiving.

Marion Uhlschmidt, manager for Grimm & Gorly's east side store, says they have had a big run of business. Fancy cut mums seem to take well this season.

Charles Young, of the C. Young & Sons Co., says that business has been splendid in all lines this season. The cut flower and bulb departments have been extremely busy. James Young, president of the company, says that the new ranch at Olivette will produce some excellent stock for the spring trade.

Ostertag Bros. have one of the finest glass-front delivery automobiles in the city. They report a splendid trade in all lines.

Richard A. Tubisen, head of the Ayres Floral Co., reports a large trade in fancy cut mums last week. The splendidly decorated windows of this company attract many buyers.

little advertisement in The Review has doubled their mail orders for pots in the south and west. Charles E. Mandeville, manager of the factory and kilns, is working the big force overtime to catch up with orders.

George Angermueller says shipping orders of supplies and cut stock have been excellent. The firm was shorthanded last week, owing to the illness of Fred Alves. This kept Harry Schlechter and the boss on the jump.

Martin Seeger, of the Mullanphy Florists' downtown store, reports a number of large funeral orders last week and a big call for fancy cut mums and Beauties. The big show windows on Eighth and Locust streets are filled with the choicest stock.

W. H. Kruse, the Arsenal street florist, reports an excellent business. He will furnish flowers for one of the biggest weddings of the season. A big lot of choice cut stock will be used.

The Market.

The turn of the tide seems to be in sight at last; even a week of cold, wintry weather with unusually low temperatures for mid-November failed to give trade any fillip, but roses have shortened now and, while mums and carnations continue a little groggy, the worst seems to have passed and the approach of Thanksgiving may further stimulate business. Chrysanthemums, or at least the main crop sorts, have had the reverse of a profitable season, with prices varying from $4 to $16 per hundred, and the higher price only for fine flowers. There is no money in main crop mums for the growers. Some strictly fancy flowers from one or two growers have made $3 to $4 per dozen, but they are the exception and not the rule. Such varieties as Chadwick, White Chadwick, Roman Gold, Rager, Murdock, Nagoya, Bonnaffon and Shrimpton are much in evidence. Probably as many Bonnaffon mums come in as all others combined. Pompons of good colors have sold well; so have one or two colors in singles.

Beauties have shortened and are about equal to calls made. The same holds true with all other roses. Prices have improved on nearly all grades. Carnations have had an unprofitable time, but are doing a shade better. Cold weather shortened violet supplies and prices had an advance of fifty per cent. Good snapdragons sell well; also pansies, bachelor's buttons and yellow marguerites. Paper Whites do not sell so well as they did a year ago. Stevia has appeared from one or two growers. Lilies have been selling indifferently. More gardenias have been coming in, but cattleyas are shortening considerably. Trade in such flowering plants as camellias, ericas, begonias, cyclamens and chrysanthemums has been quite good.

Penn's Chrysanthemum Show.

The mum show at Penn's, November 16 to 18, for which Penn's offered cash prizes in twelve classes, brought out a fine display of flowers. All the daily papers gave it good notices and there was a large attendance of the public on all three days. The judges were William Nicholson, Robert Cameron and W. N. Craig. Awards were made as follows:

Twelve blooms yellow—Waban Rose Conservatories, first, with Yellow Chadwick; W. R. Nicholson, second, with Nagoya.

Twelve blooms white—Waban Rose Conservatories, first, with White Chadwick; W. R. Nicholson, second, with Charles Rager.

Twelve blooms pink—W. R. Nicholson, first, with Mrs. S. T. Murdock; Thomas Powers, Dorchester, Mass., second, with Enguehard.

Twelve blooms bronze—W. R. Nicholson, first, with Tecumseh; Frank Edgar, second, with Roman Gold.

Twelve blooms red—Frank Edgar, first, with Shrimpton.

Club Meeting.

There was a large and enthusiastic attendance at the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club November 21, the attractions being the nominations of officers and the stereopticon lecture on "Tree, Insect, Bird," by John Davey, the well known tree surgeon of Kent, O. Mr. Davey's son and business manager preceded him with a short address. The lecturer proved to be an able and convincing one and held his audience splendidly. He answered some quite pointed questions at the close. An enthusiastic vote of thanks was tendered him. It was announced that at the December meeting, when the annual election of officers takes place, there will be a stereopticon lecture on greenhouse construction.

The nomination of officers for next month's election was as follows: For president, James Methven; vice-president, A. K. Rogers; secretary, W. N. Craig; treasurer, S. J. Goddard; executive committee, P. M. Miller, W. J. Kennedy, A. K. Rogers, G. W. Hamer, Duncan Finlayson, W. C. Rust, W. H. Judd, Thomas Coles, J. F. Briry.

Littlefield & Wyman, of North Abington, Mass., exhibited two vases of seedling carnations. S. J. Goddard had vases of Doris, Rosalia, Laddie, Nancy and other good seedlings; also a fine, new reflexed chrysanthemum.

There were 250 present to hear Mr. Davey, who showed 200 stereopticon views. Three new members were elected.

Various Notes.

These officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, November 18: President, R. M. Saltonstall; vice-president, N. T. Kidder; trustees for three years, S. M. Weld, A. W. Preston, E. S. Webster, E. B. Dane; nominating committee, M. A. Patten, William Sim, N. T. Kidder, J. K. M. L. Farquhar, William Downs.

The T. J. Grey Co. has leased the whole of the sixth floor of the building at 16 South Market street and will move there in January. The company's increasing business has compelled it to secure more commodious quarters, which the new building will afford.

McAlpine Bros., of Exeter, N. H., are sending in fine shipments of the new roses, Tipperary and Bedford Belle, the latter a pretty, light pink variety. Killarney Queen, Ophelia and Beauty are good among the older varieties.

Harry Quint this season has done a large bulb business. His location in the Back Bay district is ideal for this class of trade. Of Paper Whites his purchases were no less than 100,000. He bought Darwin tulips and narcissi heavily. Of such varieties as King Alfred narcissi, at 75 cents each, the entire stock has been sold. Cut flower trade with him has been good of late.

A. A. Pembroke, of North Beverly, has finished a fine crop of Chieftain and Pink Supreme mums, but Bonnaffon and Chadwick now are good. Among carnations Good Cheer is doing much better with him this season. Alice beats all for productiveness. Benora, Beacon, Champion, Lady Northcliffe, Pink Sensation, Matchless and Pink Delight are other leading varieties.

William E. Fischer, for a number of years one of the assistant superintendents in the Boston park system, leaves this week to succeed E. O. Orpet as superintendent of C. H. McCormick's estate at Lake Forest, Ill. The good wishes of numerous friends goes with Mr. Fischer and all are sure he will make good.

The latest greenhouse asters seen locally are those coming from Anderson Bros., of Woburn, who also are large shippers of pompon and anemone chrysanthemums, calendulas, single violets and cosmos.

The cold weather of last week checked bulb buying in some measure, but all the stores have their stocks pretty well depleted. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. are extremely busy on landscape work, having some large western as well as eastern contracts.

Harry Cedar, who opened a flower store a little over a year ago in Castle square, has much enlarged, remodeled and repainted his store. He says business with him is good and steadily growing.

The Halifax Garden Co. is getting a heavy crop of Matchless, Beacon, Benora, Ward, Alice Coombs and Pink Sensation carnations. The best roses here are Ophelia, Killarney, White Killarney, Ward, Taft and Hadley. Practically all this concern's mums except Bonnaffon now are cut.

Frank P. Putnam, of North Tewksbury, has two houses of pompon mums, which he expects to hold until Christmas. A large proportion of Mr. Putnam's carnations now are shipped to New York.

John W. Foote, of Reading, still is cutting a fine lot of fancy Bouvardia Humboldtii. His Pink Delight, Matchless, Beacon and White Wonder carnations are equal to the best.

Thomas Capers, of Wellesley Hills, finds no carnation superior to Alice. It is doing far better with him than it did a year ago. Benora, Pink Delight, White Enchantress and White Wonder are his other favorites.

Wax Bros. report business as holding up splendidly. They have some large wedding orders booked for December.

Among recent callers was A. E. Kunderd, the gladiolus specialist, of Goshen, Ind., who visited many of our gladiolus establishments here.

The monthly meeting of the Sewickley Horticultural Society was held Tuesday, November 14, in the Odd Fellows' hall, Sewickley, Vice-president R. Boxel presiding. The various committees of the chrysanthemum show gave their reports, and it was evident that each did its share in making the show the great success it was. A vote of thanks was extended to the committeemen. J. Barnet read a communication from the secretary of the National Association of Gardeners regarding the coming convention at Washington, D. C., December 5 and 6, and appointing Mr. Barnet a publicity committeeman for this district. Mr. Barnet's remarks were well received, and with the members in sympathy with the N. A. G. there should be a good representation at the Washington convention.

Nominations for officers for 1917 being in order, the following were proposed: For president, John Barnet, R. Boxel, A. E. Bousey, J. Carman; vice-president, A. Davidson, Robert Taylor; secretary, Manus Curran; treasurer, William Thomson, Jr.; executive committee, William Gillies, William Thomson, Jr., A. E. Bousey, A. Davidson, R. Boxel, T. Carman, J. Barnet, Wm. Beeler, J. Jones.

M. Curran and J. Barnet were appointed to attend the next meetings of the Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardeners' Club and the Western Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, and to get things started on the proposed fall show for 1917. It was left to the executive committee to arrange for a ladies' night in January.

A most interesting paper from the National Association of Gardeners on "Horticulture as a Profession, from the Standpoint of a Gardener," was ably read by John Carman, to whom a vote of thanks was accorded. The next meeting will be held at 7:30 instead of 8 p. m. Twenty-one applications for membership were received.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

J. W. EDMONDSON, manager of the California Seed Growers' Association, San Jose, Cal., was in Chicago last week.

AS prices in canned goods continue to advance, canners are feeling more prosperous than they have for several seasons.

MRS. W. T. PHILIPPS, wife of the well known seedsman of Toledo, has been spending the week in Chicago visiting relatives.

S. F. LEONARD, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, is visiting several large cities in the middle west to look after some important interests.

STEAMERS from Marseilles are bringing considerable quantities of seeds of the varieties on which the French government has placed no export restrictions.

W. W. HOISINGTON, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, spent November 20 and 21 at Minneapolis, attending the Minnesota canners' convention.

MORE than one seed dealer has figured it out that the demand for seeds this season will be sufficient to permit some measure of economy in catalogue distribution.

THE Wisconsin canners' convention, held in Milwaukee, November 13 to 16, was most successful in every way. Good business, both as concerns immediate shipments and future contracts, is generally reported.

THE boat from Rotterdam which reached New York November 17 brought 538 cases of valley pips, sixty cases consigned to a forwarding agent and 478 cases consigned to a Holland bulb house that has a permanent representative in New York.

THE following will be among those present at the Indiana canners' convention at Indianapolis November 23 and 24: Arnold Ringier, W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago; A. H. Smith, Leonard Seed Co., Chicago; Chas. Guelph, Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y.

IT is reported from New Zealand that the harvest of rye grass and cocksfoot will be good, but these crops are not gathered until the new year, so that it is too early to make promises in the matter. Conditions, however, are said to have been favorable up to the end of October.

INQUIRIES for all kinds of seeds and onion sets are coming in heavily, while prices steadily advance. It is expected that there will be many shortages and disappointments this year, as it is certain there are not enough seeds to supply the demand, which will undoubtedly be further stimulated by the high cost of all food products.

THE tenth annual convention of the Minnesota Canners' Association was held at Hotel Radisson, Minneapolis, November 20 and 21. Minnesota is coming to the front in the matter of packing sugar corn and the meeting was attended by representatives of several seed houses that make a specialty of canners' varieties of sweet corn.

CHAS. P. GUELPH and wife, Cambridge, N. Y., were in Chicago November 16 to 18.

THE Indiana state canners' convention will be held at Indianapolis, November 23 and 24, at the Claypool hotel. These meetings have in previous years been good and are considered second only to the Wisconsin convention.

THE Holland salesmen are landing at New York from every Rotterdam boat and within a few weeks there will be about 125 of these energetic gentlemen searching out the bulb buyers. They come instructed to get materially higher prices than last year.

THE high prices of all food products insure an unusual demand for all vegetable and field seeds for the 1917 season. In view of the fact that seed stocks in general are the smallest in years, the present prices of seeds are more than justified by the economic situation.

BIG CALL FOR SUGAR BEET.

Great activity in the sugar beet industry in this country is foreshadowed by the recent record-breaking imports of sugar beet seeds. Figures made public by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, of the Department of Commerce, indicate that for the nine months ended September 30 the imports of seed reached a total of 18,500,000 pounds, which is a million pounds more than were imported during the complete calendar years 1913 and 1914 and nearly double those for the full year 1912.

Before the war Germany was the chief source of sugar beet seeds, but the trade is now in the hands of the Russians. In the fiscal year 1914 Germany supplied nearly 9,000,000 pounds out of a total of 10,250,000 pounds, the remainder coming chiefly from Austria-Hungary, Russia and Holland. In the fiscal year 1916 Russia supplied 5,881,946 pounds out of a total of 9,042,490 pounds. Imports of beet seed into the United States for the calendar years 1914 to 1916 were as follows:

Years—	Pounds.
1914	17,567,062
1915	4,029,022
1916 (9 months)	18,474,995

Exports of refined sugar in the first nine months of 1916 totaled 1,388,650,984 pounds, or nearly fifty per cent more than during the whole calendar year of 1915, three and one-half times more than in 1914 and twenty-six times more than in 1913.

SEED ORDERS COME TO U. S.

How the European war has changed the channels of the seed trade is illustrated by the statistics of imports of seeds into Colombia through the port of Cartagena in 1914 and 1915:

From—	1914	1915
France	....	$ 1,050
Germany	$1,657	.....

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

The Amzi Godden Seed Co., of Birmingham, Ala., is moving into new quarters at 2205 Second avenue, where better facilities will help to increase business.

The Gordon-Gammill Seed Co., of Birmingham, says it is comparatively easier to sell than to supply, especially in advance orders, considering the present condition of stocks.

In the account of my interview with Walter W. Harnden, of the Harnden Seed Co., Kansas City, two years should have read twenty-two years, this being the length of time this well known house has done business at the same stand, and, believing a removal almost equivalent to beginning all over again, the company prefers to be inconvenienced for a while and remain in the building during the reconstruction.

The Pedersen Commission & Seed Co., of St. Louis, reports a large demand for products of all kinds. In addition to a full line of seeds, the company handles much farm produce.

The Yopp Seed Co., of Paducah, Ky., which specializes in onions at this time of the year, says that, in all its years of experience, onions never were so scarce as this year. The pure seed law is benefiting the retailer in that he has no inferior grades of seeds to compete with—the law requires that they be designated as inferior—is the opinion of George Yopp.

The Hall Seed Co., of Louisville, Ky., reports a good demand for market gardening seeds; also grasses of all kinds.

The Ohio Valley Seed Co., of Evansville, Ind., does a large retail business in field seeds. Clean, bright stocks of timothy and clover were noted, and I was informed that, with the new pure seed law in force, better prices may be obtained and that it will pay to handle a higher grade of seeds. White Blossom sweet clover is becoming popular wherever sown.

Wood, Stubbs & Co., of Louisville, are handling heavy stocks of grasses, especially orchard and blue grass. Prices are firm, with little prospect of their being lower on account of the absence of foreign stocks. Advices from New Zealand state that the grass seed crop there is almost a failure. "While grasses are our strong suit, we are heavily interested in stocks of beans and watermelons," observed Frank Stubbs. "We are moving 3,000 pounds of the Kleckley's Sweet, the favorite of all, and expect to turn over a carload of melon seed through the season. In beans Kentucky Wonder is a leader, although we recently shipped 100 bushels of Refugee Wax, at $6 per bushel, and the same quantity of Burpee's Stringless Greenpod, at $9 per bushel. This will give you some idea of the range of prices. Wardwell's Pencilpod and Hodson's Wax are fairly plentiful with us. We anticipate a shortage later, especially as the latest advices from California indicate a 60-per cent crop. We are fairly strong on turnip seeds, and are cabling acceptance of an offer of spinach from Holland. We shall be fortunate if we obtain the seed," concluded Mr. Stubbs.

The Market.

Stock continues to clear each day, lilies and a few mums being the only flowers inclined to drag. Roses are steady in supply and demand, with all varieties clearing well. Mums are of good quality and seemingly not in oversupply. Choice Bonnaffons arrive from a large Toledo grower each day. Valley and violets are in adequate supply.

Various Notes.

The Atlas Floral Co. has taken over the Klagge & Klagge store on East Grand River avenue, near Broadway. The new management anticipates good business this season.

Jack Carey has moved to his new location and finds business there brisk.

J. Breitmeyer's Sons' park store has started a new department in its basement, comprising a line of pottery and glassware for plants and flowers.

M. A. Leganger, of A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was a visitor last week, and Mr. Hill, of Pittsburgh, stopped off for a few days on his trip back to Pittsburgh. Julius Dilloff, of Schloss Bros., New York, also was a trade caller.

H. T.

NEWPORT, R. I.

A decision to coöperate with the Newport Garden Association in its flower show to be held next June was made at the November 13 meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society. Interesting reports were made by William Gray and James Robertson of the recent New York and Tuxedo flower shows. Andrew J. Dorward, head gardener for Mrs. Thomas J. Emery, Middletown, was awarded a cultural certificate for a new Chinese plant. It was with general regret that the society learned that John Forbes, who has been head gardener for several years for August Belmont, was leaving Newport December 1 to take charge of the estate of Charles H. Schwab, at Altoona, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. McLeish, surrounded by their children, grandchildren and friends, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary November 13. Fifty years ago, in 1866, they were married, in Scotland, and during the evening the couple went through the marriage ceremony for the third time, the second being on the occasion of the celebration of the silver anniversary, twenty-five years ago. Mr. McLeish came to New York from Scotland in 1867, and to Newport in 1870. Two years later, in August, 1872, he purchased his present property and has been in business for himself ever since. He is a charter member and a past president of the Newport Horticultural Society and has held a number of public offices.

WATERBURY, CONN.

Business has improved considerably in this section during the last two weeks and we are looking forward to a busy winter. This district is receiving a large share of the munition work and high wages are being paid the worker.

The growers, though, are hard hit, as it is almost impossible to hire common laborers. It is a question whether or not the florists will be greatly benefited by the munition boom, as the necessities of life are so high in price that they leave the people but a small surplus to spend on flowers.

Then again, the increased cost of doing business cuts the florists' profits almost in two. For instance, errand boys whom we formerly paid $4 or $5 per week now demand $8 and up per week.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Eureka, Cal.—It is understood that the Cottage Gardens Nurseries, established here by C. W. Ward to grow stock in competition with Europe, has had such good success with its first crop of forcing plants that all the azaleas and rhododendrons available for shipments this season have been sold.

San Bernardino, Cal.—As the longest established florist in this city, Mrs. Hurtt always has an attractive store decoration, and when I called recently business was reported good along all lines. Nearly all the flowers used are grown in Mrs. Hurtt's own greenhouses a few miles from the city and close to the famous Arrowhead hot springs. Altogether there is about 15,000 square feet of glass, and the quality of the flowers shown at the store indicates that skill in growing comes first at the range.—H. R. Richards.

San Diego, Cal.—Although in a way eminently successful with her "Rose Garden of Hospitality," Mrs. Jessie C. Knox intimates that expenses have been far out of proportion to the returns. Mrs. Knox is down on the Panama-California Exposition program as the originator of the Potpourri Rose Garden, which she conducts for the pleasure of exposition visitors. Since the beginning of 1915 each visitor has been given roses free of charge—and visitors to California usually are "flower-hungry." The potpourri offered is a jar of fresh rose leaves mixed with other blooms and spices, used to scent a room. This is an item of sale.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Business continues on the up-grade, thanks to a number of parties and other social affairs and an exceptionally large quantity of funeral work. Orchids and good mums are among the scarce articles this week, and as frosts have been reported from various points around the city the outdoor stock probably will be shortened considerably. Violets are coming in finely, large, well colored and fragrant blooms, in quantity. Small white flowers are scarce, a few Paper Whites being about the only stock obtainable. Grand Monarque narcissi, from locally grown bulbs, are more or less plentiful and useful, but they do not fill the bill as white flowers.

Valley still is scarce and high in price, and is likely to be for some time yet. A large number of orange and lemon-colored African marigolds are offered, the lemon-colored flowers being preferred because of their less pronounced odor. A fine lot of late Mrs. Francis King gladioli is being shipped by a local grower and meets with a good demand. Among the smaller flowers, scabiosas, French marigolds and centaureas are coming in freely and there still is a quantity of yellow pompons.

Roses are in shorter supply again, both indoor and outdoor stock. Cecile Brunner roses are plentiful and quite a number of Irish Fireflame blooms are used in baskets. Already large arrivals of evergreens are noted and these will be in big demand from Thanksgiving on. Asparagus is not quite so plentiful as it was and is firmer in price. Plants are making their appearance in larger numbers daily.

Various Notes.

C. J. Groen is already bringing in good stock from his new place at Montebello, showing what can be done in a short time by hustling. Not content with flowers alone, Mr. Groen has been using up some of his superfluous energy in planting out fifteen acres to cabbage.

Darling's Flower Shop is a most attractive place these days. Recently a specialty was made of violets and hundreds were sold . A large window was filled with violets and arranged with mirror effect.

Bernard Tassano and N. Gandelfo have started in business here as the Santa Cruz Evergreen Co., with premises at 101 Winston street. Bernard is a brother of Tony Tassano and has been associated with Tassano Bros. for some years. He is a young man with plenty of vim and go, as well as a likable disposition. All in the trade will wish him well in his new venture.

Fourth street still looks good as the florists' center. O. C. Saake is coming out with a new automobile for delivery and says that business is good.

J. W. Wolters had a big job on hand last week at a coming-out party at the L. A. Country Club house.

I called at Frank Lichtenberg's store last week to see the new fountain that is to be fixed, but as I could not get past the door I concluded that they were busy and postponed the visit.

F. Sperry, of the L. A. Floral Co., made a flying trip to Santa Barbara last week.

At H. W. Turner's place the rose stock is splendid and prospects are good for an elegant Christmas and early winter cut. Even now every rose is sold as fast as it can be cut and there is not likely to be any surplus again this winter. The new dwarf Baby Doll is largely propagated, several stock benches of it and many thousands of young plants being grown. It is a most taking little flower and the demand for plants is constantly increasing.

S. Murata & Co. report shipping trade as better than usual at this season, while local trade is greatly in excess of anything previously noted. Orchids have been in heavy demand in the better class of stores.

J. Nelson, of the California Cut Flower & Evergreen Co., has returned from an extended auto trip taken in the interests of his firm. He drove over 2,900 miles in three weeks, crossing three deserts and meeting with several new experiences en route. He is sun-bronzed and well, and speaks highly of the advance being made in some of the "bad lands." H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The sudden drop in the temperature made itself felt immediately in the flower market. The supply of lingering summer stock was cut off almost entirely and practically all the seasonable flowers show some effect of the change in temperature. The cold has held back the carnations to a considerable extent, and, in some instances, the growers who did not have their houses heated lost many plants. The full extent of the damage has not been ascertained as yet. The chrysanthemum growers probably sustained the greatest loss, their plants being killed in some localities even under cover. Around Redwood City, where the temperature dropped to 21 degrees, the damage was severe. In San Mateo and vicinity growers fared better, it is reported, having saved much of their crops.

So far there have been enough chrysanthemums to supply the local demand, and as shipping dropped off considerably before the freeze the local trade has not suffered for want of supplies, but it is feared that the Thanksgiving crop will be greatly curtailed. Pompons were damaged some, but evidently not so much as the large mums. The shortening up of other stock and rather short supplies of roses caused a sharp advance in prices on nearly all varieties of roses. On some varieties the price has been doubled. American Beauties show better quality and are in good demand at prices ranging from $5 to $7 per dozen, retail. Some damage to violets was reported in certain localities, but heavy supplies continue to arrive and the shipping demand is all that could be desired. There is a good cut of Paper Whites, but it is too early for these to sell well. Cut cyclamens are well taken and potted cyclamens are more of a feature. Orchids are extremely scarce. There are plenty of greens, including brakes, asparagus and adiantum. Moderate offerings of Bermuda lilies are readily absorbed.

Various Notes.

Mark Ebel came down from Sacramento, Cal., a few days ago. He reported the recent flower show given in that city a great success. Five florists of the city participated, and made a good showing, but no names were used, it being a general and not competitive show.

The Growers' Cut Flower Co., of Redwood City, Cal., reports the loss of all its big mums during the recent frost, but it saved many pompons.

Manager Axell, of the E. W. McLellan Co., reports a heavy shipping movement of violets.

MacRorie & McLaren have several large houses of good poinsettias coming on for the holidays.

Some of the retailers have been using cut white cyclamens effectively in corsage and basket arrangements, to take the place of lily of the valley, which is not to be had at any price here.

Charles Backman, formerly connected with the trade in Oakland, has accepted a position with Joseph's. Another new man is Bert Harris, who was with the concern once before and has since held a position in Sacramento.

F. C. Bertrand, manager of Joseph's, is devoting all his spare time to preparations for the holiday season.

The Misses Hannon, on Sutter street, say that business has picked up since election and that they hope to keep busy during the remainder of the year.

Among the large jobs recently handled by Pelicano, Rossi & Co. was the decoration for the formal opening of Suey Sing Tong's new store in Chinatown. The proprietors insisted on having everything on the American plan. Quantities of chrysanthemums were used.

The first section of the ocean beach esplanade, running from a point just below the Cliff House 1,500 feet southward, has been completed at a cost of $75,000, and the improvement has been turned over to John McLaren, superintendent of Golden Gate park, for landscape work.

W. Wolfskill, of Los Angeles, Cal., was a recent visitor. S. H. G.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.

The Market.

Winter visitors are already arriving and business is beginning to strengthen. A rather heavy frost November 13 crippled a good deal of the outdoor stock. Violets are scarce locally, but some good stock is being shipped in. Chrysanthemums are mostly coming from out of town, as are all the indoor roses. Local supplies of greens are a little on the short side.

Various Notes.

Gleave's Flower Shop reports a large demand for good funeral work. Mr. Gleave is showing a fine line of ferns in great variety, some of the rarer forms of nephrolepis making an attractive window. His showing of indoor roses, Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty and others, is perfect.

Mrs. H. G. Helmer, of Haley street, is making a fine display of Frau Karl Druschki and other roses of her own growing and reports business good.

The Market.

The recent cold snap gave the greenhousemen a good opportunity to test their pipes before real winter and zero weather comes. All outdoor flower stock had long since been taken care of, but the early cold snap caught many of the fruit men, and as a result many cars of apples have been lost.

Flowers move well and bring good prices. Stock is sufficient in all lines to meet a good demand. An unusual number of funerals, many of which called for elaborate work, have aided greatly in moving, at good prices, large mum cuts that came on earlier than usual. Carnations are much improved in quality over those of a few weeks ago.

Various Notes.

H. L. Olsson has had a force out in the woods gathering Christmas trees and greens for festooning. He does a large business in cedar festooning.

At a prominent funeral recently the Hoyt Bros. Co. supplied an elaborate casket pall of Killarney roses, bouvardias and orchids. The piece was made to cover the entire casket and had a removable panel the size of the open-

The Market.

A drop in temperature to a point several degrees below freezing occurred November 11 and continued throughout the following week. The disagreeable weather caused a slight depression in business and destroyed the few outdoor flowers which had survived the frost of October 3. So far as reported, no great damage was done, although the freeze came unexpectedly. The cut of mums probably was at its maximum and the stores showed them in great variety.

Various Notes.

M. Fechheimer, proprietor of the Floral Studio, was obliged to go to the hospital for an operation. He has returned to his residence, but as yet is not attending to any business.

D. A. Sherwood, representing the McGill Seed Growers' Co., of California, recently called on the trade in the interest of onion seed. He reported that prices had advanced on seed for 1917 and 1918 delivery.

A. Hanson, of Vancouver, Wash., was in town November 16. He said that business was good this fall. The frost early in October did not hit his outdoor flowers, but he had been short of stock all the time.

H. F. Fleishauer, accompanied by Mrs. Fleishauer, motored in from McMinnville November 13. He drove a new delivery car, a Ford running gear with a specially designed carrier body. He said the frost early in October caused him a serious loss.

F. A. Van Kirk reported a good cut of carnations in October. His November cut is somewhat smaller, but it is helped out by his cut of pompons.

The Oregon Agricultural College held its third annual horticultural show under the direction of Prof. A. L. Pick, assisted by a corps of students. The show was open two evenings and one day, was free to the public and is reported to have been the most successful held by the college.

It Pays To Pacific Coast Florists:

What stock have you for sale to the trade? Is it moving as it should? No?

Then tell the trade about it by using the Pacific Coast Pages of The Review.

Pacific Coast advertisers almost invariably report good results. Like this:

Say! That ad's a humdinger for getting the business.—Everett Floral Co., Everett, Wash.

I sold all the Mum cuttings advertised, and you will not hear from me again until I can get some more stock ready. Shall root 100,000 Carnation cuttings for next season, as I know The Review will sell them for me.—Frank Wilhelm, Los Angeles, Cal.

Please cut out of our advertisement in The Review the cyclamen seedlings. We sold all our surplus cyclamen seedlings as a direct result of our advertisement in your paper.—Spokane Greenhouses (Inc.), Spokane, Wash.

We want to say that our last advertisement in The Review brought us orders from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. We had, strangely enough, on following days, orders from Salem, Ore., and from Salem, Mass.—State Floral Co., North Yakima, Wash.

We are well pleased with the results obtained by advertising in the Pacific Coast Department of The Review. We sold out clean and refused many orders. The Review surely gives results. —Van Slyke & Seamons, Tacoma, Wash.

what he could do for me. I wanted carnation seeds. He showed me a package marked 5 cents and another marked 10 cents. The packages apparently contained exactly the same quantity of seeds. 'How is it,' I inquired 'that one package costs more than the other.' The boy pointed to the 10-cent package and said: 'These sell well, the bloom're more prettier, the smell more scentier and they're more bigger.' After that, what could I do but buy the 'more costlier'?''

The exhibit of chrysanthemums at the food fete in the ice palace was removed November 13 on account of the cold weather.

With the passing of Dr. James R. Cardwell, who died at his Portland home November 15, the Pacific northwest loses one of its most notable pioneer horticulturists. The deceased was born at Springfield, Ill., September 11, 1830, and came across the plains in 1852. In partnership with his uncle, he attempted to bring stock for a small nursery, but this was lost in fording Snake river. This misfortune more than anything else caused him to take up the practice of dentistry on reaching Portland, then a village of 1,000 inhabitants, and in connection with his horticultural pursuits he followed that profession all his life. It is often said that Dr. Cardwell planted the first orchard in Oregon, and while this statement is not strictly true it is certain that his enthusiasm and scientific knowledge were of great assistance in promoting one of Oregon's most important industries. In 1858 he took a leading part in the organization of a semi-official state horticultural society and in 1889, when the present society was formed, he became its president and served in that capacity for twenty years. He also served many years on the state board of horticulture, an appointive position. He took charge of the state's exhibit of fruits at the Chicago fair in 1893 and captured seventeen prizes.

A large share of the Hood river apple crop still is held by the growers and the recent cold spell caused some damage to stock stored in buildings not frostproof.

C. C. Ruenitz says that business has been satisfactory this fall. He is devoting his entire time to his store.

GIPSY MOTH ELIMINATED.

Colonies of gipsy moths, which some years ago in nursery stock or quarry products found their way to Bratenahl, a suburb of Cleveland, O.; to Rutherford, N. J., and to North Castle, N. Y., apparently have been exterminated by state officials and the U. S. Bureau of Entomology working in coöperation, according to the annual report of the chief of the bureau of entomology just published. While the trees in the neighborhood of Bratenahl were sprayed again as a precautionary measure, no infestation has been found in this site during the year. Similarly in New Jersey, no indication of the presence of the moth has been found.

In New York the entire park system of Rochester has been carefully examined for fear that moths may have gained a foothold from nursery stock shipped in during the last few years, but no infestation was found. In the colony which was located at North Castle a large amount of work has been done, but only eight egg clusters were found during the year and all of these were outside the area which was sprayed last year. Work is being continued at this point in coöperation with the state of New York and the entire area and a surrounding strip have been sprayed this year.

LARGE PLANT IMPORTS.

The Nieuw Amsterdam, of the Holland-America line, which arrived at New York November 17, brought one of the largest shipments of horticultural stock ever landed in this country. In addition to 1,101 cases of bulbs, the manifest filed at the New York custom house showed a total of 4,738 cases of Belgian and Holland plants and nursery stock, consigned as follows:

A. Rolker & Sons, 322 cases plants; 50 cases trees.

The Market.

Although colder weather has come, business has not been markedly active. Little is being done in the way of receptions or other social functions and it is a long time since funeral work has been as quiet as now. Wedding work, too, is rather slow. Stock is plentiful and, according to conditions, does not move overfast. The supply of roses is large and fine stock arrives daily. Extra fine White Killarney, Ophelia, Russell and Stanley roses sell easily and other grades in Maryland, Ward and Sunburst move fairly well. Chrysanthemums are in the pink of condition and, according to the growers, they will be in fine shape for Thanksgiving. Some fine Turner, Patty, Enguehard, Queen, Eaton and Bonnaffon arrive daily and move easily. They bring fairly good prices.

Carnations are arriving in good numbers and the quality of blooms and length of stems are much improved. Bouvardia moves fairly well. Violets sell more freely and are of good color. Orchids and valley meet with a better demand than previously. Good potted chrysanthemums sell nicely, but other blooming plants are slow in arriving. The demand for palms and ferns keeps up. Green goods are plentiful.

Various Notes.

The monthly meeting of the Rochester Florists' Association was held November 13, at the Musicians' hall, Charles H. Vick presiding. Four applications for membership were made. The chairman in his remarks referred to the death of one of our veteran growers, Fred W. Vick, to the deceased's great patience and his wonderful will power during his severe sickness. A committee was nominated to draw a resolution. After other business had been disposed of, Colin B. Ogston, of the Kimball Greenhouses, gave an interesting address on "Carnations and Their Diseases." The speaker has visited many great centers and has kept in touch with the newest varieties. He spoke on bud-rot, leaf-blight, root-rot, rust and wilt, and each subject was handled carefully. A vote of thanks was accorded the speaker and the president urged the members to attend the meetings more regularly.

Visitors to the trade included H. Kurth, of Reed & Keller, New York; A. L. Blackshaw, of the Randall Co., Chicago; Charles J. White, of Medina, N. Y.

The Rochester Floral Co. had a select display of "vase kraft" ware in its window for the week end. The receptacles were filled with small flowers.

The funeral of Fred W. Vick took place November 15, with interment in Mount Hope cemetery. An impressive service was held at the family residence, during which the Fifty-fourth regimental band played several selections, including a favorite hymn of the deceased. Among the floral tributes was a handsome wreath sent by the Rochester Florists' Association.

Large pillars covered with moss and holding specimen tubes filled with bronze pompons and about 200 cattleyas, arranged with Farleyense, with the base of the window draped with golden plush, made an exquisite decoration at the store of George Boucher last week.

Edwin C. Kaelber, Inc., reports good business during the present month. Extensive arrangements are being made for the Christmas trade.

George B. Hart is having several large benches built in his wholesale store. They are longer and much wider than the old ones and racks are built beneath for boxes, etc.

Robt. Bard, of Syracuse, N. Y., attended the funeral of Fred W. Vick and called on several of his friends here. H. J. H.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Chrysanthemums now are holding full sway of the local market and the demand is daily increasing. The excellent weather of last week called for an unusual number of the larger heads for corsage effects, while bunches of the small ones were used for box sales. Carnations are showing an improvement. Violets are coming in more plentifully and roses are in excellent quantity. Already a number of large orders for mums for Thanksgiving have been booked and the present indications are that there will be a sufficient supply.

Various Notes.

Joseph Ott is building an addition to his greenhouse on Walcott street, Pawtucket.

Peter S. Brynes has been elected overseer of the poor and commissioner of the town asylum for the year, at North Kingstown. W. H. M.

New Carlisle, O.—Everything is hustle and bustle at the Charles Taynor place. Preparations are being made for a big Christmas and a record-breaking Easter and Memorial day business.

Clyde, O.—The Clyde Floral Co., Wetzel & Stout, proprietors, which made an assignment September 1, held a sale of personal property November 4. B. H. Dewey, of Clyde, was the receiver.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Business is holding up finely, but there is a glut of mums at the present writing. The weather has brought mums on too fast and there has been a large quantity of overripe blooms. A good lot of mums is expected for Thanksgiving, including Bonnaffon, which has been grown cool, Chadwick and Maud Dean. There will be enough of them to go around, according to the present outlook, but everybody will be glad when the bulk of them is over, as there have been times when even the finest roses and carnations would not move even at reduced prices.

Roses of extra fine quality have been coming in from our local growers. Ophelia heads the list for quality and is plentiful. Then come the Killarneys, Sunburst, Richmond, Kaiserin and Maryland. Carnations are of fine quality and easily plentiful enough for demands.

Snapdragons are more abundant, but are still insufficient for the demand. It looks as though they will be great sellers this season. Sweet peas are more plentiful and are welcomed for corsage work, table decorations, etc. Violets are moving rather slowly, their quality improving as the cooler weather comes. There is little potted stock to choose from, and the demand for it is heavy.

Various Notes.

The Franklin Park Floral Co. reports good business, with plenty of stock except valley, which is severely missed.

Leo Miller says he will be glad when mums are gone, and he believes that others are in the same boat with him in this respect.

The Munk Floral Co. is featuring wreaths with good results and has disposed of large quantities of mums.

The Hardesty Floral Co. reports a good batch of decorations lately.

Sherman Stephens & Son have had a good outlet for stock in cemetery work and report that their town trade has been heavy. J. M.

New Ulm, Minn.—At the New Ulm Greenhouses William Turner has established its commercial standing this season. The grower is J. H. Anderson and his bench of Turner has been one of the local sights.

Denver, Colo.—Practically all the leading florists participated in the flower show recently given by the Denver Society of Ornamental Horticulture, the first flower exhibition held in Denver in sixteen years.

Florist Store of Mrs. L. W. McCoy, Seattle, Wash.

How Much are Dead Flowers Worth?

There is no market for them except the garbage can. And that means not only loss of sales and profits, but it represents money out, because you must pay for your stock whether you sell it or throw it away.

If you could realize on all the blossoms that now wither in stock and are discarded, think how much your profits would increase by stopping this loss. And at no additional overhead or expense.

You can do it with a

McCray Florists Refrigerator

The McCray patented system of refrigeration provides for a cool, even temperature and keeps your flowers fresh and salable, preventing loss from withered stock.

The McCray Florist Refrigerators come with plate glass doors and sides which show the flowers attractively. The different compartments vary in size to accommodate the various lengths of stems.

The woodwork of the McCray may be had in any finish to match your store's interior decoration. The linings may be had in either bevel plate mirror or white enamel, are handsome and easy to clean.

THE NEW RED CARNATION WITH AN UNBEATABLE RECORD BEHIND IT

WINNER two years in succession of the American Carnation Society Silver Medals, 1915 and 1916. Also winner of the S. A. F. Silver Medal, 1916, besides numerous first prizes and certificates at various shows in different parts of the country. This is purely a commercial Carnation —very bright, clear red, large flower, non-splitable calyx, long stem and just as free-blooming as Enchantress, of which it is a seedling. Prices of rooted cuttings, ready for delivery December 15 and later, 25 or less at the rate of $8.00 per 100; 50 and less than 100 at $6.00 per 100; orders of 100 and less than 250, $5.00 per 100, and orders of 250 or more at the rate of $45.00 per 1000. DAVENPORT, R. ISLAND, MOLINE.

The Markets.

There was little change in market conditions last week. Chrysanthemums still are the leaders. Roses are in good demand, with carnations and other items moving slowly. There is a good, steady call, but there have been no big days and no large funerals to cover the surplus.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Tri-City Florists' Club was held at Van Der Veer park, in the residence of Superintendent C. O. E. Boehm. It was the best attended meeting of the year. After inspecting the greenhouses and chrysanthemum show, which was fully up to its usual high standard, the meeting was called to order by President Stapp. After the routine business, C. J. Reardon read a well prepared and interesting article on chrysanthemums, which was followed by a general discussion.

The question of holding a Tri-City flower show was taken up, and a resolution favoring a flower show was unanimously passed. The following committee was appointed to look after the preliminary work of holding the show: Rock Island, L. Stapp, H. Gaethje, C. Sorensen; Moline, J. Staack, William Knees, Sr., A. Anderson; Davenport, H. Pauli, T. Bills, C. J. Reardon; Bettendorf, William Goos, P. G. Pearson, Frank Davis. The committee is to report at the next meeting.

The club members then partook of supper and extended a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Boehm. The next meeting will be held Thursday, December 14, with A. Anderson and C. Sorensen as hosts.

Various Notes.

William Knees, Jr., and Henrietta Lutt were married Saturday, November 11. The couple are on a wedding trip to parts in Nebraska.

Julius Staack & Sons have a new yellow chrysanthemum that looks like a good one. J. Staack reports trade good for the time of year, with a few big days in decorative work. W. G.

NEW VARIETIES YOU NEED

NEW POMPONS

Hilda Canning. A bronze seedling from Baby, raised by the Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association. The finest distinct novelty offered in years. It is one which every chrysanthemum grower should include in his planting.

Romaine Warren. In the class with Frank Wilcox, a commercial sort that will be profitable. Orange-bronze in color. Strong grower, making nice sprays. Stiff-stemmed, and needs almost no tying. It is a worthy companion to Golden Climax as a money-maker and will flower between Golden Climax and Frank Wilcox.

Delphine Dodge. Light pink in color, making large, full sprays. Flowers small. It is a big producer per square foot of bench.

Price of above, $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100

NEW SINGLE VARIETIES

Katewood. If you grow fancy stock for a high-class trade, Katewood will prove the finest single you have ever grown. It is clear, bright pink in color. A tall, strong grower, and makes the finest individual flowers of any of the Singles.

Virginia Holden. The finest deep crimson ever offered. As deep as Harvard in color and one of the easiest varieties to handle. Makes good sprays and good-sized plants.

Jessica McMurray. A soft rose-pink that follows Mrs. Buckingham into flower. Good for a select trade.

Pink Simplicity. Shell pink, medium dwarf in growth, strong-stemmed. A very choice variety for any grower to handle.

Jane Ingalls. A semi-dwarf seedling from Brutus. Comes into flower for Thanksgiving. Reddish bronze in color. Will make excellent pot plant.

Price of above, $2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100

BARBARA DAVIS

A. N. Pierson, Inc.

CROMWELL, CONN.

LARGE-FLOWERED CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Barbara Davis. The finest novelty of the season for the commercial grower. A reddish bronze, strongly reflexed with orange reverse to the petal. It is medium dwarf in growth, making strong stems and good foliage. It is a color that sells on sight, being distinct from all other varieties, and there is always a market for good bronze varieties. 2¼-inch, 50c each, $5.00 per doz., $35.00 per 100.

Alice Day. Sent out last season. Has proved to be our best second early white. It follows Oconto. Big, pure white flowers. Strong, sturdy grower, making good stems. The best white in its season. 2¼-inch, $3.00 per doz., $20.00 per 100.

Josephine Foley. A big, pure white that will follow Alice Day, and will, with us, replace Naomah. It is the best white to precede Chas. Rager and White Chieftain. 2¼-inch, $3.00 per doz., $20.00 per 100.

NEW CARNATIONS

Arawana. A crimson seedling of our own raising. Just a good commercial crimson sort that will please you and your trade. Rooted cuttings, $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

Nebraska. A fine new scarlet. Large flowers, strong grower, good producer. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Aviator. Very intense scarlet in color, very free-flowering. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Nancy. A new light pink that looks good with us. Perfectly formed flowers, of good color. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

Alice Coombs. Strong grower, making large flowers. Light pink in color. Rooted cuttings, $6.00 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.

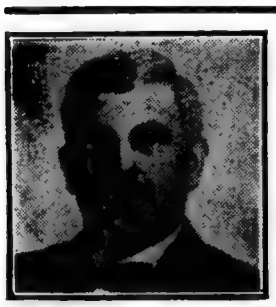
The Market.

The weather last week was cold and helped market conditions to some extent. The supply of chrysanthemums has not decreased to any extent, but the flowers have cleaned up better and there is a smaller surplus. Bunch mums still are coming strongly and selling well. There is an especially big demand for yellow, but the supply is sufficiently large to take care of all orders. Chadwick and Bonnaffon mums are in fine shape and move well. These two varieties will be in fine shape for Thanksgiving and there possibly will be other varieties in the market, although it seems as though all but Chadwick and Bonnaffon will be through by that time.

Roses are in good supply and sell well; the cut is not so large as it has been. The demand is fairly strong and this stock is moved readily at fair prices. Russell and Ophelia are having the greatest call, but the supply about equals the demand. Carnations are plentiful. The stock is in good shape, but owing to the big mum supply it is not selling any too well and prices have suffered to some extent.

There is a good supply of fine orchids and the cut is moving readily. Lilies are plentiful but move slowly. Valley is scarce and holds firm at $6. Violets, Wisconsin-grown, are in good supply and the quality is satisfactory. They sell well and bring fair returns for this time of the year.

Various Notes.



C. C. Pollworth, who has been ill with stomach trouble for about a week, has fully recovered and, accompanied by Mrs. Pollworth, has gone to Powell, Wis., where they will hunt for a short time. Mr. Pollworth goes after game each year and always brings back a trophy as a testimonial to his marksmanship.

J. McGregor, who suffered numerous injuries some time ago when he was thrown from his rig, is again able to be about and is receiving congratulations from his many friends on his rapid recovery. He has resumed his duties with the Forest Home Cemetery Association, where he has been employed for many years.

There has been some excitement at the establishment of the C. C. Pollworth Co., lately, and two members of the force are wearing happy smiles. These two are Charles Gutbrod, who was presented with a baby girl November 13, and Frank Bojar, who became father of a bouncing boy November 9.

J. J. Karins, with Henry A. Dreer, Inc., visited the local trade Friday, November 17. H. J. S.

R. S. McMURRAY, - - - BELLEFONTAINE, OHIO

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

Conditions are about normal for this time of the year. During last week we had a touch of real winter weather and this no doubt helped business to some extent.

Julius, the Florist, reports an unusually big week of funeral work. For one funeral he made forty-five pieces, many of which were large, including a casket cover.

William M. Post, who is associated with Edward M. Pierce, spent the week in New York.

H. A. Jahn reports plenty of funeral work. He has been unusually busy lately.

Some of the best carnations in the city are being cut at the establishment of Edward M. Pierce, on Cottage street. Mr. Pierce also is marketing some good single violets.

Sweet peas at the establishment of S. E. Shaw are in fine condition. His carnations are looking well.

W. M. P.

ERIE, PA.

Two weeks of sunshine brought in stock in great quantity, but there has been no perceptible increase in the demand. At this time of year fine weather not only increases the supply but also keeps many of the best customers of the retailers away from their city homes. Last week, however, business was much better.

J. V. Laver has purchased the William F. Kasting Co. greenhouses, which are planted entirely to roses. Mr. Laver intends to operate the place as a wholesale proposition in connection with his retail range.

Greenhouse Heating.

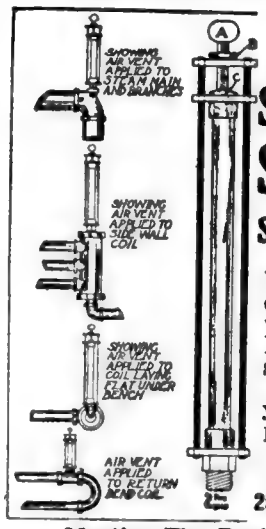
Subscribers are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

DEFECTIVE CIRCULATION.

Some time ago I wrote to you about my new greenhouse, which is 23x100 and has two feet of glass in the sides. I told you I did not want pipes under the benches. I have put seven 2-inch pipes as returns on each side and one 2-inch flow pipe on each plate. Now, I may not have followed your directions closely enough, for I do not have satisfactory results. The main flow pipe rises six feet above the top of the boiler, forming the highest point in the system, and enters the house at each side of the door. Then each flow drops, say, two feet, slopes to the plate and runs along till it enters the header, and that is where I think the trouble is. The opening for the flow pipe is in the middle of the header and I told the steam fitter it should enter at the top of the header. When we started a fire, the top pipes of the returns—that is, the three above the opening in the middle of the header—were cold and the bottom ones were extremely hot.

L. M.—Can.

The trouble described might be due to several causes, but without knowing more about the conditions we are not able to determine the exact source of the difficulty. We advised using either two 3-inch or three 2½-inch flow pipes, but, as we understand from the letter, two 2-inch flows have been used. We would not expect an even circulation in seven 2-inch returns supplied by a single 2-inch flow pipe, and while 2½-inch flows might be used we would prefer 3-inch flows in the severe climate of Nova Scotia, especially if a temperature of 60 degrees is desired.



When the returns are below the grate of the boiler, it often happens that the water in the lower coils will not circulate, and if that is the case in this greenhouse the difficulty can be remedied by raising the return pipes. A slope of one inch in fifteen or twenty feet is all that is necessary if the pipes are properly lined up.

As stated in our previous reply, we would prefer to use as flows either two 3-inch or three 2½-inch pipes, although it will answer if five 2-inch pipes are substituted.

IMPERFECT COMBUSTION.

We are having trouble in getting our boiler to heat and are at a loss to know how to remedy the trouble. We have a No. 3 Kroeschell boiler to heat 5,000 square feet of glass. With the water in the boiler at 160 degrees and the outside temperature at zero, we can keep the necessary temperature, but this season we are not able to get the water in the boiler hotter than 140 degrees, even by the greatest efforts. This is not enough to keep the houses warm. The trouble seems worse this season than usual.

We seem to have a poor draft, as the soot accumulates so fast in the flues that it is necessary to clean them out two or three times during a bad night. Several times this fall the flues and chimney have "burned out," with great danger to our building and no benefit to the heat. How can we improve the draft, and would we thus get the necessary heat? We are burning a good grade of soft coal. Our chimney is of brick and is twenty-one feet high. The range is closely shut in by high hills. G. F. S.—Mo.

From the data given, it is evident that the difficulties described are due to imperfect combustion of the coal and this appears to result from the chimney being too low, or too small in diameter, or both, the trouble being increased by the surrounding hills.

the difficulty will depend to some extent upon the nearness and height of the hills, but for a plant heating 15,000 square feet of glass we would consider a chimney forty feet high sufficient, unless there are high and steep bluffs nearby. GARDENERS' CONVENTION.

The plans have been completed for the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners, to be held in Washington, D. C., December 5 and 6. The New Ebbitt House has been selected as headquarters. The lecture hall of the new Smithsonian Institution has been placed at the disposal of the association for its business meetings.

Members are requested to register with the secretary at the association's headquarters by 9 a. m., December 5, when they will be furnished with complete details of the two days' program, which will be one full of interest and sufficient activity to keep the visitors occupied during their stay at Washington.

While the purpose of holding the convention will not be overlooked, it has been decided to make the meetings as brief as possible without impairing the business that is to come before them, in order that the visiting members may have all opportunity possible to enjoy the many interesting points in and around the capital city.

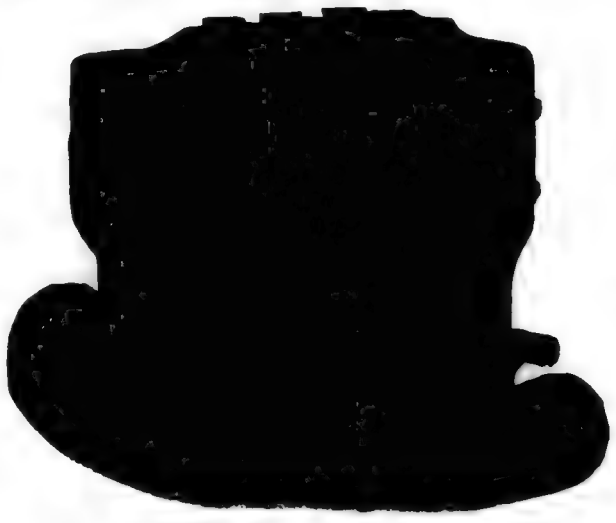
The Standard Thermostat is the best business partner and friend you can have. It protects your growing things from ruin by sudden changes in temperatures. It is infallible, inexpensive—more reliable than a night fireman.



The Standard Thermostat will ring a bell whenever your greenhouse temperature rises or falls to the danger point. Place the bell at your bedside or anywhere you please.

This is a word to the wise—a buy word to the wise grower. Sudden temperature ups and downs ruin thousands of plants every year. Protect yours! Install a Standard Thermostat now. It costs only $10.00. Write today.

(G. H. 3, same as G. H. 4, only not in locked case, $7.00.)

If we should build a greenhouse for ourselves we would put the best material we could into it, but it would not be any better than we put into the houses that we build for our customers.

Yes, it would be an easy matter to skimp here and substitute there, and gloss over in another place to save a little and meet the lowest bidder. We do not do business that way. Why should we cheat ourselves in order to cheat a customer?

Figure it out for yourself and then write us your needs.

BEFORE AFTER

Mention The Review when you write.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

Chrysanthemums of all varieties now are in their prime and dominate the flower market. Not only are the mums plentiful, but they also are of excellent quality. The prices are reasonable, not low. So many buyers want chrysanthemums that there is comparatively little demand for other kinds of flowers, though these are plentiful and the prices moderate. Carnations are of fine quality and in good supply. There are enough violets for the demand and they are reasonably priced for this season of the year. Roses are high-priced for the mum season. Valley is scarce and high. Some of the florists report a good demand for Boston ferns.

Various Notes.

Charles J. Connolly reports business good, with stock plentiful and prices reasonable.

Plebarny & Son, of Irvington, have some fine chrysanthemums in their greenhouses, but report that not so much is realized on them this year as in previous years. They have a fine lot of sweet peas that will be ready as soon as there is a greater demand for them.

Henry Leahy & Co., of Elizabeth, had an attractive window last week, yellow chrysanthemums of different sizes and shades forming the center of the display, with mums of other colors and other flowers arranged around the sides and at the foot of the big bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Yellow baby ribbon ran from a central bouquet to the others.

Philips Bros. report business good, with a large quantity of wedding work for this time of year. Counter trade is good. R. B. M.

Denver, Colo.—Business is excellent and there already is good inquiry for Christmas stock. J. A. Valentine, president of the Park Floral Co., says the indications are that blooming plants are almost certain to be sold out before the middle of December.

The Market.

The weather was ideal last week and business was good as far as the retailers were concerned. There was a large quantity of decorative work and funeral pieces were abundant. The annual Wisconsin-Minnesota football game created an unusually large demand for mums and other flowers representative in colors of the two big universities.

Excellent roses were obtainable last week and carnations showed great improvement in the matter of size of flower and length of stem. Easter lilies are in short supply and the quotations are high. The same conditions prevail as to valley. Bouvardias and cyclamens of good quality are more plentiful and have a good sale. Primroses also are of special merit. Ferns and basket combinations seemed to be the features of last week's store windows, which, as usual, were well trimmed.

Various Notes.

The sixth annual dance of the Minneapolis Florists' Club will be given November 24, in the Royal Arcanum hall, 3011 First avenue, south.

A week of good business is the report of the Whitted Floral Co. at its two stores. The display windows were distinctive in that they suggested the time of the year—early winter, Thanksgiving and football.

The R. M. Chapman Co. has been reorganized and the business will be conducted under the name of W. H. Lill Co. R. M. Chapman is opening a new store on Marquette avenue.

The Hennepin Flower Shop, a new establishment situated in the heart of the business district, has had an auspicious start in business.

The fiftieth annual meeting of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society will be held in Minneapolis, at the West hotel, December 5 to 8. In joint meeting will be the Minnesota Flower Garden Society, the Plant Breeders' Auxiliary, the Minnesota State Florists' Society, the Northwestern Peony and Iris Society and the Vegetable Gardeners' Association of St. Paul and Minneapolis. There will be lectures each day and questions pertaining to horticulture may be asked by anyone. There will be a display of plants by W. H. Bofferding December 4. Roses will be staged December 5 and chrysanthemums and carnations December 6. Baskets and bouquets will be displayed December 7. The tentative program of the Minnesota State Florists' Society meeting is as follows: "Storing and Handling Gladiolus Bulbs," by G. D. Black, Independence, Ia.; "Resources of Present-day Florists," by W. E. Tricker, St. Paul; "Greenhouse Management," by Prof. W. Moore, University Farm, Minneapolis; "Some Native Shrubs and Their Uses," by E. Meyer, Minneapolis. E. M. P.

"POT FAMINE HERE."

In a recent issue of The Florists' Review there appeared an item under the caption, "Pot Famine Coming." That was correct as far as it went, but if the manufacturers of flower pots had their say in the matter I believe they would have said "Pot Famine Here." I hear that one pottery is facing an 8-hour day, with no reduction in the weekly wage and with Saturday afternoons off; another pottery is facing its third ten per cent raise; another is handicapped by the lack of coal, due to the freight congestion; another is being troubled by delay in the delivery of a new boiler; another had to change to coal as fuel because of the prohibitive cost of natural gas; and several others have complaints of like nature—each is having its own new troubles, in addition to its old troubles of coal, labor and material costs.

The munition factories have taken all available labor and the demand for machinery of course has increased the costs of machine supplies.

The whole trouble is this: On account of the scarcity of labor during last spring and summer, it was impossible for the potteries to make up the necessary stock, as usually is done during the spring and summer. With little stock on hand when the season opened and with the usual demand for pots, but with depleted working forces—working, as it were, from hand to mouth—orders piling up, men quitting, almost daily notices of advancing prices of materials, continual demands by employees for more money and less working hours—matters have come to a rather bad state. One potter says that he feels as though he were no longer "boss" and that he must shake hands every time he goes through the factory, take his hat off and be extra nice to all employees. Between visiting the trade, pleading for additional time for delivery of orders, chasing the railroad freight agents for delayed shipments, and looking for new labor, the manufacturer has to figure out whether or not his books show a balance on the right side. The potter certainly has his hands full!

However, I am sure that all the potteries of the country are well equipped and willing to do more business; but the labor shortage and coal situation are reasons why you may have to wait for your pots.

P. M. Read, Secretary Pot Makers' Credit Association.

MASTICA

FOR Greenhouse Glazing

USE IT NOW.

F. O. PIERCE CO.

P. O. Box 294
NEW YORK

Mastica is elastic and tenacious, admits of expansion and contraction. Putty becomes hard and brittle. Broken glass more easily removed without breaking of other glass as occurs with hard putty.

LASTS LONGER THAN PUTTY. EASY TO APPLY.

The Market.

Business last week was satisfactory. There was plenty of funeral work, which managed to keep the stock moving. Chrysanthemums still are plentiful, as the midseason and late varieties are coming in at the same time. Some fine Chieftain, Eaton, Turner, Appleton, Rager and Dr. Enguehard mums are to be had at reasonable prices. Bonnaffons also are in good supply. Carnation receipts are larger, but these are not moving fast on account of the heavy call for mums.

Roses remain abundant, with the quality good. Violets are beginning to clear daily. Lilies are in short supply, but good sweet peas were seen in several of the stores. Greens of all kinds are in abundance. Potted chrysanthemums are selling much better than in previous years. Paper Whites are here, but as yet are not numerous.

Various Notes.

T. B. McClintock is bringing in some good primulas and cyclamens, for which he finds a ready call on account of the scarcity of blooming plants. He is cutting good carnations and mums.

Miss G. Jenkins, formerly with B. E. & J. T. Cokely, has accepted a position with the New York Floral Co.

Miss M. Burns, of Baldwin's, is confined to her home with illness.

J. P. Brown reports trade good, with mums and roses the best sellers. The force has been busy during the week with funeral work.

N. Christie has resigned his position with the New York Floral Co. to enter business for himself at Hazleton, Pa.

J. T. Cokely has returned with a book full of orders, after a trip through New York state.

The B. E. & J. T. Cokely force has been working night and day getting out Christmas orders.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacDonald and Miss A. L. Besancon attended the New York chrysanthemum show.

While none of the retailers won the prize in the window-trimming contest of the Scranton Advertising Club, many of them made fine displays. The judges, however, did not seem to think that florists' windows are as good as the jewelers', so a jeweler won the prize. It is a bad idea to class flower stores with art, china and jewelry stores and then try to judge them. A. L. Besancon & Co. received honorable mention in the awards. Muir & Co. had an attractive window which represented a debutante reception. In the center was a parlor table, with an electric lamp on it. On the left stood a model "opening" a box of handsome chrysanthemums. The background was palms, ferns and mums. F. J. M.

Note the way the cypress vent header is supported by the purlin and the way the purlin is secured to the rafter by a good husky fitting.

Whether solid glazing or side sash are used, we always use a cypress member beneath the plate. The sash are hinged to it. We will gladly tell you why other methods are not what they are cracked up to be.

Some Differing Differences in Our Wide-Spaced House

IN the first place, our glass is 20 inches wide instead of the 16 used by others.

Our rigid framing method, and the way we glaze, have proven, after several years of trying tests, to be just as practical with the 20-inch as with the 16.

As a result, we use only 7 roof bars between rafters instead of 9. This doing away with 2 bars, as you at once appreciate, makes a much lighter house. From the ridge to the eave plate, midway between rafters, we run a ½-inch round steel sag rod that prevents any chance of the purlin sagging, because of its long stretch.

These are just a few of the differences. Our Supply Book illustrates and describes them all. Send for it. Make careful comparisons with all other constructions.

Your Customers Their Own Salesmen

Put one of these new Pexto Pruning Shears Display Boards in your window or inside your store and watch your sales on this item mount and your selling cost drop.

That's because this handsome fixture not only attracts trade, but enables the customer to be his own salesman.

It displays thirteen of the most popular numbers of the Pexto line, gives the prices of each shear, which range from 60c to $2.00, and leaves nothing for you or your clerks to do but to make change. Prices are printed on the back for use in case you do not want them to appear under the shears.

This brand-new Pexto Display Board is made of metal and finished in four colors. Size 19x27 inches. Will stand or hang.

If your jobber can't supply you, write us. We'll be glad to tell you also about our other Tool Display fixtures

PELARGONIUMS.

PELARGONIUMS.

Remember we are the real distributors of Easter Greeting; the first one to advertise it,—now look at 'em. Wide awake florists know a good thing when they see it. Some are a little slow at first, but that isn't to be wondered at when one considers the "new frauds." But listen! Get in the swim for 1917. We have over 25,000 coming for November and December sales and hope to have 50,000 coming a little later, $7.50 per 100. We are making them by special machinery and the war hasn't changed the price. Our guarantee covers everything.
